NOTES TO DECISIONS

Domestic corporations 1
Group health association 2
Interpretation of laws 3
Rules and regulations 4

1. Domestic corporations

Sections 646 and 647 of 1901 code (§§ 35-102, 35-103), "were intended to apply to companies organized without the District and doing business within the District." American Home Life Ins. Co. v. Drake (30 App. D.C. 263).

2. Group health association

When Group Health Association was not engaged in the business of insurance or indemnity, and not specifically exempted from the regulations pertaining to them, the superintendent could not challenge generally and without regard to features of insurance or indemnity as to validity of the incorporation. Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 239, 71 App. D.C. 38).

Apart from any specific exemption, the business of a Group Health Association was not that of insurance so as to bring it within meaning of this act. Id.

3. Interpretation of laws

"No provision of the law conferred or attempted to confer upon the superintendent of insurance the power to make and enforce an interpretation of the laws relating to insurance companies, agents, or brokers. Such power is a judicial one, that can be exercised by the courts alone." Drake v. United States ex rel. Bates (30 App. D.C. 312).

4. Rules and regulations

Superintendent's power to promulgate regulations for the proper enforcement of the law. Drake v. United States ex rel. Bates (30 App. D.C. 312).

There is neither express nor implied authority in the superintendent to make rules or to apply the drastic provisions of those rules solely to mutual companies, and without such authority, the limit of his power is to make rules consistent with the provisions of the law. Hutchins Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hazen (1939, 105 F. 2d 53, 70 App. D.C. 174).

§ 35-103. Annual statements—Statement to be published in newspaper.

The said superintendent shall furnish, in December of each year, to every insurance company or association, local, domestic, and foreign, doing business in the District of Columbia, or its agent or attorney in the District, the necessary blank forms for the annual statements for such company or association, which shall be returned to the superintendent on or before the first day of March in each year, signed and sworn to by the president or vice-president and secretary or assistant secretary, or, if a foreign company, by its manager or proper representative within the United States, showing its true financial condition as of the next preceding 31st day of December, which shall include a statement of its assets and liabilities classified according to regulations made by the Superintendent of Insurance on that day, the amount and character of business transacted, losses sustained, and money received and expended during the year, and such other information as the said superintendent may deem necessary. Such annual statements shall be printed in at least one daily newspaper published in the District of Columbia, in the month of March in each year; and any such company or association failing to comply with the provisions aforesaid shall have its license to do business in the District revoked. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1290, ch. 854, § 647; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 534, ch. 1329; Aug. 18, 1911, 37 Stat. 22, ch. 26.)

AMENDMENTS

1911—Act Aug. 18, 1911, substituted "local, domestic, and foreign, doing business in the District of Columbia" for "hereinbefore mentioned", and omitted "classified" following "include a."

1902—Act June 30, 1902, substituted "classified" for "detailed" following "include a", and inserted "or vice-president" after "president" and "or assistant secretary" after "secretary."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Revocation of license

Under this section, there is authority in the Superintendent to revoke a company's license for failure on its part promptly to furnish him with an annual statement of its true financial condition. Hutchins Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hazen (1939, 105 F. 2d 53, 70 App. D. C. 174).

§ 35-104. Companies organized outside of United States to file and publish statements.

The financial statements of insurance companies or associations, required hereby to be filed annually with the Superintendent of Insurance, shall set forth specifically the assets, liabilities, and conduct of the affairs within the United States of companies or associations organized outside of the territorial limits of the United States, and such statement shall be verified under oath by the manager and assistant manager or other proper officers of such companies or associations within the United States; and so much of this chapter as requires the publication of annual statements shall only extend to the statements respecting the affairs of such foreign companies or associations within the United States. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1291, ch. 854, § 649.)

CODIFICATION

This section as enacted contains at the beginning the following provision: "No insurance company or association organized outside the territorial limits of the United States shall be licensed to do business in the District until it shall have complied with the laws of some one of said States requiring a deposit of not less than one hundred thousand dollars, or deposited in the registry of the supreme court of the District, United States or municipal bonds, the market value of which shall not be less than one hundred thousand dollars, to be approved by the superintendent of insurance and the Commissioners of the District, to be held and maintained unimpaired in the registry of said court as a reserve fund for the liquidation of any judgment or judgments that may be obtained against such insurance company or association in said court or any inferior court of competent jurisdiction in said District." However, § 35-1105 of this code provides for deposits by foreign marine insurance companies, § 35-601 provides that foreign life insurance companies should have investments of a specified quality, and if stock companies, a specified surplus, and § 35-1326 provides the requirements for issuance of a certificate of authority to foreign fire, marine, and casualty insurance companies.

No such company or association shall transact business within the District of Columbia unless it shall have in assets or in capital stock fully paid up in cash, or in both together, not less than twenty-five thousand dollars as a capital or guarantee fund; which assets may be invested in United States, State, county, municipal bonds, and bonds of the District of Columbia, or railroad bonds; but investments in the bonds of railroads shall be limited to the bonds of those railroads which have paid dividends on their capital stock for the ten years immediately previous to the date of the investment; or in improved real estate, or in first mortgages on improved real estate; but no loan on real estate shall be made for an amount exceeding seventy per centum of its assessed value, such investments to be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1292, ch. 854, § 653; Aug. 15, 1911, 37 Stat. 16, ch. 12, § 1.)

CODIFICATION

A provision making the prohibition against doing business in the District without meeting the asset and capital stock requirements effective ninety days after Aug. 15, 1911, was omitted as obsolete.

AMENDMENT

1911—Act Aug. 15, 1911, amended section generally, and among other changes defined health, accident, and life insurance companies, stated asset and capital stock requirements, limited the amounts of policies, set a tax on monies received, provided for reports to, and examination by, the Superintendent of Insurance, and for appeal from the Superintendent's decision to the Commissioners, exempted certain fraternal beneficial and other organizations, and struck out the former section which related to companies transacting insurance on the assessment plan, exempted them from the provisions of § 35-108, and provided that they furnish annual statements to the Superintendent.

REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT PROVISIONS

Section 2 of act Aug. 15, 1911, provided: "That all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall repeal or affect the other provisions of subchapter five of chapter eighteen of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia [§§ 35-101 to 35-108, 35-201, 35-203, 35-1133, 35-1201, and 35-1202] regulating foreign corporations, or corporations, associations, or companies who are nonresidents of the District of Columbia (to whom the provisions of this Act shall also be applicable), or the provisions of section six hundred and fifty-two of said code [§ 35-108] relating to inquiry into the affairs of District companies."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Benefit order 1
Group health association 2
Payment of indemnity 3
Report by receivers 4
Reserves 5

1. Benefit order

Grand Lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is a benefit order, within the meaning of the section, as amended, and subject to its provisions. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D.C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

2. Group health association

Apart from any specific exemption, the business of appellee Group Health Association is not that of insurance to bring it within this section of statute. Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 239, 71 App. D.C. 38).

The appellee Group Health Association held to be a distributing, not an accumulating agency, and to require it to maintain a guarantee fund was not the intent of Congress. Id.

It is not necessary to decide whether the exemption or definition of health and accident insurance companies has any effect upon the regulations prescribed by other sections of the code. Apart from any specific exemption the business of the Group Health Association is not that of insurance so as to bring it within those sections. Id.

3. Payment of indemnity

This provision does not include all "insurance" companies, but only those which provide for the "payment of indemnity on account of sickness." The statute does not include necessarily contracts "to indemnify," but is limited to those which provide for the "payment" of indemnity. The word "payment" is not used as equivalent to "indemnify." Group Health Assn. v. Moor (1938, 24 F. Supp. 445).

4. Report by receivers

Where business of insurance association has been so injured by ill will and protracted litigation among the stockholders that it has become insolvent, and its capital and reserve have been seriously impaired, receivers pendente lite were properly appointed to take possession of its assets and to report on the condition of its affairs. Provident Relief Assn. v. Vernon (1927, 19 F. 2d 709, 57 App. D.C. 235).

5. Reserves

There is no provision of the general law broad enough to cover regulations governing in the minutest detail the operation and business of an insurance company, but the statute itself makes a clear distinction between stock companies and mutual companies with respect to maintaining a reserve. Hutchins Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hazen (1939, 105 F. 2d 53, 70 App. D.C. 174).

§ 35-203. Copy of application to be delivered with policy—Statements in application as defense.

Each life insurance company, benefit order, and association doing a life insurance business in the District of Columbia shall deliver with each policy issued by it a copy of the application made by the insured so that the whole contract may appear in said application and policy, in default of which no defense shall be allowed to such policy on account of anything contained in, or omitted from, such application. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1294, ch. 854, § 657; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 534, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, inserted "benefit order and association" following "life insurance company", "life insurance" before "business", and added "in default of which no defense shall be allowed to such policy on account of anything contained in, or omitted from, such application."

1. In general

Prior to the amendment by the act of June 30, 1902, this section "did not cover policies (certificates) issued by fraternal beneficial associations." Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D.C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

"This section was intended to remedy a mischief and is to be given a liberal interpretation to that end." Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Burch (39 App. D. C. 397).

Where voidability provision of life policy required company to prove that applicant had received medical treatment, but insurer did not attach written application, if any, to policy, insurer could not defend on account of anything contained in or omitted from application, and was barred from declaring policy void on account of alleged nondisclosure in application. Walton et ano. v. Sun Life Insurance Company of America (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 115 A. 2d 310).

2. Defense not based on application

In action on an industrial life policy declaring that it expressed the entire agreement between the parties, where insurer used testimony of the agent as to answers given or evaded by claimant to prove bad faith in making an application for the policy and questions relating to policy provisions that had no relation to the application not attached to the policy, a defense based on such questions and on the claimant's responses thereto would not be disallowed under this section. Walton et ano. v. Sun Life Insurance Company of America (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 115 A. 2d 310).

3. Entire application

Copy of entire application must be attached; "It is not left to the discretion of the insurer to select such parts of the application as it may deem material for delivery with its policy." Metropolitan Life Inc. Co. v. Hawkins (31 App. D.C. 493).

4. Fraudulent representations

This section applies to fraudulent representations in application for previous policy made part of second policy. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Gott (1934, 68 F. 2d 426, 62 App. D.C. 379).

5. Incorporation by reference

This section could not be satisfied by making a section of the constitution of the insurer a part of the contract by reference, for it requires an actual incorporation in the certificate and application of every element of the agreement "so that the whole contract may appear in said application and policy." Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D.C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

6. Misstatement of age

Misstatement of age is no defense where copy of application was not delivered "with the policy or at any other time." Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D.C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

7. Oral application

This provision does not extend to an oral application Washington Fidelity Nat. Ins. Co. v. Burton (1932, 53 S. Ct. 26, 287 U. S. 97, 77 L. Ed. 196).

In action on industrial life policy declaring that it expressed the entire agreement between the parties, a defense open to insurer if no written application existed was not precluded by this section and the insurer could defend on violation of policy provisions having no relation to the application. Ferguson v. Quaker City Life Ins. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 129 A. 2d 189).

8. Policy constituting contract

Where a life policy by its terms constitutes the entire agreement, this section does not prevent an insurer from basing a defense on a policy provision stating that if within two years of date of issue insured has received treatment or has been attended by any physician for any serious disease, the policy should be voidable unless reference to such treatment is endorsed on the policy, even though the policy was issued on a written application and no copy of the application was delivered with the policy. Pullen v. Sun Life Ins. Co. of America (1941, 121 F. 2d 110, 74 App. D. C. 197, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 112, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

Where written application, if there was one, was not delivered with industrial life policy, but policy by its terms constituted the entire agreement, this section did not prevent insurer from making any defense that it had under the terms of the policy. Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v. Gray, (1941, 121 F. 2d 104, 74 App. D. C. 191, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 114, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

9. Preliminary report of agent

A preliminary report, signed only by the agent, intended for the general information of the company and not referred to in the policy, is no part of the contract of insurance and need not be attached thereto. Griffin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (36 App. D. C. 8).

10. Provisions outside contract

"No provision in the rules or elsewhere of an insurance company or fraternal order which was not physically embodied in the policy or application should be regarded as a part of the contract." Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D. C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U. S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

11. Purpose

Purpose in adopting this section was to compel insurance companies, whether old line or fraternal, to state the entire contract either in the policy or the policy and application, so that the insured would be able to find the terms defining his obligations and rights as a policyholder in not more than two papers. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Groves (48 App. D.C. 151, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 587, 63 L. Ed. 434).

12. Reinstatement of policies

This provision applies to an application for the reinstatement of a lapsed policy. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Burch (39 App. D.C. 397).

§ 35-204. Principal office to be in District of Columbia—Keeping and removing of records—Reincorporation of companies chartered by special acts—Penalties—Prosecutions.

Upon compliance with the above conditions, the assets of the said corporation shall thereby become vested in the new corporation. Said new corporation shall faithfully carry out any and every right, obligation, and liability of said original corporation.

Any corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall forthwith forfeit its charter, which forfeiture shall operate as a revocation of its license to do business within said District.

Any officer, agent, or employee of any such corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall pay a fine of not less than $300 or be imprisoned for not more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. All prosecutions under this section shall be upon information filed in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia in the name of the District of Columbia by the corporation counsel thereof or any of his assistants. The Superintendent of Insurance may withdraw his approval of any premium rate or schedule made by any insurance corporation or association, if, in his judgment, such premium rate or schedule is inadequate or unreasonable: Provided, That upon petition of the company or association or any other party aggrieved the opinion of the Superintendent of Insurance shall be subject to review by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia: Provided further, That any petition for review shall be filed with said court within thirty days after the rendition of opinion by the Superintendent of Insurance. (April 16, 1934, 48 Stat. 592, ch. 144; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32 (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

The Superintendent shall not revoke or suspend the certificate of authority of any company until he has given the company not less than thirty days' notice of the proposed revocation or suspension and of the grounds alleged therefor, and has afforded the company an opportunity for a full hearing: Provided, That if the Superintendent shall find upon examination that the further transaction of business by the company would be hazardous to the public or to the policyholders or creditors of the company in the District, he may suspend such authority without giving notice as herein required: Provided further, That in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for causes enumerated in this section, after hearing as herein provided, the Superintendent may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company. If any witness having been personally summoned shall neglect or refuse to obey the subpoena issued as herein provided, then and in that event the superintendent may report that fact to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, or one of the judges thereof, and said court, or any judge thereof, hereby is empowered to compel obedience to said subpoena to the same extent as witnesses may be compelled to obey the subpoenas of that court. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Burden of proof 1
Change of beneficiary 2
Conditions precedent 3
Evidence 4
Generally 5
Instructions 6
Notice to insurer 7
Purpose 8
Questions for jury 9
Waiver 10

1. Burden of proof

Where insurer charged that insured prior to application for life policy had had duodenal ulcer, abnormal blood pressure, dizziness, loss of consciousness and kidney disease, and that in application he falsely denied their existence, to avoid life policy for material misrepresentation on account of answers, insurer had burden of proving one or more of them false. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

Under this section insurer has burden of proof as to elements indicated in order to avoid life policy. Metro-politan Life Ins. Co. v. Adams (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 345).

2. Change of beneficiary

An erroneous statement in an application for change of beneficiary which does not relate to a material matter and is not made with intent to deceive, does not void a life policy. Carter v. Provident Ins. Co. (1941, 122 F. 2d 960, 74 App. D. C. 348).

3. Conditions precedent

The effect of this section enacted to prevent innocent and immaterial misrepresentations in application from avoiding insurance cannot be escaped by device of contracting to the contrary or labeling a contractual attempt to do so a condition to the attaching of the risk. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

The purpose of this section regarding effect of false statement in application for insurance was to nullify contractual provisions contrary to its terms, and therefore a so-called condition precedent is invalid to extent that it is more broadly effective than this section allows. Id.

Where application for life policy contained clause that policy should not take effect until received by insured and full first premium thereon was paid while conditions material to risk represented by statements in application remained same as described therein, and insurer contended that the clause made truth of statements conditions precedent to attaching of risk, the so-called "condition precedent" was invalid to extent that it was more broadly effective than permitted by this section regarding false statements in application for insurance. Id.

4. Evidence

Where evidence was conflicting whether hospitalization of insured and hospital record disclosing diagnosis of duodenal ulcer were genuine or fictitious, excluding evidence that insurance companies generally, and defendant insurer usually declined risk on finding a hospital record disclosing diagnosis of duodenal ulcer, was not error. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

Where insured's wife and companion testified that wife informed insurer's representative of insured's hospitalization not disclosed by application for life policy, refusing to permit insurer to cross-examine the wife and her companion concerning what was said in conversation with the representative as to change in beneficiary was not error, where insurer sought to avoid liability on ground of false statements in application. Id.

Evidence concerning insured's statements informing his wife, who was beneficiary of life policy, of hospitalization not disclosed by application was not objectionable on ground that statements were "self-serving declarations" and "hearsay", where evidence disclosed facts leading up to the wife's visit to insurer's representative the following day and reason for visit and were admissible to show that full disclosure of facts had been made to insurer's representative. Id.

Where insurer sought to avoid liability on life policy on ground that insured, prior to application, had had duodenal ulcer, abnormal blood pressure, dizziness, loss of consciousness, kidney disease, and in application falsely denied existence thereof, evidence sustained verdict against insurer. Id.

In action on life policy defended on ground of misrepresentations in application, objection to testimony of physician who attended insured as to what he treated insured for on ground of privilege was properly sustained. Metro-politan Life Ins. Co. v. Adams (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 345).

Where insured stated "Don't remember when last ill" in answer to question in application for life policy, and undisputed evidence established that three months previously to applying for policy insured was so sick that he had to be carried out of bathroom and immediately thereafter was treated by two different physicians on not less than six occasions, insured's statement as matter of law constituted a false misrepresentation, preventing recovery on policy. Id.

5. Generally

To avoid life policy under this section, the statement must be both false and made with intent to deceive or material to risk or its acceptance, unless possibly both intent to deceive and materiality are required in addition to falsity. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943,

A misstatement in application for life policy to be "material to hazard assumed" within this section must be shown in some way to have affected the hazard assumed or contributed to the loss in a substantial manner. Id.

To void a life insurance policy on the ground of false representation, the answer must not only have been untrue, but it must have been with reference to a material matter. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (1940, 109 F. 2d 463, 71 App. D.C. 250).

Where the insured stated in his application that he had not consulted a physician for any ailment or disease not included in his previous answers and that he had not consulted or been treated by a physician within the preceding five years, he was making a misrepresentation. Evidence shows as a matter of law that these misrepresentations materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the company, or both. Kaitlin v. Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 188).

6. Instructions

In action on life policy defended on ground of misrepresentations in application which denied knowledge of heart trouble and medical attendance, instructions which submitted only issue as to whether there were misrepresentations as to heart trouble, and which failed to submit issue as to whether there were misrepresentations in regard to medical attendance, were erroneous. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Adams (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 345).

7. Notice to insurer

Where insured's wife informed insurer's representative of hospitalization of insured not disclosed by application for life policy, in determining question of waiver by insurer, the representative's knowledge was to be considered "notice" to the insurer regardless of provision of policy that the representative had no power to bind the insurer by accepting any information. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

8. Purpose

This section providing that falsity of statement in application shall not bar right to recovery under policy unless statement was made with intent to deceive or unless it materially affected either acceptance of risk or hazard assumed by insurer, was intended to prevent innocent and immaterial misrepresentations in application from avoiding insurance. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

9. Questions for jury

Where evidence was conflicting as to whether hospitalization of insured and hospital record disclosing diagnosis of duodenal ulcer were genuine or were fictitious, whether insured's answers in application for life policy which failed to disclose hospitalization and diagnosis were material to acceptance of risk was for jury. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

Where insurer contended that life policy did not take effect because of false statements in application regarding hospitalization and consultation of physician, evidence as to whether hospitalization was genuine or was fictitious for purpose of covering up alleged "social lapse" of insured caused by overdrinking at a wedding party, was for jury. Id.

Where evidence was conflicting regarding whether insured's hospitalization was genuine or fictitious, whether misstatements in application for life policy regarding hospitalization and consultation of physician were made with intent to deceive, and were material to hazard assumed or false within meaning of this section regarding effect of false statements in application, was for jury. Id.

10. Waiver

Where insured's wife informed insurer's representative of the fact, time and place of insured's hospitalization that had not been disclosed by application for life policy, and that wife thought insured was going to die, but representative informed wife that policy was not affected and that she should continue premium payments, the disclosure was adequate to form basis for waiver. Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Saxe (1943, 134 F. 2d 16, 77 U. S. App. D.C. 144, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1033, 319 U. S. 745, 87 L. Ed. 1701).

Where insurer's representative with authority to receive information on insurer's behalf and to forward complaints and controversies concerning matters affecting policy to insurer's home office received knowledge of existence of ground of forfeiture of life policy and failed to communicate it promptly to insurer's home office, insurer became charged with "notice" thereof so that where insurer received premiums and allowed matter to rest for nearly a month until insured's death "waiver" of ground of forfeiture was effectually completed. Id.

Where insurer's representative having authority to solicit risks and collect premiums was informed by insured's wife of hospitalization of insured not disclosed by application, and thereafter premiums were accepted and insurer and representative stood idle for nearly a month until insured's death, there was a "waiver", precluding insurer from avoiding liability because of insured's failure to disclose the hospitalization, notwithstanding provision of policy prohibiting the representative from waiving any forfeiture. Id.

§ 35-415. General deposit—Amount—Deposits outside District.

Every company desiring to transact business in the District shall, as a prerequisite to the issuance of a certificate of authority, deposit, as herein provided, approved securities of not less than $100,000 market value. In the case of domestic companies, such deposit shall be made in the District as prescribed under section 35-416: Provided, That the deposit of every domestic company heretofore organized under the provisions of the laws of the District or other Act of Congress may, in the discretion of the superintendent, be limited (1) for stock companies, to an amount equal to the capital stock outstanding on June 19, 1934; (2) for nonstock companies, to such amount as in the opinion of the superintendent would be required from stock companies of comparable size. In no case shall the deposit of a domestic company be less than $25,000 in value. In the case of foreign or alien companies, the deposit may be made as provided under section 35-416, or may be made with the supervising official of any State, Territory, or insular possession of the United States authorized to accept such deposit, which shall be held for the benefit of all policyholders.

In the case of a deposit made with an official outside the District, a certificate of deposit from said official shall be filed with the superintendent, showing the character of the deposit, before a certificate of authority to transact business in the District may be issued, and, if the securities so deposited are not of the class authorized by chapters 3-8 of this title for investments of companies, the superintendent may require an additional deposit in approved securities. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1133, ch. 672, Ch. II, § 16; May 20, 1940, 54 Stat. 217, ch. 204.)

AMENDMENT

1940—Act May 20, 1940, substituted "Every company desiring to transact business in the District shall, as a prerequisite to the issuance of a certificate of authority, deposit, as herein provided, approved securities of not less than $100,000 market value. In the case of domestic companies, such deposit shall be made in the District as prescribed under section 35-416;" for "Every company desiring to transact business in the District shall before being licensed, deposit approved securities of not less than $100,000 market value with the superintendent or the supervising official of any State, Territory, or insular possession of the United States authorized to accept such deposit, which shall be held for the benefit of all policyholders:," "In the case of a deposit made with an official outside the District" for "If such deposit is made with an official other than the superintendent", "a certificate of authority" for "a license", inserted "in the discretion of the superintendent" in the proviso, "in value" after "$25,000", and added provisions relating to deposits of foreign or alien companies.

intendent of Insurance, and who shall be responsible for the safekeeping of all securities deposited or delivered under the authority of this section, so long as the company continues solvent and complies with the laws of the United States and of the District of Columbia, and it may in that event collect the income on such securities. The company shall have the right to substitute therefor other securities, required by this section as lawful investment, provided such substitute securities are of the character, amount, and value called for by this section and are approved by the Superintendent of Insurance. If the value of the securities deposited by any company shall decline below the amounts so required, the company shall make a further deposit and maintain the deposit in the amount and value so required."

When a company determines to discontinue its business or to cease to do business in the District and desires to withdraw its deposit made in the District pursuant to chapters 3-8 of this title the superintendent shall, upon the application of the company, and at its expense, give notice of such intention in a newspaper of general circulation in the District once a week for three consecutive weeks. After such publication he shall deliver to such company or its assigns the securities so deposited when he is satisfied upon examination and investigation made by him or under his authority and upon the oaths of the president and secretary or other chief officers of the company that all debts and liabilities of every kind due and to become due which the deposit was made to secure are paid and extinguished: Provided, That the superintendent may require any company so withdrawing from the District to furnish bond to cover any undisclosed or contingent liabilities.

Upon a company being wholly reinsured the superintendent may deliver to it or to its assigns all securities deposited by it upon compliance with the following condition: The reinsuring company shall assume and agree to discharge all liabilities of every kind due and to become due which the deposit of the reinsured company was made to secure. Such reinsuring company shall have a deposit in the District or with some State official in the United States in securities recognized by this law as lawful investments of the company in an amount and value not less than the deposit required of the reinsured company. The deposit of the reinsuring company shall be such that it will subsist for the security of the obligations of the reinsured company assumed by the reinsuring company. The superintendent shall give § 35-418. Examinations—Reports—Verification—Hearing upon—Publication—Expense.

The superintendent may examine the books, papers, property, and the affairs of any insurance company organized or doing business in the District and of any company engaged in or professing to be engaged in organizing, promoting, or soliciting stock or capital contributions to or aiding in the formation of an insurance company or of any company which holds the capital stock of an insurance company for the purpose of controlling the management thereof as voting trustees or otherwise. The superintendent, his deputy, or any examiner may examine under oath the officers and agents of such company and all persons deemed to have material information regarding the company's property or business. Every such company, its officers and agents, shall produce at the home office of the company at the time designated by the superintendent, its books of original entry and all records and papers in its or their possession relating to its business or affairs, and any other person may be required to produce any book, record, or paper in his custody relevant to the examination, for the inspection of the superintendent, his deputy or examiners, whenever required; and the officers and agents of such company shall facilitate such examination and aid the examiners in making the same so far as it is in their power to do so. Every such examiner shall make a full and true report of every examination made by him, verified by his oath, which shall comprise only facts appearing upon the books, papers, records, or documents of such company, or ascertained from the sworn testimony of its officers or agents or other persons examined under oath concerning its affairs, and said report so verified shall be presumptive evidence in any action or proceeding in the name of the District against the company, its officers or agents, of the facts therein stated. The superintendent shall grant a hearing to the company examined, or he shall furnish it a copy of his report, in tentative form, requesting that the statements and items therein contained be checked, and the report be returned to the superintendent within the time specified by him, before filing any such report and before making public such report or any matters relating thereto; and may withhold any such report from public inspection for such time as he may deem proper; and may, after so filing, if he deems it for the interest of the public to do so, publish any such report or the result of any such examination as contained therein in one or more newspapers in the District without expense to the company. It shall be the duty of the superintendent to examine every domestic insurance company at least once in three years.

The expense of every such examination, not to include salaries, shall be paid by the company examined, and such company shall pay to the superintendent, his deputies, and/or his examiners the actual expense of such examination upon itemized bills furnished by the superintendent. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1135, ch. 672, Ch. II, § 19.)

§ 35-419. Superintendent may take possession of property of company and conduct its business—Conditions precedent—Procedure—Injunction—Resumption of possession by company—Order for liquidation—Appointment of deputies—Expense of liquidation—Bond—Annual report.

The superintendent may, the corporation counsel of the District representing him, apply to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia for a rule directing any company doing business in the District, any company organized under the laws of the District or other Acts of Congress, or any company in course of organization, to show cause why the superintendent should not take possession of its property and conduct its business and for such other relief as the nature of the case and the interests of its policyholders, creditors, stockholders, or the public may require, whenever any such company (a) is insolvent; or (b) in the case of a stock company, has neglected or refused to observe a lawful order of the superintendent to make good within the time prescribed by law any deficiency of its capital or surplus, or in the case of a mutual company, if its assets have not become equal to its liabilities within ninety days from the date of notification thereof by the superintendent; or (c) has by contract or reinsurance, or otherwise transferred or attempted to transfer substantially its entire property or business, or entered into any transaction the effect of which is to merge substantially its entire property or business, in the property or business of any other company, association, society, or order, without having first obtained the written approval of the superintendent; or (d) is found, after an examination by the superintendent, his deputy or examiners, to be in such condition that its further transaction of business will be hazardous to its policyholders; or (e) has willfully violated its charter; or (f) is carrying on activities against public policy.

On such application, or any time thereafter, such court may, in its discretion, issue an injunction restraining such company from the transaction of its business or disposition of its property pending further order of the court. On the return of such rule to show cause, the court shall hear, try, and determine the issues forthwith and shall either deny the application or direct the superintendent to take possession of the property and conduct the business of such company, and retain such possession and conduct such business until on the application either of the superintendent, the corporation counsel representing him, or of the company, it shall, after a like hearing, appear to the court that the ground for the order directing the superintendent to take possession has been removed and that the company can properly resume possession of its property and the conduct of its business.

If, on the like application and rule to show cause, and after a hearing, the court shall order the liquidation of the business of such company, such liquidation shall be made by and under the direction of the superintendent, who may deal with the property and business of such company in his own name as superintendent or in the name of the company, as the court may direct, and shall be vested by operation of law with title to all of the property, contracts, and rights of action of such company as of the date of the order so directing him to liquidate. The filing or recording of such order in the office of the recorder of deeds for the District shall impart the same notice that a deed, bill of sale, or other evidence of title duly filed or recorded by such company would have imparted.

For the purpose of this section the superintendent shall have power to appoint under his hand and official seal one or more special deputy superintendents of insurance as his agent or agents, and to employ clerks and assistants as may by him be deemed necessary, and give each of such persons such powers to assist him as he may consider wise. The fair and reasonable compensation of such special deputy superintendents, clerks, and assistants and all expenses of taking possession of and conducting the business of liquidating any such company shall be recommended by the superintendent, subject to the approval of the court, and shall on certificate of the superintendent be paid out of the funds or assets of such company.

For the purpose of this section the superintendent shall have power, subject to the approval of the court, to make and prescribe such rules and regulations as to him shall seem proper.

The superintendent shall transmit to the commissioners, in his annual report, the names of the companies so taken possession of, whether the same have resumed business or have been liquidated, and such other facts as shall acquaint the policyholders, creditors, stockholders, and the public with his proceedings under this section; and, to that end, the special deputy superintendent in charge of any such company shall file annually with the superintendent a report of the affairs of such company similar to that required by section 35-407. The court may require corporate surety bond from the superintendent or any assistant appointed by him, in such amount as it may deem necessary, the cost of which bond shall be paid as other expenses provided under this section. § 35-420. When company to be deemed insolvent.

Every insurance company whose assets and credits are not sufficient to reinsure its outstanding risks in a solvent insurance company, shall be deemed insolvent and may be proceeded against as an insolvent company. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1137, ch. 672, Ch. II, § 21.)

§ 35-421. Reinsurance by superintendent.

The superintendent may reinsure all of the policy obligations of any domestic insurance company, of which he is a receiver, in any solvent company authorized to do business in the District, if the assets of the company are sufficient to effect such reinsurance. If such assets are insufficient for that purpose, the superintendent, upon like consent, may reinsure a percentage of each outstanding policy obligation of such company to the extent that its assets may be sufficient for that purpose. No contract of reinsurance shall be entered into by the superintendent, except in pursuance of an order of the court in which he was appointed receiver directing the reinsurance and establishing the general form of the contract for the same. § 35-423. Superintendent as attorney for service of process—Superintendent to mail process to company—Acceptance of certificate is appointment—Failure—Penalty.

Every domestic company not having its home office in the District and every foreign or alien company now or hereafter transacting business in the District, and every foreign or alien company now or hereafter soliciting, selling, or writing insurance on any resident of the District, through the medium of the United States mails, shall file with the superintendent a duly executed instrument appointing and constituting him and his successors the true and lawful attorney of such company upon whom all lawful process in any action or legal proceeding against it may be served and therein shall agree that any lawful process against it which may be served upon its said attorney, as herein provided, shall be of the same force and validity as if served upon the company and the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocably so long as any liability of the company in the District shall remain outstanding. Such process shall be served by leaving the same with the superintendent or his deputy, and service thereof upon such attorney shall be deemed service upon the principal. The superintendent shall forthwith forward such process by mail to the company, or, in the case of an alien company, to the resident manager or last appointed general agent of the company in the United States. The deposit, by the superintendent or his deputy, of such process sent by registered mail or by certified mail in a sealed envelope, postage prepaid, in the United States mail and service of such process, shall not be effectual until the same has been so mailed and received by the company and the return receipt for such registered or certified mail shall be prima facie evidence of the notice of service to a company, or to the resident manager in the case of an alien company.

Failure of any such company to file such instrument, or failure on the part of any such company to authorize such filing, shall not invalidate any service made by serving the superintendent. By accepting a certificate of authority to transact business in the District, every such company shall be held to have appointed the superintendent its true and lawful attorney. Any such insurance company transacting business or soliciting, selling, or writing insurance on any resident of the District without designating an attorney for service of process, incident to adjustment of claims and kindred matters, shall, upon complaint filed by the superintendent in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, be fined, upon conviction of violating any provision of this section, not to exceed $200 a day for such violation. NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1 Constitutionality 2

1. In general

Where an individual certificate of insurance was mailed to insured, although master policy of group insurance plan was delivered in Missouri to representative of association having group policy, and premiums were paid to association, and association mailed check to insurer, insurer was subject to substituted service in action by beneficiary on policy by service upon Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia under this section providing that every foreign company soliciting, selling, or writing insurance on any resident of the District through medium of United States mails may be served by service upon Superintendent. Security National Life Insurance Co. v. Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 113 A. 2d 749).

2. Constitutionality

Congress, legislating for the District of Columbia, has power to protect the interest of District residents for whom out of town companies write insurance policies, and such protective legislation is effective even though it may have repercussions beyond the geographical boundaries of the District. Security National Life Insurance Co. v. Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 113 A. 2d 749).

This section, providing that every foreign company soliciting, selling, or writing insurance on any resident of District of Columbia through medium of United States mails can be served by service upon District Superintendent of Insurance is constitutional and does not violate due process of law requirements. Id.

§ 35-424. Political contributions prohibited—Penalty—Immunity of witnesses.

No company doing business in the District shall directly or indirectly pay or use, or offer, consent, or agree to pay or use any money or property for or in aid of any political party, committee, or organization, or for or in aid of any corporation, joint-stock, or other association organized or maintained for political purposes, or for or in aid of any candidate for political office or for nomination for such office, or for any political purpose whatsoever, or for the reimbursement or indemnification of any person for money or property so used. Any officer, director, stockholder, attorney, or agent of any company which violates any of the provisions of this section, who participates in, aids, abets, or advises, or consents to any such violation, and any person who solicits or knowingly receives any money or property in violation of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year and a fine of not more than $1,000, and any officer aiding or abetting in any contribution made in violation of this section shall be liable to the company for the amount so contributed.

No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing books, accounts, and papers in any proceeding based upon or growing out of any violation of the provisions of this section, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to penalty or forfeiture; but no person having so testified shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may have testified or produced any documentary evidence: Provided, That no person so testifying shall be exempted from prosecution or punishment for perjury: Provided further, That the immunity hereby conferred shall extend only to a natural person who, in obedience to a subpoena gives testimony under oath or produces evidence, documentary or otherwise, under oath. § 35-425. General agent, agent, solicitor—License required—Application—Contents—Applicant vouched for by company—Placement of excess or rejected risks—Expiration and renewal of license—Officers and traveling salaried employees excepted—Notice of termination of employment—Information privileged.

No person shall act within the District for any life-insurance company as a general agent, agent, or solicitor in the solicitation or procurement of applications for insurance unless he has complied with the provisions of this section and has secured a license from the superintendent of insurance. Each applicant for such license shall file with the superintendent of insurance his written application therefor on blanks furnished by the superintendent, which application shall be signed and sworn to by the applicant and shall give his name, age, residence, place of business, and occupation for five years next prior to the date of application and also set forth his qualifications for such license, namely, his familiarity with the life-insurance laws of the District and with the provisions of the contracts to be negotiated; what insurance experience he has had, if any; what insurance instruction he has had or expects to receive; whether he has been refused or has had suspended or revoked a license to solicit insurance by the insurance department or supervising officials of the District of Columbia or of any State; whether any insurance company or any general agent claims such applicant is indebted under any agency contract or otherwise, and if so, the name of the claimant, the nature of the claim and the applicant's defense thereto, if any; whether he has had an agency contract canceled, and if so, when, by what company, or general agent and the reason for such action, and such other information as the superintendent may require. The applicant shall be vouched for by an official or a licensed representative of the company for which he proposes to act, who shall certify whether the applicant is personally known to him, whether the applicant has been appointed a general agent, agent, or solicitor to represent such company, and that such company has duly investigated the character and record of such person, and has satisfied itself that he is trustworthy and qualified to act as its general agent, agent, or solicitor and intends to hold himself out in good faith as a life insurance general agent, agent, or solicitor. If, upon the showing made, the superintendent of insurance is reasonably satisfied that the applicant is a trustworthy person he shall promptly issue the license applied for. A general agent, agent, or solicitor licensed to represent any life insurance company doing business in the District shall be entitled to place excess or rejected risks in any other company lawfully doing business in the District, with the knowledge and approval of his own company without additional or separate license. Every license issued under this section shall expire annually on the 30th day of April next after its issue unless prior thereto it is revoked or suspended by the Superintendent of Insurance or the authority of the general agent, agent, or solicitor to act for the company is terminated.

In the absence of a contrary ruling by the superintendent in a given case, license renewals shall be issued from year to year upon the request of the company without further action on the part of the general agent, agent, or solicitor.

No officer or traveling salaried employee of any insurance company not compensated on a commission basis shall be required to obtain a license under this section.

Every life insurance company shall, upon the termination of the employment of any general agent, agent, or solicitor, file with the Superintendent of Insurance a statement of the facts relative to the termination of such employment and the cause thereof. Any information, document, record, statement, or thing required to be made or disclosed to the Superintendent of Insurance by this section, shall be privileged and shall not be used as evidence in any action or proceeding instituted against the company or any representative thereof by or in behalf of any person who has been licensed under the provisions of this section. The Superintendent of Insurance may suspend or revoke the license of any life insurance general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker when and if, after investigation, it appears to the Superintendent that any license issued to such person was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation; or that the general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker has violated any insurance law of the District; or has made any misleading representations or incomplete or fraudulent comparison of any policies or companies or concerning any companies to any person for the purpose or with the intention of inducing such person to lapse, forfeit, surrender, or exchange his insurance then in force; or has made any misleading estimate of the dividends or share of surplus to be received on a policy; or has failed or refused to pay or to deliver to the company or to his principal any money or other property in the hands of said general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker belonging to such company or principal when requested so to do; or has violated any lawful ruling of the insurance department; or has been convicted of a felony; or has otherwise shown himself untrustworthy or incompetent to act as a life insurance general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker. Before the Superintendent of Insurance shall revoke or suspend the license of any such person he shall give to such person an opportunity to be fully heard, and to introduce evidence in his behalf. Within thirty days after the revocation or suspension of license or the refusal of the Superintendent to grant a license, the general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker, or applicant aggrieved may appeal from the ruling of the Superintendent of Insurance to the court of competent jurisdiction designated in section 35-427. Appeals may be taken from the judgment of said court as prescribed in section 35-427. At any hearing provided by this section, the Superintendent shall have authority to administer oaths to witnesses. Anyone testifying falsely after having been administered such an oath shall be subject to the penalties of perjury.

No individual whose license as a general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker is revoked shall be entitled to any license under chapters 3-8 of this Title for a period of one year after revocation.

Any person who violates any provision of this section upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding $100 for each and every violation: Provided, That in lieu of revoking or suspending the license of any such general agent, agent, solicitor, or broker for causes enumerated in this section after hearing as herein provided, the Superintendent may subject such person to a penalty of not more than $200 when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continuation of the license of such person. The amount of any such penalty shall be paid by such person through the office of the Superintendent to the Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1140, ch. 672, Ch. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Findings of fact

In a proceeding before Superintendent of Insurance on a complaint charging insurance solicitor with misrepresenting advantages of exchange of life insurance policies, Superintendent was required to make findings of fact disclosing particular circumstances upon which determination of misrepresentation rested, and although solicitor did not ask for specific findings prior to institution of suit in District Court following revocation of his license, he would be given an opportunity to request specific findings of the Superintendent. *Coffey v. § 35-428. Brokers—License—Application—Contents—Person vouched for—Examination—Issuance—Effect of revocation—Appeal from refusal to issue—Renewal annually—Penalty for violation.

Every person desiring to engage in business in the District as a life insurance broker shall apply to the superintendent for a license so to do and in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

The applicant for such license shall file with the superintendent his written application therefor and shall make a sworn statement on blanks to be prepared by the superintendent giving his name, age, residence, place of business, occupation for five years just prior to the date of making his application; and shall state that he intends to hold himself out in good faith as carrying on the business of broker of life insurance, and shall also set out his qualifications, namely, his familiarity with the life insurance laws of the District and with the provisions of the policy contracts to be negotiated; what insurance experience and instruction he has had; his intention with reference to engaging regularly if not exclusively in the business of life insurance broker; whether he has been refused or has had suspended or revoked a license as a broker, general agent, agent, or solicitor of life insurance by the insurance department or the supervising officials of any state; whether any company claims that he is indebted to it under any agency contract or otherwise; if so, what company, the nature of the claim and of his defense if any, whether he has had any agency contract canceled by any company, and if so, when, by what company, and the reason for such action, and such other information as the superintendent may require.

The applicant shall be vouched for by at least three reputable citizens of the District setting out whether the applicant is personally known to them, what they know of the reputation of the applicant as a man of business integrity, and what they know of the applicant's general fitness to act as a broker of life insurance.

The superintendent may require such applicant for license or renewal thereof to submit to examination as to his fitness or qualifications for the license or licenses applied for. Such examination may be made by the superintendent or by his deputy, which said examination may be waived by the superintendent, upon satisfactory proof of the qualifications of the applicant.

When the superintendent is satisfied from the application or the examination made by him that the applicant is qualified, he shall issue to said applicant a license to engage in the business specified in said applications which shall also be specified in said license.

No individual whose license as a broker is revoked shall be entitled to any license under chapters 3-8 of this title for a period of one year after such revocation, provided, however, that the failure or refusal of the superintendent to license any such applicant shall be subject to review in the same manner as provided in section 35-427.

Licenses shall be renewed annually and every such license shall continue in force until the 30th day of April next following unless in the meantime suspended or revoked; provided any qualified person may be licensed as a broker regardless of place of residence or domicile.

Any person who violates any provision of this section upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding $100 for each and every violation. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1141, ch. 672, Ch. II, § 29.

If he fails to pay the same over to the company after written demand made upon him therefor, such failure shall be prima facie evidence that he has used or applied the said premium for a purpose other than paying the same over to the company, and upon conviction thereof he shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement and punished accordingly. (b) The term of its existence, which may be perpetual.

(c) The place where its principal office shall be located, which shall be the District of Columbia.

The incorporators shall file such articles with the superintendent and shall publish in a newspaper of general circulation in the District notice of the filing of such articles and of the intention to form such company. Copy of such notice verified by the oath of the publisher of the newspaper, or his agent, copies of proposed bylaws and forms of subscription for capital stock and of proposed applications for membership and for insurance and of all proposed forms of insurance policies, literature, and advertisements shall be filed with the superintendent. The incorporators shall also file with the superintendent a bond payable to the superintendent and his successors, as trustee, in the sum of $10,000 with approved corporate sureties, and conditioned upon the faithful accounting to the proposed company, on completion of its organization and the receipt of its certificate of authority from the superintendent, or the stockholders, members, applicants for policies, and creditors, or the trustee, receiver, or assignee of the proposed company, duly appointed in any proceedings in any court or department of competent jurisdiction in the District, in accordance with their respective rights in case the organization of the proposed company shall not be completed and a certificate of authority shall not be procured from the superintendent. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1144, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 2.)

§ 35-503. Articles of incorporation—Submission to corporation counsel—Recording—Corporate powers—Permit as "company in course of organization"—Authority to organize—No policies to be issued—Certificate of authority.

The superintendent shall submit the proposed articles and other papers so filed with him to the corporation counsel of the District, who shall examine the same, and, if he finds the same in accordance with law, he shall so certify and return the same to the superintendent, who shall cause the articles and the certificate of the corporation counsel to be recorded in the records of the superintendent and issue to the incorporators two certified copies thereof, one of which shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, and thereupon such incorporators and their associates shall become and be a body corporate with power to sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, adopt a seal, and do such other acts, subject to the provisions of chapters 3-8 of this title, as shall be needful to accomplish the purposes of its organization. If the superintendent shall approve the sureties on the bond so filed, or on any like bond substituted therefor, he shall issue to the corporation a permit, as a "company in course of organization," authorizing it to complete its organization. Said company in course of organization shall have authority under such permit to solicit subscriptions and payments for capital stock, if a stock company, and applications and advance premiums for insurance, and to exercise such powers, subject to the limitations in chapters 3-8 of this title prescribed, as may be necessary and proper in completing its organization and qualifying itself for a certificate of authority from the superintendent to transact the business of insurance appertaining to persons. But such company shall not issue policies or enter into contracts of insurance until it shall have received the certificate of the superintendent authorizing it so to do.

Upon completion of organization in accordance with chapters 3-8 of this title the superintendent shall issue to such company, in course of organization, a certificate of authority as an insurance company. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1144, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 3.)

§ 35-504. Authority to solicit subscriptions to capital of company in course of organization.

No person shall solicit subscriptions for the capital stock of or applications for insurance in any such company in course of organization unless he has been duly authorized by the company and a certificate of his authority, duly signed by a principal officer of the company, has been filed with and approved by the superintendent. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 4.)

§ 35-505. Subscription to capital stock—Limitation of expense on sale of capital stock—Disposition of proceeds.

Every subscription to the capital stock of a stock company shall contain the stipulation that no sum shall be used for commission, promotion, or organization expenses in excess of a percentage of the amount paid upon the stock subscriptions, to be named in such stipulation and approved by the superintendent, and the remainder of sums so paid to the company shall be invested in securities in which a life insurance company is authorized to invest, or deposited in a bank or trust company in the District until the company has duly procured a certificate of authority from the superintendent. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 5.)

§ 35-506. Examination of company in course of organization—Revocation of permit, authority of agent—Cause—Notice.

The superintendent shall personally, or through his deputy and assistants, examine into the affairs of any such company in course of organization and inspect its books and papers, and may summon and examine under oath any officer or agent or any person who is or has been connected with or who has knowledge of the affairs of such company, and if he find the company is violating the law, or if the company shall not be qualified for a certificate of authority within two years from date of its permit, he shall revoke its permit; and if he find an agent of such company has violated the law, he shall revoke his authority, and he may for such agent's violation revoke the company's permit. Any revocation shall be after twenty days' notice. The superintendent may, on proper showing, reinstate any company's permit or agent's authority which he has revoked. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 6.)

§ 35-507. When corporate powers of company in course of organization shall cease.

If any domestic life insurance company, in course of organization, shall not commence to issue policies within two years from the date of filing its articles of incorporation in the office of the superintendent, its powers shall thereby cease, and the court, upon petition of the superintendent or of any person interested, may fix by decree the time in which the superintendent may settle and close its affairs: Provided, however, That the superintendent may extend the time for any such company to commence the issuance of policies for a period not exceeding two years if the said company shall show good cause in writing why the same should be done. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 7.)

§ 35-508. Capital-stock requirements.

A domestic capital-stock company organized under chapters 3-8 of this title shall have a paid-up capital stock of not less than $100,000. Each domestic capital-stock company organized under chapters 3-8 of this title, in addition to the paid-up capital stock shall have a surplus paid up equal to at least 50 per centum of such capital stock. Each domestic mutual company organized or doing business under chapters 3-8 of this title shall at all times have a surplus as defined by chapters 3-8 of this title of not less than $150,000. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 7; May 4, 1950, 64 Stat. 104, ch. 157, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

1950—Act May 4, 1950, added the provisions relating to domestic mutual companies.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1950 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act May 4, 1950, effective ninety days after May 4, 1950, see section 8 of act May 4, 1950, set out as a note under section 35-405.

§ 35-509. Amendment of articles of incorporation—Procedure.

Any company may amend its articles of incorporation upon publishing notice of such intention, authorized by a majority of its directors, once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the District, and with the written consent of two-thirds of its stockholders, or two-thirds of its members present in person or by proxy at a meeting called for that purpose if it does not have capital stock, and by observing such other and further requirements in that behalf as may be prescribed in its articles of incorporation. Such amendment shall be signed and acknowledged by the president and secretary or like officers of the company, and, with a copy of the proceedings of the stockholders or members, if any, and of the directors, shall be filed with the superintendent and by him submitted to the corporation counsel, and if he finds the amendment and proceedings in conformity with the law, he shall so certify to the superintendent. The amendment shall not take effect until the superintendent shall deliver to the company his certified copy of the amendment and of the certificate of the corporation counsel. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1145, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 9.)

§ 35-510. Increase of capital stock—Failure to subscribe and pay in within one year.

If a company amend its articles of incorporation by providing for an increase of its capital stock, such increase shall be subscribed and fully paid up within one year of the date of such amendment, unless the superintendent shall certify his consent to an extension of such time. Failure to have such increase of capital stock paid up within the time provided may be considered grounds for ousting the company from its powers under any such amendment to such articles of incorporation by a court of competent jurisdiction in a proceeding by the superintendent, the corporation counsel representing him, against the company for such judgment. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1146, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 10.)

§ 35-511. Decrease of capital stock—Conditions—Reissuance of stock certificates.

A company may, with the approval of the superintendent, amend its articles of incorporation by providing for a decrease of its capital stock and a corresponding increase in surplus to an amount not less than the minimum capital stock and surplus required by chapters 3-8 of this title. The superintendent shall not approve or issue his certified copy of such amendment if he be of the opinion that the interests of policyholders or creditors may be prejudiced thereby. No distribution of the assets of the company shall be made to stockholders upon any such decrease of capital stock which shall reduce the surplus and capital stock to less than the minimum capital stock and surplus required as aforesaid. Upon any such amendment so decreasing the capital stock such company may require each stockholder to return his certificate of stock and accept a new certificate for such proportion of the amount of its original capital stock as the reduced capital stock shall bear to the original capital stock. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1146, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 11.)

§ 35-512. Liability of stockholders—Fiduciaries as stockholders—Pledged stock.

All the stockholders of every company incorporated under this chapter shall be severally and individually liable to the policyholders and creditors of the company in which they are stockholders for the unpaid amount due upon the shares of capital stock held by them, respectively, for all debts and contracts made by such company until the whole amount of capital stock fixed and limited by such company shall have been paid in.

No person holding capital stock in such company as executor, administrator, guardian, committee, or trustee shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the estate and funds in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian, committee, or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name.

Every such executor, administrator, guardian, committee, or trustee shall represent the capital stock in his hands at all meetings of the company, and may vote accordingly as a stockholder.

No person holding capital stock in such company as collateral security shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the person pledging such capital stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly; and every person who shall pledge his capital stock as collateral security may, nevertheless, represent the same at all meetings and vote as a stockholder. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1146, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 12.)

§ 35-513. Capital stock must be paid in before doing business—Capital stock payment calls—Forfeiture—Notice.

No company incorporated under this chapter shall be authorized to transact any business until the authorized capital stock shall have been actually paid in, either in cash or in investments authorized by chapters 3-8 of this title at market value; and it shall be lawful for the directors to call in and demand from the stockholders the residue of their subscriptions in money or property at such times and in such instalments as the directors shall deem proper, under the penalty of forfeiting the shares of capital stock subscribed for and all previous payments made thereon, if payment shall not be made by the stockholder within sixty days after a personal demand or a notice requiring such payment shall have been published once a week for three consecutive weeks in a daily newspaper in the District. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1147, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 13.)

The capital stock of such company shall be deemed personal estate and shall be transferable in such manner as shall be prescribed by the bylaws of the company; but no shares shall be transferable until all previous calls thereon shall have been fully paid in or the shares shall have been declared forfeited for nonpayment.

A person in whose name shares of capital stock stand on the books of a company shall be deemed the owner thereof as regards the company, but if any such person shall in good faith sell or otherwise dispose of any of his shares of capital stock to another and deliver to him the certificates for such shares, with written authority for the transfer of the same on the books, the title of the former shall vest in the latter so far as may be necessary to effect the purpose of the sale or other disposition, not only as between the parties themselves but also as against the creditors of and subsequent purchasers from the former. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1147, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 14.)

§ 35-515. Capital stock book—Contents—To be kept open—Contents as evidence—Penalty for neglect to make entry or to exhibit.

It shall be the duty of the directors of every company formed under this chapter to cause a book to be kept by the treasurer or secretary thereof, containing the names of all persons, alphabetically arranged, who are or shall within six years have been stockholders of such company, and showing their place of residence, the number of shares of capital stock held by them, respectively, the time when they became owners of such shares, and the amount of capital stock actually paid in.

Such book shall, during the usual business hours of the day, on every business day, be open for inspection by policyholders, stockholders, and creditors of the company and their personal representatives at the office or principal place of business of such company in the place where its business operations shall be located, and any policyholder, stockholder,

Such book shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated in favor of the plaintiff in any suit or proceeding against such company or against any one or more stockholders.

Every officer or agent of any company who shall neglect to make any proper entry in such book, or shall refuse or neglect to exhibit the same, or allow the same to be inspected and extracts to be taken therefrom, as herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and the company shall pay to the party injured a penalty of $50 for any such neglect or refusal, and all damages resulting therefrom.

Every company that shall neglect to keep such book open for inspection, as herein provided, shall forfeit to the District the sum of $50 for every day it shall so neglect, to be sued for and recovered by the superintendent, the corporation counsel representing him, in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1147, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 15; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

§ 35-516. Corporations and associations as members of mutual companies—Liability.

Public or private corporations, boards, or associations of the District or elsewhere, may make applications, enter into agreements for, hold policies in, and become members of mutual companies. Any officer, stockholder, trustee, or legal representative of any such corporation, board, association, or of an estate may be recognized as acting for or on its behalf, but shall not be personally liable by reason of acting in such representative capacity. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1148, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 16.)

§ 35-517. Mutual companies—Requirements before doing business.

No domestic mutual company shall transact any business until at least two hundred persons shall have subscribed in the aggregate for at least $200,000 of insurance and shall have paid in full one annual premium in money upon the insurance so subscribed. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1148, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 17.)

§ 35-518. Reincorporation of existing corporations.

Any domestic insurance corporation existing or doing business on June 19, 1934, may, by a vote of a majority of its directors or trustees, accept the provisions of chapters 3-8 of this title and amend its charter to conform with the same upon obtaining the consent of the superintendent thereto in writing, and filing such consent in the office of the recorder of deeds for the District; and thereafter it shall be deemed to have been incorporated under this chapter, and every such corporation in reincorporating under this provision may for that purpose so adopt in whole or in part a new charter, in conformity herewith, and include therein any and all provisions of its existing charter, and any or all changes from its existing charter, to cover and enjoy any or all the privileges and provisions of existing laws which might be so included and enjoyed if it were originally incorporated hereunder, and it shall, upon such adoption of and after obtaining the consent, as in this section before provided, to such charter and filing the same with the superintendent and the record thereof with the recorder of deeds of the District, perpetually enjoy the same as and be such corporation, which is declared to be a continuation of such corporation which existed prior to such reincorporation; and the offices therein which shall be continued shall be filled by the respective incumbents for the period and the same general proceedings shall be taken upon the presentation of such amended charter or certificate adopted in relation to such amendment, to the superintendent, as are required by this chapter to be taken with respect to an original charter or certificate, except that no examination of the condition and affairs of such corporation shall be required unless so ordered by the superintendent, and if the amended charter or certificate be approved by the superintendent and his certificate of authority to do business thereunder is granted, the corporation shall thereafter be deemed to possess the same powers and be subject to the same liabilities as if such charter or certificate so amended had been its original charter or certificate of incorporation, but without prejudice to pending action or proceeding or any rights previously accrued.

Upon the reincorporation or upon the amendment of the charter of any corporation having a capital stock in accordance with the provisions of this section it may by a vote of the majority of its directors confer upon its policyholders as may have a prescribed amount of insurance upon their lives the right to vote for all or any less number of the directors in such manner not inconsistent with any provision of chapters 3-8 of this title. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1148, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 18.)

§ 35-519. Conversion of a stock life company into a mutual life company—Plan for acquisition of capital stock—Conditions.

Any domestic stock company organized or licensed to do business, whether incorporated under chapters 3-8 of this title, or any previous existing law, or Act of Congress, may become a mutual company, and to that end may carry out a plan for the acquisition of shares of its capital stock: Provided, however, That such plan (1) shall have been adopted by a vote of a majority of the directors of such company; (2) shall have been approved by a vote of stockholders representing a majority of the capital stock at a meeting of stockholders called for the purpose; and (3) shall have been approved by a majority vote of the policyholders voting at a meeting, called for the purpose, of policyholders each insured for at least $1,000 and whose insurance shall then be in force and shall have been in force for at least one year prior to such meeting; notice of such meeting shall be given by mailing such notice from the home office of such corporation at least thirty days prior to such meeting, in a sealed envelope, postage prepaid, addressed to such policyholders at their last known post-office addresses, and such meeting shall be otherwise provided for and conducted in such manner as shall be provided in such plan: Provided, however, That policyholders may vote in person, by proxy, or by mail; that all votes shall be cast by ballot and the superintendent shall supervise and direct the methods and procedure of said meeting and appoint an adequate number of inspectors to conduct the voting at said meeting who shall have power to determine all questions concerning the verification of the ballots, the ascertainment of the validity thereof, the qualifications of the voters, and the canvass of the vote, and who shall certify to the superintendent and to the company the result thereof, and with respect thereto shall act under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the superintendent; that all necessary expenses incurred by the superintendent shall be paid by the company as certified to by him; and (4) shall have been submitted to the superintendent and shall have been approved by him in writing: Provided, That every payment for the acquisition of any shares of the capital stock of such company, the purchase price of which is not fixed by such plan, shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent: Provided further, That neither such plan, nor any such payment, shall be approved by the superintendent unless at the time of such approvals, respectively, the company, after deducting the aggregate sum appropriated by such plan for the acquisition of any part or all of its capital stock, and in the case of any payment not fixed by such plan and subject to separate approval as aforesaid after the approval of such plan, after deducting also the amount of such payment, shall be possessed of assets not less than the entire liabilities of the company, including the net values of its outstanding contracts computed according to the standard adopted by the company under section 35-701, and also all funds, contingent reserves, and surplus save so much of the latter as shall have been appropriated or paid under such plan. Every company incorporated under the provisions of the laws of the District, or Act of Congress, prior to June 19, 1934, is hereby brought under all the provisions of chapters 3-8 of this title, except that its capital may continue in the amount named in its charter during the existing term thereof, unless it extends its business to other kinds of insurance, and it shall be entitled to all privileges granted by such charter not authorized by this law. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1149, ch. 672, Ch. III, § 20.)

For the purpose of this section, real estate shall not be deemed to be encumbered by reason of the existence of—

The term "net earnings available for fixed charges", as used herein, shall mean the net income after deducting all operating and maintenance expenses, depreciation and depletion, and taxes other than Federal, State, and District of Columbia income taxes, but nonrecurring items of income and expenses may be eliminated. The term "fixed charges" as used herein shall include interest on all of the fixed interest bearing debt of the corporation outstanding and maturing in more than one year, as of the date of acquisition, and in case of investment in contingent interest obligations, said term shall also include maximum annual contingent interest as of said date. (b) Stocks or other securities guaranteed by any solvent corporation created under the laws of the United States, or any State thereof, or the District of Columbia, or the Dominion of Canada, or any Province thereof, if the guaranteeing corporation has not failed in any one of the three fiscal years next preceding such investment to have earned a sum applicable to interest on outstanding indebtedness and dividends on all guaranteed stocks equal to at least twice the amount of interest and guaranteed dividends payable for that year. No company shall invest in excess of 1 per centum of its assets in any one issue of guaranteed stocks made eligible for investment under this subsection.

(10) Common stocks of any solvent corporation (other than its own) created under the laws of the United States, or of any State thereof, or the District of Columbia, or the Dominion of Canada, or any Province thereof, which shall have paid common dividends in cash for not less than five years next preceding the purchase of such stocks, and where the bonds and other evidences of indebtedness, if any, and the preferred stock, if any, of such corporation are eligible as investments under the provisions of subsections (7) and (9), respectively, of this section, and where the total investment in the common stock of any one corporation does not exceed 1 per centum of the investing company's admitted assets.

(13) A company doing business in a foreign country may invest the funds required to meet its obligations in such country and in conformity to the laws thereof in the same kind of securities in such foreign country that such company is allowed by law to invest in the United States.

(14) A life-insurance company may also acquire, hold, and convey real estate for the purposes and in the manner following:

(a) the building in which it has its principal office and the land on which it stands;

(b) such as shall be requisite for its convenient accommodation in the transaction of its business;

(c) such as shall have been acquired for the accommodation of its business;

(d) such as shall have been conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts, previously contracted, in the course of its dealings;

(e) such as it shall have purchased at trustee sale or sales on judgments, decrees, or mortgages obtained or made for such debts; and

(f) such as it may purchase or hold for the production of income. It may improve or otherwise develop in any manner such real estate and the improvements thereon, and may own, maintain, manage, collect, and receive income from, and sell or convey the same. No company shall, in any period of twelve consecutive months, invest in or agree to pay for real estate, including improvements thereon, under the authority of this item (f) an aggregate amount in excess of 2 per centum of its admitted assets as shown in its most recent annual statement; nor shall the total value of real estate and improvements thereon acquired or held by a company for the production of income under the provisions of this item (f) at any time exceed 5 per centum of its said admitted assets. No investment shall be made by any company pursuant to this item (f) if such company then owns real estate having a total value in excess of 10 per centum of its said admitted assets or if such investment will cause such company's aggregate investments in real estate owned by it to exceed 10 per centum of its said admitted assets: Provided, That for the purpose of applying said 10 per centum limitation real estate shall include all real estate then owned by the company and such real estate as it may have owned and sold on contract, to the extent of the balance unpaid on such contract of sale; or if the balance unpaid on account of real estate owned and sold by a company is secured by mortgage or other instrument, there shall be included as real estate the amount, if any, by which the balance unpaid exceeds 75 per centum of the value of such real estate. A company may, subject to the limitations and conditions of this item (f), elect to consider property acquired as specified in items (c), (d), and (e) as real estate for the production of income as defined in this item (f). Such election shall be duly authorized and recorded by the board of directors or by a committee of directors, officers, or employees of the company designated by the Board charged with the duty of supervising loans or investments. The minutes of any such committee shall be duly recorded and regular reports of such committee shall be submitted to the board of directors.

All such real estate specified in items (c), (d), and (e) of this subsection (14), which shall not be necessary for its accommodation in the convenient transaction of its business, and which it has not elected to hold for the production of income, shall be sold by the company and disposed of within five years after it shall have acquired the title to the same, or within five years after the same shall have ceased to be necessary for the accommodation of its business, unless the company file with the Superintendent an application for extension of time, supported by such evidence as may be required by the Superintendent, establishing to his satisfaction that an extension would be to the advantage of the company and that the interests of the company would be affected adversely by a forced sale thereof, in which event the time for the sale may be extended to such time as the Superintendent shall direct.

(15) Any domestic life insurance company may also lend or invest its funds, to an extent that the cost of such investments shall not exceed in the aggregate the lesser of (i) 5 per centum of its total admitted assets, or (ii) the amount of capital, surplus, and contingency reserves in excess of $150,000, in loans or investments (other than common stocks of insurance companies) not otherwise permitted under this section: Provided, however, That no company shall invest in excess of 1 per centum of its admitted assets in any one such loan or investment. The company shall keep a separate record of all loans and investments made under this subsection. In the event that, subsequently to being made under the provisions of this subsection, a loan or investment is determined to have become qualified under some other part of this section, the company may consider such loan or investment as being held under the applicable provision and such loan or investment shall no longer be considered as having been made under this subsection.

(16) The compliance of a particular investment with the restrictions that not more than a specified percentage of the investing company's admitted assets may be invested therein, as set forth in subsections (6), (7), (9), (10), (14), or (15) of this section, whichever is applicable, shall be determined as of the date of the making or acquisition of each such investment.

No loan or investment, except loans on the security of life insurance policies, shall be made by any such company, unless the same shall have been authorized or be approved by the board of directors or by a committee of directors, officers or employees of the company designated by the board charged with the duty of supervising loans or investments. The minutes of any such committee shall be duly recorded and regular reports of such committee shall be submitted to the board of directors.

No such company shall subscribe to or participate in any underwriting of the purchase or sale of securities or property, jointly with any other corporation, firm, or person, or enter into any agreement to withhold from sale any of its securities or property; but the disposition of its assets shall at all times be within the control of the company. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall be construed to invalidate or prohibit such a company from joining with one or more other investors to share in the purchase of any securities or the making of any loan for investment purposes.

Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit a company from accepting in good faith, to protect its interests, securities or property, other than herein referred to, in payment of or to secure debts due or to become due the company. (g) It shall satisfy the superintendent that the company is duly organized under the laws of the state, province, or government under whose laws it professes to be organized, and authorized to do the business it is transacting or proposes to transact, and that its name is not identical with, nor so similar to, that of another company organized prior to the organization of the applying company as to lead to confusion.

(h) It shall satisfy the Superintendent that its funds are invested in accordance with the laws of its domicile and in securities or property which afford a degree of financial security substantially equal to that required for similar domestic companies, and, if a stock company, that it has paid-up capital and surplus at least equal to the capital and surplus required of domestic stock companies, or, if a mutual company, that it has a surplus at least equal to that required by chapters 3-8 of this title for domestic mutual companies. § 35-701. Superintendent to value policies—Legal standard of valuation.

(a) The Superintendent shall annually value, or cause to be valued, the reserve liabilities (hereinafter called reserves) for all outstanding life-insurance policies and annuity and pure endowment contracts of every life-insurance company doing business in the District except that in the case of an alien company such valuation shall be limited to its insurance transactions in the United States, and may certify the amount of any such reserves, specifying the mortality table or tables, rate or rates of interest and methods (net level premium method or other) used in the calculation of such reserves. All such valuations made by him or by his authority, shall be made upon the net premium basis. In calculating such reserves, he may use group methods and approximate averages for fractions of a year or otherwise. In lieu of the valuation of the reserves herein required of any foreign or alien company, he may accept any valuation made, or caused to be made, by the insurance supervisory official of any State or other jurisdiction when such valuation complies with the minimum standard herein provided and if the official of such State or jurisdiction accepts as sufficient and valid for all legal purposes the certificate of valuation of the Superintendent when such certificate states the valuation to have been made in a specified manner according to which the aggregate reserves would be at least as large as if they had been computed in the manner prescribed by the law of that State or jurisdiction.

Any such company which at any time shall have adopted any standard of valuation producing greater aggregate reserves than those calculated according to the minimum standard herein provided may, with the approval of the Superintendent, adopt any lower standard of valuation, but not lower than the minimum herein provided.

(b) This subsection shall apply to only those policies and contracts issued prior to the operative date of section 35-705b (the standard nonforfeiture law).

The legal minimum standard for the valuation of life-insurance contracts issued before January 1, 1935, shall be the method and basis of valuation heretofore applied by the Superintendent in the valuation of such contracts, and for life-insurance contracts issued on and after said date shall be the one-year preliminary term method of valuation, except as hereinafter modified, on the basis of the American Experience Table of Mortality with interest at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum per annum: Provided, That any life company may, at its option, value its insurance contracts issued on and after January 1, 1935, in accordance with their terms on the basis of the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality with interest not higher than $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum per annum by the level net premium method or by the modified preliminary term method hereinafter described.

If the premium charged for term insurance under a limited payment life preliminary term policy providing for the payment of all premiums thereon in less than twenty years from date of the policy, or under an endowment preliminary term policy, exceeds that charged for like insurance under twenty payment life preliminary term policies of the same company, the reserve thereon at the end of the year, including the first, shall not be less than the reserve on a twenty payment life preliminary term policy issued in the same year and at the same age, together with an amount which shall be equivalent to the accumulation of a net level premium sufficient to provide for a pure endowment at the end of the premium payment period, equal to the difference between the value at the end of such period of such a twenty payment life preliminary term policy and the full net level premium reserve at such time of such a limited payment life or endowment policy. The premium payment period is the period during which premiums are concurrently payable under such twenty payment life preliminary term policy and such limited payment life or endowment policy.

Policies issued on the preliminary term method shall contain a clause specifying that the reserve thereof shall be computed in accordance with the modified preliminary term method of valuation provided for herein.

The legal minimum standard for the valuation of annuities issued on and after January 1, 1935, shall be McClintock's Table of Mortality Among Annuity-tants, with interest at 4 per centum per annum, but annuities deferred ten or more years and written in connection with life insurance shall be valued on the same basis as that used in computing the consideration or premium therefor, or upon any higher standard at the option of the company.

The legal minimum standard for the valuation of industrial policies issued after January 1, 1935, shall be the American Experience Table of Mortality with interest at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum per annum: Provided, That any life company may voluntarily value its industrial policies on the basis of the standard industrial mortality table or the substandard industrial mortality table by the level net premium method or in accordance with their terms by the modified preliminary term method hereinbefore described.

The Superintendent may vary the standards of interest and mortality in the case of alien companies as to contracts issued by such companies in other countries than the United States, and in particular cases of invalid lives and other extra hazards.

Reserves for all such policies and contracts may be calculated, at the option of the company, according to any standards which produce greater aggregate reserves for all such policies and contracts than the minimum reserves required by this subsection.

(c) This subsection shall apply to only those policies and contracts issued on or after the operative date of section 35-705b (the standard nonforfeiture law).

(1) The minimum standard for the valuation of all such policies and contracts shall be the Commissioners reserve valuation method defined in paragraph (2), $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum interest, and the following tables:

(i) For all ordinary policies of life insurance issued on the standard basis, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such policies, the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for such policies issued prior to the operative date of the last paragraph of section 35-705b(d), and the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for such policies issued on or after such operative date; provided that for any category of such policies issued on female risks all modified net premiums and present values referred to in this section may be calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured.

(ii) For all industrial life-insurance policies issued on the standard basis, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such policies, the 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table.

(iii) For annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such policies, the 1937 Standard Annuity Mortality Table.

(iv) For total and permanent disability benefits in or supplementary to ordinary policies or contracts, class (3) Disability Table (1926) which, for active lives, shall be combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves for life-insurance policies.

(v) For accidental death benefits in or supplementary to policies, the Intercompany Double Indemnity Mortality Table combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves for life-insurance policies.

(vi) For group life insurance, life insurance issued on the substandard basis and other special benefits, such tables as may be approved by the Superintendent.

(2) Reserves according to the Commissioners reserve valuation method, for the life insurance and endowment benefits of policies providing for a uniform amount of insurance and requiring the payment of uniform premiums shall be the excess, if any, of the present value, at the date of valuation, of such future guaranteed benefits provided for by such policies, over the then present value of any future modified net premiums therefor. The modified net premiums for any such policy shall be such uniform percentage of the respective contract premiums for such benefits that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all such modified net premiums shall be equal to the sum of the then present value of such benefits provided for by the policy and the excess of (A) over (B), as follows:

(A) A net level annual premium equal to the present value, at the date of issue, of such benefits provided for after the first policy year, divided by the present value, at the date of issue, of an annuity of one per annum payable on the first and each subsequent anniversary of such policy on which a premium falls due: Provided, however, That such net level annual premium shall not exceed the net level annual premium on the nineteen year premium whole life plan for insurance of the same amount at an age one year higher than the age at issue of such policy.

(B) A net one-year term premium for such benefits provided for in the first policy year.

Reserves according to the Commissioners reserve valuation method for (i) life-insurance policies providing for a varying amount of insurance or requiring the payment of varying premiums, (ii) annuity and pure endowment contracts, (iii) disability and accidental death benefits in all policies and contracts, and (iv) all other benefits, except life insurance and endowment benefits in life-insurance policies, shall be calculated by a method consistent with the principles of this paragraph (2), except that any extra premiums charged because of impairments or special hazards shall be disregarded in the determination of modified net premiums.

(3) In no event shall a company's aggregate reserves for all life-insurance policies, excluding disability and accidental death benefits, be less than the aggregate reserves calculated in accordance with the method set forth in paragraph (2) and the mortality table or tables and rate or rates of interest used in calculating nonforfeiture benefits for such policies.

(4) Reserves for any category of policies, contracts, or benefits as established by the Superintendent, may be calculated, at the option of the company, according to any standards which produce greater aggregate reserves for such category than those calculated according to the minimum standard herein provided, but the rate or rates of interest used shall not be higher than the corresponding rate or rates of interest used in calculating any nonforfeiture benefits provided for therein: Provided, however, That reserves for participating life-insurance policies may, with the consent of the Superintendent, be calculated according to a rate of interest lower than the rate of interest used in calculating the nonforfeiture benefits in such policies, with the further proviso that if such lower rate differs from the rate used in the calculation of the nonforfeiture benefits by more than one-half per centum the company issuing such policies shall file with the Superintendent a plan providing for such equitable increases, if any, in the cash surrender values and nonforfeiture benefits in such policies as the Superintendent shall approve.

§ 35-702. Separate classes and accounts to be kept for participating and nonparticipating insurance.

Every life company doing business in the District which issues both participating and nonparticipating policies shall keep the two classes of business separate and shall make, and include in the annual statement to be filed with the superintendent each year a separate statement of the gains, losses, and expenses properly attributable to each of such classes and also showing the manner in which any general outlay of expenses of the company has been apportioned to each. No such life company shall be permitted to do business in the District unless it makes such a separation of its business. This section shall not apply to paid-up, temporary, or pure endowment insurance issued or granted in exchange for lapsed or returned policies. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1157, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 2.)

§ 35-703. Standard provisions required in life insurance policies.

No policy of life insurance other than industrial insurance, annuities, and pure endowments with or without return of premiums or of premiums and interest shall be issued or delivered in the District or be issued by a life company organized under the laws of the District after the 1st day of January 1935, unless the same shall contain in substance the following:

(1) A provision that all premiums after the first shall be payable in advance, either at the home office of the company or to an agent of the company, upon delivery of a receipt signed by one or more of the officers who shall be designated in the policy.

(2) A provision that the insured is entitled to a grace period of at least thirty days or of one month within which the payment of any premiums after the first year may be made, subject at the option of the company to an interest charge not in excess of 6 per centum per annum for the number of days of grace elapsing before the payment of the premium, during which period of grace the policy shall continue in full force, but in case the policy becomes a claim during the said period of grace before the overdue premium or the deferred premiums of the current policy year, if any, are paid, the amount of such premiums, with interest on any overdue premiums, may be deducted from any amount payable under the policy in settlement. Grace shall date from the premium-paying date stated in the policy.

(3) A provision that, except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the policy shall constitute the entire contract between the parties and shall be incontestable after it has been in force during the lifetime of the insured for a period of not more than two years from its date, except for nonpayment of premiums and except for violations of the conditions of the policy relating to naval or military service in time of war, and at the option of the company, provisions relative to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and provisions which grant additional insurance specifically against death by accident may also be excepted; that all statements made by the insured shall, in the absence of fraud, be deemed representations and not warranties; and that no such statement or statements shall be used in defense of a claim under the policy unless contained in a written application and unless a copy of such statement or statements be endorsed upon or attached to the policy when issued: Provided, That nothing contained herein shall apply to applications for reinstatement. A reinstated policy shall be contestable on account of fraud or misrepresentation of material facts pertaining to the reinstatement, for the same period after reinstatement as provided in the policy with respect to the original issue.

(4) A provision that if it shall be found at any time before final settlement under the policy that the age of the insured (or the age of the beneficiary, if considered in determining the premium) has been misstated, the amount payable under the policy shall be such as the premium would have purchased at the correct age, according to the company's rate at date of issue.

(5) A provision that the policy shall participate in the surplus of the company, and any policy containing provisions for participation at the end of the first policy year, and annually thereafter, may also provide that each dividend shall be paid subject to the payment of the premium for the next ensuing year; and the insured under any annual dividend policy shall have the right each year to have the dividend arising from such participation paid in cash; and if the policy shall provide other dividend options, it shall further provide which of said options shall be effective if the insured shall not elect any such other option on or before the expiration of the period of grace allowed for the payment of the premium. This provision shall not apply to any form of paid-up insurance or temporary insurance or pure endowment insurance, issued or granted in exchange for lapsed or surrendered policies, or to nonparticipating policies.

(6) A provision that after the policy has been in force three full years the company at any time, while the policy is in force, will advance, on proper assignment or pledge of the policy and on the sole security thereof, at a specified rate of interest, a sum equal to, or at the option of the insured less than the amount required by section 35-705c under the conditions specified thereby; and that the company will deduct from such loan value any indebtedness not already deducted in determining such value and any unpaid balance of the premium for the current policy year, and may collect interest in advance on the loan to the end of the current policy year. This provision shall not be required in term insurance, nor shall it apply to temporary insurance or pure endowment insurance, issued or granted in exchange for lapsed or surrendered policies. The policy may further provide that if the interest on the loan is not paid when due it shall be added to the existing loan and shall bear interest at the same rate.

(7) A provision for nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values in accordance with the requirements of section 35-705a or section 35-705b.

(8) A provision specifying the options, if any, to which the policyholder is entitled in the event of default in a premium payment.

(9) A table showing in figures the loan values and the options available under the policy each year upon default in premium payments, during at least the first twenty years of the policy or during the premium paying period if less than twenty years.

(10) A provision that if in event of default in premium payments the value of the policy shall have been applied to the purchase of other insurance as provided for in this section, and if such insurance shall be in force and the original policy shall not have been surrendered to the company and canceled, the policy may be reinstated within three years from such default, upon evidence of insurability satisfactory to the company and payment of arrears of premiums and the payment or reinstatement of any other indebtedness to the company upon said policy, with interest on said premium and indebtedness at the rate of not exceeding 6 per centum per annum payable annually, and that such reinstated policy shall be contestable, on account of suicide, fraud, or misrepresentation of material facts pertaining to the reinstatement, for the same period after reinstatement as provided in the policy with respect to the original issue.

(11) A provision that when a policy shall become a claim by the death of the insured settlement shall be made upon receipt of due proof of death.

(12) A table showing the amount of instalments, if any, in which the policy may provide its proceeds may be payable.

(13) Title on the face and on the back of the policy briefly describing its form.

Any of the foregoing provisions or portions thereof not applicable to single premium or nonparticipating or term policies shall, to that extent, not be incorporated therein; and any such policy may be issued or delivered in the District which in the opinion of the superintendent contains provisions on any one or more of the several foregoing requirements more favorable to the policyholder than hereinbefore required. The provisions of this section shall not apply to policies of reinsurance, or to policies issued or granted in exchange for lapsed or surrendered policies, or to group insurance. AMENDMENT

1948—Subsec. (6) was amended by act Feb. 19, 1948, § 3(6), which substituted "amount required by section 35-705c of this chapter under the conditions specified thereby;" for provisions relating the amount of loan to the reserve at the end of the current policy year on the policy and dividend additions thereto exclusive of reserve on return premium insurance and on disability and accidental death benefits less a percentage of the policy, and deleted provisions permitting deferral of loans for six months after application, and for alternate deductions of either not more than 2½ per centum of the policy or one-fifth of the reserve.

Subsec. (7) was amended by act Feb. 19, 1948, § 3(7), which substituted "a provision for nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values in accordance with the requirements of section 35-705a or section 35-705b of this chapter", for provisions that in event of default in premium payments after having been paid for three years, the insured was entitled to a stipulated form of insurance with net value at least equal to reserve at default date plus dividend additions, exclusive of reserve on account of return premium insurance and disability and accidental death benefits, less a percentage of the policy, for alternate deductions of either not more than 2½ per centum of the policy or one-fifth of the reserve, a right to surrender for a specific cash value, and that the company could defer payment up to six months after application, and for a net single premium rate.

Subsec. (8) was amended by act Feb. 19, 1948, § 3(8), which deleted "after three full annual premiums shall have been paid. This provision shall not be required in term insurance of twenty years or less. A provision may also be inserted in the policy that in event of default in a premium payment before such options become available the reserve on any dividend additions then in force may at the option of the company be paid in cash or applied as a net premium to the purchase of paid-up term insurance for any amount not in excess of the face of the original policy", following "default in a premium payment."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Soliciting agent

The mailing of life policy from home office of insurer in Washington, D. C., to soliciting agent in Alabama for delivery in person to insured did not constitute a delivery of policy at Washington, D. C., since agent was agent of insurer rather than of insured, and delivery took place when agent handed policy to insured in Alabama. United Services Life Ins. Co. v. Farr (D. C. N. Y. 1945, 60 F. Supp. 829).

§ 35-705. Standard provisions required in annuities and pure endowment contracts.

On and after January 1, 1935, no annuity or pure endowment contract shall be issued or delivered in the District unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been filed with the superintendent and formally approved by him.

Except in the case of a reversionary annuity, otherwise called a "survivorship annuity," or an annuity contracted by an employer in behalf of his employees, no annuity or pure endowment contract shall be so issued or delivered in this District unless it contains, in substance, the following provisions:

First. A provision that there shall be a period of grace, either of thirty days or of one month, within which any stipulated payment to the company falling due after the first year may be made, subject, at the option of the company, to an interest charge thereon at a rate to be specified in the contract, but not exceeding 6 per centum per annum for the number of days of grace elapsing before such payment, during which period of grace, the contract shall continue in full force; but in case a claim arises under the contract on account of death during the said period of grace before the overdue payment to the company or the deferred payments of the current contract year, if any, are made, the amount of such payments, with interest on any overdue payments, may be deducted from any amount payable under the contract in settlement.

Second. If statements, other than those relating to age and identity, are required, as a condition of issuing the contract, a provision that the contract shall be incontestable after it has been in force during the lifetime of the person or each of the persons as to whom such statements are required, for a period of two years from its date of issue, except where stipulated payments to the company have not been made, and except for violation of the conditions of the contract relating to military or naval service in time of war, and at the option of the company, provisions relative to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and provisions which grant insurance specifically against death by accident, may also be excepted.

Third. A provision that such contract shall constitute the entire contract between the parties, but if the company desires to make the application a part of the contract it may do so, provided a copy of such application shall be endorsed upon or attached to such contract, when issued, and in such case such contract shall contain a provision that it, together with the application therefor, shall constitute the entire contract between the parties.

Fourth. A provision that if the age of the person or persons upon whose life or lives the contract is based, or of any of them, has been misstated, the amount payable under the contract shall be such as the stipulated payments to the company would have purchased at the correct age or ages.

Any overpayment or overpayments by the company, on account of misstatement of age, shall with interest thereon at a rate to be specified in the contract, but not exceeding 6 per centum per annum, be charged against the current or next succeeding payment or payments to be made by the company under the contract.

Fifth. If the contract is participating, a provision that the divisible surplus shall be apportioned annually and dividends shall be payable in cash or shall be applicable to any stipulated payment or payments to the company under the contract.

Sixth. A provision that if the contract after having been in force for three full years, shall, by its terms, lapse or become forfeited because any stipulated payment to the company shall not have been made, the reserve on such contract, computed according to the standard adopted by said company in accordance with this chapter, shall, after deducting one-fifth of the said entire reserve, and any indebtedness to the company under the contract, be applied as a net single payment, according to said standard, for the purchase of a paid-up annuity or pure endowment contract, which may be nonparticipating and which shall be payable by the company under the same terms and conditions, except as to amount, as the original contract. A company may provide, in lieu of such paid-up values, for a paid-up annuity or pure endowment contract in an amount bearing the same proportion to the original annuity or pure endowment contract as the number of stipulated payments which shall have been made to the company shall bear to the total number of stipulated payments required to be made to the company under the contract, and if there be any indebtedness to the company under the contract, the amount of such paid-up annuity or pure endowment shall be reduced by an amount bearing the same proportion to such paid-up annuity or pure endowment as such indebtedness bears to the reserve on such paid-up annuity or pure endowment, computed according to the standard adopted by said company in accordance with this chapter.

Seventh. A provision that the contract may be reinstated at any time within one year from the date of default in making stipulated payments to the company, provided that all overdue stipulated payments and any indebtedness to the company on the contract shall be made or paid, with interest thereon at a rate to be specified in the contract but not exceeding 6 per centum per annum, payable annually. In cases where applicable a company may also include a requirement of evidence of insurability satisfactory to the company.

No contract for a reversionary annuity shall be so issued or delivered unless it contains in substance the following provisions:

A. Provisions "First," "Second," "Third," and "Fifth," of this section, except that under provision "First," the company may, at its option, provide for an equitable reduction of the amount of the annuity payments in settlement of any overdue or deferred payments, in lieu of providing for a deduction of such payments from any amount payable upon a settlement under the contract.

B. A provision that, if the age of any of the persons upon whose lives the contract is based has been misstated, the amount payable under the contract shall be such as the stipulated payments to the company would have purchased at the correct ages.

C. A provision that the contract may be reinstated at any time within three years from the date of default in making stipulated payments to the company, upon production of evidence of insurability satisfactory to the company, provided that all overdue payments and any indebtedness to the company on the contract shall be made or paid, with interest thereon at a rate to be specified in the contract, but not exceeding 6 per centum per annum, payable annually.

Any of the foregoing provisions or portions thereof not applicable to nonparticipating contracts nor to contracts for which a single stipulated payment to the company is made, shall, to that extent, not be incorporated therein; and any such contract may be issued or delivered in this District, which, in the opinion of the superintendent, contains provisions on any one or more of the several foregoing requirements, more favorable to the holder of the contract than hereinbefore required.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent a life company, which issues life insurance on a participating basis, from issuing annuities, reversionary annuities, or pure endowments on a nonparticipating basis.

Any such contract or any application, endorsement, or rider form used in connection therewith, issued in violation of this section, shall, nevertheless, be held valid, but shall be construed as provided in this section and when any provision in such contract, application, endorsement, or rider is in conflict with any provision of this section or with any other statutory provision, the rights, duties, and obligations of the company, of the holder of the contract and of the beneficiary or annuitant thereunder, shall be governed by the provisions of this section.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to contracts of reinsurance nor to contracts for deferred annuities or reversionary annuities included in life insurance policies.

For the purposes of this section, application forms, rider forms, and endorsement forms for use in connection with any such contract, excepting riders or endorsements relating to the manner of distribution of benefits or to the reservation of rights and benefits under any such contract, and used at the request of the individual holders of such contracts, shall be deemed to be parts of such contract and shall require the approval of the superintendent. No rider and no endorsement, except as stated above, shall be attached to or printed or stamped upon any such contract issued or delivered in the District until the form of such rider or endorsement has been filed with the superintendent and formally approved by him. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1161, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 5.)

§ 35-705a. Nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values.

This section shall apply only to policies of life insurance issued prior to the operative date of section 35-705b (the standard nonforfeiture law).

The nonforfeiture benefits referred to in provision (7) of section 35-703 shall be available to the insured in event of default in premium payments, after premiums shall have been paid for three years, and shall be a stipulated form of insurance, effective from the due date of the defaulted premium, the net value of which shall be at least equal to the reserve at the date of default on the policy and on dividend additions thereto, if any, exclusive of the reserve on account of return premium insurance and on total and permanent disability and additional accidental death benefits (the policy to specify the mortality table and rate of interest adopted for computing such reserve), less a specified percentage (not more than two and one-half) of the amount insured by the policy and of existing dividend additions thereto, if any, and less any existing indebtedness to the company on or secured by the policy: Provided, That a company may, in lieu of the provision herein permitted for the deduction from the reserve of a sum not more than 2½ per centum of the amount insured by the policy, and of any dividend additions thereto, insert in the policy a provision that one-fifth of said reserve may be deducted, or may provide therein that a deduction may be made of said 2½ per centum or one-fifth of said reserve, at the option of the company: Provided further, That the policy may be surrendered to the company at its home office within one month of the due date of defaulted premium for a specified cash value at least equal to the sum which would otherwise be available for the purchase of insurance as aforesaid: And provided further, That the company may defer payment for not more than six months after the application therefor is made. A provision may also be inserted in the policy that in event of default in a premium payment before such benefit becomes available, the reserve on any dividend additions then in force may at the option of the company be paid in cash or applied as a net premium to the purchase of paid-up term insurance for any amount not in excess of the face of the original policy. This section shall not apply to term insurance of twenty years or less. The net single premium rate employed in computing the term of temporary insurance or the amount of pure endowment insurance granted as a nonforfeiture value under any life-insurance policy may at the option of the company be based upon a table of mortality showing rates of mortality not greater than 130 per centum of those shown by the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality instead of the table used in computing the reserve on the policy, or in case of substandard policies not greater than 130 per centum of the rates of mortality shown by the table of mortality approved by the Superintendent for computing the reserve on the policy, anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 5a, as added Feb. 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 30, ch. 66, § 4.)

§ 35-705b. Standard nonforfeiture law.

(a) In the case of policies issued on or after the operative date of this section, as defined in subsection (g) no policy of life insurance, except as stated in subsection (f), shall be issued or delivered in the District of Columbia unless it shall contain in substance the following provisions, or corresponding provisions which in the opinion of the Superintendent are at least as favorable to the defaulting or surrendering policyholder—

(1) that, in event of default in any premium payment after premiums have been paid one full year in the case of ordinary insurance or three full years in the case of industrial insurance, the company will grant, upon proper request not later than sixty days after the due date of the premium in default, a paid-up nonforfeiture benefit on a plan stipulated in the policy, effective as of such due date, of such value as may be hereinafter specified;

(2) that, upon surrender of the policy within sixty days after the due date of any premium payment in default after premiums have been paid for at least three full years in the case of ordinary insurance or five full years in the case of industrial insurance, the company will pay, in lieu of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit a cash surrender value of such amount as may be hereinafter specified;

(3) that a specified paid-up nonforfeiture benefit shall become effective as specified in the policy unless the person entitled to make such election elects another available option not later than sixty days after the due date of the premium in default;

(4) that, if the policy shall become paid up by completion of all premium payments or if it is continued under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit which became effective on or after the third policy anniversary in the case of ordinary insurance or the fifth policy anniversary in the case of industrial insurance, the company will pay, upon surrender of the policy within thirty days after any policy anniversary, a cash surrender value of such amount as may be hereinafter specified;

(5) a statement of the mortality table and interest rate used in calculating the cash surrender values and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the policy, together with a table showing the cash surrender value, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, if any, available under the policy on each policy anniversary either during the first twenty policy years or during the term of the policy, whichever is shorter, such values and benefits to be calculated upon the assumption that there are no dividends or paid-up additions credited to the policy and that there is no indebtedness to the company on the policy;

(6) a brief and general statement of the method to be used in calculating the cash surrender value and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under the policy on any policy anniversary beyond the last anniversary for which such values and benefits are consecutively shown in the policy, with an explanation of the manner in which the cash surrender values and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits are altered by the existence of any paid-up additions credited to the policy or any indebtedness to the company on the policy.

Any of the foregoing provisions or portions thereof not applicable by reason of the plan of insurance may, to the extent inapplicable, be omitted from the policy.

The company shall reserve the right to defer the payment of any cash surrender value for a period of six months after demand therefor with surrender of the policy.

(b) Any cash surrender value available under any policy referred to in subsection (a) in the event of default in a premium payment due on any policy anniversary, whether or not required by subsection (a), shall be an amount not less than the excess, if any, of the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits which would have been provided for by the policy, including any existing paid-up additions, if there had been no default, over the sum of (i) the then present value of the adjusted premiums as defined in subsection (d), corresponding to premiums which would have fallen due on and after such anniversary, and (ii) the amount of any indebtedness to the company on the policy. Any cash surrender value available within thirty days after any policy anniversary under any policy paid up by completion of all premium payments or any policy continued under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, whether or not required by subsection (a), shall be an amount not less than the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy, including any existing paid-up additions, decreased by any indebtedness to the company on the policy.

(c) Any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under any policy referred to in subsection (a), in the event of default in a premium payment due on any policy anniversary shall be such that its present value as of such anniversary shall be at least equal to the cash surrender value then provided for by the policy or, if none is provided for, that cash surrender value which would have been required by this section in the absence of the condition that premiums shall have been paid for at least a specified period.

(d) The adjusted premiums for any policy referred to in subsection (a) shall be calculated on an annual basis and shall be such uniform percentage of the respective premiums specified in the policy for each policy year, excluding any extra premiums charged because of impairments or special hazards, that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all such adjusted premiums shall be equal to the sum of (i) the then present value of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy; (ii) 2 per centum of the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or of the equivalent uniform amount, as hereinafter defined, if the amount of insurance varies with duration of the policy; (iii) 40 per centum of the adjusted premium for the first policy year; (iv) 25 per centum of either the adjusted premium for the first policy year or the adjusted premium for a whole life policy of the same uniform or equivalent uniform amount with uniform premiums for the whole of life issued at the same age for the same amount of insurance, whichever is less: Provided, however, That in applying the percentages specified in (iii) and (iv) above, no adjusted premium shall be deemed to exceed 4 per centum of the amount of insurance or uniform amount equivalent thereto.

In the case of a policy providing an amount of insurance varying with duration of the policy, the equivalent uniform amount thereof for the purpose of this subsection shall be deemed to be the uniform amount of insurance provided by an otherwise similar policy, containing the same endowment benefit or benefits, if any, issued at the same age and for the same term, the amount of which does not vary with duration and the benefits under which have the same present value at the date of issue as the benefits under the policy: Provided, however, That in the case of a policy providing a varying amount of insurance issued on the life of a child under age ten, the equivalent uniform amount may be computed as though the amount of insurance provided by the policy prior to the attainment of age ten were the amount provided by such policy at age ten.

Except as otherwise provided in the next succeeding paragraph of this subsection, all adjusted premiums and present values referred to in this section shall for all policies of ordinary insurance be calculated on the basis of the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, provided that for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, adjusted premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured. Such calculations for all policies of industrial insurance shall be made on the basis of the 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table. All calculations shall be made on the basis of the rate of interest, not exceeding $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum per annum, specified in the policy for calculating cash surrender values, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits: Provided, however, That in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than 130 per centum of the rates of mortality according to such applicable table: Provided further, That for insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on such other table of mortality as may be specified by the company and approved by the Superintendent.

In the case of ordinary policies issued on or after the operative date of this paragraph as defined herein, all adjusted premiums and present values referred to in this section shall be calculated on the basis of the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table and the rate of interest, not exceeding $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum per annum, specified in the policy for calculating cash surrender values, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits, provided that for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, adjusted premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured: Provided, however, That in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than those shown in the Commissioners 1958 Extended Term Insurance Table: Provided further, That for insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on such other table of mortality as may be specified by the company and approved by the Superintendent. After the effective date of the amendatory Act of 1960, any company may file with the Superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this paragraph after a specified date before January 1, 1966. After the filing of such notice, then upon such specified date (which shall be the operative date of this paragraph for such company), this paragraph shall become operative with respect to the ordinary policies thereafter issued by such company. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this paragraph for such company shall be January 1, 1966.

(e) Any cash surrender value and any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, available under any such policy in the event of default in the payment of any premium due at any time other than on the policy anniversary, shall be calculated with allowance for the lapse of time and the payment of fractional premiums beyond the last preceding policy anniversary. All values referred to in subsections (b), (c), and (d) may be calculated upon the assumption that any death benefit is payable at the end of the policy or contract year of death. The net value of any paid-up additions, other than paid-up term additions, shall be not less than the dividends used to provide such additions. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (b), additional benefits payable (i) in the event of death or dismemberment by accident or accidental means, (ii) in the event of total and permanent disability, (iii) as reversionary annuity or deferred reversionary annuity benefits, (iv) as term insurance benefits provided by a rider or supplemental policy provision to which, if issued as a separate policy, this section would not apply, and (v) as other policy benefits additional to life insurance and endowment benefits, and premiums for all such additional benefits, shall be disregarded in ascertaining cash surrender values and nonforfeiture benefits required by this section, and no such additional benefits shall be required to be included in any paid-up nonforfeiture benefits.

(f) This section shall not apply to any reinsurance, group insurance, pure endowment, annuity or reversionary annuity contract, nor to any term policy of uniform amount, or renewal thereof, of fifteen years or less expiring before age sixty-six, for which uniform premiums are payable during the entire term of the policy, nor to any term policy of decreasing amount on which each adjusted premium, calculated as specified in subsection (d), is less than the adjusted premium so calculated, on such fifteen-year term policy issued at the same age and for the same initial amount of insurance, nor to any policy or contract which shall be delivered outside the District of Columbia through an agent or other representative of the company issuing the policy.

(g) After February 19, 1948, any company may file with the Superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this section after a specified date before January 1, 1950. After the filing of such notice, then upon such specified date (which shall be the operative date for such company), this section shall become operative with respect to the policies and contracts thereafter issued by such company. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this section for such company shall be January 1, 1950: Provided, however, That the operative date of the last paragraph of subsection (d) shall be as stated therein. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 5b, as added Feb. 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 30, ch. 66, § 4, and amended June 27, 1960, 74 Stat. 228, Pub. L. 86-530, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

1960—Subsec. (d) amended generally by act June 27, 1960, § 2(a).

Subsec. (e) amended by act June 27, 1960, § 2(b), which eliminated word "decreasing" preceding "term insurance" in cl. (iv).

§ 35-705c. Loan provisions in policies.

(a) In the case of ordinary policies issued prior to the operative date of section 35-705b (the standard nonforfeiture law) the loan value referred to in provision (6) of section 35-703 shall be the reserve at the end of the current policy year on the policy and on the dividend additions thereto, if any, exclusive of the reserve on account of return premium insurance and of total and permanent disability and additional accidental death benefits, less a sum not more than $2\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the amount insured by the policy and of any dividend additions thereto (the policy to specify the mortality table and rate of interest adopted for computing such reserve). The policy may provide that such loan may be deferred for not exceeding six months after the application therefor is made. A company may, in lieu of the provision hereinabove permitted for the deduction from a loan on the policy of a sum not more than $2\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the amount insured by the policy and of any dividend additions thereto, insert in the policy a provision that one-fifth of the said reserve may be deducted in case of a loan under the policy, or may provide therein that the deduction may be the said $2\frac{1}{2}$ per centum or the one-fifth of the said reserve at the option of the company.

(b) In the case of ordinary policies issued on or after the operative date of section 35-705b (the standard nonforfeiture law) the loan value referred to in provision (6) of section 35-703 shall be the cash surrender value at the end of the current policy year as required by section 35-705b. The company shall reserve the right to defer such loan, except when made to pay premiums, for six months after application therefor is made. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 5c, as added Feb. 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 30, ch. 66, § 4.)

§ 35-706. Extension of time for payment of life premiums.

A life company may enter into subsequent agreements in writing with the insured, which need not be attached to the policy, to extend the time for the payment of any premium, or part thereof, upon condition that failure to comply with the terms of such agreement shall lapse the policy, as provided in said agreement or in the policy. Subject to such lien as may be created to secure any indebtedness contracted by the insured, in consideration of such extension, said agreement shall not impair any right existing under the policy. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1164, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 6.)

§ 35-707. Interest on policy and premium loans shall be added to principal.

In ascertaining the indebtedness due upon policy or premium loans the interest, if not paid when due, shall be added to the principal of such loans and shall bear interest at the rate specified in the note or loan agreement. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1164, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 7.)

§ 35-708. Life-policy forms to be filed with Superintendent—Notice of nonconformity—Review.

A policy of life insurance shall not be issued or delivered in the District until the form of the same has been filed with the superintendent, nor if the superintendent give written notice, within thirty days of such filing to the company proposing to issue it, showing wherein the form of such policy does not comply with the requirements of the laws of the District, provided that such action of the superintendent shall be subject to review by a court of competent jurisdiction. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1164, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 8.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. War clause

Under life policy limiting liability if death of insured resulted from military or naval service outside the United States in time of war and if death of insured resulted within two years from date of issue of policy from war while insured was outside the United States, where death of insured occurred while he was serving as a naval officer outside of the United States in time of war and more than two years after date of policy, ambiguity between policy provisions would be resolved by applying the two year provision as an affirmation of liability. Hayes v. Home Life Ins. Co. (1948, 168 F. 2d 152, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 110).

Where insured was fatally injured when he fell from hotel window in France on October 2, 1945, while serving with occupation forces, the United States was not a country "engaged in war" within life policy provision restricting liability, even though war had not terminated in a political sense. Stinson v. New York Life Ins. Co. (1948, 167 F. 2d 233, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 115).

§ 35-709. Provisions required by the laws of a company's own State may be included in policies.

The policies of a life company, not organized under the laws of the District, may contain any provisions prescribed by the laws of the state, territory, District, or country, under which the company is organized. The policies of a life company, organized under the laws of the District, may, when issued or delivered in any state, territory, District, or country, contain any provisions required by the laws of the state, territory, District, or country in which the same are issued or delivered, anything in chapters 3-8 of this title to the contrary notwithstanding. (June 14, 1934, 48 Stat. 1164, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 9.)

§ 35-710. Group life insurance.

No policy of group life insurance shall be delivered in the District unless it conforms to one of the following descriptions:

(1) A policy issued to an employer, or to the trustees of a fund established by an employer, which employer or trustee shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure employees of the employer for the benefit of persons other than the employer, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The employees eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all of the employees of the employer, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include the employees of one or more subsidiary corporations, and the employees, individual proprietors, and partners of one or more affiliated corporations, proprietors, or partnerships if the business of the employer and of such affiliated corporations, proprietors; or partnerships is under common control through stock ownership or contract. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include the individual proprietor or partners if the employer is an individual proprietor or a partnership. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include retired employees. No director of a corporate employer shall be eligible for insurance under the policy unless such person is otherwise eligible as a bona fide employee of the corporation by performing services other than the usual duties of a director. No individual proprietor or partner shall be eligible for insurance under the policy unless he is actively engaged in and devotes a substantial part of his time to the conduct of the business of the proprietor or partnership.

(b) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either wholly from the employer's funds or funds contributed by him, or partly from such funds and partly from funds contributed by the insured employees. No policy may be issued on which the entire premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees. A policy on which part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees may be placed in force only if at least 75 per centum of the then eligible employees, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, elect to make the required contributions. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees must insure all eligible employees, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(c) The policy must cover at least ten employees at date of issue.

(d) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the employees or by the employer or trustees. No policy may be issued which provides term insurance on any employee which together with any other term insurance under any group life-insurance policy or policies issued to the employers or any of them or to the trustees of a fund established in whole or in part by the employers or any of them exceeds $20,000, any of them exceeds $20,000 unless 150 per centum of the annual compensation of a covered employee, exceeds $20,000, in which event all such insurance shall not exceed $40,000, or 150 per centum of such annual compensation, whichever is less.

(2) A policy issued to a creditor, who shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure debtors of the creditor, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The debtors eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all of the debtors of the creditor whose indebtedness is repayable in installments, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the indebtedness or to the purchase giving rise to the indebtedness. The policy may provide that the term "debtors" shall include the debtors of one or more subsidiary corporations, and the debtors of one or more affiliated corporations, proprietors, or partnerships if the business of the policyholder and of such affiliated corporations, proprietors or partnerships is under common control through stock ownership, contract, or otherwise.

(b) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either from the creditor's funds, or from charges collected from the insured debtors, or from both. A policy on which part or all of the premium is to be derived from the collection from the insured debtors of identifiable charges not required of uninsured debtors shall not include, in the class or classes of debtors eligible for insurance, debtors under obligations outstanding at its date of issue without evidence of individual insurability unless at least 75 per centum of the then eligible debtors elect to pay the required charges. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from the collection of such identifiable charges must insure all eligible debtors, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(c) The policy may be issued only if the group of eligible debtors is then receiving new entrants at the rate of at least one hundred persons yearly, or may reasonably be expected to receive at least one hundred new entrants during the first policy year, and only if the policy reserves to the insurer the right to require evidence of individual insurability if less than 75 per centum of the new entrants become insured.

(d) The amount of insurance on the life of any debtor shall at no time exceed the amount owed by him which is repayable in installments to the creditor, or $5,000, whichever is less.

(e) The insurance shall be payable to the policyholder. Such payment shall reduce or extinguish the unpaid indebtedness of the debtor to the extent of such payment.

(3) A policy issued to a labor union, which shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure members of such union for the benefit of persons other than the union or any of its officials, representatives or agents, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The members eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all of the members of the union, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment, or to membership in the union, or both.

(b) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either wholly from the union's funds, or partly from such funds and partly from funds contributed by the insured members specifically for their insurance. No policy may be issued on which the entire premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members specifically for their insurance. A policy on which part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members specifically for their insurance may be placed in force only if at least 75 per centum of the then eligible members, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, elect to make the required contributions. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible members, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(c) The policy must cover at least ten members at date of issue.

(d) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the members or by the union. No policy may be issued which provides term insurance on any union member which together with any other term insurance under any group life insurance policies exceeds $20,000 unless 150 per centum of the annual compensation of a covered union member exceeds $20,000, in which event all such insurance shall not exceed $40,000, or 150 per centum of such annual compensation, whichever is less.

(4) A policy issued to the trustees of a fund established by two or more employers in the same industry or by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions, which trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure employees of the employers or members of the unions for the benefit of persons other than the employers or the unions, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The persons eligible for insurance shall be all of the employees of the employers or all of the members of the unions, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment, or to membership in the unions, or to both. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include the individual proprietor or partners if an employer is an individual proprietor or a partnership. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include retired employees. No director of a corporate employer shall be eligible for insurance under the policy unless such person is otherwise eligible as a bona fide employee of the corporation by performing services other than the usual duties of a director. No individual proprietor or partner shall be eligible for insurance under the policy unless he is actively engaged in and devotes a substantial part of his time to the conduct of the business of the proprietor or partnership. The policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include the trustees or their employees, or both, if their duties are principally connected with such trusteeship.

(b) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the trustees wholly from funds contributed by the employer or employers of the insured persons, or by the union or unions, or by both. No policy may be issued on which any part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance. The policy must insure all eligible persons, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(c) The policy must cover at date of issue at least one hundred persons and not less than an average of five persons per employer unit; and if the fund is established by the members of an association of employers the policy may be issued only if (i) either (a) the participating employers constitute at date of issue at least 60 per centum of those employer members whose employees are not already covered for group life insurance or (b) the total number of persons covered at date of issue exceeds six hundred; and (ii) the policy shall not require that, if a participating employer discontinues membership in the association, the insurance of his employees shall cease solely by reason of such discontinuance.

(d) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the policyholder, employers, or unions. No policy may be issued which provides term insurance on any person which together with any other term insurance under any group life-insurance policy or policies issued to the employers, or any of them, or to the trustees of a fund established in whole or in part by the employers, or any of them, exceeds $20,000 unless 150 per centum of the annual compensation of a covered person exceeds $20,000, in which event all such insurance shall not exceed $40,000, or 150 per centum of such annual compensation, whichever is less.

(5) A policy issued to the president of the Board of Commissioners, or to the head of any Federal department or independent Federal bureau, board, commission, or other Federal independent establishment, or to an association of Federal employees, as the case may be, covering not less than ten employees of the government of the District or of the Federal Government, with or without medical examination, the premium on which is to be paid by the employees and insuring only employees, or any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment, for amounts of insurance based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection, for the benefit of persons other than the employer: Provided, That when the benefits of the policy are offered to all eligible employees, not less than 75 per centum of such employees may be so insured.

(6) A policy issued to an association whose eligible members have the same profession, trade, or occupation which has been organized and is maintained for purposes other than that of obtaining insurance, which shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure members, or employees of members, of such association for the benefit of persons other than the association, or any of its officials, representatives, or agents, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The members or employees eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all the members, and all the employees of the members, of the association, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment, or to membership in the association, or both.

(b) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder either wholly from the association's funds, or partly from such funds and partly from funds contributed by the insured members or employees specifically for their insurance, or from funds wholly contributed by the insured members or employees specifically for their insurance. A policy on which any part or all of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members or employees specifically for their insurance may be placed in force only if at least 60 per centum of the then eligible members or employees or a minimum of four hundred members or employees, whichever is less, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, elect to make the required contributions. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members or employees specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible members or employees, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(c) The policy must cover at least twenty-five members or employees at date of issuance.

(d) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based on some plan precluding individual selection either by the members or employees, or by the association. No policy may be issued which provides term insurance on any association member or employee which, together with any other term insurance under any group life insurance policy or policies, exceeds $20,000, unless 150 per centum of the annual compensation of such person exceeds $20,000, in which event all such term insurance shall not exceed $40,000, or 150 per centum of such annual compensation, whichever is less.

(7) Any policy issued pursuant to this section, except a policy issued to a creditor pursuant to subsection (2) hereof, may be extended to insure the spouses and minor children of insured persons, or any class or classes thereof, subject to the following requirements:

(a) The premiums for the insurance shall be paid by the policyholder either from the policyholder's funds or from funds contributed by the insured person, or from both. If any part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons, the insurance with respect to spouses and children may be placed in force only if at least 75 per centum of the then eligible employees or association members, excluding any as to whose family members evidence of insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, elect to make the required contribution. If no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons, all such eligible employees or association members, excluding any as to whose family members evidence of insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, must be insured with respect to their spouses and children.

(b) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the policyholder, and shall not exceed with respect to any spouse or child, 50 per centum of the insurance on the life of such insured person.

(c) Upon termination of the insurance with respect to the spouse of any insured person by reason of such person's termination of employment or membership or death, the spouse insured pursuant to this section shall have the same conversion rights as to the insurance on his or her life as is provided for the insured person under section 35-711.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 35-711, only one certificate need be issued for delivery to an insured person if a statement concerning any dependent's coverage is included in such certificate.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction 1
Number of employees required 2
Opinions of superintendent 3

1. Construction

The terms of a statute should be so construed so as to effectuate the true intent and object of the Legislature in the enactment. Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. v. Jordan (1955, 128 F. Supp. 274).

2. Number of employees required

This section, respecting group insurance in view of legislative history, does not manifest a congressional intent that 75 percent of all employees of a government department, board, commission, etc., must be included before the group may be validly insured and an association of not less than 50 employees can be formed and obtain insurance, although the group does not comprise 75 percent of all employees of the government department, board, commission, etc., and even if the sole purpose for the formation of the association is the obtaining of group insurance. Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. v. Jordan (1955, 128 F. Supp. 274).

3. Opinions of superintendent

While the informal opinions of the superintendent of insurance are not conclusive in the construction of a statute the court would not disregard such administrative interpretations despite their informality especially where the interpretation had been followed in practice for a long period of time. Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. v. Jordan (1955, 128 F. Supp. 274).

§ 35-711. Standard provisions for policies of group life insurance.

No policy of group life insurance shall be delivered in the District unless it contains in substance the following provisions, or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are more favorable to the persons insured, or at least as favorable to the persons insured and more favorable to the policyholder: Provided, however, (a) That provisions (6) to (10), inclusive, shall not apply to policies issued to a creditor to insure debtors of such creditor; (b) that the standard provisions required for individual life-insurance policies shall not apply to group life-insurance policies; and (c) that if the group life-insurance policy is on a plan of insurance other than the term plan, it shall contain a nonforfeiture provision or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent is or are equitable to the insured persons and to the policyholder, but nothing herein shall be construed to require that group life-insurance policies contain the same nonforfeiture provisions as are required for individual life-insurance policies:

(1) A provision that the policyholder is entitled to a grace period of thirty-one days for the payment of any premium due except the first, during which grace period the death benefit coverage shall continue in force, unless the policyholder shall have given the insurer written notice of discontinuance in advance of the date of discontinuance and in accordance with the terms of the policy. The policy may provide that the policyholder shall be liable to the insurer for the payment of a pro rata premium for the time the policy was in force during such grace period.

(2) A provision that the validity of the policy shall not be contested, except for nonpayment of premiums, after it has been in force for two years from its date of issue; and that no statement made by any person insured under the policy relating to his insurability shall be used in contesting the validity of the insurance with respect to which such statement was made after such insurance has been in force prior to the contest for a period of two years during such person's lifetime nor unless it is contained in a written instrument signed by him.

(3) A provision that a copy of the application, if any, of the policyholder shall be attached to the policy when issued, that all statements made by the policyholder or by the persons insured shall be deemed representations and not warranties, and that no statement made by any person insured shall be used in any contest unless a copy of the instrument containing the statement is or has been furnished to such person or to his beneficiary.

(4) A provision setting forth the conditions, if any, under which the insurer reserves the right to require a person eligible for insurance to furnish evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer as a condition to part or all of his coverage.

(5) A provision specifying an equitable adjustment of premiums or of benefits or of both to be made in the event the age of a person insured has been misstated, such provision to contain a clear statement of the method of adjustment to be used.

(6) A provision that any sum becoming due by reason of the death of the person insured shall be payable to the beneficiary designated by the person insured, subject to the provisions of the policy in the event there is no designated beneficiary as to all or any part of such sum living at the death of the person insured, and subject to any right reserved by the insurer in the policy and set forth in the certificate to pay at its option a part of such sum not exceeding $250 to any person appearing to the insurer to be equitably entitled thereto by reason of having incurred funeral or other expenses incident to the last illness or death of the person insured.

(7) A provision that the insurer will issue to the policyholder for delivery to each person insured an individual certificate setting forth a statement as to the insurance protection to which he is entitled, to whom the insurance benefits are payable, and the rights and conditions set forth in (8), (9), and (10) following.

(8) A provision that if the insurance, or any portion of it, on a person covered under the policy ceases because of termination of employment or of membership in the class or classes eligible for coverage under the policy, such person shall be entitled to have issued to him by the insurer, without evidence of insurability, an individual policy of life insurance without disability or other supplementary benefits, provided application for the individual policy shall be made, and the first premium paid to the insurer, within thirty-one days after such termination: And provided further, That—

(a) the individual policy shall, at the option of such person, be on any one of the forms, except term insurance, then customarily issued by the insurer at the age and for the amount applied for;

(b) the individual policy shall be in an amount not in excess of the amount of life insurance which ceases because of such termination, provided that any amount of insurance which shall have matured on or before the date of such termination as an endowment payable to the person insured, whether in one sum or in installments or in the form of an annuity, shall not, for the purposes of this provision, be included in the amount which is considered to cease because of such termination; and

(c) the premium on the individual policy shall be at the insurer's then customary rate applicable to the form and amount of the individual policy, to the class of risk to which such person then belongs, and to his age attained on the effective date of the individual policy.

(9) A provision that if the group policy terminates or is amended so as to terminate the insurance of any class of insured persons, every person insured thereunder at the date of such termination whose insurance terminates and who has been so insured for at least five years prior to such termination date shall be entitled to have issued to him by the insurer an individual policy of life insurance, subject to the same conditions and limitations as are provided by (8) above, except that the group policy may provide that the amount of such individual policy shall not exceed the smaller of (a) the amount of the person's life insurance protection ceasing because of the termination or amendment of the group policy, less the amount of any life insurance for which he is or becomes eligible under any group policy issued or reinstated by the same or another insurer within thirty-one days after such termination, and (b) $2,000.

(10) A provision that if a person insured under the group policy dies during the period within which he would have been entitled to have an individual policy issued to him in accordance with (8) or (9) above and before such an individual policy shall have become effective, the amount of life insurance which he would have been entitled to have issued to him under such individual policy shall be payable as a claim under the group policy, whether or not application for the individual policy or the payment of the first premium therefor has been made. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1165, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 11; July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 726, ch. 518; July 12, 1950, 64 Stat. 333, ch. 457, § 2.)

AMENDMENTS

1950—Act July 12, 1950, amended section generally, and among other changes provided that: policyholders are to have a grace period of thirty-one days for premium payments, except the first, with death benefit coverage continuing; to contest a policy, the statement relating to insurability must be in writing and prior to a two-year period from date of issue; a copy of the application should be attached to the policy, and that a copy of an instrument containing a statement used to contest a policy is to be furnished to the insured; the conditions whereby the insurer may require evidence of individual insurability must be set forth; the method of adjustment where a misstatement of age exists must be clearly stated; policy to be payable to the beneficiary designated by the insured, subject to policy provisions in the event there is no living beneficiary, and also subject to the insurer's right, if reserved, to pay up to $250 to persons equitably entitled; insurance which matures before termination of employment shall not be considered in determining the amount of insurance obtainable at a conversion to an individual policy; if the group policy terminates or is amended to terminate the insurance of any class thereunder, every person whose insurance so terminates shall be entitled to individual insurance, subject to the same limitations as if his employment was terminated, and not more than the lesser of $2,000, or the difference between his protection in the group less his protection in any other policy his employer places him in within thirty-one days; if a person dies after termination of employment or policy during period wherein he was entitled to an individual policy, the amount of that individual policy is payable through the group even if no application had been made, and deleted the provision that violation of the policy conditions relating to war service shall survive the incontestability period.

1940—Act July 2, 1940, amended paragraph 4 by adding "The provisions of the paragraph shall not apply to insurance described in item (e) of section 35-710."

If any individual insured under a group life-insurance policy hereafter delivered in the District becomes entitled under the terms of such policy to have an individual policy of life insurance issued to him without evidence of insurability, subject to making of application and payment of the first premium within the period specified in such policy, and if such individual is not given notice of the existence of such right at least fifteen days prior to the expiration date of such period, then, in such event, the individual shall have an additional period within which to exercise such right, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to continue any insurance beyond the period provided in such policy. event shall such additional period extend beyond sixty days next after the expiration date of the period provided in such policy. Written notice presented to the individual or mailed by the policyholder to the last-known address of the individual or mailed by the insurer to the last-known address of the individual as furnished by the policyholder shall constitute notice for the purpose of this paragraph.

Except as provided in this chapter it shall be unlawful to make a contract of life insurance for a group in the District. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 11(a), as added July 12, 1950, 64 Stat. 335, ch. 457, § 2.)

§ 35-712. Individual Accident and Sickness Policy Provisions.

1. Filing Requirements

No policy of insurance against loss resulting from sickness or from bodily injury or death by accident, or both, shall be issued or delivered to any person in the District by any company organized under this or any other law of the District, or, if a foreign or alien company, authorized to do business in the District, until a copy of the form thereof, and of the classification of risks and the premium rates appertaining thereto, have been filed with the Superintendent; nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been so filed, unless the Superintendent shall sooner give his written approval thereto. If the Superintendent shall give written notice to the company which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law, specifying the reasons for his opinion, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form. The action of the Superintendent in this regard shall be subject to appeal and review in the form and manner prescribed in section 35-427.

2. Form of Policy

(a) No policy of accident and sickness insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery to any person in the District unless—

(1) the entire money and other considerations therefor are expressed therein; and

(2) the time at which the insurance takes effect and terminates is expressed therein; and

(3) it purports to insure only one person, except that a policy may insure, originally or by subsequent amendment, upon the application of an adult member of a family who shall be deemed the policyholder, any two or more eligible members of that family, including husband, wife, dependent children or any children under a specified age which shall not exceed nineteen years and any other person dependent upon the policyholder; and

(4) the style, arrangement, and over-all appearance of the policy give no undue prominence to any portion of the text, and unless every printed portion of the text of the policy and of any endorsements or attached papers is plainly printed in light-faced type of a style in general use, the size of which shall be uniform and not less than ten-point with a lowercase unspaced alphabet

length not less than one hundred and twenty-point (the text shall include all printed matter except the name and address of the insurer, name or title of the policy, the brief description, if any, and captions and subcaptions) ; and

(5) the exceptions and reductions of indemnity are set forth in the policy and, except those which are set forth in subsection (3) of this section, are printed, at the insurer's option, either included with the benefit provision to which they apply, or under an appropriate caption such as "EXCEPTIONS," or "EXCEPTIONS AND REDUCTIONS": Provided, That, if an exception or reduction specifically applies only to a particular benefit of the policy, a statement of such exception or reduction shall be included with the benefit provision to which it applies; and

(6) each such form, including riders and endorsements, shall be identified by a form number in the lower left-hand corner of the first page thereof; and

(7) it contains no provision purporting to make any portion of the charter, rules, constitution, or bylaws of the insurer a part of the policy unless such portion is set forth in full in the policy, except in the case of the incorporation of, or reference to, a statement of rates or classification of risks, or short-rate table filed with the Superintendent.

(b) If any policy is issued by an insurer domiciled in the District for delivery to a person residing in another jurisdiction, and if the official having responsibility for the administration of the insurance laws of such other jurisdiction shall have advised the Superintendent that any such policy is not subject to approval or disapproval by such official, the Superintendent may by ruling require that such policy meet the standards set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection and in subsection (3).

3. Accident and Sickness Policy Provisions

(a) Required provisions: Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection each such policy delivered or issued for delivery to any person in the District shall contain the provisions specified in this paragraph in the words in which the same appear in this paragraph: Provided, however, That the insurer may, at its option, substitute for one or more of such provisions corresponding provisions of different wording approved by the Superintendent which are in each instance not less favorable in any respect to the insured or the beneficiary. Such provisions shall be preceded individually by the caption appearing in this paragraph or, at the option of the insurer, by such appropriate individual or group captions or subcaptions as the Superintendent may approve.

(1) A provision as follows:

"ENTIRE CONTRACT; CHANGES: This policy, including the endorsements and the attached papers, if any, constitutes the entire contract of insurance. No change in this policy shall be valid until approved by an executive officer of the insurer and unless such approval be endorsed hereon or attached hereto. No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions."

(2) A provision as follows:

"TIME LIMIT ON CERTAIN DEFENSES: (aa) After three years from the date of issue of this policy no misstatements, except fraudulent misstatements, made by the applicant in the application for such policy shall be used to void the policy or to deny a claim for loss incurred or disability (as defined in the policy) commencing after the expiration of such three-year period."

(The foregoing policy provision shall not be so construed as to affect any legal requirement for avoidance of a policy or denial of a claim during such initial three-year period, nor to limit the application of subsection 3 (b), (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) in the event of misstatement with respect to age or occupation or other insurance.)

A policy which the insured has the right to continue in force subject to its terms by the timely payment of premium (1) until at least age 50 or, (2) in the case of a policy issued after age 44, for at least five years from its date of issue, may contain in lieu of the foregoing the following provision (from which the clause in parentheses may be omitted at the insurer's option) under the caption "INCONTESTABLE."

"After this policy has been in force for a period of three years during the lifetime of the insured (excluding any period during which the insured is disabled), it shall become incontestable as to the statements contained in the application."

"(bb) No claim for loss incurred or disability (as defined in the policy) commencing after three years from the date of issue of this policy shall be reduced or denied on the ground that a disease or physical condition not excluded from coverage by name or specific description effective on the date of loss had existed prior to the effective date of coverage of this policy."

(3) A provision as follows:

"GRACE PERIOD: A grace period of _____ (insert a number not less than '7' for weekly premium policies, '10' for monthly premium policies, and '31' for all other policies) days will be granted for the payment of each premium falling due after the first premium, during which grace period the policy shall continue in force."

A policy which contains a cancellation provision may add, at the end of the above provision, "subject to the right of the insurer to cancel in accordance with the cancellation provision hereof".

A policy in which the insurer reserves the right to refuse any renewal shall have, at the beginning of the above provision,

"Unless not less than five days prior to the premium due date the insurer has delivered to the insured or has mailed to his last address as shown by the records of the insurer written notice of its intention not to renew this policy beyond the period for which the premium has been accepted,".

(4) A provision as follows:

"REINSTATEMENT: If any renewal premium be not paid within the time granted the insured for payment, a subsequent acceptance of premium by the insurer or by any agent duly authorized by the insurer to accept such premium, without requiring in connection therewith an application for reinstatement."

ment, shall reinstate the policy; provided, however, that if the insurer or such agent requires an application for reinstatement and issues a conditional receipt for the premium tendered, the policy will be reinstated upon approval of such application by the insurer, or, lacking such approval, upon the forty-fifth day following the date of such conditional receipt unless the insurer has previously notified the insured in writing of its disapproval of such application. The reinstated policy shall cover only loss resulting from such accidental injury as may be sustained after the date of reinstatement and loss due to such sickness as may begin more than ten days after such date. In all other respects the insured and insurer shall have the same rights thereunder as they had under the policy immediately before the due date of the defaulted premium, subject to any provisions endorsed hereon or attached hereto in connection with the reinstatement. Any premium accepted in connection with a reinstatement shall be applied to a period for which premium has not been previously paid, but not to any period more than sixty days prior to the date of reinstatement."

(The last sentence of the above provision may be omitted from any policy which the insured has the right to continue in force subject to its terms by the timely payment of premiums (1) until at least age 50 or, (2) in the case of a policy issued after age 44, for at least five years from its date of issue.)

(5) A provision as follows:

"NOTICE OF CLAIM: Written notice of claim must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the occurrence or commencement of any loss covered by the policy, or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible. Notice given by or on behalf of the insured or the beneficiary to the insurer at _____ (insert the location of such office as the insurer may designate for the purpose), or to any authorized agent of the insurer, with information sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed notice to the insurer."

In a policy providing a loss-of-time benefit which may be payable for at least two years, an insurer may at its option insert the following between the first and second sentences of the above provision:

"Subject to the qualifications set forth below, if the insured suffers loss of time on account of disability for which indemnity may be payable for at least two years, he shall, at least once in every six months after having given notice of claim, give to the insurer notice of continuance of said disability, except in the event of legal incapacity. The period of six months following any filing of proof by the insured or any payment by the insurer on account of such claim or any denial of liability in whole or in part by the insurer shall be excluded in applying this provision. Delay in the giving of such notice shall not impair the insured's right to any indemnity which would otherwise have accrued during the period of six months preceding the date on which such notice is actually given."

(6) A provision as follows:

"CLAIM FORMS: The insurer, upon receipt of a notice of claim, will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss. If such forms are not furnished within fifteen days after the giving of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting, within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, the character and the extent of the loss for which claim is made."

(7) A provision as follows:

"PROOFS OF LOSS: Written proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office in case of claim for loss for which this policy provides any periodic payment contingent upon continuing loss within ninety days after the termination of the period for which the insurer is liable and in case of claim for any other loss within ninety days after the date of such loss. Failure to furnish such proof within the time required shall not invalidate nor reduce any claim if it was not reasonably possible to give proof within such time, provided such proof is furnished as soon as reasonably possible and in no event, except in the absence of legal capacity, later than one year from the time proof is otherwise required."

(8) A provision as follows:

"TIME OF PAYMENT OF CLAIMS: Indemnities payable under this policy for any loss other than loss for which this policy provides any periodic payment will be paid immediately upon receipt of due written proof of such loss. Subject to due written proof of loss, all accrued indemnities for loss for which this policy provides periodic payment will be paid _____ (insert period for payment which must not be less frequently than monthly) and any balance remaining unpaid upon the termination of liability will be paid immediately upon receipt of due written proof."

(9) A provision as follows:

"PAYMENT OF CLAIMS: Indemnity for loss of life will be payable in accordance with the beneficiary designation and the provisions respecting such payment which may be prescribed herein and effective at the time of payment. If no such designation or provision is then effective, such indemnity shall be payable to the estate of the insured. Any other accrued indemnities unpaid at the insured's death may, at the option of the insurer, be paid either to such beneficiary or to such estate. All other indemnities will be payable to the insured."

The following provisions, or either of them, may be included with the foregoing provision at the option of the insurer:

"If any indemnity of this policy shall be payable to the estate of the insured, or to an insured or beneficiary who is a minor or otherwise not competent to give a valid release, the insurer may pay such indemnity up to an amount not exceeding $_____ (insert an amount which shall not exceed $1,000), to any relative by blood or connection by marriage of the insured or beneficiary who is deemed by the insurer to be equitably entitled thereto. Any payment made by the insurer in good faith pursuant to this provision shall fully discharge the insurer to the extent of such payment."

"Subject to any written direction of the insured in the application or otherwise all or a portion of any indemnities provided by this policy on account of hospital, nursing, medical, or surgical services may, at the insurer's option and unless the insured requests otherwise in writing not later than the time of filing proofs of such loss, be paid directly to the hospital or person rendering such services; but it is not required that the service be rendered by a particular hospital or person."

(10) A provision as follows:

"PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS AND AUTOPSY: The insurer at its own expense shall have the right and opportunity to examine the person of the insured when and as often as it may reasonably require during the pendency of a claim hereunder and to make an autopsy in case of death where it is not forbidden by law."

(11) A provision as follows:

"LEGAL ACTIONS: No action at law or in equity shall be brought to recover on this policy prior to the expiration of sixty days after written proof of loss has been furnished in accordance with the requirements of this policy. No such action shall be brought after the expiration of three years after the time written proof of loss is required to be furnished."

(12) A provision as follows:

"CHANGE OF BENEFICIARY: Unless the insured makes an irrevocable designation of beneficiary, the right to change of beneficiary is reserved to the insured and the consent of the beneficiary or beneficiaries shall not be requisite to surrender or assignment of this policy or to any change of beneficiary or beneficiaries, or to any other changes in this policy."

(The first clause of this provision, relating to the irrevocable designation of beneficiary, may be omitted at the insurer's option.)

(b) Other provisions: Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection, no such policy delivered or issued for delivery to any person in the District shall contain provisions respecting the matters set forth below unless such provisions are in the words in which the same appear in this paragraph: Provided, however, That the insurer may, at its option, use in lieu of any such provision a corresponding provision of different wording approved by the Superintendent which is not less favorable in any respect to the insured or the beneficiary. Any such provision contained in the policy shall be preceded individually by the appropriate caption appearing in this paragraph or, at the option of the insurer, by such appropriate individual or group captions or subcaptions as the Superintendent may approve.

(1) A provision as follows:

"CHANGE OF OCCUPATION: If the insured be injured or contract sickness after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in this policy or while doing for compensation anything pertaining to an occupation so classified, the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in this policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rates and within the limits fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation. If the insured changes his occupation to one classified by the insurer as less hazardous than that stated in this policy, the insurer, upon receipt of proof of such change of occupation, will reduce the premium rate accordingly, and will return the excess pro-rata unearned premium from the date of change of occupation or from the policy anniversary date immediately preceding receipt of such proof, whichever is the more recent. In applying this provision, the classification of occupational risk and the premium rates shall be such as have been last filed by the insurer prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable or prior to date of proof of change in occupation with the official having supervision of insurance in the jurisdiction where the insured resided at the time this policy was issued; but if such filing was not required, then the classification of occupational risk and the premium rates shall be those last made effective by the insurer in such jurisdiction prior to the occurrence of the loss or prior to the date of proof of change in occupation."

(2) A provision as follows:

"MISSTATEMENT OF AGE: If the age of the insured has been misstated, all amounts payable under this policy shall be such as the premium paid would have purchased at the correct age."

(3) A provision as follows:

"OTHER INSURANCE IN THIS INSURER: If an accident or sickness or accident and sickness policy or policies previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for ----- (insert type of coverage or coverages) in excess of $----- (insert maximum limit of indemnity or indemnities) the excess insurance shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured or to his estate."

or, in lieu thereof:

"Insurance effective at any one time on the insured under a like policy or policies in this insurer is limited to the one such policy elected by the insured, his beneficiary or his estate, as the case may be, and the insurer will return all premiums paid for all other such policies."

(4) A provision as follows:

"INSURANCE WITH OTHER INSURERS: If there be other valid coverage, not with this insurer, providing benefits for the same loss on a provision of service basis or on an expense incurred basis and of which this insurer has not been given written notice prior to the occurrence or commencement of loss, the only liability under any expense incurred coverage of this policy shall be for such proportion of the loss as the amount which would otherwise have been payable hereunder plus the total of the like amounts under all such other valid coverages for the same loss of which this insurer had notice bears to the total like amounts under all valid coverages for such loss, and for the return of such portion of the premiums paid as shall exceed the pro rata portion for the amount so determined. For the purpose of applying this provision when other coverage is on a provision of service basis, the 'like amount' of such other coverage shall be taken as the amount which the services rendered would have cost in the absence of such coverage."

(If the foregoing policy provision is included in a policy which also contains the next following policy provision there shall be added to the caption of the foregoing provision the phrase "—EXPENSE INCURRED BENEFITS." The insurer may, at its option, include in this provision a definition of "other valid coverage", approved as to form by the Superintendent, which definition shall be limited in subject matter to coverage provided by organizations subject to regulation by insurance law or by insurance authorities of this or any other jurisdiction of the United States or any province of Canada, and by hospital or medical service organizations, and to any other coverage the inclusion of which may be approved by the Superintendent. In the absence of such definition such term shall not include group insurance, automobile medical payments insurance, or coverage provided by hospital or medical service organizations or by union welfare plans or employer or employee benefit organizations. For the purpose of applying the foregoing policy provision with respect to any insured, any amount of benefit provided for such insured pursuant to any compulsory benefit statute (including any workmen's compensation or employer's liability statute) whether provided by a governmental agency or otherwise shall in all cases be deemed to be "other valid coverage" of which the insurer has had notice. In applying the foregoing policy provision no third party liability coverage shall be included as "other valid coverage".)

(5) A provision as follows:

"INSURANCE WITH OTHER INSURERS: If there be other valid coverage, not with this insurer, providing benefits for the same loss on other than an expense-incurred basis and of which this insurer has not been given written notice prior to the occurrence or commencement of loss, the only liability for such benefits under this policy shall be for such proportion of the indemnities otherwise provided hereunder for such loss as the like indemnities of which the insurer had notice (including the indemnities under this policy) bear to the total amount of all like indemnities for such loss, and for the return of such portion of the premium paid as shall exceed the pro-rata portion for the indemnities thus determined."

(If the foregoing policy provision is included in a policy which also contains the next preceding policy provision there shall be added to the caption of the foregoing provision the phrase "—OTHER BENEFITS." The insurer may, at its option, include in this provision a definition of "other valid coverage", approved as to form by the Superintendent, which definition shall be limited in subject matter to coverage provided by organizations subject to regulation by insurance law or by insurance authorities of this or any other jurisdiction of the United States or any province of Canada, and to any other coverage the inclusion of which may be approved by the Superintendent. In the absence of such definition such term shall not include group insurance, or benefits provided by union welfare plans or by employer or employee benefit organizations. For the purpose of applying the foregoing policy provision with respect to any insured, any amount of benefit provided for such insured pursuant to any compulsory benefit statute (including any workmen's compensation or employer's liability statute) whether provided by a governmental agency or otherwise shall in all cases be deemed to be "other valid coverage" of which the insurer has had notice. In applying the foregoing policy provision no third party liability coverage shall be included as "other valid coverage".)

(6) A provision as follows:

"RELATION OF EARNINGS TO INSURANCE: If the total monthly amount of loss-of-time benefits promised for the same loss under all valid loss-of-time coverage upon the insured, whether payable on a weekly or monthly basis, shall exceed the monthly earnings of the insured at the time disability commenced or his average monthly earnings for the period of two years immediately preceding a disability for which claim is made, whichever is the greater, the insurer will be liable only for such proportionate amount of such benefits under this policy as the amount of such monthly earnings or such average monthly earnings of the insured bears to the total amount of monthly benefits for the same loss under all such coverage upon the insured at the time such disability commences and for the return of such part of the premiums paid during such two years as shall exceed the pro rata amount of the premiums for the benefits actually paid hereunder; but this shall not operate to reduce the total monthly amount of benefits payable under all such coverage upon the insured below the sum of two hundred dollars or the sum of the monthly benefits specified in such coverages, whichever is the lesser, nor shall it operate to reduce benefits other than those payable for loss of time."

(The foregoing policy provision may be inserted only in a policy which the insured has the right to continue in force subject to its terms by the timely payment of premiums (1) until at least age 50 or, (2) in the case of a policy issued after age 44, for at least five years from its date of issue. The insurer may, at its option, include in this provision a definition of "valid loss-of-time coverage", approved as to form by the Superintendent, which definition shall be limited in subject matter to coverage provided by governmental agencies or by organizations subject to regulation by insurance law or by insurance authorities of this or any other jurisdiction of the United States or any province of Canada, or to any other coverage the inclusion of which may be approved by the Superintendent or any combination of such coverages. In the absence of such definition such term shall not include any coverage provided for such insured pursuant to any compulsory benefit statute (including any workmen's compensation or employer's liability statute), or benefits provided by union welfare plans or by employer or employee benefit organizations.)

(7) A provision as follows:

"UNPAID PREMIUM: Upon the payment of a claim under this policy, any premium then due and unpaid or covered by any note or written order may be deducted therefrom."

(8) A provision as follows:

"CANCELLATION: The insurer may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered to the insured, or mailed to his last address as shown by the records of the insurer, stating when, not less than five days thereafter, such cancellation shall be effective; and after the policy has been continued beyond its original term the insured may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered or mailed to the insurer, effective upon receipt or on such later date as may be specified in such notice. In the event of cancellation, the insurer will return promptly the unearned portion of any premium paid. If the insured cancels, the earned premium shall be computed by the use of the short-rate table last filed with the official having supervision of insurance in the jurisdiction where the insured resided when the policy was issued. If the insurer cancels, the earned premium shall be computed pro rata. Cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim originating prior to the effective date of cancellation."

(9) A provision as follows:

"CONFORMITY WITH STATE STATUTES: Any provision of this policy which, on its effective date, is in conflict with the statutes of the jurisdiction in which the insured resides on such date is hereby amended to conform to the minimum requirements of such statutes."

(10) A provision as follows:

"ILLEGAL OCCUPATION: The insurer shall not be liable for any loss to which a contributing cause was the insured's commission of or attempt to commit a felony or to which a contributing cause was the insured's being engaged in an illegal occupation."

(11) A provision as follows:

"INTOXICANTS AND NARCOTICS: The insurer shall not be liable for any loss sustained or contracted in consequence of the insured's being intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic unless administered on the advice of a physician."

(c) Inapplicable or inconsistent provisions: If any provision of this subsection is in whole or in part inapplicable to or inconsistent with the coverage provided by a particular form of policy the insurer, with the approval of the Superintendent, shall omit from such policy any inapplicable provision or part of a provision, and shall modify any inconsistent provision or part of the provision in such manner as to make the provision as contained in the policy consistent with the coverage provided by the policy.

(d) Order of certain policy provisions: The provisions which are the subject of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection, or any corresponding provisions which are used in lieu thereof in accordance with such paragraphs, shall be printed in the consecutive order of the provisions in such paragraphs or, at the option of the insurer, any such provision may appear as a unit in any part of the policy, with other provisions to which it may be logically related, provided the resulting policy shall not be in whole or in part unintelligible, uncertain, ambiguous, abstruse, or likely to mislead a person to whom the policy is offered, delivered, or issued.

(e) Third party ownership: The word "insured", as used in this section, shall not be construed as preventing a person other than the insured with a proper insurable interest from making application for and owning a policy covering the insured or from being entitled under such a policy to any indemnities, benefits, and rights provided therein.

(f) Filing procedure: The Superintendent may make such reasonable rules and regulations concerning the procedure for the filing or submission of policies subject to this section as are necessary, proper or advisable to the administration of this section. This provision shall not abridge any other authority granted the Superintendent by law.

4. Conforming to Statute

(a) Other policy provisions: No policy provision which is not subject to subsection (3) of this section shall make a policy, or any portion thereof, less favorable in any respect to the insured or the beneficiary than the provisions thereof which are subject to this section.

(b) Policy conflicting with this section: A policy delivered or issued for delivery to any person in the District in violation of this section shall be held valid but shall be construed as provided in this section. When any provision in a policy subject to this section is in conflict with any provision of this section, the rights, duties, and obligations of the insurer, the insured, and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this section.

5. Application

(a) The insured shall not be bound by any statement made in an application for a policy unless a copy of such application is attached to or endorsed on the policy when issued as a part thereof. If any such policy delivered or issued for delivery to any person in the District shall be reinstated or renewed, and the insured or the beneficiary or assignee of such policy shall make written request to the insurer for a copy of the application, if any, for such reinstatement or renewal, the insurer shall within fifteen days after the receipt of such request at its home office or any branch office of the insurer, deliver or mail to the person making such request, a copy of such application. If such copy shall not be so delivered or mailed, the insurer shall be precluded from introducing such application as evidence in any action or proceeding based upon or involving such policy or its reinstatement or renewal.

(b) No alteration of any written application for any such policy shall be made by any person other than the applicant without his written consent, except that insertions may be made by the insurer, for administrative purposes only, in such manner as to indicate clearly that such insertions are not to be ascribed to the applicant.

(c) The falsity of any statement in the application for any policy covered by this section may not bar the right to recovery thereunder unless such false statement materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the insurer.

6. Notice; Waiver

The acknowledgment by any insurer of the receipt of notice given under any policy covered by this section, or the furnishing of forms for filing proofs of loss, or the acceptance of such proofs, or the investigation of any claim thereunder shall not operate as a waiver of any of the rights of the insurer in defense of any claim arising under such policy.

7. Age Limit

If any such policy contains a provision establishing, as an age limit or otherwise, a date after which the coverage provided by the policy will not be effective, and if such date falls within a period for which premium is accepted by the insurer or if the insurer accepts a premium after such date, the coverage provided by the policy will continue in force subject to any right of cancellation until the end of the period for which premium has been accepted. In the event the age of the insured has been misstated and if, according to the correct age of the insured, the coverage provided by the policy would not have become effective, or would have ceased prior to the acceptance of such premium or premiums, then the liability of the insurer shall be limited to the refund, upon request, of all premiums paid for the period not covered by the policy.

8. Nonapplication to Certain Policies

Nothing in this section shall apply to or affect (1) any policy of group accident, group health, or group accident and health insurance; or (2) life insurance, endowment or annuity contracts, or contracts supplemental thereto which contain only such provisions relating to accident and sickness insurance as (a) provide additional benefits in case of death or dismemberment or loss of sight by accident, or as (b) operate to safeguard such contracts against lapse, or to give a special surrender value or special benefit or an annuity in the event that the insured or annuitant shall become totally and permanently disabled, as defined by the contract or supplemental contract: Provided, That no such supplemental contract shall be issued or delivered to any person in the District unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been submitted to and approved by the Superintendent under such reasonable rules and regulations as he shall make concerning the provisions in such contracts and their submission to and approval by him. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1166, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 12; July 12, 1950, 64 Stat. 335, ch. 457, § 3; July 16, 1953, 67 Stat. 162, ch. 196, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Burden of proof 1
Domestic and foreign corporations 2
Intention to deceive 3

1. Burden of proof

Insurer had burden of proving that right to recovery on hospitalization policy was barred by insured's failure to state in application inquiring as to past medical or surgical treatment that insured's cervix had been cauterized, and such burden could be carried by evidence deduced from insured's own witnesses. Turner v. National Hospitalization (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 274).

2. Domestic and foreign corporations.

Subsection (f) of this section providing that falsity of any statement in application for accident and health policy shall not bar right of recovery thereunder unless made with intent to deceive, or unless materially affecting acceptance of risk or hazard assumed by insurer, was applicable to insurance company issuing hospitalization policy and chartered in District of Columbia and authorized to do business in District, and to Maryland company assuming policy with consent of insured, where insured continued to live in District and claim arose in District. Turner v. National Hospitalization (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 274).

3. Intention to deceive

An insured's failure to state, in hospitalization policy application inquiring as to past medical or surgical treatment, that her cervix had been cauterized, precluded recovery of hospitalization benefits under policy, where failure to disclose such fact was intended to deceive and materially affected acceptance of risk. Turner v. National Hospitalization (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 274).

§ 35-713. Stock operations and advisory board contracts prohibited.

No life company doing business in the District shall issue in the District, nor permit its general agents, agents, officers, solicitors, or employees to issue or deliver in the District, agency company stock or other capital stock, or benefit certificates or shares in any common-law corporation, or securities or any special or advisory board or other contracts of any kind promising returns and profits as an inducement to insure; and no life company shall be authorized to do business in the District which issues or permits its general agents, agents, officers, solicitors, or employees to issue in the District or in any state or territory agency company stock or other capital stock, or benefit certificates or shares in any common-law corporations, or securities or any special advisory board or other contracts of any kind promising returns and profits as an inducement to insurance; and no corporation or stock company acting as agent of a life company nor any of its general agents, agents, officers, solicitors, or employees shall be permitted to sell, agree, or offer to sell, or give or offer to give, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatsoever, any share of stock, securities, bonds, or agreement of any form or nature promising returns and profits as an inducement to insurance or in connection therewith. It shall be the duty of the superintendent, upon due proof after notice and hearing that any such company or agent thereof has violated any of the provisions of this section, to revoke the authority of the company or agent so offending: Provided, however, That the action of the superintendent in this regard shall be subject to appeal and review in the form and manner prescribed in section 35-427. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1173, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 13.)

§ 35-714. Misrepresentations prohibited.

No life company doing business in the District, and no officer, director, general agent, agent, or solicitor thereof, broker, or any other person shall make, issue, or circulate, or cause to be issued or circulated, any estimate, illustration, circular, or statement of any sort misrepresenting the terms of any policy issued or to be issued by it or the benefits or advantages promised thereby, or the dividends or shares of the surplus to be received thereon, or shall use any name or title of any policy or class of policies misrepresenting the true nature thereof. Nor shall any such corporation or officer, director, general agent, agent, or solicitor thereof, broker or any other person, firm, association, or corporation make any misrepresentation to any person insured in any company for the purpose of inducing or tending to induce a policyholder in any company to lapse, forfeit, or surrender his insurance. It shall be the duty of the superintendent, upon due proof after notice and hearing that any such company or agent thereof has violated any of the provisions of this section, to revoke the authority of the company or agent so offending: Provided, however, That the action of the superintendent in this regard shall be subject to appeal and review in the form and manner prescribed in section 35-427. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1174, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 14.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 35-715. Discriminations prohibited.

No life insurance corporation doing business in the District shall make or permit any discriminations between individuals of the same class or of equal expectation of life, in the amount of payment or return of premiums or rates charged for policies of insurance, including endowment policies and annuity contracts, or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any of the terms or conditions of the policy; nor shall any such company permit or agent thereof offer to make any contract of insurance, endowment policy, or annuity contract, or agreement as to such contracts other than as plainly expressed in the policy issued thereon, nor shall any such company or officer, agent, solicitor, or representative thereof pay, allow, or give, or offer to pay, allow, or give, directly or indirectly, as inducement to any person to insure, or give, sell, or purchase, or offer to give, sell, or purchase as such inducement or in connection with such insurance, endowment policy, or annuity contract, any stocks, bonds, or other securities of any insurance company or other corporation, association, or partnership, or any dividends or profit accruing thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever not specified in the policy, nor shall any person knowingly receive any such inducement, any rebate of premium, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits to accrue thereon, or any paid employment or contract for services of any kind or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever, not specified in the policy. No person shall be excused from attending and testifying and producing any books, papers, or other documents before any court or magistrate, upon any investigation, proceeding, or trial for a violation of any of the provisions of this section, upon the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to convict him of a crime or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may so testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, and no testimony so given or produced shall be received against him upon any criminal investigation or proceeding. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to forbid a company, transacting industrial life insurance, from returning to policyholders, who have made premium payments for a period of at least one year, directly to the company at its home or distant offices, a percentage of such a premium which the company would have paid for the collection thereof. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1174, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 15.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Splitting commissions

An insurance broker was not prohibited from splitting commissions with insurance solicitor where arrangement was otherwise valid. Werber v. Wallop (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 110).

This section prohibiting discrimination, rebates, kickbacks, or other improper manipulating of premiums, did not invalidate agreement between insured and broker that broker would pay half of commissions on issuance of life policies, to insurance solicitor who had handled practically all of insured's insurance business. Id.

§ 35-716. Rights of creditors and beneficiaries under policies of life insurance.

When a policy of insurance, whether heretofore or hereafter issued, is effected by any person on his own life or on another life in favor of some person other than himself having an insurable interest therein, or, except in cases of transfer with intent to defraud creditors, if a policy of life insurance is assigned or in any way made payable to any such person, the lawful beneficiary or assignee thereof, other than the insured or the person so effecting such insurance or executors or administrators of such insured or the person so effecting such insurance, shall be entitled to its proceeds and avails against the creditors and representatives of the insured and of the person effecting such insurance whether or not the right to change the beneficiary is reserved or permitted and whether or not the policy is made payable to the person whose life is insured, if the beneficiary or assignee shall predecease such person: Provided, That subject to the statute of limitations the amount of any premiums for said insurance paid with intent to defraud creditors, with interest thereon, shall inure to their benefit from the proceeds of the policy, but the company issuing the policy shall be discharged of all liability thereon by payment of its proceeds in accordance with its terms, unless before such payment the company shall have written notice by or in behalf of a creditor of a claim to recover for transfer made or premiums paid with intent to defraud creditors with specifications of the amount claimed. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1175, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 16; Aug. 1, 1947, 61 Stat. 711, ch. 427.)

1947—Act Aug. 1, 1947, substituted "executors or administrators of such insured or the person so effecting such insurance" for "his executors or administrators".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Beneficiary, rights of 1
 Impairment of contract 2
 Representatives of Deceased beneficiary 3
 Insured 4

1. Beneficiary, rights of

Under this section providing that the lawful beneficiary other than insured or person effecting insurance or "his" executors or administrators shall be entitled to its proceeds against creditors and representatives of insured the word "beneficiary" is an antecedent of the word "his" and this section means that lawful beneficiary or his executors or administrators shall be entitled to the proceeds against creditors and representatives of insured. Kindleberger v. Lincoln Nat. Bank of Wash. (1946, 155 F. 2d 281, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 101, 167 A.L.R. 1011, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 495, 329 U.S. 803, 91 L. Ed. 686).

2. Impairment of contract

Where this section was expressly made applicable to policies previously issued, this section was controlling over contrary provision of policy issued before enactment of this section and such application of this section did not impair obligation of contract embodied in the policy. Kindleberger v. Lincoln Natl. Bank of Wash. (1946, 155 F. 2d 281, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 101, 167 A.L.R. 1011, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 495, 329 U.S. 803, 91 L. Ed. 686).

3. Representatives of deceased beneficiary

Under this section, proceeds of life policy were payable to estate of beneficiary who predeceased insured, notwithstanding insured reserved right to change beneficiary and policy, issued before enactment of this section, provided that interest of beneficiary should vest in insured in event of beneficiary's death before insured. Kindleberger v. Lincoln Nat. Bank of Wash. (1946, 155 F. 2d 281, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 101, 167 A.L.R. 1011, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 495, 329 U.S. 803, 91 L. Ed. 686).

Where insured reserves right to change beneficiary of life policy, interest of beneficiary may be defeated by insured by expedient of changing beneficiary; but in absence of change, when policy has matured because of insured's death, claim of beneficiary to proceeds cannot be defeated and, if beneficiary has not survived, beneficiary's executors or administrators are entitled under this section to the proceeds against creditors and representatives of insured. Id.

4. Representatives of insured

Where life policy provided that proceeds thereof were to be paid to insured's wife, "if living; otherwise to his executors, administrators or assigns", and insured died 15 months after his wife's death without having changed beneficiary clause, insured's executors, rather than wife's administrators, were entitled to proceeds of policy notwithstanding this section providing that beneficiary's representatives shall be entitled to proceeds of a life policy as against insured's representatives, and though application for policy did not contain the quoted words appearing in policy. Horning v. Lindsay (1948, 169 F. 2d 963).

§ 35-717. Exemption of disability insurance from execution.

No money or other benefit paid, provided, allowed, or agreed to be paid by any company on account of the disability from injury or sickness of any insured person shall be liable to execution, attachment, garnishment, or other process, or to be seized, taken, appropriated or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law, to pay any debt or liability of such insured person whether such debt or liability was incurred before or after the commencement of such disability, but the provisions of this section shall not affect the assignability of any such disability benefit otherwise assignable, nor shall this section apply to any money income disability benefit in an action to recover for necessities contained in this section apply to any money income disability covered by the disability clause or contract allowing such money income benefit. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1175, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 16a.)

Allimony 1
 Disposition of insurance 2
 Reason for law 3

1. Allimony

Liability for allimony and support payments to divorced wife is not a "debt or liability" within the meaning of this exemption. Schlaefter v. Schlaefter (1940, 112 F. 2d 177, 71 App. D.C. 350).

Payments of disability insurance are not exempt from liability for allimony and for support of divorced wife. Id.

2. Disposition of insurance

So far as general creditors are concerned, the purpose of this provision is clear, with the exceptions stated, to make disposition of these funds a matter solely for the insured's judgement. Schlaefter v. Schlaefter (1940, 112 F. 2d 177, 71 App. D.C. 350).

3. Reason for law

Congress regarded it better for creditors to go unpaid than to deprive the debtor and his dependents of this means of support when earning capacity would be cut off. Schlaefter v. Schlaefter (1940, 112 F. 2d 177, 71 App. D.C. 350).

§ 35-718. Exemption of group life insurance policies from execution.

No policy of group life insurance, nor the proceeds thereof when paid to any employee or employees thereunder, shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, or to be seized, taken, appropriated, or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law, to pay any debt or liability of such employee, or his beneficiary, or any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment; nor shall the proceeds thereof, when not made payable to a named beneficiary, constitute a part of the estate of the employee for the payment of his debts. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1176, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 17.)

§ 35-719. False statements—Misdemeanor.

Any agent, broker, examining physician, or other person who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for life insurance, or who shall make any such statement for the purpose of obtaining any fee, commission, money, or benefit from or in any company transacting business under chapters 3-8 of this title shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1176, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 18.)

§ 35-720. Proceeds of certain policies to be held in trust by life company.

Any life company licensed under the laws of the District shall have power to hold the proceeds of any policy issued by it under a trust or other agreement upon such terms and restrictions as to revocation by the policyholder and control by beneficiaries and with such exemptions from the claims of creditors or beneficiaries other than the policyholder as shall have been agreed to in writing by such company and the policyholder. Such insurance company shall not be required to segregate funds so held, but may hold them as a part of its general corporate assets. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1176, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 19.)

§ 35-721. When actual premium for life policy is less than net premium.

When the actual premium charged for an insurance policy by any company is less than the net premium on the basis adopted by the company for the valuation of such policy under section 35-701, such company shall be charged as a separate liability with a deficiency reserve equal to the total present value of the future deficiencies in the actual premium calculated according to the table of mortality and rate of interest employed by the company for the valuation of such policy. (June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1176, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 20.)

§ 35-722. Acceptance of premiums in arrears and recording of payments.

No industrial insurance company or agent thereof shall accept any money in payment of premiums which are in arrears on any industrial life or industrial sick benefit insurance policy which has lapsed and which the insured seeks to reinstate, unless such payment shall amount at least to the total of all premiums in arrears or unless such payment shall, under the regulations of the company, make the policy immediately eligible for reinstatement, subject only to evidence of insurability.

Every current premium shall be correctly recorded by the agent or by the company in the premium receipt book of the insured at the time the premium is paid.

Every advance premium paid by an industrial life or industrial sick-benefit policyholder shall be recorded in the receipt book of the insured in exactly the same manner as current premiums are recorded, and accurate entry thereof shall be made in the record book of the agent: Provided, however, That failure so to do shall not invalidate the policy. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 21, as added May 4, 1950, 64 Stat. 104, ch. 157, § 7.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective ninety days after May 4, 1950, see section 8 of act May 4, 1950, set out as a note under section 35-405.

§ 35-723. Standard provisions required in industrial life insurance policies.

No policy of industrial life insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery in the District unless it contains in substance the following provisions, or provisions which in the opinion of the Superintendent are more favorable to the policyholders:

(1) A provision that all premiums after the first shall be payable in advance, either at the home office of the company or to an agent of the company.

(2) A provision that the insured is entitled to a grace period of at least twenty-eight days within which the payment of any premiums after the first may be made, and during which period of grace the policy shall continue in full force, but in case the policy becomes a claim during the said period of grace before the overdue premium is paid, the amount of such premium may be deducted from any amount payable under the policy in settlement.

(3) A provision that, except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the policy shall constitute the entire contract between the parties and shall be incontestable after it has been in force during the lifetime of the insured for a period of not more than two years from its date, except for nonpayment of premiums and except for violations of the conditions of the policy relating to naval or military service in time of war, and, at the option of the company, provisions relative to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and provisions which grant additional insurance specifically against death by accident may also be excepted; if a copy of the application be attached to the policy, a provision that all statements made by the insured shall in the absence of fraud, be deemed representations and not warranties, and that no such statement or statements shall be used in defense of a claim under the policy unless contained in the attached written application.

(4) A provision that if it shall be found at any time before final settlement under the policy that the age of the insured (or the age of any other person considered in determining the premium) has been misstated, the amount payable under the policy shall be such as the premium would have purchased at the correct age, according to the company's rate at date of issue.

(5) If the policy is a participating policy, a provision indicating the conditions under which the company shall periodically ascertain and apportion any divisible surplus accruing to the policy.

(6) A provision for nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values in accordance with the requirements of section 35-705a or section 35-705b.

(7) A provision specifying the options, if any, to which the policyholder is entitled in the event of default in a premium payment.

(8) A provision that if in event of default in premium payments the value of the policy shall have been applied to the purchase of other insurance as provided for in this section, and if such insurance shall be in force and the original policy shall not have been surrendered to the company and canceled, the policy may be reinstated within two years from such default, upon evidence of insurability satisfactory to the company and payment of arrears of premiums and the payment or reinstatement of any other indebtedness to the company upon said policy, with interest on said premium and indebtedness at the rate of not exceeding 6 per centum per annum payable annually.

(9) A provision that when a policy shall become a claim by the death of the insured settlement shall be made upon receipt of due proof of death.

(10) Title on the face and on the back of the policy briefly describing its form.

Any of the foregoing provisions or portions thereof not applicable to single premium or nonparticipating or term policies shall, to that extent, not be incorporated therein; and any such policy may be issued or delivered in the District which in the opinion of the Superintendent contains provisions on any one or more of the several foregoing requirements more favorable to the policyholder than hereinbefore required. The provisions of this section shall not apply to policies issued or granted in exchange for lapsed or surrendered policies. Nothing contained in subsection (3) hereof shall apply to applications for reinstatement. A reinstated policy shall be contestable on account of fraud or misrepresentation of material facts pertaining to the reinstatement, for the same period after reinstatement as provided in the policy with respect to the original issue. (June 19, 1934, ch. 672, Ch. V, § 22, as added May 4, 1950, 64 Stat. 104, ch. 157, § 7.)

§ 35-724. Provisions prohibited in industrial life insurance policies.

No policy of industrial life insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery, in the District, if it contains any of the following provisions:

(1) A provision limiting the time within which any action at law or in equity may be commenced to less than three years after the cause of action shall accrue.

(2) Except for provisions relating to misstatement of age, suicide, aviation, and military or naval service in time of war, a provision for any mode of settlement at maturity, after the expiration of the contestable period of the policy of less value than the amount insured on the face of the policy plus dividend additions, if any, less any indebtedness to the company on or secured by the policy, and less any premium that may, by the terms of the policy, be deducted. This paragraph shall not apply to any nonforfeiture provision.

(3) A provision for forfeiture of the policy for failure to repay any loan on the policy, or to pay interest on such loan, while the total indebtedness on the policy, including interest, is less than the loan value thereof.

(4) A provision to the effect that the agent soliciting the insurance is the agent of the person insured under said policy, or making the acts or representations of such agent binding upon the person so insured under said policy.

(5) A provision permitting the payment of funeral benefits in merchandise or services, or permitting the payment of any benefits other than in lawful money of the United States.

(6) A provision whereby the benefits or any part thereof accruing under such policy upon the death of a person insured may be paid to any designated undertaker or undertaking firm or corporation or to any person or persons engaged in or connected with such business, without the written consent of the person or persons to whom such benefits would otherwise be paid, or so as in any way to deprive the personal representative or family of the deceased of the advantages of competition in procuring and purchasing supplies and services in connection with the burial of the person insured.

(7) A provision that the liability of the company by reason of the insured's death shall be limited to less than the face amount of the policy if the death of the insured results from a specified kind or character of disease. A fraternal beneficial association is hereby declared to be a corporation, society, order, or voluntary association, formed or organized and carried on for the sole benefit of its members and their beneficiaries, and not for profit, having a lodge system with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government, making provision for the payment of benefits in case of death. Each such association may make provision for the payment of benefits in case of sickness, temporary or permanent physical disability, either as a result of disease, accident, or old age: Provided, That the period in life at which physical disability benefits on account of old age commences shall not be under seventy years, or the age of expectancy from the time of entering, subject to their compliance with its laws. Any such association may create and maintain a reserve, emergency, or benefit fund in accordance with its laws. Any such association having a reserve, emergency, or benefit fund may, in addition to the benefits hereinbefore named, pay withdrawal benefits, not exceeding the contributions of such member, to a member unable or unwilling to continue membership, provided such membership shall continue not less than three successive years. Such association may also, after ten years of membership, apply its funds and accumulations as its laws provide or the association and members agree. The fund from which the payments of such benefits shall be made and the fund from which the expenses of such association shall be defrayed shall be derived from assessments, dues, and other payments collected from its members or otherwise. The payment of death benefits shall be to the families, heirs, blood relatives, affianced husband, affianced wife, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, stepchildren, stepbrother, stepsister, children or parents by legal adoption, member's estate, a charitable, benevolent, educational, or eleemosynary institution, or to persons dependent upon the member or upon whom the member is dependent. Such association shall be governed by sections 35-901 to 35-917, and shall be exempt from the provisions of insurance laws of the United States relating to the District of Columbia, and no law hereafter passed shall apply to them unless they be expressly designated therein: Provided, however, That the fact that any such association has outstanding agreements with its members for the payment of benefits other than those herein specified, if it is making no new contracts of that character and is retiring those already existing, shall not exclude such association from the operation of sections 35-901 to 35-917. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1310, ch. 854, § 749; Dec. 20, 1928, 45 Stat. 1055, ch. 40, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Amendment of charter or constitution 1

Beneficiaries 2

By-laws 3

Payment of dues 4

Reinstatement 5

1. Amendment of charter or constitution

The amendment of the charter of a fraternal benefit association, which originally had been a joint-stock company, from depriving certificate holders of the right formerly had of designating beneficiaries, will not affect existing insurance contracts in the absence of anything in the charter showing that it was intended to have a retrospective effect. Brown v. Grand Fountain (28 App. D. C. 200).

A committee appointed by a fraternal beneficial association to revise the laws and constitution does not have authority to originate and propose methods without the notice as required for amendments generally, as to abolition of both constitution and laws. National Council Junior Order United American Mechanics v. State Council (27 App. D. C. 1).

2. Beneficiaries

This section permitted as beneficiaries only families, heirs, blood relatives, affianced husband, affianced wife, or dependents. Certificate in favor of woman who had been living with the insured, knowing that he had a legal wife living, was void. Electrical Workers Ben. Assn. v. Brown (1928, 26 F. 2d 981, 58 App. D.C. 203).

Police Relief Association could not authorize payment of benefit certificates to persons other than those designated by this section as eligible beneficiaries. Simpkins v. McDermott (1939, 81 F. 2d 257, 65 App. D.C. 123, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 592, 297 U.S. 715, 80 L. Ed. 1001).

3. By-laws

When by-laws of fraternal beneficial association imposes upon the officers of local councils the duty of receiving and transmitting all assessments and dues to the central committee, a provision in such by-laws that the officers of each local council shall be agents solely of such council and its members, is not consistent with duty and agency imposed by central governing body, and it cannot defeat claim upon certificate of insurance issued by the association. Prudent Patricians of Pompeii v. Marr (20 App. D. C. 363).

4. Payment of dues

Courts will ordinarily not concern themselves with questions of the good standing of members of such organizations, but when good standing depends solely on payment of dues the civil courts will not hesitate to take cognizance. Prudent Patricians of Pompeii v. Marr (20 App. D. C. 363). See, also, Berkley v. Harper (3 App. D. C. 308); Moss v. Littleton (6 App. D. C. 201); Drum V. Benton (13 App. D. C. 245).

5. Reinstatement

Right of reinstatement is personal to the member of a fraternal beneficial association, and it does not survive to the personal representatives or beneficiaries, and if member dies within specified 30 days as stipulated in by-laws, there can be no recovery. Supreme Commandery of United Order of Golden Cross v. Bernard (26 App. D. C. 169, 6 Ann. Cas. 694).

§ 35-902. Existing associations.

All such associations coming within the description as set forth in section 35-901, organized under the laws of the United States relating to said District, or of any state, county, province, or territory, and doing business in said District on January 1, 1902, may continue such business: Provided, That they comply with the provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917 regulating annual reports and the designation of the Superintendent of Insurance of said District, provided for in section 35-101 et seq., as the person upon whom process may be served as hereinafter provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1310, ch. 854, § 750.)

§ 35-903. Nonresident associations—Conditions precedent to doing business in District—Right of superintendent to examine.

Any such association coming within the description as set forth in section 35-901, organized under the laws of any state, country, province, or territory, and not doing business in said District on January 1, 1902, shall be admitted to do business within said District when it shall have filed with the Superintendent of Insurance a duly certified copy of its charter and articles of association and a copy of its by-laws certified to by its secretary or corresponding officer, together with an appointment of the said superintendent as the person upon whom process may be served as hereinafter provided: Provided, That such association shall be shown to be authorized to do business in the state, country, province, or territory in which it is incorporated or organized, in case the laws of such state, country, province, or territory shall provide for such authorization; and in case the laws of such state, country, province, or territory do not provide for any formal authorization to do business on the part of any such association, then such association shall be shown to be conducting its business in accordance with the provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917; for which purpose the said superintendent may personally, or by some person to be designated by him, examine into the condition, affairs, character, and business methods, accounts, books, and investments of such association at its home office, which examination shall be at the expense of such association and shall be made within thirty days after demand therefor, and the expense of such examination shall be limited to fifty dollars. Any association doing business under the provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917 shall be permitted to do business upon filing annually with the Superintendent of Insurance the certificate of authority of the insurance department of the state, province, or territory in which it is incorporated or organized: Provided, however, That in case of failure to file said certificate by any such association, or in case the Superintendent of Insurance shall deem it necessary, he shall have power, either personally or by some person designated by him, to examine into the condition, affairs, character, business methods, accounts, books, and investments of such association, at its home office, which examination shall be at the expense of the association. The amount of such expense shall not exceed one hundred dollars for associations which have no reserve or emergency fund and two hundred dollars for associations with a reserve or emergency fund. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1310, ch. 854, § 751.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Estoppel as affecting issue 1
Mandatory injunction to compel issue 2

1. Estoppel as affecting issue

A corporation which did not question finding that it was not qualified under this chapter to do insurance business as a fraternal beneficial association had no "legal right" to a license and could not invoke an estoppel to obtain a license forbidden by statute. National Hospital Service Soc. v. Jordan (1942, 128 F. 2d 460, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 23, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 65, 317 U. S. 664, 87 L. Ed. 534).

2. Mandatory injunction to compel issue

Plaintiff was not entitled to a mandatory injunction requiring superintendent of insurance to renew its permit to do insurance business as a fraternal beneficial association, even though it was not qualified under this chapter, on ground that persons in control of plaintiff had acted in reliance on expired permits which were issued by superintendent's predecessors in office and that superintendent was "estopped" from refusing to renew permit. National Hospital Service Soc. v. Jordan (1942, 128 F. 2d 460, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 23, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 65, 317 U. S. 664, 87 L. Ed. 534).

§ 35-907. Organization—Procedure—Certificate of declaration—Recording—Corporate powers—Trustees, directors, or managers—Election—Quorum.

Any nine or more persons, at least one-third of whom shall be residents of the District of Columbia, being desirous of forming a fraternal beneficial association for the purposes set forth in section 35-901 may associate themselves together and effect such organization as hereinafter prescribed, and not otherwise. Such persons shall make, sign, and acknowledge before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds in this District and file in the office of the recorder of deeds of said District a certificate of declaration in writing, to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose and open to public inspection, in which shall be stated the name or title by which said association shall be known to law; the mode and manner in which the corporate powers granted by sections 35-901 to 35-917 are to be exercised; the name or official title of the officers, trustees, representatives, or other persons by whatever name or title designated, who are to have and exercise the general control and management of its affairs; the place of doing business defined; the limit as to age of applicants for beneficial membership, which shall not exceed fifty-five years, and that medical examinations are required of applicants for life benefits, together with the sworn statement by three of said corporators that at least one hundred persons eligible under the proposed laws of such association to membership therein have in good faith made application in writing for membership. The recorder of deeds, upon the filing of said declaration, shall deliver to such association a certified copy of the papers so filed and recorded in his office, together with a certificate to such association, stating that the provisions in sections 35-901 to 35-917 relative to incorporation have been complied with and that said association becomes thereby authorized to carry on the work of a fraternal beneficial association. Upon filing the certificate or declaration as aforesaid, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same, and their successors and associates, shall, by the provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917, be a body politic and corporate by the name and style stated in the certificate, and by that name and style shall have perpetual succession, and by said name may sue and be sued, and may have and use a common seal, and the same may alter and change at pleasure, and may make and alter, at times or from time to time, such laws, not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States or the laws in force in said District, as they may deem necessary for the government of said association. And they and their successors, by their corporate name, shall in law be capable of creating, maintaining, and disbursing a reserve or emergency fund in accordance with its laws and the provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917, and of taking, receiving, purchasing, and holding real and personal estate necessary for the purpose of such association, and may let, place out at interest, or sell and convey the same as may seem most beneficial for said association. The association shall elect from its members trustees, directors, or managers, by whatever title known in its laws, at such time and place and in such manner as may be specified in its laws, who shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of said association, a majority of whom shall be a quorum for the transaction of business; and whenever any vacancy shall happen among such trustees, directors, or managers, by death, resignation, or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled in such manner as shall be provided by the laws of said association. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1313, ch. 854, § 755.)

§ 35-908. Reincorporation of associations existing prior to January 1, 1902.

The officers, trustees, directors, or governing body of any existing fraternal beneficial association may, by conforming to the requirements of the several provisions of sections 35-901 to 35-917, reincorporate themselves or continue their existing corporate powers under sections 35-901 to 35-917, or change their name, stating in their certificate the original name of such corporation as well as their new name assumed, and all the property and effects of such existing corporation shall vest in and belong to the corporation so reincorporated or continued. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1313, ch. 854, § 756.)

A copy of such articles of association shall be filed with the recorder of deeds, and shall by him be recorded, together with the affidavit hereafter named, in a book to be kept for that purpose. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1314, ch. 854, § 758.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Waiver of requirements

The provisions of the section are not waived when order has no knowledge of agreement between insured and beneficiary whereby latter pays the assessment. Columbian Fraternal Assn. v. Smith (1924, 297 F. 887, 54 App. D. C. 308).

§ 35-911. Benefits exempt from attachment.

No association so enjoined shall have authority to continue business until such report shall be made, or overt act or violation complained of shall have been corrected, nor until the costs of such action be paid by it (provided, the court shall find that such association was in default, as charged), whereupon the Superintendent of Insurance shall reinstate such association; and not until then shall such association be allowed again to do business in said District. Any officer, agent, or person acting for any association or subordinate body thereof, within said District, while such association shall be so enjoined or prohibited from doing business pursuant to sections 35-901 to 35-917, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in said jail not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. 35-1002. Validity of policy—Good faith of insured material element—Unsound health as defense.

35-1003. Incontestability of policy.

35-1004. Assignment of policy.

35-1005. Beneficiary.

§ 35-1001. Conditions of policies.

Policies of industrial weekly payment life insurance after June 4, 1934, issued or delivered in the District of Columbia shall be subject to the following conditions, in addition to any others prescribed by law and not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter. (June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 834, ch. 373, § 1.)

REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT PROVISIONS

Provisions of this chapter conflicting with the Life Insurance Act, classified to chapters 3 to 8 of this title, are repealed by section 4, Ch. VI, of said act which is set out as a note under section 35-301.

§ 35-1002. Validity of policy—Good faith of insured material element—Unsound health as defense.

If payment of such a policy shall be refused because of unsound health at or prior to the date of the policy, the good faith of both applicant and insured shall constitute a material element in determining the validity of the policy; and it shall not be held invalid because of unsound health unless the insurer shall prove that, at or before the date of issue of the policy, the insured or applicant had knowledge of, or reason to know, the facts on which the defense is based, or shall prove that the insurance was procured by the insured or applicant in bad faith or with intent to defraud the company, any provision, agreement, condition, warranty, or clause contained in said policy, or endorsed thereon, or added or attached thereto, to the contrary notwithstanding. Proof by the insurer of fraud, intent to deceive, unsound health, bad faith, breach or (of) warranty or condition precedent, or other matter of defense, shall be subject to the provisions of section 35-203. (June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 834, ch. 373, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Burden of proof 1
Evidence 2
Good faith 3
Purpose 4
Questions for Court 5
Jury 6

1. Burden of proof

Where forfeiture clause invoked in action on industrial life policy was conditioned on proof that insured had been hospitalized, had undergone an operation, or had been attended by a physician for a serious disease or injury, and had failed to disclose the facts, effect of this section was to shift the burden of proof and to make insured's good faith concerning representations on which policy issued the test and by its terms to impose on insurer the burden of proving the contrary. Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v. Gray (1941, 121 F. 2d 104, 74 App. D. C. 191, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 114, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

In action on an industrial life policy with defense that insured had been attended by physician for a serious disease which resulted in death and that such was not endorsed on the policy as required by the terms thereof, record established that statutory burden of proof was actually placed upon the insurer to prove the defense by the trial court. Ferguson v. Quaker City Life Ins. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 129 A. 2d 189).

Where insurer sets up defense of insured's unsound health prior to issuance of policy, whether defense is based on application or on policy provision, insurer has burden of proving that applicant or insured acted in bad faith. Walton et ano. v. Sun Life Insurance Company of America (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 115 A. 2d 310).

This section regarding burden of proof where payment of policy is refused because of unsound health of insured, casts the burden of proof on insurer and requires that it establish that the ailment was serious and that the insured knew, or had reason to know, the facts on which the defense is based. Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v. Stanton (1943, 31 A. 2d 680).

2. Evidence

In action by beneficiary against insurer on industrial life policy, wherein insurer defended on provision of policy that policy is voidable if, within two years before date of issue of policy, insured received treatment for serious disease or physical condition, evidence was sufficient to sustain insurer's burden under this section of proving insured's unsound health, knowledge of insured's unsound health or reason to know thereof, and bad faith of insured or beneficiary or intent to defraud insurer. Ferguso v. Quaker City Life Insurance Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 580).

In action on industrial life policy where insurer defended on ground that insured was suffering from serious disease of arthritis at time of issuance of policy but testimony of insured's physician directly rebutted insurer's contention that insured had either real or imputed knowledge of alleged seriousness of her condition and insured's physician testified that the ailment was serious only in sense that it temporarily restricted motion of certain parts of the body, evidence was sufficient for jury. Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v. Stanton (1943, 31 A. 2d 680).

3. Good faith

In action to recover under life policy, wherein insurer relied on policy provision that policy was voidable if, within two years prior to date of issuance, insured had undergone hospitalization for condition of a serious nature, test was insured's good faith, and trial court erred in failing to make a finding on that issue. Walton et ano. v. Sun Life Insurance Co. of America (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 115 A. 2d 310).

4. Purpose

The design of this section is to make its terms applicable in all cases in which the defense is that the insured had suffered, before issuance of policy, a serious injury or disease, and had concealed the truth from the insurer. Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v. Gray (1941, 121 F. 2d 104, 74 App. D. C. 191, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 114, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

5. Questions for court

Where insurer defends action on insurance policy on ground of unsound health of insured at or prior to date of policy, and there is no conflict in evidence or no contradiction of showing of existence of serious disease, the trial judge must take the case from the jury and rule as a matter of law in favor of insurer. Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v. Stanton (1943, 31 A. 2d 680).

In an action for the reinstatement of an industrial life insurance policy, a liberal view prevails in favor of holders of such policies. But it is equally well established that the rules of liberal construction have no application where the contract is clear and definite. Capital City Life Insurance Company v. Saunders (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 588).

6. Questions for jury

Where insurer defends action on insurance policy on ground of unsound health of insured at time or prior to date of policy and plaintiff creates a substantial issue of fact on question of unsound health, it becomes a question for the jury and not for the court. Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v. Stanton (1943, 31 A. 2d 680).

§ 35-1003. Incontestability of policy.

Every such policy shall be incontestable upon any ground relating to health after two years from its date of issue (notwithstanding a longer period may be named therein), provided the insured shall be alive at the end of said period. If the policy by its terms shall be incontestable after a shorter period than herein provided the terms of the policy with regard to such period of limitation shall govern. (June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 834, ch. 373, § 3.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Immediate full benefit

The words "immediate full benefit", as used in industrial life policy, did not make the policy incontestable or require that amount thereof be paid regardless of cause of death, but meant nothing more than that full amount of policy would be paid immediately upon death. Walker v. Superior Life Ins. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 192).

The words "immediate full benefit", appearing on cover page of industrial life policy, did not preclude insurer from rejecting claim upon the policy for insured's death five days after policy had been issued as result of heart attack under provision in limitation of liability clause, excluding heart disease and other enumerated diseases contracted in any time before or within first year from date of policy, where limitation of liability clause appeared inside the policy in the boldest type of any text matter therein. Id.

§ 35-1004. Assignment of policy.

Nothing contained in the terms of any such policy shall operate to prevent its valid assignment by the insured; but the company issuing the policy so assigned shall be discharged of all liability thereon by payment of its proceeds in accordance with its terms, unless before such payment the company shall have written notice of such assignment. (June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 835, ch. 373, § 4.)

§ 35-1005. Beneficiary.

Any individual designated with the consent of the insurer, evidenced by the signature of its president or secretary, or designated upon a form furnished by and filed with the insurer, as beneficiary of such a policy shall be entitled to the proceeds of such policy after the death of the insured in priority to all other claimants, and may sue in his own name for such proceeds if payment is refused by the insurer: Provided, That upon the expiration of fifteen days after the death of the insured, unless proof of claim in the manner and form required by the policy, accompanied by the policy for surrender, has theretofore been made by or on behalf of such designated beneficiary, the insurer may pay to any other claimant permitted by the policy. A person specified as one to whom the insured desires payment made, but not formally designated as beneficiary, shall be deemed a beneficiary for the purposes of this section, provided such designation be made in writing and filed with the company during the lifetime of the insured. (June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 835, ch. 373, § 5.)

Every company formed, admitted, or licensed to transact in the District any of the kinds of insurance permitted by the several numbered subdivisions of this section shall maintain separate and distinct reserves for each kind of insurance so written, and if a stock company shall not transact the business of insurance in the District unless—

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Authority of superintendent 1
Regulation 2

1. Authority of superintendent

There is neither express nor implied authority in the Superintendent of Insurance of the District to amend, add to, or alter insurance law by regulations or to apply the drastic provisions of those rules solely to mutual companies. Without such authority, the limit of his power is to make rules consistent with the provisions of the law. Hutchins Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hazen (1939, 105 F. 2d 53, 70 App. D.C. 174).

2. Regulation

§ 35-1105. Foreign corporation—Requirements before doing business in District.

An insurance company organized under laws other than the laws of the District and desiring to transact business in the District shall satisfy the superintendent that it has, if a capital stock company, a paid-up capital and a surplus of assets, invested in accordance with the laws of the State under which it is organized, over its entire authorized capital and all other liabilities, at least equal to the capital and surplus prescribed under section 35-1103 for the writing of various kinds of insurance; and, if a company without capital stock or an interinsurance exchange, that it has a surplus of assets, invested according to the laws of the State under which it is organized, over all its liabilities, of $100,000; or if a mutual company other than a life insurance company that it has a surplus over liabilities amounting to $100,000, or in lieu thereof a surplus amounting to $10,000 and an additional contingent liability of its policyholders equal to not less than the cash premium expressed in the policies in force; or if a company organized under a foreign Government, Province, or State, that it has a surplus of assets invested according to the laws of the District or of the State in the United States where it has its deposit, held in the United States in trust for the benefit and security of all its policyholders in the United States, over all its liabilities in the United States, of at least $150,000, and, if writing more than one class of insurance as enumerated and allowed under section 35-1103, an additional $75,000 for each such additional kind of insurance written; and such company so organized under the laws of a foreign Government or State shall also either deposit with the superintendent securities of the amount and value of $150,000 (or such larger amount as may be required by this section if the company writes more than one class of insurance) and of the classes in which insurance companies are permitted by sections 35-1101 to 35-1132 to make investments, or with the official of a State of the United States, authorized by the law of such State to accept such deposit, securities of the amount and value of $150,000 (or such larger amount as may be required by this section if the company writes more than one class of insurance), of the classes in which life insurance companies of such States are permitted to make their investments, and such deposits shall be made for the benefit and security of all the policyholders of such company in the United States, and the company shall file with the superintendent the certificate of such official of any such deposit with such official of any such State. § 35-1106. Reinsurance.

Every insurance or reinsurance company, authorized to transact insurance or reinsurance within the District, may reinsure any part of an individual risk in another company having power to make such reinsurance, and with the consent of the superintendent may reinsure all of its risks, within any class of insurance as enumerated under the several subdivisions of section 35-1103, in another company. But no credit shall be taken for the reserve or unearned premium liability on such reinsurance unless the company accepting the reinsurance is licensed by the superintendent, or unless it is licensed in one or more States in the United States and shows the same standards of solvency as would be required if it were at the time of such reinsurance authorized in the District to insure risks of the same kind as those reinsured.

In case such reinsurance is effected with an insurer so authorized, or so recognized for reinsurance in this District, the ceding insurer shall thereafter be charged on the gross premium basis with an unearned premium liability representing the proportion of each obligation retained by it, and the insurer to which the business is ceded shall be charged with an unearned premium liability representing the proportion of such obligation ceded to it calculated in the same way. The two parties to the transaction shall together carry the same reserve which the ceding insurer would have carried had it retained the risk.

The superintendent shall require schedules of reinsurance to be filed by every insurer at the time of making the annual report and at such other times as he may direct. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 405, ch. 93, title 3, § 6.)

§ 35-1107. Unearned premium reserve.

With respect to marine insurance risks, the unearned premium shall be found by computing 50 per centum of the amount of premiums received and receivable on unexpired risks on time policies running one year or less from date of policy, and 100 per centum of the amount of premiums on all untermi-nated voyage and transit risks. As a basis for unearned premium reserves, untermi-nated voyage or transit risks shall be deemed to expire within thirty days on the average. Every insurance company shall so compute such unearned premium in its annual and other financial statements. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 405, ch. 93, title 4, § 7.)

§ 35-1108. Taxes—Underwriting profits—Computation of premiums earned on marine insurance contracts.

With the exception of license fees, real estate and personal property taxes, and a tax on investment income derived from funds representing reserves, capital stock and surplus as defined by sections 35-1101 to 35-1132, every insurance company organized, admitted, or licensed to transact business within the District shall, with respect to marine insurance written by it within the District, be taxed only on that proportion of the total underwriting profit of the company from marine insurance written within the United States which the net premiums of the company from marine insurance written within the District bear to the total net marine premiums of the company written within the United States. The term "underwriting profit," as used herein, shall be arrived at by deducting from the premiums earned on marine insurance contracts written within the United States during the calendar year (1) the losses incurred and (2) expenses incurred, including all taxes, in connection with such business.

(1) Gross premiums on marine insurance contracts written during the calendar year, less return premiums and premiums paid for reinsurance.

(3) Deduct unearned premiums on outstanding marine business at the end of the current calendar year.

Losses incurred, as used herein, shall mean gross losses incurred during the calendar year under marine insurance contracts written within the United States, less reinsurance claims collected or collectible and salvages or recoveries collected or collectible from any source applicable to aforesaid losses.

Expenses incurred shall include—

(1) Specific expenses incurred, consisting of all agency commissions, agency expenses, taxes, licenses, fees, loss-adjustment expenses, and all other expenses incurred directly and specifically for the purpose of doing a marine insurance business.

(2) General expenses incurred, consisting of that proportion of general or overhead expenses, such as salaries of officers and employees, printing and stationery, all Federal Government taxes, and all other expenses not chargeable specifically to a particular class of insurance which the net premiums received from marine insurance bear to the total net premiums received by the company from all classes of insurance written during the current calendar year. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 405, ch. 93, title 5, § 8.)

§ 35-1109. Statement for taxation purposes—Computation of tax by Superintendent of Insurance—Statement of taxes to be mailed.

Every company transacting marine insurance in the District shall set forth in its annual statement to the superintendent, and in the form prescribed by him, all the items pertaining to its insurance business as enumerated and prescribed in section 35-1108. To determine the basis of the tax on underwriting profit, every company which has been writing marine insurance for five years shall furnish the superintendent a statement of all of the aforementioned items, in the form prescribed by him, for each of the preceding five calendar years. A company which has not been writing marine insurance for five years shall furnish to the superintendent a statement of all of the aforementioned items for each of the calendar years during which it has written marine insurance.

If the superintendent finds the report of the company reporting correct, he shall, if the company has transacted marine insurance for five years, (1) ascertain the total average annual underwriting profit, as hereinbefore defined, derived by the company from its marine insurance business written within the United States during the last preceding five calendar years, (2) ascertain the proportion which the average net annual premiums of the company from marine insurance written by it in the District during the last preceding five calendar years bear to the average total net marine premiums of the company during the same five years, (3) compute an amount of 5 per centum on this proportion of the aforementioned average annual underwriting profit of the company from marine insurance, and (4) charge the amount of tax thus computed to such company as a tax upon the marine insurance written by it in the District during the current calendar year. Thereafter the superintendent shall each year compute the tax, according to the method described in this section, upon the average annual underwriting profit of such company from marine insurance during the preceding five years, including the current calendar year; namely, at the expiration of each current calendar year, the profit or loss on the marine insurance business of that year is to be added or deducted, and the profit or loss upon the marine insurance business of the first calendar year of the preceding five-year period is to be dropped, so that the computation of underwriting profit for purposes of taxation under sections 35-1101 to 35-1132 will always be on a five-year average: Provided, however, That a company which has not been writing marine insurance in the District for five years shall, until it has transacted such business in the District for that number of years, be taxed on the basis of the annual average underwriting profit on marine insurance written within the United States during the preceding five years as averaged for all companies reporting to the superintendent for the current calendar year and which have been transacting marine insurance in the District for the past five years: Provided further, That, if at any time none of the companies reporting to the superintendent shall have written marine insurance in the District for five years, a company which has not been writing marine insurance in the District for five years shall be taxed on the basis of an annual average underwriting profit as averaged for all companies reporting to the superintendent for the number of years during which they have written marine insurance in the District, subject, however, to an adjustment in the tax as soon as the superintendent, in accordance with the provisions of this section, is enabled to compute the tax on the aforementioned five-year basis: And provided further, That in the case of mutual companies the superintendent shall not include in underwriting profit, when computing the tax prescribed by this section, the amounts refunded by such companies on account of premiums previously paid by their policyholders.

When the superintendent has computed the tax on a company's underwriting profit, he shall forthwith mail to the last-known address of the principal office of such company a statement of the amount so charged against it, which amount the company shall pay to the collector of taxes within thirty days after receipt of such notice from the superintendent, and no further tax, except the taxes on investment income from funds representing reserves, capital stock, and surplus as prescribed by sections 35-1110, 35-1111 and the license fee prescribed by section 35-1113 shall be imposed by the District upon such company, or the agents thereof, for the privilege of transacting the business of marine insurance in the District. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 406, ch. 93, title 5, § 9.)

§ 35-1110. Taxation on earning on reserves for unpaid loss and unexpired insurance.

In addition to the tax on underwriting profit as prescribed under sections 35-1108, 35-1109, every insurance company transacting business within the District shall, with respect to marine insurance written by it within the District, be taxed annually at the rate of 5 per centum on its average earnings on reserves for unpaid losses and unexpired premiums. The reserve for unpaid losses and unexpired premiums shall be arrived at by adding the unpaid loss and unexpired premium reserves on marine insurance risks, written within the District, at the beginning and end of the calendar year, and striking an average. Should any company not carry its unpaid loss and unexpired premium reserves separately for the District, then the tax provided under this section shall be applied to such proportion of the company's total unpaid loss and unexpired premium reserves as the net premiums of the company from marine insurance written within the District during the calendar year bear to the total net marine premiums of the company. Average earnings on reserves for unpaid losses and unexpired premiums shall be deemed, for the purpose of taxation under this section, to mean not more than 2 per centum of these reserves. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 407, ch. 93, title 5, § 10.)

§ 35-1111. Taxes on investment income from funds representing capital stock and surplus.

In addition to the taxes, as prescribed under sections 35-1108 to 35-1110, every company organized under the laws of the District and transacting marine insurance therein shall, with respect to marine insurance written in the District, pay a tax of 2 per centum on its investment income from funds representing capital stock and surplus as shown by the company's annual statement. Such investment income shall, for purposes of taxation under sections 35-1101 to 35-1132, be arrived at as follows: Add the gross assets at the beginning and end of the calendar year and strike an average. Add capital stock and surplus at the beginning and end of the year and strike an average. Ascertain the proportion which the average capital stock and surplus bears to average gross assets. Credit to investment income on capital stock and surplus such proportion of all income, except income taxed under section 35-1110, derived from interest, dividends, rents, and profits on sales or redemption of assets. Charge against investment income on capital stock and surplus such proportion of all losses on sales or redemption of assets.

Should a company subject to this tax be writing other classes of insurance, and the capital stock and surplus referred to herein relate to all the classes of insurance written without being specifically allocated to the several classes of insurance written, then such proportion of the investment income from funds representing capital stock and surplus, computed according to the method prescribed in the preceding paragraph of this section, shall be applicable to marine insurance for purposes of taxation under this section as the net premiums from marine insurance during the calendar year bear to the net premiums of the company from all the classes of insurance written. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 408, ch. 93, title 5, § 11.)

If the superintendent finds the report of such company correct he shall compute the taxes as prescribed and charge the same to such company. Notification to companies by the superintendent of the amount of tax charged to them and the time and place of payment by the companies shall be the same as is required under section 35-1109, relating to taxation of underwriting profit. § 35-1117. Insurance companies not exempt from payment of Federal income tax.

(Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 409, ch. 93, title 5, § 17.)

(3) Mortgage bonds of railroad companies in the United States and on which default in payment of interest has not occurred within five years prior to the purchase by the company.

§ 35-1120. Merger of companies.

Any two or more corporations organized under the laws of the District, and transacting the business of marine insurance, may merge or consolidate into one corporation under the name of any title approved by the superintendent, but no mutual corporation or company shall be merged with a stock corporation or company. The corporations may enter into and make an agreement for such merger or consolidation, prescribing its terms and conditions, the amount of its capital, which shall not be larger in amount than the aggregate amount of capital of the merged or consolidated corporations, and the number of shares into which it is to be divided. Such agreement must

Every such agreement must have the approval of the superintendent before the details of said agreement may be carried into effect as provided therein.

The new corporation may require the return of the original certificates of stock held by each stockholder in each of the corporations to be merged or consolidated and issue in lieu thereof new certificates for such number of shares of its own stock as such stockholder may be entitled to receive. Upon such merger or consolidation all rights and property of the several companies shall become the property of the corporation composed of such companies, and the new corporation shall succeed to all the obligations and liabilities of the old corporations in the same manner as if they had been incurred or contracted by it. The stockholders of the old corporations shall continue subject to all the liabilities, claims, and demands existing against them at or before such merger or consolidation. No action or proceeding pending at the time of the consolidation, in which any or all of the old corporations may be a party, shall abate or discontinue by reason of the merger or consolidation, but the same may be prosecuted to final judgment in the same manner as if the merger or consolidation had not taken place, or the new corporation may be substituted in place of any corporation so merged or consolidated by order of the court in which the action or proceeding may be pending. If such company is required by the foreign nation within which it transacts business to make a deposit in the securities of its own Government, or otherwise, the excess of such deposit over the local reserve liability, computed according to the terms of sections 35-1101 to 35-1132, shall be allowed as an asset in the company's home statement. The company shall also be allowed to include in its admitted assets all agents' balances in foreign countries which are collectible and which are not more than one hundred and eighty days past due. (Mar. 4, 1922, 42 Stat. 411, ch. 93, title 8, § 21.)

§ 35-1122. Corporations engaged exclusively in writing insurance in foreign countries may organize in District of Columbia.

§ 35-1308. Receivership — Grounds for — Injunction—Hearing—Liquidation by Superintendent—Title to property—Notice to be recorded in office of recorder of deeds—Appointment and compensation of clerks and special deputies—Expenses—Bond of receiver.

The superintendent may, through the corporation counsel of the District, apply to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia for a rule directing any company organized under the laws of the District or any company in the course of organization to show why the superintendent should not take possession of its property and conduct its business as the nature of the case and the interests of the policyholders, creditors, stockholders, or the public may require, whenever any such company is—

- (a) Insolvent; or
- (b) Has neglected or refused to observe a lawful order of the superintendent to make good any deficiency in its capital or surplus; or
- (c) Has by contract of reinsurance or otherwise transferred or attempted to transfer substantially its entire property or business, or has entered into any transaction, the effect of which is to merge substantially its entire property or business in the property or business of any other company, without having first obtained the written approval of the superintendent; or
- (d) Is found after an examination by the superintendent to be in such condition that its further transaction of business would be hazardous to its policyholders; or
- (e) Has violated its charter; or
- (f) Is carrying on activities against public policy.

Upon such application, such court may, in its discretion, issue an injunction restraining such company from the transaction of its business or disposition of its property pending further order of the court. On the return of such rule to show cause, the court shall hear, try, and determine the issues forthwith, and shall either deny the application or direct the superintendent to take possession of the property and conduct the business of such company and retain such possession and conduct such business until on the application either of the superintendent, the corporation counsel representing him, or the company, it shall, after a like hearing, appear to the court that the ground for the order directing the superintendent to take possession has been removed, and that the company can properly resume the possession of its property, and the conduct of its business. If on the like application and rule to show cause, and after a hearing, the court shall order the liquidation of the business of such company, such liquidation shall be made by and under the direction of the superintendent, who may deal with the property and business of such company in his own name as superintendent, or in the name of the company, as the court may direct, and shall be vested by operation of law with title to all of the property, contracts, and rights of action of such company as of the date of the order so directing him to liquidate. The filing or recording of such order in the office of the recorder of deeds for the District shall impart the same notice that a deed, bill of sale, or other evidence of title duly filed or recorded by such company would have imparted. For the purpose of this section, the superintendent shall have power to appoint under his hand and official seal one or more special deputy superintendents, and to employ clerks and assistants as may by him be deemed necessary. The fair and reasonable compensation of such special deputies, clerks, and assistants, and all the expenses of taking possession of and conducting the business of any such company shall, subject to the approval of the court, be paid out of the funds or assets of such company. The court may require a corporate surety bond or bonds from the superintendent in such amount as it may deem necessary. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54

§ 35-1327. Process, service upon foreign or alien companies by service on Superintendent—Force and effect—Registered letter to company—Proof of service—Penalty for failure to designate attorney for service of process.

(a) Service of process upon unauthorized company.—(1) The issuance or delivery of a policy or contract of insurance in this District, to a citizen or resident thereof, by a foreign or alien company transacting business in this District without a certificate of authority, shall be deemed equivalent to an appointment by such company of the superintendent and his successor or successors in office to be its true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served all lawful process in any action or proceeding against it, arising out of such policy or contract of insurance, and said issuance or delivery shall be a signification of its agreement that any such process against it which is so served shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served upon the company.

(2) Service of such process upon the superintendent, and the responsibility of the superintendent in regard thereto, shall be in accordance with the provisions for service of process upon authorized companies as provided in subsection (b).

(b) Attorney for services of process.—Every foreign or alien company now or hereafter authorized to transact business in the District shall file with the superintendent a duly executed instrument appointing and constituting him and his successors true and lawful attorney for such company, upon whom all lawful process in any action or legal proceeding against it in the District may be served, and therein shall agree that any lawful process against it, which may be served upon its said attorney as herein provided, shall be of the same force and validity as if served upon the company, and that the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocably so long as any liability of the company in the District shall remain outstanding. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Generally

The Superintendent of Insurance is required to regulate insurance carriers, to see that they maintain adequate reserves, to scrutinize their costs and fix their rates, all policy forms used by fire, liability and marine insurance companies must be filed with him, and he may disapprove use of any form which is inequitable or which does not comply with requirements of law. Bennett v. Amalgamated Cas. Ins. Co. (1953, 200 F. 2d 129, 91 U.S. App. D. C. 279).

The duty of Superintendent of Insurance is to see that form of taxicab liability policies accurately and equitably meet requirements of Public Utilities Commission. Id.

2. Construction of policies

Words used in automobile insurance policy should be given their common, ordinary, or "popular" meaning, rather than meaning of lexicographers or those skilled in niceties of language. Unkelsbee v. Homestead Fire Ins. Co. of Baltimore (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 168).

The maxim "expressio unius est exclusio alterius" as applied to an automobile insurance policy is an aid to construction of policy and not a rule of law, and is not to be arbitrarily applied. Id.

§ 35-1332. Accident and health policies, required provisions.

The Superintendent may require that the provisions and conditions contained in any policy of insurance against loss or damage from sickness or bodily injury or death of the insured by accident issued by any company authorized by this chapter to transact business in the District be made to conform to the requirements prescribed under section 35-712. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1076, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 28.)

Discrimination between individual risks of the same class or hazard in the amount of premiums or rates charged for any policy, or in the benefits or amount of insurance payable thereon, or in any of the terms or conditions of such policy, or in any other manner whatsoever, is prohibited, and the superintendent is empowered after investigation to order removed at such time and in such manner as he shall specify any such discrimination which his investigation may reveal. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1077, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 29.)

§ 35-1334. Agents and brokers—Policies to be executed by licensed and authorized agents—All agreements contained in policy—Rebates prohibited—List of agents to be filed—Payment of premium to broker—Soliciting agent may not sign policy—Life, title, and ocean marine agents excepted.

Any policy-writing agent or salaried company employee authorized by any company to solicit, negotiate, bind, write, or issue policies or applications therefor shall, in any controversy between the insured or his representative and the said company, be held to be the agent of the company which issued or effected the policy solicited or so applied for, anything in the application or policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

Any payment made by or on behalf of the insured to any broker for policies issued to such broker for delivery to the insured or issued directly to the insured on the order of such broker, shall, in controversies between the insured and the company, be deemed to have been paid to the company.

a license to any policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, salaried company employee, or resident broker, who has not previously been licensed under this chapter, he shall personally, or through his deputy or any person regularly employed in the department, within a reasonable time, and in a designated place within the District, subject each such person to a personal written examination relating to such person's knowledge of the kind or kinds of business to which the license may extend and his competency to act as such policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, broker, or salaried company employee. The Superintendent may in his discretion limit the scope of such examination to such particular kind or kinds of business in which the person to be licensed is to be principally engaged. The Superintendent shall issue or renew such license as may be applied for when he is satisfied that the person to be licensed is (a) competent and trustworthy and intends to act in good faith in the capacity involved by the license applied for, and that not more than 25 per centum of his commission income from business to which the license applies will result from policies the premiums on which are paid or are to be paid in the manner set forth in paragraph (f) of section 35-1340 and (b) that he has a good business reputation and has had experience, training, or education, or is otherwise qualified in the line or lines of business in which the license would entitle him to engage, and, except in the case of a nonresident broker or salaried company employee, is a resident of the District, or maintains his principal office for the conduct of such business in the District; and (c) is reasonably familiar with the insurance laws of the District, and with the provisions, terms, and conditions of the policies he is proposing to solicit, negotiate, or effect, and is worthy of a license. In the case of a nonresident applying for a broker's license, the Superintendent may waive the examination requirement and accept in lieu thereof evidence that the applicant holds a license as broker or agent in the State where his principal business is conducted. The Superintendent may also waive the examination requirement in the case of any person who has been licensed in the District prior to the effective date of this chapter. The examination requirement shall be waived in the case of any applicant for a license under this section who holds a license under section 35-425, if the company desiring the appointment of such applicant certifies in writing to the Superintendent that such applicant will solicit only accident and health insurance on its behalf. Licenses may be issued in the names of individuals, or in the names of firms, partnerships, or corporations, including banks, trust companies, real-estate offices, and building and loan associations: Provided, That on such licenses in addition to the name of the applicant, there shall be listed the name of every member or officer of such firm, partnership, or corporation who solicits insurance or who countersigns policies: Provided further, That such named persons as well as the licensee shall be subject to all requirements of this chapter, and that the Superintendent shall have authority at any time to require the applicant fully to disclose the identity of all stockholders, partners, officers, and employees, and he may in his discretion refuse to issue or renew a license in the name of any firm, partnership, or corporation if he is not satisfied that any officer, employee, stockholder, or partner thereof who may materially influence the applicant's conduct, meets the standards of this section applicable to persons applying as individuals. No person shall be licensed as agent, broker, or salaried company employee when it appears to the Superintendent that said license is sought primarily for the purpose of obtaining commissions on policies on which he on his own account pays or is to pay the premiums, or on which the premiums are paid or are to be paid by any person who receives or is to receive any benefit, direct or indirect, from the commissions obtained, or on which the premiums are paid or are to be paid by any partnership, association, or corporation of which he is a member. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1073, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 32; Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 192, ch. 173, § 3; June 30, 1953, 67 Stat. 120, ch. 168; Feb. 22, 1958, 72 Stat. 23, Pub. L. 85-334, § 6.)

1958—Act Feb. 22, 1958, substituted "Provided further, That such named persons as well as the licensee shall be subject to all requirements of this chapter, and that the Superintendent shall have authority at any time to require the applicant fully to disclose the identity of all stockholders, partners, officers, and employees, and he may in his discretion refuse to issue or renew a license in the name of any firm, partnership, or corporation if he is not satisfied that any officer, employee, stockholder, or partner thereof who may materially influence the applicant's conduct, meets the standards of this section applicable to persons applying as individuals" for "And provided further, That such named persons shall be subject to all requirements of this chapter, and that no officer or employee of such organizations other than those specifically named in such license shall be required to comply with this section, unless the duties of such officers or employees include soliciting or the countersigning of policies", inserted "who has not previously been licensed under this chapter" following "or resident broker,", "In addition to the name of the applicant", following "Provided, That on such licenses", and deleted "on forms furnished by the Superintendent" following "interrogatories as the Superintendent may require", and "Following such examination", preceding "the Superintendent shall issue or renew."

1944—Act Apr. 22, 1944, substituted "$1,000" for "$5,000."

OFFICE OR AGENCY ABOLISHED BY REORGANIZATION PLAN NUMBER 5 OF 1952

References in act Feb. 22, 1958, to any office or agency abolished by Reorg. Plan No. 5 of 1952 are deemed to refer to the Commissioners of the District, or to any office, officer or agency designated by them, see note under § 35-404.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Powers of superintendent of insurance 1
Qualification of corporate broker 2
Renewal of license 3

1. Powers of superintendent of insurance

However desirable it might be for superintendent of insurance for the District of Columbia to be empowered to act at all times in public interest in insurance field, neither superintendent nor courts could supply powers which Congress had never conferred. Atlantic Insurance Agency, Inc. v. Jordan, Superintendent of Insurance (1956, 229 F. 2d 758, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 184).

Insurance superintendent is not authorized to deny renewal of license as insurance broker in District of Columbia to corporation which in every respect has originally been found by him to be qualified under, and to have complied with, statutes, even though it later develops that an ownership interest in corporation has been acquired by person deemed by superintendent to be untrustworthy. Id.

2. Qualification of corporate broker

To extent that corporation is to act as insurance broker in District of Columbia, it is not the corporate entity but its personnel actually performing functions of broker that are to be examined, and if license is to be issued to corporation, names of individual, competent qualified personnel must appear thereon. Atlantic Insurance Agency, Inc. v. Jordan, Superintendent of Insurance (1956, 229 F. 2d 758, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 184).

3. Renewal of license

District of Columbia Insurance Commissioner's authority to refuse to renew insurance broker's license and considerations to govern his action with regard to renewal are not the same, and are not to be exercised for the same reasons, as his authority to deny original application. Atlantic Insurance Agency, Inc. v. Jordan, Superintendent of Insurance (1956, 229 F. 2d 758, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 184).

If license as insurance broker in District of Columbia is to be issued to corporation, superintendent, when passing upon original application, must satisfy himself that corporation is trustworthy, taking into account such factors as its financial solvency, its standing with tax authorities, its relationship with insurance companies it will represent, their standing to do business in district, and similar criteria upon which his judgment may be based; but once superintendent has found corporation trustworthy and has issued license, presumption of trustworthiness continues, though license renewal application will be subject to conditions of § 35-1339 specifying when renewal may be denied. Id.

§ 35-1337. Effective dates of licenses and proration of fees.

All licenses issued under this chapter shall date from the first of the month in which the application for license is made, and shall expire on the 30th day of April next succeeding, and payment of the fees for such licenses shall be prorated accordingly. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1079, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 33.)

CROSS REFERENCE

License fees, see § 35-1345.

§ 35-1338. Temporary transfer of licenses—Renewal.

In the event of the death or disability of any person licensed as a policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, or salaried company employee, the Superintendent may transfer such license to another person without the payment of an additional fee, and may renew such license: Provided, however, That no person shall act as policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, or salaried company employee under any transferred license or renewal thereof for a period in excess of six consecutive months. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1079, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 34.)

§ 35-1339. Renewal of licenses—Written notice of refusal to renew—Hearing—Application to court for leave to continue business pending appeal.

Upon application for renewal of an expiring license and the payment of the applicable fee prescribed in section 35-1345, the Superintendent shall issue the license applied for when he is satisfied that the applicant therefor meets the conditions set forth in sections 35-1336 and 35-1340. Before the Superintendent shall refuse to renew any such license he shall give to the applicant an opportunity to be fully heard and to introduce evidence in his behalf. If the Superintendent shall refuse to renew any such license he shall give the applicant written notice thereof and he shall not, for a period of ten days from the date of that notice, take any action to stop the applicant from continuing in business, within which period the applicant may apply to any court as provided in section 35-1349, for leave, in the discretion of the court, to continue in business until an appeal from such refusal is decided. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1079, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 35; Feb. 22, 1958, 72 Stat. 25, Pub. L. 85-334, § 7.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Act Feb. 22, 1958, provided for a hearing, and for a ten-day written notice before any action is taken to stop the applicant from continuing in business during which time he may seek leave of court to continue in business until an appeal from such refusal is decided.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Misrepresentation 1
Powers of superintendent of insurance 2
Qualification of corporate broker 3
Trial de novo 4

1. Misrepresentation

Where evidence amply supported finding that policy-writing agent for insurance company violated insurance laws by failing to furnish policies or comparable evidence of insurance to which insured persons were entitled and that agent represented that it had authority to solicit and procure policies of insurance when it had no license to do so, refusal of Superintendent of Insurance to renew agent's license was proper. Columbia Auto Loan v. Jordan (1952, 196 F. 2d 568, 90 U. S. App. D. C. 222).

2. Powers of superintendent of insurance

However desirable it might be for superintendent of insurance for the District of Columbia to be empowered to act at all times in public interest in insurance field, neither superintendent nor courts could supply powers which Congress had never conferred. Atlantic Insurance Agency, Inc., v. Jordan, Superintendent of Insurance (1956, 229 F. 2d 758, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 184).

If license as insurance broker in District of Columbia is to be issued to corporation, superintendent, when passing upon original application, must satisfy himself that corporation is trustworthy, taking into account such factors as its financial solvency, its standing with tax authorities, its relationship with insurance companies it will represent, their standing to do business in district, and similar criteria upon which his judgment may be based; but once superintendent has found corporation trustworthy and has issued license, presumption of trustworthiness continues, though license renewal application will be subject to conditions of this section specifying when renewal may be denied. Id.

3. Qualification of corporate broker

To extent that corporation is to act as insurance broker in District of Columbia, it is not the corporate entity but its personnel actually performing functions of broker that are to be examined, and if license is to be issued to corporation, names of individual, competent qualified personnel must appear thereon. Atlantic Insurance Agency, Inc., v. Jordan, Superintendent of Insurance (1956, 229 F. 2d 758, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 184).

Insurance superintendent is not authorized to deny renewal of license as insurance broker in District of Columbia to corporation which in every respect has originally been found by him to be qualified under, and to have complied with, statutes, even though it later develops that an ownership interest in corporation has been acquired by person deemed by superintendent to be untrustworthy. Id.

District of Columbia Insurance Commissioner's authority to refuse to renew insurance broker's license and considerations to govern his action with regard to renewal are not the same, and are not to be exercised for the same reasons, as his authority to deny original application. Id.

4. Trial de novo

Where Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia refused to renew license of policy-writing agent for an insurance company, and agent, in bringing suit in federal district court to review the action of the Superintendent chose to frame his complaint broadly and seek the fullest measure of relief, court did not err in conducting a de novo trial which explored grounds beyond those on which the Superintendent rested his refusal to renew. Columbia Auto Loan v. Jordan (1952, 196 F. 2d 568, 90 U. S. App. D. C. 222).

Due process of law did not entitle policy-writing agent to a formal hearing before Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia when Superintendent refused to renew agent's license, in view of the fact that administrative action could be challenged in federal court in any or every respect in which the order might be invalid, and in view of the fact that agent had right to de novo hearing to explore evidence on which Superintendent acted, and reasons and calculations on which he reached his conclusions. Id.

§ 35-1340. Revocation and suspension of licenses—
Grounds for—Notice and hearing—Evidence.

The Superintendent may revoke or suspend the license of any policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, broker, or salaried company employee when and if, after investigation, it appears to the Superintendent that any license issued to such person was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, or that such person has otherwise shown himself untrustworthy or incompetent to act in any of the foregoing capacities, or that such person has—

(a) violated any of the provisions of the insurance laws of the District; or

(b) has failed within a reasonable time to remit to any company all moneys which he has collected, and to which the company is entitled; or

(c) has been guilty of rebating or has misrepresented the provisions of the policies which he is selling, or the policies of other companies;

(d) has countersigned policies in blank; or that

(e) more than 25 per centum of his commission income from business to which the license applies results from policies the premiums on which are paid or are to be paid in the manner set forth in paragraph (f) of this section; or that

(f) said license is being used primarily for the purpose of obtaining commissions on policies on which he, on his own account, pays or is to pay the premiums, or on which the premiums are paid or are to be paid by any person who receives or is to receive any benefit, direct or indirect, from the commissions obtained, or on which the premiums are paid or are to be paid by any partnership, association, or corporation of which he is a member.

Before the Superintendent shall revoke or suspend the license of any such person he shall give to such person an opportunity to be fully heard, and to introduce evidence in his behalf: Provided, That in lieu of revoking or suspending the license of any policy-writing agent, soliciting agent, broker, or salaried company employee for causes enumerated in this section after hearing as herein provided, the Superintendent may subject such person to a penalty of not more than $200 when in his judgment he finds that public interest would be best served by the continued operation of such person. The amount of any such penalty shall be paid by such person through the office of the Superintendent to the Collector of Taxes, District of Columbia. At any hearing provided by this section, the Superintendent shall have authority to administer oaths to witnesses. Anyone testifying falsely after having been administered such an oath shall be subject to the penalties of perjury. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1079, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 36; Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 192, ch. 173, § 2; Feb. 22, 1958, 72 Stat. 25, Pub. L. 85-334, § 8.)

AMENDMENTS

1958—Act Feb. 22, 1958, inserted "otherwise shown himself untrustworthy or incompetent to act in any of the foregoing capacities, or that such person has—" preceding subdiv. (a), authorized the Superintendent to administer oaths to witnesses, and provided that false testimony after such oath shall be subject to the penalties of perjury.

1944—Act Apr. 22, 1944, added the proviso to last paragraph relating to the imposition of an alternate penalty of a fine.

Defenses 1
Evidence 2
Instructions 3
Prosecution, pending proceedings as bar 4
Questions for jury 5

1. Defenses

Accused charged with soliciting insurance for company unauthorized to do business in District of Columbia could not defend on ground that company had been granted permits to do business where such permits were not perpetual. Stover v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 536).

2. Evidence

In prosecution for soliciting insurance for company unauthorized to do business in District of Columbia, evidence which had a direct bearing on solicitation was properly admitted. Stover v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 536).

In prosecution for soliciting insurance for company unauthorized to do business in District of Columbia, evidence that company once had permit to do business as a fraternal organization was properly excluded as immaterial in view of inclusion of fraternal organizations in section 35-1342 on which prosecution was based. Id.

3. Instructions

In prosecution for soliciting insurance for company unauthorized to do business in District of Columbia, instruction to acquit if accused did not personally solicit was properly refused, since Congress never intended that liability should be limited to those who personally solicit. Stover v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 536).

4. Prosecution, pending proceedings as bar

The trial judge properly refused to continue prosecution for soliciting insurance business for an unauthorized company, pending trial of suit by company to enjoin officials from interfering with its business. Stover v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 536).

5. Questions for jury

In prosecution for soliciting insurance for company unauthorized to do business in District of Columbia, accused's guilt was for jury. Stover v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 536).

§ 35-1344. License to write policy in unauthorized company when no authorized company available—Taxation—Reports, form, and contents—Revocation or refusal.

Any agent or broker licensed in the District may, upon payment of a license fee, as provided under section 35-1345, be licensed to procure policies from companies which are not authorized to do business in the District where such person is, after diligent effort, unable to procure policies to cover the kind or kinds of business required from companies duly authorized to transact business in the District. Each agent or broker so licensed shall pay to the collector of taxes, through the superintendent, on February 1 and August 1 of each year, a sum equal to 2 per centum of the amount of the gross premiums upon all kinds of policies procured by him during the immediately preceding six months' period ending December 31 and June 30, respectively, and, in default of such payment, the superintendent, through the corporation counsel, may bring suit to recover the same. Each agent or broker so licensed to procure policies from unauthorized companies shall execute and file with the department on or before the 10th day of each month an affidavit covering the transactions of the previous calendar month, setting forth (1) the description and location of the insured property or risk, and the name of the assured; (2) the amount insured in the policy or contract; (3) the gross premiums charged thereon; (4) the name of the company whose policy or contract is issued, and the kind or kinds of business effected; and (5) that said agent or broker after diligent effort was unable to procure the policies or contracts required to protect the property or risk described in the affidavit from companies duly authorized to transact business in the District.

Each agent or broker so licensed to procure policies from unauthorized companies shall keep a separate account of the business transacted thereunder, which shall be open at all times to the inspection of the superintendent. The license provided for in this section may be revoked or renewal thereof refused for failure to pay the tax or to file the affidavit specified herein, or if the agent or broker procured policies from unauthorized companies without exercising diligent effort to secure the required business in duly authorized companies, or if the agent or broker procured policies from unauthorized companies whose standards of solvency and management do not meet the requirements necessary for the protection of the policyholders, or if the agent or broker has placed with any unauthorized company any risk which could be placed with an authorized company except for abnormal provisions of the policy, or if the agent or broker has procured from an unauthorized company any policy which covers a risk of a class generally covered in the District by authorized companies and which authorized companies would cover at a rate not higher than that charged by authorized companies on other District risks of the same class. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1080, ch. 972, Ch. II, § 40; Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 192, ch. 173, § 4.)

1944—Act Apr. 22, 1944, inserted "or if the agent or broker has placed with any unauthorized company any risk which could be placed with an authorized company except for abnormal provisions of the policy, or if the agent or broker has procured from an unauthorized company any policy which covers a risk of a class generally covered in the District by authorized companies and which authorized companies would cover at a rate not higher than that charged by authorized companies on other District risks of the same class."

§ 35-1345. License fees.

Annual fees to be paid through the superintendent to the collector of taxes for licenses issued under this chapter shall be as follows:

(a) For policy-writing agent or for firms, partnerships, or corporations licensed as such, $50, without regard to the number of companies represented: Provided, That, in the case of firms, partnerships, and corporations, an additional fee of $5 shall be charged for each person in excess of two who is named in such license as required under section 35-1336.

(b) For soliciting agent, $5 for each company represented by such soliciting agent, or for each company represented by any policy-writing agent through which such soliciting agent solicits: Provided, That no soliciting agent shall be required to pay for soliciting agents' licenses a sum in excess of $15 for any one licensing year.

(c) For salaried company employee authorized to sign policies and to solicit insurance, $50, without regard to the number of companies represented by such salaried company employee.

(d) For salaried company employee authorized to solicit but not authorized to sign policies, $5 for each company represented by said employee: Provided, That the aggregation of such fees shall not exceed $15 for any one license year.

(e) For nonresident or resident brokers, $25, except that the fee shall be $5 in case the applicant for a resident broker's license is subject also to the fee prescribed under paragraphs (a) or (c) hereof.

(f) For license to procure lines in unauthorized companies, $15.

(g) Under the license issued to any policy-writing agent or salaried company employee, or in the name of any firm, partnership, or corporation as provided under section 35-1336, and for which license a fee has been paid in accordance with paragraphs (a) or (c) hereof, there may be added names of persons who are employed in or who actively function through the District office of the policy-writing agent, salaried company employee, or firm, partnership, or corporation, and who have company authority to sign but not to solicit policies. For such persons there shall be charged a fee of $1 per year for each company whose policies such person is authorized to sign.

(h) Broker's licenses may be issued in the names of individuals, firms, partnerships, or corporations. In the case of firms, partnerships, or corporations, the authority to solicit shall extend only to the individuals who are designated in the license and in the application therefor as having authority to solicit, and there shall be charged for each such individual in excess of two an additional fee of $5.

(i) Licenses to procure lines in unauthorized companies shall be issued in the names of individuals only. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1081, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 41.)

No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing books, accounts, and papers in any proceeding based upon or growing out of any violation of the provisions of this chapter, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to penalty or forfeiture; but no person having so testified shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may have testified or produced any documentary evidence: Provided, That no person so testifying shall be exempted from prosecution or punishment for perjury: Provided further, That the immunity hereby conferred shall extend only to a natural person who, in obedience to a subpoena, gives testimony under oath or produces evidence, documentary or otherwise, under oath. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this chapter, or fails to comply with any duty imposed upon such person by any of the provisions of this chapter, for which violation or failure no penalty is elsewhere provided by this chapter, or by the laws of the District, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined for each offense not exceeding $1,000 or be imprisoned for not more than twelve months, or both. Prosecutions authorized by this section shall be upon information filed in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia by the corporation counsel or any of his assistants. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1082, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 43; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1.)

CONSOLIDATION OF POLICE COURT AND MUNICIPAL COURT

"Municipal Court for the District of Columbia" was substituted for "police court" to conform to act Apr. 1, 1942, which consolidated the Police Court and the Municipal Court. See section 11-751.

Any person aggrieved by any action of the superintendent may, within twenty days after such action was taken, appeal in writing from such action to the commissioners. The hearings on said appeal may be either orally or in writing at the discretion of the commissioners, and they shall not be required to take evidence on such appeal. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Standing to sue

Insurer could appeal from action of Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia in approving applications of other insurers for deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Supt. of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

Fire insurer had standing to sue, as a "person aggrieved", the Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia and other fire insurers to contest validity of superintendent's approval of other insurers' application for downward deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. Id.

§ 35-1349. Court proceedings—Superintendent not liable for costs, damages, or to give supersedeas bond.

Any person affected by an order, ruling, proceeding, or action of the superintendent, or any person acting in his behalf and at his instance, may contest the validity of the same in any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or through any other appropriate proceedings. In said proceedings and appeals said superintendent shall not be taxed with any costs, nor shall he be required to give any supersedeas bond or security for costs or damages on any appeal whatsoever. Said superintendent shall not be liable to suit or action or for any judgment or decree for any damages, loss, or injury claimed by any person on any appeal taken by said superintendent in any case, nor shall said superintendent be required in any case to make any deposit for costs or pay for any service to the clerks of any court or to any marshal of the United States. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1082, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 45.)

Insurer has right of appeal 2

1. Hearing

Due process of law did not entitle policy-writing agent to a formal hearing before Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia when Superintendent refused to renew agent's license, in view of the fact that administrative action could be challenged in federal court in any or every respect in which the order might be invalid, and in view of the fact that agent had right to de novo hearing to explore evidence on which Superintendent acted, and reasons and calculations on which he reached his conclusions. Columbia Auto Loan v. Jordan (1952, 196 F. 2d 568, 90 U. S. App. D. C. 222).

2. Insurer has right of appeal

Insurer could appeal from action of Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia in approving applications of other insurers for deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Supt. of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

§ 35-1350. Separability of provisions.

Should any section or provision of this chapter be held unconstitutional or invalid, the validity of the chapter as a whole, or of any part thereof, other than the part decided to be unconstitutional or invalid, shall not be affected. (Oct. 9, 1940, 54 Stat. 1083, ch. 792, Ch. II, § 47.)

§ 35-1401. Definitions.

In this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires—

"District" means the District of Columbia;

"Superintendent" means the superintendent of insurance of the District of Columbia;

"Company" means any insurer, whether stock, mutual, reciprocal, interinsurer, Lloyd's, or any other form or group of insurers;

"Agent" means and shall include any individual, co-partnership, or corporation acting in the capacity of or licensed as a "policy-writing agent", "soliciting agent", or "salaried company employee", as defined under section 35-1303; and

"Broker" means any person who for a consideration acts or aids in any manner in the solicitation or negotiation on behalf of the assured of contracts of insurance. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 267, ch. 224, § 1.)

REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT PROVISIONS

Section 10 of act June 1, 1944, provided that: "All laws or parts of laws, insofar as they relate to business affected hereby and in conflict with any of the provisions of this Act [§§ 35-1401 to 35-1409], are hereby repealed."

SEPARABILITY OF PROVISIONS

Section 11 of act June 1, 1944, provided that: "Should any section or provision of this Act [§§ 35-1401 to 35-1409] be decided by the courts to be unconstitutional or invalid, the validity of the Act as a whole, or of any part thereof, other than the part decided to be unconstitutional, shall not be affected."

§ 35-1402. Rates included in and excluded from regulation.

The provisions of this chapter shall apply to insurance in the District of Columbia against loss of or damage to property or any valuable interest therein by or as a consequence of fire, lightning, tornado, windstorm, and explosion, or any one or more of such hazards, including all supplemental, additional, or extended forms of coverage written in connection with fire insurance, and including any policy which insures property, while it is at a permanent location, against the hazard of fire, lightning, tornado, windstorm, or explosion; but this chapter shall not apply to ocean marine, transportation, boiler and machinery, or motor-vehicle insurance, nor to insurance covering the property of interstate common carriers, nor to any form of insurance designated by the Superintendent as inland marine insurance. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 267, ch. 224, § 2.)

§ 35-1403. Adjustment of rates—Powers and duties of Superintendent—Removal of discriminations—Appeal from Superintendent's rulings.

The Superintendent is empowered to investigate the necessity for an adjustment of the rates on any or all risks or classes of risks within the scope of this chapter, and to order an adjustment of such rates whenever he determines, after investigation of the experience showing premiums and losses for a period of not less than five years next preceding such investigation, that the rates for any one or more classes of risks are excessive, inadequate, or unreasonable. In determining the necessity for an adjustment of rates, the Superintendent shall give consideration to all factors reasonably attributable to the risks, to the conflagration or catastrophe hazard, both within and without the District, and to a reasonable profit. The Superintendent is also empowered, after investigation, to order removed, at such time and in such manner as he shall specify, any unfair discrimination existing between individual risks or classes of risks.

Any person, firm, or corporation aggrieved by any order, ruling, proceeding, or action of the Superintendent, or any person acting in his behalf and at his instance, may appeal to the Commissioners of the District, or contest the validity of such order, ruling, proceeding, or action in any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or through any other appropriate proceedings, as provided under sections 35-1348 and 35-1349. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 267, ch. 224, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appropriate proceedings 1
Contest validity 2
Due process 3
Function of district court 4
Hearings 5
Insurer has right of appeal 6
Person aggrieved 7
Remand 8
Standing to sue doctrine 9

1. Appropriate proceedings

Under this section provision that any person aggrieved may contest validity of superintendent's order fixing insurance rates in any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or through any other "appropriate proceeding", a civil action for injunction is an appropriate proceeding. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

2. Contest validity

Under this section providing that any person aggrieved may "contest validity" of superintendent's order fixing insurance rates in any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or through any other appropriate proceedings, the quoted clause means to test validity in every or any respect in which order might be invalid and includes right to present evidence and to explore evidence on which superintendent acted and the reasons and calculations upon which he reached his conclusions. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

Under this section requiring that insurance superintendent must find that existing insurance rates are excessive, inadequate, or unreasonable before adjusting rates and that he must give consideration to all factors reasonably attributable to conflagration or catastrophe hazards, and to reasonable profit and permitting aggrieved person to contest order in any court of competent jurisdiction, the superintendent's findings as to such factors can be tested. Id.

3. Due process

Where insurance companies had right under this section to file bill in equity court, to seek therein an injunction of enforcement of order fixing insurance rates and as a necessary incident to such procedure to have, upon proper preliminary showing, a stay of enforcement of order pendente lite, to participate in trial de novo on issue of validity of order and to have court decide that issue, if such statutory rights were satisfied, the insurance companies could not claim procedural contravention of the due process clause. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

4. Function of district court

Under this section authorizing any person aggrieved by insurance superintendent's rate order to contest validity of order in any court of competent jurisdiction, function of District Court is not that of a federal court acting on a state-made order, but is one of the functions which it possesses as local court of general jurisdiction. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

The congressional plan for determination of local insurance rates in District of Columbia can include the District Court as part of the procedure. Id.

5. Hearings

This section authorizing insurance superintendent to adjust insurance rates whenever he determines after "investigation" that rates are excessive, inadequate, or unreasonable, does not require that a quasi-judicial hearing be conducted. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

Even if requirement of this section that there be an investigation before establishment of insurance rates by superintendent could not be satisfied in absence of hearing, such requirement as an element of investigation, without more, was satisfied by hearing at which insurance companies were given an opportunity to state and support their objections to report and rate order, already issued. Id.

This section providing that any person aggrieved by insurance superintendent's order adjusting rates may contest validity of order in any court of competent jurisdiction gives complete right to full hearing de novo upon which court will determine validity of order in all respects in which it is contested, and, therefore, mere lack of quasi-judicial hearing before superintendent is not fatal. Id.

6. Insurer has right of appeal

Insurer could appeal from action of Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia in approving applications of other insurers for deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Sup't of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

7. Person aggrieved

Fire insurer had standing to sue, as a "person aggrieved", the Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia and other fire insurers to contest validity of superintendent's approval of other insurers' application for downward deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Sup't of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

8. Remand

In action to enjoin enforcement of insurance superintendent's order fixing insurance rates, where trial court in opinion stated that court reached conclusion that insurance companies had not sustained their contention that rates fixed by superintendent were confiscatory but findings of fact and conclusions of law were silent on that issue, the trial court had not determined such issue, so that, where trial court was in error in view on which it rested judgment, that order was invalid, case would be remanded in order that complete determination of issues might be made. Jordan v. American Eagle Fire Ins. Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 281, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 192).

9. Standing to sue doctrine

Statutory right to sue, which is based upon this section authorizing person aggrieved by action of Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia to appeal to District Commissioners or contest the validity of such action by appeal or other appropriate proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction, enlarges the "standing-to-sue doctrine," which forbids suits by parties who are merely taxpayers, who are interested in obtaining government contracts, desirous of preventing competition caused by government activity, etc. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Sup't of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

§ 35-1404. Organization of rating bureau—Membership—Powers and duties—Apportionment of expenses.

Within one hundred and twenty days after June 1, 1944, and under the supervision of the Superintendent, the insurance companies authorized to effect insurance in the District against the risk of loss or damage by hazards within the scope of this chapter shall organize a rating bureau for the purpose of administering rates for such insurance, and all such companies now or hereafter authorized to transact such business in the District shall be members of such bureau. The government of the rating bureau shall be vested in its members and it shall not be subject to the direction or control of any other bureau, association, corporation, company, individual, or group of individuals. The rating bureau shall have power to establish reasonable agreements and bylaws for its governance, and shall be permitted to adopt reasonable rules and regulations necessary to carry out its functions, but such agreements, bylaws, rules, and regulations shall not be inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, and the same and amendments thereto shall be approved by the Superintendent before becoming effective. The rating bureau, subject to the approval of the Superintendent, shall apportion the expenses of its operation among its members in proportion to the premium income on risks in the District. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 268, ch. 224, § 4.)

§ 35-1405. Standard provisions required in policies—Deviations—Duration of deviation—Rate in excess of standard.

No company, agent, or broker shall issue or deliver, or offer to issue or deliver, or knowingly permit the issuance or delivery of, any policy of insurance in the District which does not conform to the requirements approved by the Superintendent: Provided, however, That a company may deviate from such requirements if the company has filed with the rating bureau and with the Superintendent the deviation to be applied, and provided such deviation is approved by the Superintendent. If approved, the deviation shall remain in force for a period of one year from the date of approval by the Superintendent, unless such approval is withdrawn by the Superintendent for cause after notice to the insurer, or withdrawn by the insurer with the approval of the Superintendent.

It is further provided that a rate in excess of that promulgated by the rating bureau may be charged, provided such higher rate is charged with the knowledge and written consent of the insured and the Superintendent. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 268, ch. 224, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Deviation

Insurer could appeal from action of Superintendent of Insurance of District of Columbia in approving applications of other insurers for deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Sup't of Ins. et al. (1956, 148 F. Supp. 317).

Fire insurer had standing to sue, as a "person aggrieved", the Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia and other fire insurers to contest validity of superintendent's approval of other insurers' application for downward deviation in fire and extended coverage rates. National Capital Ins. Co. et al. v. Jordan, Sup't of age rates. Id.

§ 35-1406. Rating bureau records—Agency records.

The rating bureau shall keep a record of all rates, schedules, and proceedings. Every agent shall keep a record of every policy contract issued by or through his agency. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 268, ch. 224, § 6.)

§ 35-1407. Examination by Superintendent—Consolidated reports of classified experience by rating bureau.

The Superintendent, his deputy, or duly authorized examiner, is authorized and empowered to examine all records of the rating bureau, companies, and agents, and to require every company to furnish statistical reports of premiums and losses in such form and according to such classifications as the Superintendent shall prescribe and any other information which the Superintendent may deem necessary for the administration of this chapter. The Superintendent may require the rating bureau to consolidate the reports of classified experience. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 269, ch. 224, § 7.)

§ 35-1408. Effectiveness of rates, rating methods, rules, policy forms, etc., dependent upon filing with and approval of Superintendent.

No rate, premium, schedule, rating method, rule, bylaw, agreement, or regulation shall become effective or be charged, applied, or enforced in the District by the rating bureau, or by any company, agent, or broker governed by the provisions of this chapter, until it shall have been first filed with and approved by the Superintendent: Provided, That a rate or premium used or charged in accordance with a schedule, rating method, or rule previously approved by the Superintendent need not be specifically approved by the Superintendent. No company, agent, or broker shall issue any form of policy, clause, warranty, rider, or endorsement until such form shall have been filed with and approved by the Superintendent. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 269, ch. 224, § 8.)

§ 35-1409. Penalties.

Any company or any agent or broker guilty of violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be subject to the provisions of sections 35-1306 and 35-1340. (June 1, 1944, 58 Stat. 269, ch. 224, § 9.)

REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT PROVISIONS

Section 11 of Act May 20, 1948, provided that:

"All laws or parts of laws, insofar as they relate to business affected hereby and are in conflict with any of the provisions of this Act [§§ 35-1501 to 35-1510], are hereby repealed: Provided, That this Act shall not be construed as repealing or amending the Act [§ 44-301] entitled 'An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to provide that all cabs for hire in the District of Columbia be compelled to carry insurance for the protection of passengers, and for other purposes", approved June 29, 1938', approved December 15, 1942."

Section 12 of act May 20, 1948, provided that:

"If any section or provision of this Act [§§ 35-1501 to 35-1510] is held unconstitutional or invalid, the validity of the Act as a whole or of any part thereof, other than the part decided to be unconstitutional or invalid, shall not be affected."

§ 35-1502. Scope of chapter.

This chapter shall apply to all forms of casualty, motor vehicle, explosion, sprinkler leakage, and inland marine insurance in the District and to all forms of insurance within the scope of chapter 13 of this title, except those forms of insurance not enumerated herein which are within the scope of chapter 14 of this title: Provided, That this chapter shall not apply to reinsurance other than joint reinsurance to the extent provided in this chapter, and shall not apply to:

(a) Insurance of vessels or craft, their cargoes, marine builders' risks, marine protection and indemnity, or other risks commonly insured under marine, as distinguished from inland marine, insurance policies; (b) title insurance; (c) accident and health insurance; (d) insurance against loss of or damage to aircraft or to liability, other than workmen's compensation and employers' liability, arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of aircraft; (e) to insurance issued to self-insurers and insuring against loss in excess of at least $10,000 resulting from any one accident or event, except when rates therefor are made by a rating organization. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 242, ch. 324, § 2.)

See note following § 35-1501.

§ 35-1503. Making of rates.

(a) Rates for insurance within the scope of this chapter shall not be excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory.

(b) Due consideration shall be given to past and prospective loss experience within and outside the District, to physical hazards, to safety and loss prevention factors, to underwriting practice and judgment, to catastrophe hazards, if any, to a reasonable margin for underwriting profit and contingencies; to dividends, savings, or unabsorbed premium deposits allowed or returned by companies to their policyholders, members, or subscribers; to past and prospective expenses both country-wide and those specially applicable to the District; to whether classification rates exist generally for the risks under consideration; to the rarity or peculiar characteristics of the risks; and to all other relevant factors within and outside the District.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be taken to prohibit as unfairly discriminatory the establishment of classifications or modifications of classifications of risks based upon the size, expense, management, individual experience, location or dispersion of hazard, or any other reasonable considerations attributable to such risks provided such classifications and modifications apply to all risks under the same or substantially similar circumstances or conditions.

(d) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to require uniformity in insurance rates, classifications, rating plans, or practices.

(e) Nothing in this chapter shall abridge or restrict the freedom of contract of companies, agents, brokers, or employees with reference to the commissions or salaries to be paid to such agents, brokers, or employees by companies.

(f) Rates may become effective immediately upon filing or at such future time as the company or rating organization making them may specify. They shall thereafter remain in effect unless and until changed by the company or rating organization making them, or adjusted by order of the Superintendent in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Rates for contracts or policies described in the last sentence of subsection (c) of section 35-1504 may become effective when made and filing thereof shall be made promptly thereafter.

(g) No company, agent, or broker shall make, issue, or deliver, or knowingly permit the making, issuance, or delivery of any policy of insurance within the scope of this chapter contrary to pertinent filings which are in effect for the company as provided in this chapter, except that upon the written application of the insured stating his reasons therefor, filed with and approved by the Superintendent, a rate in excess of that provided by a filing otherwise applicable may be used on any specific risk. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 243, ch. 324, § 3.)

§ 35-1504. Supervision of rates.

(a) On and after July 1, 1948, every company shall file with the Superintendent, either directly or through a licensed rating organization of which it is a member or subscriber, except as to rates on inland marine risks which are not made by a rating organization and which by general custom of the business are not written according to manual rates or rating plans, all rates and rating plans, rules, and classifications which it uses or proposes to use in the District.

(b) Whenever it shall be made to appear to the Superintendent, either from his own information or from complaint of any party alleging to be aggrieved thereby, that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the rates on any or on all risks or classes of risks or kinds of insurance within the scope of this chapter are not in accordance with the terms of this chapter, it shall be his duty, and he shall have the full power and authority, to investigate the necessity for an adjustment of any or all such rates.

(c) After such an investigation of any such rates, the Superintendent shall, before ordering any appropriate adjustment thereof, hold a hearing upon not less than ten days' written notice specifying the matters to be considered at such hearing, to every company and rating organization which filed such rates, provided the Superintendent need not hold such hearing in the event he is advised by every such company and rating organization that they do not desire such hearing. If after such hearing the Superintendent determines that any or all of such rates are excessive or inadequate, he shall order appropriate adjustment thereof. Pending such investigation and order of the Superintendent, rates shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with the terms of this chapter. No order of adjustment shall affect any contract or policy made or issued prior to the effective date of such order unless (i) the adjustment to be effected is substantial and exceeds the cost to the companies of making the adjustment and (ii) the order is made after the prescribed investigation and hearing and within thirty days after the filing of rates affected. In no event shall an order of adjustment affect an existing contract or policy other than one of workmen's compensation or automobile liability insurance required by law, order, rule, or regulation of a public authority, or a contract or policy of any type as to which the rates are not, by general custom of the business or because of rarity and peculiar characteristics, written according to normal classification or rating procedure.

(d) In determining the necessity for an adjustment of rates, the Superintendent shall be bound by all of the provisions of section 35-1503.

(e) The Superintendent is further empowered to investigate and to order removed at such time and in such manner as he shall specify any unfair discrimination existing between individual risks or classes of risks. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 243, ch. 324, § 4.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note following § 35-1501.

§ 35-1505. Cooperative and concerted action authorized.

Subject to the provisions of this chapter, two or more companies may cooperate or act in concert with each other—

(a) as a rating organization, for the purpose of making rates, rating plans, or rating systems. No company shall be deemed to be a rating organization;

(b) as an advisory organization, for the purpose of preparing policy forms, making underwriting rules, surveys, or inspections incident to but not including the making of rates, rating plans, or rating systems, or collecting and furnishing to companies or rating organizations loss or expense statistics or other statistical data, and acting in an advisory as distinguished from a rate making capacity;

(c) as a group or fleet of companies operating under the same general management and control, for the purpose of conducting a complete insurance service;

(d) as a group, association, or other organization for the purpose of joint underwriting or joint reinsurance, or of equitable apportionment and proper rating of insurance which may be afforded applicants who are in good faith entitled to but who are unable to procure such insurance through ordinary methods.

No company shall be required by this chapter to be a member or subscriber of any rating organization. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 244, ch. 324, § 5.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note following § 35-1501.

§ 35-1506. Cooperative and concerted action regulated.

(a) Every group, association, or other organization of companies authorized to act as such under the terms of this chapter, except groups or fleets described in subsection (c) of section 35-1505, shall file with the Superintendent (1) a copy of its constitution, its articles of agreement or association, or its certificate of incorporation, and of its bylaws, rules, and regulations governing the conduct of its business; (2) a list of its members and subscribers, if any; (3) the name and address of a resident of the District upon whom notices or orders of the Superintendent or process affecting it may be served; and shall notify the Superintendent promptly of any change in the foregoing.

(b) No group, association, or organization shall engage in any unfair or unreasonable practice in the conduct of its business.

(c) No rating organization shall conduct its business with respect to insurance on risks located within the District without a license from the Superintendent. To obtain such a license, a rating organization shall, in addition to the matters specified in subsection (a) of this section, supply to the Superintendent a statement relating to its qualifications as a rating organization and its ability adequately to administer the rates, rules, and regulations which it may make in behalf of its members and subscribers.

If the Superintendent finds that the applicant is competent, trustworthy, and otherwise qualified to act as a rating organization, he shall forthwith issue a license specifying the kinds of insurance and subdivisions thereof for which the applicant is authorized to act as a rating organization, but, if the Superintendent does not so find within thirty days after he has received such application, he shall, at the request of the applicant, give the applicant a full hearing.

Licenses issued pursuant to this section shall remain in effect until suspended or revoked by the Superintendent unless voluntarily surrendered by the rating organization. The fee for said license shall be $250 and shall be paid by the applicant through the Superintendent to Collector of Taxes, District of Columbia. Licenses issued pursuant to this section may, at the request of the rating organization, be amended by the Superintendent so as to include authority with respect to additional kinds of insurance and subdivisions thereof, provided the rating organization satisfies the Superintendent that such amendment would not in any way be contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, That an additional fee in the amount of $50 shall be charged for such amendment.

The license of any rating organization may be suspended or revoked by the Superintendent for failure to comply with this chapter or for incompetence or untrustworthiness. The Superintendent shall not revoke or suspend the license of any rating organization until he has given it not less than thirty days' notice of the proposed revocation or suspension and of the grounds alleged therefor and has afforded the rating organization an opportunity to be heard. In lieu of revoking or suspending the license of any rating organization after hearing and for the causes named herein, the Superintendent may subject such rating organization to a penalty of not more than $250 when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the rating organization. The amount of any such penalty shall be paid by the rating organization through the Superintendent to Collector of Taxes, District of Columbia.

(d) Every licensed rating organization shall, subject to reasonable rules and regulations, permit any company not a member to be a subscriber to its rating services for any kind of insurance or subdivision thereof for which it is authorized to act; shall give notice of changes in such rules and regulations to its subscribers; and shall furnish its rating service without discrimination to its members and subscribers.

(e) No licensed rating organization shall adopt any rule, effect any agreement, or take any action contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter or which would have the effect of prohibiting, restricting, or regulating the payment or allowance by any of its members or subscribers of dividends, savings, or unabsorbed premium deposits; nor practice or sanction any plan or act of boycott, coercion, or intimidation; nor enter into or sanction any contract or act by which any person is restrained from lawfully engaging in the business of insurance.

(f) Every member of or subscriber to a licensed rating organization shall adhere to the filings made on its behalf by such organization except that any such member or subscriber may deviate from such filings if it has filed with the rating organization and with the Superintendent the deviation to be applied and information necessary to justify the deviation and provided such deviation is approved by the Superintendent. If approved, the deviation shall remain in force until such approval is withdrawn by the Superintendent after notice to the company or withdrawn by the company with the approval of the Superintendent. The Superintendent shall approve any such deviation unless he finds that the deviation to be applied would not be uniform in its application or would be inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, but unless he approves the deviation within thirty days he shall, within a reasonable time, grant a hearing to the applicant at the applicant's request. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 245, ch. 324, § 6.)

§ 35-1507. Information to be furnished by companies.

(a) Every rating organization and every company which makes its own rates shall, within a reasonable time after receiving written request therefor and upon payment of such reasonable charge as it may make, furnish to any insured affected by a rate made by it, or to the authorized representative of such insured, all pertinent information as to such rate.

(b) Every rating organization and every company which makes its own rates shall provide within the District reasonable means whereby any person aggrieved by the application of its rating system may be heard, in person or by his authorized representative, on his written request to revise the manner in which such rating system has been applied in connection with the insurance afforded him. If the rating organization or company fails to grant or reject such request within thirty days after it is made, the applicant may proceed in the same manner as if his application had been rejected. Any party affected by the action of such rating organization or such company on such request may, within thirty days after written notice of such action, appeal to the Superintendent, who, after a hearing held upon not less than ten days' written notice to the appellant and to such rating organization or company, may affirm or reverse such action.

(c) No company, agent, broker, or rating organization may willfully withhold required information from or give false or misleading information to the Superintendent.

(d) No company, agent, or broker shall fail to furnish to an insured any policy or comparable evidence of insurance to which the insured is entitled. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 246, ch. 324, § 7.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note following § 35-1501.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Evidence of insurance

Where evidence amply supported finding that policy-writing agent for insurance company violated insurance laws by failing to furnish policies or comparable evidence of insurance to which insured persons were entitled and that agent represented that it had authority to solicit and procure policies of insurance when it had no license to do so, refusal of Superintendent of Insurance to renew agent's license was proper. Columbia Auto Loan v. Jordan (1952, 196 F. 2d 588, 90 U. S. App. D. C. 222).

§ 35-1508. Authority and duty of Superintendent.

In addition to any powers hereinbefore expressly enumerated in this chapter, the Superintendent shall have full power and authority, and it shall be his duty, to enforce by regulations, orders, or otherwise all and singular, the provisions of this chapter, and the full intent thereof. In particular he shall have the authority and power—

(a) to examine all records of companies and rating organizations and to require any or every company, agent, broker, and rating organization to furnish under oath such information as he may deem necessary for the administration of this chapter. The expense of such examination shall be paid by the company or rating organization examined. In lieu of such examination the Superintendent may, in his discretion, accept a report of examination made by any other insurance supervisory authority;

(b) to make and enforce such reasonable orders, rules, and regulations as may be necessary in making this chapter effective, but such orders, rules, and regulations shall not be contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter;

(c) to issue an order, after a full hearing to all parties in interest requiring any group, association, or organization of companies and the members thereof to cease and desist from any unfair or unreasonable practice;

(d) The Superintendent may designate one or more rating organizations or other agencies to assist him in gathering statistical data and in making such compilations thereof as may be necessary for the proper administration of this chapter. Such compilations shall be made available, subject to reasonable rules promulgated by the Superintendent, to companies and rating organizations.

The Superintendent shall have no authority at any hearing to compel the attendance of witnesses and he shall not be required to adhere to formal rules of pleading or evidence. At the request of a party or parties in interest made prior to any hearing, he shall administer oaths to witnesses and shall permit such party or parties, at the cost and expense of one who so requests, to have made a record of the hearing, which record upon request of such party or parties the Superintendent shall certify. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 246, ch. 324, § 8.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note following § 35-1501.

§ 35-1509. Penalties.

Any company, broker, or agent guilty of violating any of the provisions of this chapter or any order, rule, or regulation issued pursuant to this chapter, shall be subject to the provisions of sections 35-1306 and 35-1340, respectively. (May 20, 1948, 62 Stat. 247, ch. 324, § 9.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note following § 35-1501.

§ 35-1510. Judicial review.

Any person, firm or corporation aggrieved by any order, ruling, proceeding, or action of the Superintendent may contest the validity of such order, ruling, proceeding, or action in any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or through any other appropriate proceedings, as provided under section 35-1349. § 36-127. "Apprentice" defined.

(4) a statement showing the number of hours to be spent by the apprentice in work and the number of hours to be spent in related and supplemental instruction, which instruction shall be not less than one hundred and forty-four hours per year;

(5) a statement setting forth a schedule of the processes in the trade or industry divisions in which the apprentice is to be taught and the approximate time to be spent at each process;

All such hearings, investigations, and determinations shall be made under authority of reasonable rules and procedures prescribed by the Apprenticeship Council, subject to the approval of the Secretary of Labor.

(b) The determination of the Director shall be filed with the council. If no appeal therefrom is filed with the council within ten days after the date thereof, as herein provided, such determination shall become the order of the council. Application for such permit should be made by the parent or guardian of such minor to the Board of Education of the District of Columbia or a duly authorized agent thereof, at such time as the Board may require. The Board or its agent may issue a permit if satisfied that the parent or guardian of such minor has made adequate provision for the educational instruction of such minor and for safeguarding his health and for the proper supervision of such minor.

The Board is authorized to promulgate such rules and regulations as may be necessary to protect properly the health, morals, and safety of minors coming within the purview of this chapter. (May 29, 1928, ch. 908, § 7a, as added Dec. 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 863, ch. 632, § 2, and amended July 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 329, ch. 569, § 1.)

No minor between fourteen and eighteen years of age shall be employed, permitted, or suffered to work in, about, or in connection with any gainful occupation, except in agricultural work or housework as specified in section 36-201, unless his employer procures and keeps on file and accessible to any attendance officer, inspector, or other person authorized to enforce this chapter a work or vacation permit issued as hereinafter prescribed, except that children between fourteen and eighteen years of age may be employed without a permit outside of school hours in irregular or casual work usual to the home of the employer: Provided, That such employment shall not be in connection with nor form a part of the business, trade, profession, or occupation of the employer: And provided further, That such employment shall not be specifically prohibited by any provision of this chapter or by any order issued under the authority of section 36-203. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1000, ch. 908, § 8.)

§ 36-209. Permit issued by director of school attendance and work permits—Contents—Record of applicants to be kept—List of permits granted or refused to be sent weekly to schools.

The work or vacation permit required by this chapter shall be issued only by the director of the department of school attendance and work permits created under the board of education according to the provisions of sections 31-211 to 31-213, or by any person duly authorized by said director, and shall state the name, sex, color, date, and place of birth, and place of residence of the minor, the grade last completed by said minor, and the kind of evidence of age accepted, and such other details as may be necessary for the identification of the minor. It shall certify that all the requirements for issuing a work or vacation permit under the provisions of this chapter have been fulfilled and shall be signed by the person issuing it. It shall state the name and address of the employer for whom and the nature of the specific occupation in which the work permit authorizes the minor to be employed, and no permit shall be valid except for the employer so named and for the occupation so designated. It shall bear a number, shall show the date of its issue, and shall be signed by the minor for whom it is issued in the presence of the person issuing it, and shall be mailed to the employer by the issuing officer, and in no case given to the minor. A record giving in full for each applicant the facts with reference to his sex, color, date, and place of birth, name and address of parent, guardian, or custodian, name and address of employer, and nature of the specific occupation in which the minor is to be employed, grade and school last attended, evidence of age, and date of issuance or date of refusal of certificate, with reason, shall be kept in the department of school attendance and work permits, together with the physician's certificate of physical fitness, the school record, and the employer's statement of intention to employ the child. Lists shall be sent weekly to each school during the school term giving the names and addresses of all children from that school to whom permits have been issued or refused. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1000, ch. 908, § 9.)

§ 36-210. Application for permit—Evidence required to be furnished—Physician's certificate—School record.

The officer authorized in section 36-209 to issue work or vacation permits shall issue such permits only upon the application in person of the minor desiring employment, accompanied, if said minor is under sixteen years of age, by his parent, guardian, or custodian, and after having received, examined, and approved and filed the following papers, namely:

(a) A statement signed by the prospective employer or by some one duly authorized on his behalf, stating that he expects to give such minor present employment, setting forth the specific nature of the occupation in which he intends to employ such minor, and the number of hours per day and of days per week which said minor shall be employed, and agreeing to send the notice of the commencement of employment, and to return the permit according to the provisions of this chapter.

(b) Evidence of age as provided in section 36-211, showing that the minor is at least fourteen years of age.

(c) A certificate of physical fitness, if such minor is under sixteen years of age; otherwise no such certificate of physical fitness shall be required. Such certificate of physical fitness shall be signed by a medical inspector of the public schools of the District of Columbia, assigned by the Board of Health for such purpose. It shall show the height and weight of the minor and shall state that the said minor has been thoroughly examined by the said physician at the time of his application for a permit, has attained the normal development of a minor of his age and is in sound health, and is physically qualified for the employment specified in the statement submitted in accordance with the requirements of this chapter.

(d) A school record, if such minor is under sixteen years of age; otherwise no such record shall be required. Such school record shall be filled out and signed by the teacher of the class last attended by the minor and countersigned by the principal of the school, public, private, or parochial, which the minor has last attended or by some one duly authorized by him: Provided, That the signature of the teacher shall not be required in the case of a school record filled out during the summer vacation period of the public schools. It shall certify that the said minor is able to read and write correctly sentences in the English language, has satisfactorily completed the eighth grade of the elementary school course prescribed for the public schools in the District of Columbia, or has regularly received in a private or parochial school instruction deemed equivalent by the Board of Education to that prescribed for the completion of the eighth grade in the public schools. Such school record shall give also the full name, date of birth, grade last completed, and residence of the minor as shown on the records of the school. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1001, ch. 908, § 10.)

The evidence of age required by this chapter shall consist of one of the following proofs of age, which shall be required in the order herein designated:

(a) A birth certificate or attested transcript issued by a registrar of vital statistics or other officer charged with the duty of recording births.

(b) A baptismal record or duly certified transcript thereof showing the date of birth and place of baptism of the minor.

(c) A bona fide contemporary record of the date and place of the child's birth kept in the Bible in which the records of the births in the family of the child are preserved, or other documentary evidence satisfactory to the director of the department of school attendance and work permits, such as a passport showing the age of the child, a certificate of arrival in the United States issued by the United States immigration officers and showing the age of the child, or a life-insurance policy: Provided, That such other satisfactory documentary evidence has been in existence at least one year prior to the time it is offered in evidence: And provided further, That a school record or a parent's, guardian's, or custodian's affidavit, certificate, or other written statement of age shall not be accepted except as specified in paragraph (d).

(d) A certificate of physical age, signed by a medical inspector of the public schools assigned by the Board of Health for such purposes and based upon a physical examination, which shall state the height and weight of such minor and other evidence upon which the opinion as to the age of such minor is founded. A parent's, guardian's, or custodian's affidavit of age, and a record of the age as given in the register of the school first attended by the minor, if obtainable, or in the earliest available school census, shall accompany the physician's certificate of age. And no work or vacation permit shall be issued if any of the above possible sources shows the minor to be under the age of fourteen.

The proof of age specified in subdivision (a) shall be accepted in preference to that specified in any subsequent subdivision, and no proof of age permitted by any subsequent subdivision shall be accepted unless there be received and filed substantial evidence that the proof required by the preceding subdivisions can not be obtained. Should such preferred proof of age be later procured, or if subsequent proof of age shall be procured and shall conclusively establish the falsity of the proof previously accepted, the director of the department of school attendance and work permits shall cancel the permit and issue or refuse a new one according to the age thus established. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1001, ch. 908, § 11.)

The director of the department of school attendance and work permits, or any person duly authorized by him, shall have authority to issue a vacation permit to a minor between the age of fourteen and sixteen years, permitting employment during the regular summer vacation period of the public schools, or during the school term at such time as the public schools are not in session, if the age of such minor has been proved according to section 36-211, and such minor has in all other respects, except as to completion of the eighth grade, fulfilled the requirements for a work permit specified in sections 36-201 to 36-227. These permits shall be different in color from the work permit allowing employment while school is in session and shall state the periods during which its use is valid. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1002, ch. 908, § 12.)

§ 36-213. Employer to notify department at commencement and termination of employment of minor—Issuance of new certificates.

Every employer receiving a work or vacation permit shall notify the department in writing within three days of the time of the commencement of the employment of such minor, and within three days after termination of the employment shall return said permit to the department. Failure to so notify shall be cause for the cancellation of the permit; and failure to so return it shall be cause for the refusal of further permits upon the application of such employer. Returned permits shall be filed and the proper school authorities notified. A new certificate shall not be issued to any minor except upon presentation of a new promise of employment and a new certificate of physical fitness. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1002, ch. 908, § 13.)

§ 36-214. Employer to furnish, on demand, proof of age of employee.

Whenever any person authorized to enforce this chapter shall have reason to doubt that any minor employed in any occupation for which a permit is required by this chapter, and for whom a work permit or vacation permit is not on file, has reached the age of eighteen years, such person may make demand on such minor's employer that such employer shall either furnish him within ten days the evidence required for a work permit showing that the minor is in fact eighteen years of age, or shall refuse to employ or permit or suffer such child to work. In case such evidence is not furnished to such person within ten days after such demand, the employer shall not thereafter continue to employ such minor or permit or suffer such minor to work in such establishment. Proof of the making of such demand and of failure to deliver such proof of age shall be prima facie evidence, in any prosecution brought for violation of this chapter, that such minor is under eighteen years of age and is unlawfully employed. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1002, ch. 908, § 14.)

§ 36-215. Penalties.

Whoever employs or permits or suffers any minor to be employed or to work in violation of any of the provisions of sections 36-201 to 36-214, or of any order issued under the provisions of section 36-203, or interferes with, obstructs, or hinders the department enforcing the child labor law, its officers or agents, or any other person authorized to inspect places of employment under this chapter and whoever, having under his control or custody any minor, permits or suffers him to be employed or to work in violation of any of the provisions of sections 36-201 to 36-214, shall for a first offense be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100, or by imprisonment not less than ten days nor more than thirty days, or in the discretion of the court by both such fine and imprisonment, and for any subsequent offense shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200, or by imprisonment not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days, or in the discretion of the court by both such fine and imprisonment. Every day during which any violation of this chapter continues shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1003, ch. 908, § 15.)

§ 36-216. Director of department of school attendance and work permits to enforce law—Inspection of places in which minors are employed.

It shall be the duty of the director of the department of school attendance and work permits organized under the Board of Education of the District of Columbia and of the authorized inspectors and agents of said department to cause all the provisions of this chapter to be enforced, to make complaints against persons violating its provisions, and to prosecute violations of the same. The director of the said department, its inspectors, and agents are empowered and instructed to visit and inspect at any time, and as often as shall be necessary in order effectively to enforce the provisions of this chapter, all places where minors are employed, and shall have authority to enter any place or establishment covered by the terms of this chapter, and to have access to work or vacation permits kept on file by the employer and such other records as may aid in the enforcement of this chapter. All persons authorized to issue certificates of physical fitness and all attendance officers and probation officers are likewise empowered to visit and inspect at all reasonable hours all places where minors may be employed. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1003, ch. 908, § 16.)

No boy under twelve years of age and no girl under eighteen years of age shall distribute, sell, expose, or offer for sale any newspapers, magazines, periodicals, or any other articles or merchandise of any description, or distribute handbills or circulars, in any street or public place, or exercise the trade of bootblack or any other trade, in any street or public place: Provided, That the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to boys ten years of age and over engaged in the distribution of newspapers, magazines, or periodicals on fixed routes. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1004, ch. 908, § 19.)

§ 36-220. Street-trades badges—Evidence upon which issued.

The officer authorized by this chapter to issue street-trades badges shall issue such a badge only upon application of the minor desiring it, accompanied by the parent, guardian, or custodian of such minor, and after having received, examined, approved, and filed the following papers: (1) Evidence that the minor is of the age required by section 36-217, which shall consist of the same evidence as is required for a work permit under this chapter; (2) evidence of physical fitness, which shall consist of a certificate of physical fitness issued as required for a work permit under this chapter; (3) a statement signed by the principal of the school and the teacher of the class which the minor is attending, stating that such minor is regularly enrolled in school and showing the grade such minor has attained, and certifying that in their opinion the minor is physically and mentally qualified to undertake the work contemplated without retarding his progress in school: Provided, That a work permit issued as required by this chapter may be accepted by the issuing officer in lieu of any other requirements for said badge. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1004, ch. 908, § 20.)

§ 36-221. Information to be contained on—Record to be kept—Badges not transferable—Principal of schools to keep list—Revocation if detrimental to minor—Badges to expire annually.

Such badge shall bear a number, and every such badge on its reverse side shall be signed in the presence of the officer issuing the same by the minor in whose name it is issued and shall contain the minor's address and date of birth and such other information as the officer issuing the same shall deem necessary. No minor to whom such badge is issued shall give, lend, sell, or otherwise transfer it to any other person, or be engaged in any of the trades or occupations mentioned in this section without having conspicuously on his person such badge, and he shall exhibit the same upon demand to any police or attendance officer, or to any person charged with the duty of enforcing this chapter. Lists shall be sent weekly to each school during the school term, giving the names and addresses of all minors to whom street trades badges have been issued and refused. The principal of each school shall keep a complete list of all minors in his school to whom badges, as herein required, have been issued, and whenever in the opinion of said principal the possession of any such permit and badge is detrimental to the school standing or well-being of any such minor, shall recommend to the officer issuing the same that the badge of such minor be revoked. All such badges shall expire annually on the 1st day of January. The color of the badge shall be changed each calendar year. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1004, ch. 908, § 21.)

§ 36-222. Penalties for violations of sections 36-217 to 36-224—Commitments to Board of Public Welfare—Probationary supervision—Revocation of badge.

Any minor who shall engage in any of the trades or occupations mentioned in section 36-217, in violation of any of the provisions of sections 36-217 to 36-224, shall for the first offense be warned by the director of the department of school attendance and work permits and the parent, guardian, or custodian of such minor shall be notified. For any subsequent violation, while under the care of said parent, guardian, or custodian, and with his or her knowledge, or consent, said minor may, in the discretion of the court, be deemed to be lacking in proper parental care and guardianship, and may on petition filed for that purpose, and in the discretion of the court, be committed to the Board of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia until twenty-one years of age or for a shorter period as the court may see fit, the said Board of Public Welfare being hereby expressly authorized and required to receive minors so committed. The court may, instead of immediate commitment, suspend the imposition or execution of judgment of commitment, or may, after partial hearing and instead of proceeding to judgment, suspend further proceedings without judgment, with the consent of the parent, guardian, or custodian of said minor, and in either event may assign a probation officer of the juvenile court to exercise probationary supervision over said minor, said probationary supervision to continue in force and the said minor to remain under the jurisdiction and control of the court as a ward of the court until said minor attains the age of seventeen years, or unless sooner discharged by order of the court or committed to said Board of Public Welfare, the court hereby being given power to withdraw said case from said probationary supervision at any time during said probation period, and after a hearing may commit said minor at once to the said board if, in the opinion of the court, the best interests and welfare of said minor shall so require. Upon the recommendation of the principal or chief executive officer of the school which such minor is attending or upon the complaint of any school attendance officer, or any officer authorized to enforce this chapter, the badge of any minor who violates any provision of this chapter, or who becomes delinquent, or who fails to comply with all the legal requirements concerning school attendance, may be revoked by the director of the department of school attendance and work permits for such period as the said officer may require; and upon revocation said officer shall so notify the parent, guardian, or custodian having such minor in charge, and it shall thereupon become the duty of said parent, guardian, or custodian to surrender or require said minor to surrender said badge to the said officer. After notice to such minor and his parent, guardian, or custodian of revocation of such badge, he shall be deemed to be in the same status as a minor without a badge. The refusal of any such minor to surrender his badge upon such revocation shall be deemed a violation of this chapter. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1004, ch. 908, § 22.)

If any provision of this chapter or the application of such provision to certain circumstances be held invalid, the remainder of this chapter and the application of such provision to circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid shall not be affected thereby. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1006, ch. 908, § 28.)

§ 36-227. Board of Education to supervise and have appellate jurisdiction over agents and employees.

The Board of Education shall exercise general supervision and appellate jurisdiction over the agents and employees of said board engaged in the execution of this chapter. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1006, ch. 908, § 29.)

§ 36-228. Juvenile court has jurisdiction.

The juvenile court of the District of Columbia is hereby given jurisdiction in all cases arising under sections 36-201 to 36-227. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1006, ch. 908, § 26.)

§ 36-302. Hours of employment.

No female under eighteen years of age shall be employed or permitted to work in or in connection with any of the establishments or occupations named in section 36-301 before the hour of seven o'clock in the morning or after the hour of six o'clock in the evening of any one day. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Government Printing Office employees

This act is not applicable to female employees in Government Printing Office (33 O. A. G. 355).

§ 36-303. Hours of continuous labor restricted.

No female shall be employed or permitted to work for more than six hours continuously at one time in any establishment or occupation named in section

36-301 in which three or more such females are employed without an interval of at least three-quarters of an hour; except that such female may be so employed for not more than six and one-half hours continuously at one time if such employment ends not later than half past one o'clock in the afternoon and if she is then dismissed for the remainder of the day. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 3.)

§ 36-304. Notice to be posted—Allowance for meals.

Every employer shall post and keep posted in a conspicuous place in every room in any establishment or occupation named in section 36-301 in which any females are employed a printed notice stating the number of hours such females are required or permitted to work on each day of the week, the hours of beginning and stopping such work, and the hours of beginning and ending the recess allowed for meals. The printed form of such notice shall be furnished by the inspectors authorized by sections 36-301 to 36-309. The employment of any such female for a longer time in any day than that stated in the printed notice shall be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. Where the nature of the business makes it impracticable to fix the recess allowed for meals at the same time for all females employed, the inspectors authorized to enforce sections 36-301 to 36-309 may issue a permit dispensing with the posting of the hours when the recess allowed for meals begins and ends, and requiring only the posting of the total number of hours which the females are required or permitted to work on each day of the week and the hours of beginning and stopping such work. Such permit shall be kept by such employer upon such premises and exhibited to all inspectors authorized to enforce sections 36-301 to 36-309. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 4.)

§ 36-305. Time book to be kept.

Every employer shall keep a time book or record for every female employed in any establishment or occupation named in section 36-301, stating the wages paid, the number of hours worked by her on each day of the week, the hours of beginning and stopping such work, and the hours of beginning and ending the recess allowed for meals. Such time book or record shall be open at all reasonable hours to the inspection of the officials authorized to enforce sections 36-301 to 36-309. Any employer who fails to keep such record as required by this section, or makes any false statement therein, or refuses to exhibit such time book or record, or makes any false statement to an official authorized to enforce sections 36-301 to 36-309 in reply to any question put in carrying out the provisions of sections 36-301 to 36-309 shall be liable for a violation thereof. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 5.)

§ 36-306. Inspectors—Appointment.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to appoint three inspectors, two of whom shall be women, to carry out the purposes of sections 36-301 to 36-309. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 6.)

CODIFICATION

Provision for "compensation not exceeding $1,200 each per annum" was omitted as governed by the Classification Act of 1949, classified to U.S. Code, title 5, ch. 21.

§ 36-307. Inspectors authorized to enter buildings.

The inspectors authorized by sections 36-301 to 36-309 may in the discharge of their duties enter any place, building, or room where any labor is being performed by females which is affected by the provisions of sections 36-301 to 36-309 whenever such inspectors may have reasonable cause to believe that any such labor is being performed therein. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 291, ch. 28, § 7.)

§ 36-308. Inspectors to enforce law—Reports.

The inspectors authorized by sections 36-301 to 36-309 shall visit and inspect the establishments and places of employment named in section 36-301 as often as practicable, during reasonable hours, and shall cause the provisions of sections 36-301 to 36-309 to be enforced therein and also the provisions of sections 36-310, 36-311. They shall make a daily report to the commissioners of the District of Columbia, and also report any cases of illegal employment contrary to the provisions of sections 36-301 to 36-309 to the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 292, ch. 28, § 8.)

§ 36-309. Penalties.

Any person who violates or does not comply with any of the provisions of sections 36-301 to 36-309 shall upon conviction be punished for a first offense by a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50; for a second offense, by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200; for a third offense, by a fine of not less than $250. (Feb. 24, 1914, 38 Stat. 292, ch. 28, § 9.)

Evidence 1
Imprisonment 2
Inspectors' failure to report 3

1. Evidence

In prosecution against employer for working employees in violation of this chapter, oral testimony of inspector for Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board as to contents of payroll record prepared by employer was inadmissible, where payroll record was the best and only source of knowledge of the violations charged, record was kept pursuant to § 36-305 and was quasi-public in character and open to government inspection and so could have been used by government without violating constitutional prohibition against self-incrimination, and the records were actually in court and immediately accessible to the prosecution. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 710).

In prosecution against employer for failure to keep proper time records of hours worked by employees in violation of § 36-305, testimony of inspector for Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board, based on owner's admission and not on inspection by witness, as to total absence of such records, was admissible without regard to the parol evidence rule. Id.

2. Imprisonment

A defendant convicted for violation of § 36-305 could be sentenced to prison in event of default in payment of fines, notwithstanding that this section provided for fines only, in view of § 11-606 authorizing commitment of defendant in default of payment of fine imposed. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 710).

3. Inspectors' failure to report

The failure of inspector who inspected records of employer to make daily reports to Commissioners of District of Columbia, as required by § 36-308, did not preclude prosecution of employer for working employees in violation of this chapter and for failure to keep the time records of hours worked by employees as required by § 36-305. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 710).

§ 36-310. Employers to furnish seats for female employees.

All persons who employ females in stores, shops, offices, or manufactories as clerks, assistants, operatives, or helpers in any business, trade, or occupation carried on or operated by them in the District of Columbia, shall be required to procure and provide proper and suitable seats for all such females and shall permit the use of such seats, rests, or stools, as may be necessary, and shall not make any rules, regulations, or orders preventing the use of such stools or seats when any such female employees are not actively employed in their work in such business or employment. (Mar. 2, 1895, 28 Stat. 964, ch. 192, § 1.)

§ 36-311. Penalty.

If any employer of female help in the District of Columbia, shall neglect or refuse to provide seats, as provided in sections 36-310 and 36-311, or shall make any rules, orders, or regulations in his shop, store, or other place of business, requiring females to remain standing when not necessarily employed in service or labor therein, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof in any court of competent jurisdiction shall be liable to a fine therefor in a sum not to exceed twenty-five dollars, with costs, in the discretion of the court. (Mar. 2, 1895, 28 Stat. 964, ch. 192, § 2.)

SUBCHAPTER I.—MINIMUM WAGES

§ 36-401. Definitions.

Where used in this subchapter—

The term "Board" means the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board created by section 36-402;

The term "commissioners" means the commissioners of the District of Columbia;

The term "woman" includes only a woman of eighteen years of age or over;

The term "minor" means a person of either sex under the age of eighteen years;

The term "occupation" includes a business, industry, trade, or branch thereof, but shall not include domestic service. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 960, ch. 174, title I, § 1; Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 1.)

CODIFICATION

This statute was held unconstitutional in the case of Atkins v. Children's Hosp. (261 U. S. 525, 67 L. Ed. 785, 43 Sup. Ct. 394, 24 A. L. R. 1238). In 1936 this case was overruled and a law of similar import, enacted by the State of Washington, was declared constitutional, the case of Morehead v. New York ex rel. Tipaldo (298 U. S. 587, 80 L. Ed. 1347, 56 Sup. Ct. 918, 103 A. L. R. 1445), being distinguished. West Coast Hotel Co. v. Parrish (300 U. S. 379, 81 L. Ed. 703, 57 Sup. Ct. 578, 108 A. L. R. 1330).

On the theory that the last-mentioned case revitalized the District of Columbia Minimum Wage Law, it is incorporated in this Code.

AMENDMENT

1941—Act Oct. 14, 1941, changed "Minimum Wage Board" to "Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board".

CROSS REFERENCE

Fair Labor Standards Act, see U.S. Code, title 29, §§ 201-219.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Classification of occupations 1
Constitutionality 2

1. Classification of occupations

Order of the Minimum Wage Board of the District of Columbia covering certain named occupations as well as a "miscellaneous" category is invalid under Minimum Wage Law of the District of Columbia, prescribing an occupational basis for classification of workers. District of Columbia v. Chambers et al. (1953, 207 F. 2d 14, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 296).

The Minimum Wage Board of the District of Columbia may use its discretion in the classification of occupations under the Minimum Wage Law so long as there is a reasonable basis for such classification, but a lumping together of all unclassified or miscellaneous occupations as one occupation is not a reasonable classification. Chambers v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 89 A. 2d 636).

2. Constitutionality

A Supreme Court decision that District of Columbia Minimum Wage Law is unconstitutional did not repeal or abolish such law, which became effective, without re-enactment by Congress, when effect of such decision was removed by Supreme Court's subsequent decision holding similar law of State of Washington constitutional and expressly overruling previous decision. Jawish v. Morlet (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 96).

§ 36-402. Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board—Members—Quorum.

There is hereby created a board to be known as the "Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board," to be composed of three members to be appointed by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. As far as practicable, the members shall be so chosen that one will be representative of employees, one representative of employers, and one representing the public.

The commissioners shall make their first appointments hereunder within thirty days after September 19, 1918, and shall designate one of the three members first appointed to hold office until January 1, 1919; one to hold office until January 1, 1920; and one to hold office until January 1, 1921. On or before the first day of January of each year, beginning with the year 1919, the commissioners shall appoint a member to succeed the member whose term expires on such first day of January, and such new appointee shall hold office for the term of three years from such first day of January. Each member shall hold office until his successor is appointed and has qualified; and any vacancy that may occur in the membership of the board shall be filled by appointment by the commissioners for the unexpired portion of the term.

A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum to transact business, and the act or decision of such a majority shall be deemed the act or decision of the board; and no vacancy shall impair the right of the remaining members to exercise all the powers of the board. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 961, ch. 174, title I, § 2; Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1941—Act Oct. 14, 1941, changed "Minimum Wage Board" to "Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board".

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS

Reorganization Order No. 36 of the Board of Commissioners dated June 16, 1953 established under the direction and control of a Commissioner, a Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board headed by a chairman and consisting of three members appointed by the Board of Commissioners. All functions of the previously existing Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board including the duties, powers, and authorities of all officers and employees assigned thereto were transferred to the new Board, and all members of the previous Board were reappointed to the new Board. All positions, personnel, property, records and unexpended balances relating to functions and positions transferred were transferred to the new Board, and the previously existing Board was abolished. This order was issued pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. 5 of 1952. The order and plan are set out in the Appendix to title 1, Administration.

The first members appointed shall, within twenty days after their appointment, meet and organize the board by electing one of their number as chairman and by choosing a secretary, who shall not be a member of the board; and on or before the 10th day of January of each year thereafter the board shall elect a chairman and choose a secretary for the ensuing year. The chairman and the secretary shall each hold office until his successor is elected or chosen; but the board may at any time remove the secretary.

The secretary shall perform such duties as may be prescribed. The compensation of the secretary and all other employees of the board shall be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Classification Act of 1949, as amended. None of the members shall receive any salary as such. The board shall have power to employ agents and such other assistants as may be necessary for the proper performance of its duties: Provided, That until further authorization by Congress, the sum which it may expend, including the salary of the secretary, shall not exceed the sum of $5,000. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 961, ch. 174, title I, § 3; June 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 758, ch. 474; Oct. 28, 1949, 63 Stat. 972, ch. 782, title XI, § 1106(a).)

1938—Act June 16, 1938, deleted the words "and receive such salary, not in excess of $2,500 per annum, as may be fixed by the Board," and substituted "the compensation of the Secretary and all other employees of the Board shall be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended."

§ 36-404. Authority to take testimony—Subpœnas.

At any public hearing held by the board any person interested in the matter being investigated may appear and testify. Any member of the board shall have power to administer oaths and the board may require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses, the production of all books, registers and other evidence relative to any matters under investigation, at any such public hearing or at any session of any conference held as hereinafter provided. In case of disobedience to a subpoena the board may invoke the aid of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena the court may issue an order requiring appearance before the board, the production of documentary evidence, and the giving of evidence touching the matter in question, and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 961, ch. 174, title I, § 4; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

§ 36-407. Authority concerning wages of women and minors.

The board shall have full power and authority: (1) To investigate and ascertain the wages of women and minors in the different occupations in which they are employed in the District of Columbia; (2) to examine, through any member or authorized representative, any book, pay roll or other record of any employer of women or minors that in any way appertains to or has a bearing upon the question of wages of any such women or minors; and (3) to require from such employer full and true statements of the wages paid to all women and minors in his employment.

Every employer shall keep a register of the names of the women and minors employed by him in any occupation in the District of Columbia, of the hours worked by each, and of all payments made to each, whether paid by the time or by the piece; and shall, on request, permit any member or authorized representative of the Board to examine such register.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Basis of orders

§ 36-408. Standards of wages to be declared.

The Board is hereby authorized and empowered to ascertain and declare, in the manner hereinafter provided, the following things: (a) Standards of minimum wages for women in any occupation within the District of Columbia, and what wages are inadequate to supply the necessary cost of living to any such women workers to maintain them in good health and to protect their morals; and (b) standards of minimum wages for minors in any occupation within the District of Columbia, and what wages are unreasonably low for any such minor workers. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 962, ch. 174, title I, § 9.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A statute which authorizes a commission, after hearing representatives of employers and employees together with disinterested persons representing the public, to establish such minimum standards of wages and conditions of labor for women and minors as it shall consider reasonable and not detrimental to health and morals and which shall be sufficient for the decent maintenance of women; and to grant special licenses for the employment of apprentices and women who are physically defective or crippled by age or otherwise at less than the prescribed minimum wage is not unconstitutional. West Coast Hotel Co. v. Parrish (1937, 57 S. Ct. 578, 300 U.S. 379, 81 L. Ed. 703, 108 A.L.R. 1330).

If, after investigation, the Board is of opinion that any substantial number of women workers in any occupation are receiving wages inadequate to supply them with the necessary cost of living and maintain them in health and protect their morals, it may call and convene a conference for the purpose and with the powers of considering and inquiring into and reporting on the subject investigated by the Board and submitted by it to such conference. The conference shall be composed of not more than three representatives of the employers in such occupation, of an equal number of representatives of the employees in such occupation, of not more than three disinterested persons representing the public, and of one or more members of the Board. The Board shall name and appoint all the members of the conference and designate the chairman thereof. Two-thirds of the members of the conference shall constitute a quorum, and the decision or recommendation or report of the conference on any subject submitted shall require a vote of not less than a majority of all its members.

The Board shall present to the conference all the information and evidence in its possession or control relating to the subject of the inquiry by the conference, and shall cause to be brought before the conference any witnesses whose testimony the Board deems material. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 962, ch. 174, title I, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

The Minimum Wage Law of the District of Columbia contemplates issuance of orders by the Minimum Wage Board on an occupational basis. Chambers v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 89 A. 2d 636).

§ 36-410. Report of findings and recommendations.

After completing its consideration of and inquiry into the subject submitted to it by the Board, the conference shall make and transmit to the Board a report containing its findings and recommendations on such subject, including recommendations as to standards of minimum wages for women workers in the occupation under inquiry and as to what wages are inadequate to supply the necessary cost of living to women workers in such occupation and to maintain them in health and to protect their morals.

In its recommendations on a question of wages the conference (1) shall, where it appears that any substantial number of women workers in the occupation under inquiry are being paid by piece rates as distinguished from time rate, recommend minimum piece rates as well as minimum time rate and recommend such minimum piece rates as will, in its judgment, be adequate to supply the necessary cost of living to women workers in such occupation of average ordinary ability and to maintain them in health and protect their morals; and (2) shall, when it appears proper or necessary, recommend suitable minimum wages for learners and apprentices in such occupation and the maximum length of time any woman worker may be kept at such wages as a learner or apprentice, which wages shall be less than the regular minimum wages recommended for the regular women workers in such occupation. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 963, ch. 174, title I, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A statute which authorizes a commission, after hearing representatives of employers and employees together with disinterested persons representing the public, to establish such minimum standards of wages and conditions of labor for women and minors as it shall consider reasonable and not detrimental to health and morals and which shall be sufficient for the decent maintenance of women; and to grant special licenses for the employment of apprentices and women who are physically defective or crippled by age or otherwise at less than the prescribed minimum wage is not unconstitutional. West Coast Hotel Co. v. Parrish (1937, 57 S. Ct. 578, 300 U.S. 379, 81 L. Ed. 703, 108 A.L.R. 1330).

§ 36-411. Action of Board—Public hearings.

Upon receipt of any report from any conference, the Board shall consider and review the recommendations, and may approve or disapprove any or all of such recommendations, and may resubmit to the same conference, or a new conference, any subject covered by any recommendations so disapproved.

If the Board approves any recommendations contained in any report from any conference, it shall publish a notice, once a week, for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation printed in the District of Columbia, that it will, on a date and at a place named in the notice, hold a public hearing at which all persons in favor of or opposed to such recommendations will be heard.

After such hearing the Board may, in its discretion, make and render such an order as may be proper or necessary to adopt such recommendations and carry them into effect, requiring all employers in the occupation affected thereby to observe and comply with such order. Such order shall become effective sixty days after it is made. After such order becomes effective, and while it is effective, it shall be unlawful for any employer to violate or disregard any of its terms or provisions, or to employ any woman worker in any occupation covered by such order at lower wages than are authorized or permitted therein.

The Board shall, as far as is practicable, mail a copy of such order to every employer affected thereby; and every employer affected by any such order shall keep a copy thereof posted in a conspicuous place in each room in his establishment in which women workers are employed. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 963, ch. 174, title I, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Classification of occupations

Order of the Minimum Wage Board of the District of Columbia covering certain named occupations as well as a "miscellaneous" category is invalid under Minimum Wage Law of the District of Columbia, prescribing an occupational basis for classification of workers. District of Columbia v. Chambers et al. (1953, 207 F. 2d 14, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 296).

Order of the Minimum Wage Board under the Minimum Wage Law of the District of Columbia placing in one class stenographers, bookkeepers, typists, clerks, cashiers, checkers, professional's assistants and attendants, laboratory mechanics and technicians, messengers, ushers, telegraph and telephone operators, and all similar workers is too broad in its coverage and is invalid. Chambers v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 89 A. 2d 636).

§ 36-412. Licenses for less than time-rate standard.

For any occupation in which only a minimum time-rate wage has been established, the board may issue to a woman whose earning capacity has been impaired by age or otherwise, a special license authorizing her employment at such wage less than such minimum time-rate wage as shall be fixed by the Board and stated in the license. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 963, ch. 174, title I, § 13.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A statute which authorizes a commission, after hearing representatives of employers and employees together with disinterested persons representing the public, to establish such minimum standards of wages and conditions of labor for women and minors as it shall consider reasonable and not detrimental to health and morals and which shall be sufficient for the decent maintenance of women; and to grant special licenses for the employment of apprentices and women who are physically defective or crippled by age or otherwise at less than the prescribed minimum wage is not unconstitutional. *West Coast Hotel Co. v. § 36-413. Determination of minimum wages for minors.

The board may at any time inquire into wages of minors employed in any occupation in the District of Columbia, and determine suitable wages for them. When the board has made such determination it may make such an order as may be proper or necessary to carry such determination into effect. Such order shall become effective sixty days after it is made; and after such order becomes effective and while it is effective it shall be unlawful for any employer in such occupation to employ a minor at less wages than are specified or required in or by such order. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 963, ch. 174, title I, § 14.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Employment of minors, other provisions concerning, see title 31, ch. 2, and chs. 1, 2 of this title.

§ 36-414. Separate inquiries.

Any conference may make a separate inquiry into and report on any branch of any occupation, and the board may make a separate order affecting any branch of any occupation. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 15.)

§ 36-415. Investigations.

The board shall from time to time investigate and ascertain whether or not employers in the District of Columbia are observing and complying with its orders, and shall report to the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia all violations of this chapter. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 16.)

§ 36-416. Decisions of fact by board final—Appeals on questions of law.

All questions of fact arising under the foregoing provisions of this subchapter shall, except as otherwise herein provided, be determined by the board, and there shall be no appeal from the decision of the board on any such question of fact; but there shall be a right of appeal from the board to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia from any ruling or holding on a question of law included or embodied in any decision or order of the board; and, on the same question of law, from such court to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. In all such appeals the corporation counsel shall appear for and represent the board. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 17; June 7, 1934, 48 Stat. 926, ch. 426; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

Act June 7, 1934, substituted "United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia" for "court of appeals of the District of Columbia."

§ 36-417. Penalties for violations.

Whoever violates this subchapter, whether an employer or his agent, or the director, officer, or agent of any corporation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100 or by imprisonment not less than ten days nor more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 18.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Appeals

Where defendants were found guilty on 18 counts of information for violation of Minimum Wage Law, and fine of $25 was imposed under each count, but fines under 14 counts were made concurrent with fines under other counts, so that result was that fines totaled $100, action of Municipal Court would be deemed the entering of one judgment in excess of $50, and therefore it was not necessary for defendants to comply with statute providing that reviews of judgments in criminal branch of Municipal Court, where penalty imposed is less than $50, shall be by application for allowance of appeal within 3 days from date of judgment. Chambers v. District of Columbia (1952, 194 F. 2d 336, 90 U. S. App. D. C. 153).

§ 36-418. Penalties for discrimination by employer against employee who testifies.

Any employer and his agent, or the director, officer, or agent of any corporation who discharges or in any other manner discriminates against any employee because such employee has served or is about to serve on any conference or has testified or is about to testify, or because such employer believes that said employee may serve on any conference or may testify in any investigation or proceedings under or relative to this subchapter shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than

§ 36-419. Employers responsible for acts of agents.

Any act which, if done or omitted to be done by any agent or officer or director acting for such employer, would constitute a violation of this subchapter, shall also be held to be a violation by the employer and subject such employer to the liability provided for by this subchapter. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 20.)

§ 36-420. Jurisdiction of municipal court.

Prosecutions for violations of this subchapter shall be on information filed in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia by the corporation counsel. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 21; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1.)

CONSOLIDATION OF POLICE COURT AND MUNICIPAL COURT

"Municipal Court for the District of Columbia" was substituted for "police court of the District of Columbia" to conform to act Apr. 1, 1942, which consolidated the Police Court and the Municipal Court. See section 11-751.

§ 36-421. Civil action to recover if less than minimum wage paid.

If any woman worker is paid by her employer less than the minimum wage to which she is entitled under or by virtue of an order of the board, she may recover in a civil action the full amount of such minimum wage, less any amount actually paid to her by the employer, together with such reasonable attorney's fees as may be allowed by the court; and any agreement for her to work for less than such minimum wage shall be no defense to such action. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 22.)

§ 36-422. Short title—Purpose.

This chapter shall be known as the "District of Columbia Minimum-Wage Law." The purposes of the subchapter are to protect the women and minors of the District from conditions detrimental to their health and morals, resulting from wages which are inadequate to maintain decent standards of living; and the chapter in each of its provisions and in its entirety shall be interpreted to effectuate these purposes. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 964, ch. 174, title I, § 23.)

SUBCHAPTER II.—INDUSTRIAL SAFETY

§ 36-431. Purpose of subchapter.

The purpose of this subchapter is to foster, promote, and develop the safety of wage earners of the District of Columbia in relation to their working conditions. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 1, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 4 of act Oct. 14, 1941, provided that: "This Act [this subchapter] shall become effective upon its approval by the President [Oct. 14, 1941]."

APPROPRIATIONS

Section 13 of title II of act Sept. 19, 1918, as added by section 3 of act Oct. 14, 1941, provided that: "There is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of the revenues for the District of Columbia, a sum not to exceed $15,000 per annum, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the proper administration of this title [this subchapter]."

SEPARABILITY OF PROVISIONS

Section 14 of title II of act Sept. 19, 1918, as added by section 3 of act Oct. 14, 1941, provided that: "If any provision of this title [this subchapter], or the application of such provision to any person or circumstance, shall be held invalid, the remainder of this title [this subchapter], or the application of such provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid, shall not be affected thereby."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Persons protected

This chapter creating the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board affects the relationship between employer and employee only, and safety regulations promulgated by Board pursuant to § 36-434 did not apply to plaintiff, a wall paper hanger who was not an employee of defendant operator of wall paper company, who was injured when a rod flew out of a wall paper trimming machine owned by defendant and being used by plaintiff in hanging wall paper purchased by plaintiff from defendant. Kurtz v. Capital Wall Paper Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 470).

When used in this subchapter, the following words shall have the following meanings, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(a) "Employer" includes every person, firm, corporation, partnership, stock association, agent, manager, representative, or foreman, or other persons having control or custody of any industrial employment place of employment, or of any employee. It shall not include the District of Columbia or any instrumentality thereof, or the United States or any instrumentality thereof.

(b) "Board" means the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board.

(c) "Safe" and "safety" as applied to an employment, a device, or a place of employment, including facilities of sanitation and hygiene, mean such freedom from danger to life or health of employees as circumstances reasonably permit, and shall not be given restrictive interpretation so as to exclude any mitigation or prevention of a specific danger.

(d) "Place of employment" means any place where industrial employment is carried on: Provided, however, That such term shall not include the premises of any Federal or District of Columbia establishment, except to include any and all work of whatever nature being performed by an independent contractor for the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof or the District of Columbia or any instrumentality thereof.

(Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 2, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective Oct. 14, 1941, see section 4 of act Oct. 14, 1941, set out as a note under section 36-431.

§ 36-433. Additional duties of Board under this subchapter.

The Board, in addition to its duties defined in subchapter I shall administer the provisions of this subchapter and shall have power to make such inspections and investigations as it may deem necessary; collect and compile statistical information; require employers to keep their places of employment reasonably safe; require employers to keep such records as it may deem advisable and to furnish the Board with complete, detailed reports relative to all accidents; determine and fix reasonable standards of safety in employment, places of employment, in the use of devices and safeguards, and in the use of practices, means, methods, operations, and processes of employment; promulgate general rules and regulations based upon such standards and fix the minimum safety requirements which shall be complied with by employers within the purview of this subchapter. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 3, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective Oct. 14, 1941, see section 4 of act Oct. 14, 1941, set out as a note under section 36-431.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Coverage of regulation 2
Validity of regulations 3

1. In general

Congress has power to impose on employer in District of Columbia duty to ascertain at his peril whether his equipment, used by employees, complies with set minimum safety standards. Davis v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 208).

2. Coverage of regulation

A regulation of District of Columbia Industrial Safety Board that general slope of cross grain in side rails of portable ladders should not exceed one inch in fifteen inches was directed to employers using ladders in district rather than ladder manufacturers or retailers who might be located in any part of nation. Davis v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 208).

3. Validity of regulations

A regulation of District of Columbia Industrial Safety Board that general slope of cross grain in wood side rails of portable ladders built to minimum dimensions should not exceed one inch in fifteen inches was not unreasonable, either in general or as applied to employer using or causing his employees to use a ladder having greater slope of grain. Davis v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 208).

Unreasonableness of requirement in regulation of District of Columbia Industrial Safety Board as to ladders that wood used in side rails thereof be dried to not more than specified moisture content did not render entire regulation, including provision as to maximum general slope of cross grain in such rails, unreasonable. Id.

§ 36-434. Rules and regulations—Public hearing—Publication—Effective date.

Before any rules or regulations of the Board shall become effective a public hearing shall be held by the Board for the purpose of investigating reasonable standards of safety in employment, places of employment, in the use of devices and safeguards, and in the use of practices, means, methods, operations, and processes of employment, and any person interested in the matter being investigated may appear and testify. If, after investigation, the Board is of the opinion that minimum standards of safety requirements are necessary to protect or safeguard the lives or health of employees covered by this subchapter, it may adopt and promulgate such rules and regulations as it may deem advisable, which shall become effective thirty days after publication of notice at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the District of Columbia that they have been adopted and copies are available to the public at the office of the Board. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 4, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 4, and amended June 14, 1944, 58 Stat. 279, ch. 258.)

AMENDMENT

1944—Act June 14, 1944, amended section by deleting "they have been published at least once in two of the daily newspapers of general circulation in the District of Columbia.", and inserting in lieu thereof "publication of notice * * * office of the Board."

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective Oct. 14, 1941, see section 4 of act Oct. 14, 1941, set out as a note under section 36-431.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Violation of safety regulations

Evidence sustained conviction for violations of certain safety regulations in connection with construction of a storm water sewer, based on defendant's failure to adequately shore a trench more than 15 feet in depth and 10 feet in length, in violation of safety standards. East River Construction Corp. v. Dist. of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 160 A. 2d 389).

§ 36-435. Authority to take testimony—Subpoena.

Any member of the Board shall have power to administer oaths and the Board may require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses, the production of all books, registers, and other evidence relative to any matters under investigation, at any public hearing, or at any session or any conference held by the Board. In case of disobedience to a subpoena the Board may invoke the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence. In the case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena, the court may issue an order requiring appearance before the Board, the production of documentary evidence and the giving of evidence touching the matter in question, and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 5, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3, and amended June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

§ 36-436. Variations by employers from regulations.

The Board may, upon written application of any employer affected by such rule or regulation, permit variations from any provisions thereof if it shall find that the application of such provision would result in unnecessary hardship or practical difficulty: Provided, however, That the Board shall keep a properly indexed record of all variations permitted from any rule or regulation which shall be open to public inspection. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 6, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3.)

Section effective Oct. 14, 1941, see section 4 of act Oct. 14, 1941, set out as a note under section 36-431.

§ 36-437. Employment of Director of Industrial Safety—Compensation—Duties.

The Board is hereby authorized to employ a Director of Industrial Safety, who shall not be a member of the Board and whose compensation shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1949, as amended. The Director shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by the Board in administering the provisions of this subchapter. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 7, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3, and amended Oct. 28, 1949, 63 Stat. 972, ch. 782, title XI, § 1106(a).)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Witnesses 2

1. Burden of proof

The burden is on employer, charged with violation of District of Columbia Industrial Safety Board's regulation, with its general authority, as to slope of cross grain in wood side rails of ladders, to demonstrate clearly that regulation is beyond board's delegated authority or so unreasonable as to be void. Davis v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 208).

2. Witnesses

One who had been an inspector for industrial safety board of District of Columbia for over five years, had previously been employed as carpenter, iron worker and rigger for large construction company for over thirty years, and was member of carpenters' and iron workers' unions, was qualified to testify as expert that side rail of ladder showed cross grain of one inch in five inches in violation of board's regulation that slope of cross grain should not exceed one inch in fifteen inches. Davis v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 208).

1. Abatement

Where all matured installments had been paid at the date of compensation claimant's death without dependents the unmatured portion of the award abated. Turner v. Christian Heurich Brewing Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 681, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 333).

2. Accidental injury

The evidence, particularly the testimony of the physician, justified the deputy commissioner in ruling that the paralysis was the natural result of the accidental injury. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1934, 69 F. 2d 575, 63 App. D. C. 89).

"Accidental injury" includes any injury which is unexpected or not designed, and just as much includes injury sustained by an employee subject to physical infirmities as injury to one who is strong and robust. Commercial Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1935, 75 F. 2d 677, 64 App. D. C. 158).

3. Action at law

An employee who elects to bring action at law against employer who failed to secure payment of compensation as required by section 932 of title 33, U. S. Code as authorized by section 905 of such title has affirmative duty of showing negligence equally as great as in any other tort action. Garcia v. De Leon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 637).

4. Aggravation of illness

In suit by widow to set aside denial of benefits for death of husband who had been awarded compensation as having been totally and permanently disabled while on job by unexpected overexertion which materially aggravated preexisting aneurysm of abdominal aorta, evidence established that exertion materially aggravated diseased aortic condition, and that disabling effect of injury continued until death, and aggravation of pre-existing aneurysm of abdominal aorta, caused by unexpected overexertion, constituted "accidental injury" within meaning of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. Friend v. Britton (1955, 220 F. 2d 820, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 139, certiorari denied 76 S. Ct. 72, 350 U. S. 836, 100 L. Ed. 745).

Where deceased's conduct demonstrates a sudden change in a pre-existing illness, the question arises whether that illness had been aggravated by the employment; and where upon a truck driver's return from a long and arduous trip he suddenly became obsessed with idea that he was being pursued by mob, with result that he was confined in jail, and was thereafter shot by police officer whom truck driver had violently attacked, wherein there was evidence of pre-existing nervous disorder, evidence was sufficient to warrant conclusion that death arose out of and in the course of employment. Robinson v. Bradshaw (1953, 206 F. 2d 435, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 216, certiorari denied 74 S. Ct. 226, 346 U. S. 899, 98 L. Ed. 399).

If an illness which itself is unrelated to the employment is nevertheless aggravated thereby and death is result, then the death is the result of an injury within the meaning of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, which is the compensation statute applicable in District of Columbia. Id.

5. Application of statute

Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act is to be construed with view to its beneficent purposes, and doubts, including the factual, are to be resolved in favor of the employee or his dependent family. Friend v. Britton (1955, 220 F. 2d 820, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 139, certiorari denied 76 S. Ct. 72, 350 U. S. 836, 100 L. Ed. 745).

Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act is remedial in character and is to be liberally construed, with doubts being resolved in favor of the employee or his dependent family. Robinson v. Bradshaw.

(1953, 206 F. 2d 435, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 216, certiorari denied 74 S. Ct. 226, 346 U. S. 899, 98 L. Ed. 399).

Death benefits under amendatory provision of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act which increased benefits payable and which stipulated that increase should be applicable only to injuries or death occurring on or after effective date of amendment, were payable for death of employee which occurred after effective date but which resulted from injury which happened prior to effective date. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Toner et al. (1951, 190 F. 2d 30, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 77, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 48, 342 U.S. 826, 96 L. Ed. 624).

To bring the case within the terms of the Employers' Liability Act, the defendant must have been at the time of the injury engaged as a common carrier in interstate commerce or commerce solely within the District, and the plaintiff-employee must have been employed by a carrier in such commerce or in work so closely related to it as to be practically a part of it. Poff v. Washington Terminal Co. (1934, 69 F. 2d 572, 63 App. D. C. 86).

There is no substantial reason for denying the District the right to enforce its own law in its own courts, and that in the circumstances the full faith and credit clause does not require that the statutes of Alabama be given effect. United States Casualty Co. v. Hoage (1935, 77 F. 2d 542, 64 App. D. C. 284).

An intent to bar compensation claims before they arise cannot fairly be imputed to Congress. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 107 F. 2d 962, 71 App. D. C. 163).

Under the United States Employees' Compensation Act an injured employee of the United States has his sole remedy. Posey v. Tennessee Valley Authority (C.C.A. 5, 1938, 93 F. 2d 726).

Where salesman's office was in District of Columbia, though his selling contacts were largely outside and his time was nearly equally divided between the two, this section affording him protection for injuries while traveling outside the district in connection with his employment was valid and within power of Congress. B. F. Goodrich Co. v. Britton (1944, 139 F. 2d 362, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 221).

Whether employer was at time of injury engaged in business in District of Columbia and whether deceased was an employee within District in carrying on of the business, and when injured was performing services in connection with the employment, were important considerations in determining whether this section was applicable. Id.

Generally, employer must compensate workman for consequences of an accident although his previous defects cooperated in producing them, and a statute creating exceptions to that general principle should be narrowly construed. National Homeopathic Hospital Ass'n of Dist. of Col. v. Britton (1945, 147 F. 2d 561, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 309, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1185, 325 U. S. 857, 89 L. Ed. 1977).

A workmen's compensation statute must be liberally construed and applied in favor of the workman. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

New York authorities interpreting New York Compensation Act, McKinney's Workmen's Compensation Law § 1 et seq., are particularly important in construing section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, since former Act served as model for latter, which was made applicable to District of Columbia by this section. Garcia v. De Leon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 637).

Where appellant was injured while working in appellee's car barn, he could not recover under § 44-401 of the Code since this section has become the applicable workman's compensation act for the District and appellee was not a common carrier by railroad and is excepted from the operation of this section. Keffer v. Capital Transit Co. (1950, 183 F. 2d 808, 87 U. S. App. D. C. 13).

Workmen's compensation acts are remedial statutes and must be liberally construed in favor of injured employees or deceased employees' dependent families. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. et al. v. Donovan et al. (1954, 124 F. Supp. 320).

Congress did not, by enactment of wrongful death statute and compensation act applicable to District of Columbia, intend to create two separate and independent causes of action for wrongful death, and there was no intention to allow a widow of an injured employee to recover from the employer under both acts. Ciarrocchi v. James Kane Co. et al. (1954, 116 F. Supp. 848).

Where subcontractor and its employee, who were both residents of the District of Columbia, entered into a contract of employment in the District of Columbia, and employee was injured in Virginia because of alleged negligence of general contractor, and employee and subcontractor's insurer, which had paid workmen's compensation to employee, sought recovery in Virginia from general contractor, on ground that general contractor negligently caused employee's injuries, courts in Virginia, including federal tribunals, could treat the District of Columbia Compensation Law with its privilege of suing the general contractor as a constituent of employee's contract of employment. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. v. Goode Const. Co. (1951, 97 F. Supp. 316).

Where subcontractor and its employee, who were both residents of the District of Columbia, entered into a contract of employment in the District of Columbia, and employee was injured in Virginia because of alleged negligence of general contractor, employee and subcontractor's insurer which had paid workmen's compensation to employee, were entitled to maintain action in federal district court in Virginia against general contractor, on ground that general contractor negligently caused employee's injuries, though such action was not maintainable under Virginia compensation law. Id.

6. Assumption of risk

A ride by employee on running board of dump truck was not so obviously dangerous or risky a method of traveling a few hundred feet that employee assumed risk of injury. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Britton (1946, 152 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

7. Award

Wage-earning capacity of the employee was diminished by reason of the injuries sustained by him in the course of and arising out of his employment. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. v. Hoage (1936, 85 F. 2d 420, 66 App. D. C. 163).

Medical and similar benefits which the employer is required to furnish are not to be counted in applying the $7,500 limit of "total compensation" payable for death or injury, and it follows that compensation acts are to be "construed liberally in furtherance of the purpose for which they were enacted." Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1939, 101 F. 2d 254, 69 App. D. C. 330).

When employee had hernia which caused disability, at first apparently temporary but later becoming permanent, this change is sufficient to support the modification of an award. New Amsterdam Casualty Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 108 F. 2d 492, 71 App. D. C. 172).

Where employee fell in course of his work and fractured right kneecap, but previous accidents, none of them connected with any employment, had fractured same kneecap and had led to amputation of left leg and left arm, and the fracture caused by the fall, combined with the previous fracture and amputations, caused permanent total disability, the employee was properly awarded compensation based on permanent total disability and on his earning capacity at time of the fall. National Homeopathic Hospital Ass'n of Dist. of Col. v. Britton (1945, 147 F. 2d 561, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 309, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1185, 325 U. S. 857, 89 L. Ed. 1977).

8. Causal relationship

Fact that workman's death from coronary thrombosis occurred shortly after attack of chest pains was evidence of causal relationship between attack and death, as was strenuous nature of work prior to fatal attack. Vendemia v. Cristaldi et al. (1955, 221 F. 2d 103, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

For purposes of compensation under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, to hasten death is to cause it. Id.

9. Change in physical condition

There was, within the meaning of this section, a change in the injured person's physical condition in relation to the injury, since the condition, which was temporary at one time, had become permanent. New Amsterdam Casualty Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 108 F. 2d 492, 71 App. D. C. 172).

10. Commissioner's finding of fact

When evidence sustained the deputy commissioner's finding of suicide as opposed to accident, the court should not have disturbed an order denying compensation. Del Vecchio v. Bowers (1935, 56 S. Ct. 190, 296 U. S. 280, 80 L. Ed. 229).

Deputy commissioner, in a proceeding under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, need not disclose his reasoning processes in reaching a conclusion, but court should have, to extent possible, deputy commissioner's views so as to be able to follow and appraise his application of law to the evidence. Vendemia v. Cristaldi et al. (1955, 221 F. 2d 103, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

In proceeding under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, neither the District Court nor the Court of Appeals is a trier of facts. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Britton (1951, 188 F. 2d 674, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 293).

The deputy commissioner's findings of fact, if supported by evidence, are conclusive. Employers Liability Assur. Corp. v. Hoage (1934, 69 F. 2d 227, 63 App. D. C. 53). See, also, Malone v. Hoage (1935, 73 F. 2d 855, 64 App. D. C. 38); Maryland Casualty Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 107 F. 2d 959, 71 App. D. C. 160); London Guarantee & Accident Co. v. Britton (1944, 138 F. 2d 932, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 195).

Cases in which an order of the Commissioner may be set aside as "not in accordance with law" are only those in which it appears that there is an error of law, or in which the order of the Commissioner is not supported by substantial evidence, as well, of course, in those in which it is arbitrary and unreasonable. Whitfield v. Hoage (1934, 71 F. 2d 690, 63 App. D. C. 237). See, also, Groom v. Cardillo (1941, 119 F. 2d 697, 73 App. D. C. 358).

As the question is solely the fact of employment, and, as this fact is an essential condition precedent to the right to make the claim, the proceeding in the court below was entirely proper, and Supreme Court will not overrule lower court unless findings are clearly wrong. Metropolitan Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1934, 72 F. 2d 175, 63 App. D. C. 307).

Deputy commissioner was justified in concluding that the death of the deceased arose at least in substantial part from his employment. London Guarantee & Acc. Co. v. Hoage (1934, 72 F. 2d 191, 63 App. D. C. 323).

Conclusion reached by deputy commissioner upon the facts found by him was contrary to law, and the claim of appellant should have been sustained when he was an employee at the time of the accident, at his place of duty, and engaged in his employment. Scott v. Hoage (1934, 73 F. 2d 114, 63 App. D. C. 391).

Chain of causation, beginning with the inhalation of the gas and ending in his death, as found by the deputy commissioner, is satisfactorily shown by the evidence. National Casualty v. Hoage (1936, 73 F. 2d 850, 64 App. D. C. 33).

Findings of the deputy commissioner upon the facts in compensation case are final and conclusive when supported by competent evidence. The act does not authorize the court to reweigh the evidence when more than one inference can be drawn for the purpose of arriving at a different conclusion from the deputy commissioner. Fulton v. Hoage (1935, 77 F. 2d 110, 64 App. D. C. 232).

Testimony supports the deputy commissioner's finding that the employee was "mentally incompetent" from the time of his injury to the time when his committee was appointed. Hoage v. Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Co. (1935, 78 F. 2d 1009, 65 App. D. C. 5).

Deputy commissioner, when passing upon the extent of injured person's vision, should not have excluded from consideration the assistance which he could receive from the use of glasses. Washington Terminal Co. v. Hoage (1935, 79 F. 2d 158, 65 App. D. C. 33).

Deputy commissioner is authorized to award compensation using as the basis for his average annual earnings such sum as shall reasonably represent the annual earning capacity of the injured employee in the employment in which he was working at the time of the injury, having regard to "the previous earnings of the injured employee and of other employees of the same or most similar class." Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. v. Hoage (1936, 85 F. 2d 411, 66 App. D. C. 154).

Deputy commissioner and the District Court were within their discretion in finding, in effect, that declarations concerning the injury were corroborated. Associated General Contractors v. Cardillo (1939, 106 F. 2d 327, 70 App. D. C. 303).

In workmen's compensation case, findings of a deputy commissioner, if supported by substantial evidence, are conclusive on court regardless of whether findings result in the grant or denial of a claim to compensation. Carson v. Cardillo (1943, 132 F. 2d 604, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 82).

In proceeding under this chapter, deputy commissioner's finding of fact is subject to review and reversal by a court only in a case in which the findings are not supported by substantial evidence. Gudmundson v. Cardillo (1942, 126 F. 2d 521, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

Where district court determined that evidence did not support deputy commissioner's finding that at time of employee's death widow was living apart for justifiable cause, failure of district court to remand case to deputy commissioner for possible finding either that widow was dependent for support on employee or that she was living with him was not error where evidence would not have supported either finding. Weeks v. Behrend (1943, 135 F. 2d 258, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 341).

In proceeding under this chapter, Deputy Commissioner's findings as to jurisdiction are entitled to great weight and will be rejected only where there is apparent error. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

Finding of Deputy Commissioner that injuries sustained by stenographer, who was struck by taxicab while on way to lunch, did not arise out of and in course of employment, was supported by evidence and was not inconsistent with law. Wetzel v. Britton (1948, 170 F. 2d 285, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 327).

In proceeding to obtain workmen's compensation for death of manager-cook, of lunch counter at drugstore, who was shot by customer whom manager-cook had ejected from drugstore, evidence sustained deputy commissioner's conclusion that deceased's death came within coverage of this section. National Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 187 F. Supp. 359).

Evidence sustained deputy commissioner's findings that musicians who were individually paid by proprietor of restaurant were employees of proprietor, notwithstanding facts that proprietor made no deductions from their compensation for social security and income taxes and no premiums for workmen's compensation were paid with regard to them. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

Evidence sustained deputy commissioner's findings that musicians who were paid $10 wages a night, five days a week and who received tips had average wage of $65 per week.

Evidence sustained deputy commissioner's finding that decedent's mother was dependent upon him. Id.

11. Conflict of laws

Maryland Workmen's Compensation Act, relieving principal contractor of common law liability to employees of his subcontractors if he has workmen's compensation insurance for their benefit, would be a bar to District of Columbia tort action brought against principal contractor by electrician employed in District of Columbia by subcontractor but injured while working on principal employer's project in Maryland. Jonathan Woodner Co. v. Mather (1954, 210 F. 2d 868, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 234, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 39, 348 U. S. 824, 99 L. Ed. 650).

State of employment can give workmen's compensation even though injury occurred in another jurisdiction which would provide workmen's compensation, on basis said to be exclusive; and state in which injury occurred can provide workmen's compensation even though state where contract of employment was made would also provide workmen's compensation, on a purportedly exclusive basis. Id.

12. Constitutionality

This section does not violate constitutional provision for jury trial. Roulette v. Rothstein Dental Laboratories, (1933, 63 F. 2d 150, 61 App. D. C. 373, certiorari denied 53 S. Ct. 657, 289 U. S. 736, 77 L. Ed. 1484).

This chapter, which makes factual decision of deputy commissioner final, does not violate the "due process of law" provision of U. S. Const. Amend. 5. Gudmundson v. Cardillo (1942, 126 F. 2d 521, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

This chapter, construed as applying to case where there is some substantial connection between the District and the particular employee-employer relationship regardless of place of work or injury, fully satisfies any constitutional question of due process or full faith and credit. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

The provision in Longshoremen's Compensation Act that employer's liability for benefits under the act is exclusive and in place of all other liability of employer to employee and anyone else entitled to recover damages from employer does not cover damages from employer on account of such injuries does not deny due process to electric company barred by such provision from recovering contribution in third party action from gas company for injuries received by employee, to whom compensation had been paid, when gas company's crane came in contact with electric company's overhead high voltage power line. Coates v. Potomac Electric Power Co. (1951, 95 F. Supp. 779).

13. Contributory negligence

Contributory negligence of employee is no defense under section 904 (b) of title 33, U. S. Code, and this section. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Britton (1946, 152 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

14. Death in the course of employment

Findings of deputy commissioner, in proceeding under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as to whether death of an employee arose out of and in the course of his employment, are to be accepted unless they are unsupported by substantial evidence on the record considered as a whole. Robinson v. Bradshaw (1953, 206 F. 2d 435, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 216, certiorari denied 74 S. Ct. 226, 346 U. S. 899, 98 L. Ed. 399).

In determining whether death arose out of employment, when store manager was accidentally killed by gunshot wound, evidence that his possession of pistol was reasonably necessary for performance of his duties was admissible. Del Vecchio v. Bowers (1934, 67 F. 2d 751, 62 App. D. C. 327).

Butcher's death which was caused by the violent wrench suffered by him when handling the calf permitting the escape of colon bacilli causing pus, and finally involving the lower lobe of the left lung resulting in pneumonia, was accidental. Employer's Liability Assur. Corp. v. Hoage (1937, 91 F. 2d 318, 67 App. D. C. 245).

This section creates a right of action against employer on account of death of employee arising out of and in course of employment, but it does not create a cause of action for wrongful death against any other person. Webster v. Clodfelter (1942, 130 F. 2d 434, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 171, 143 A. L. R. 280).

Heat stroke causing death of parking lot attendant was compensable as "arising out of and in course of employment." Davison v. Cardillo (1944, 143 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 121).

Where lease, occupancy permit, and insurance against fire and theft were all in name of operator of parking lot alone, both before and after making of "partnership agreement" with deceased parking lot attendant which contained no provision for distribution of profits, deceased was not a "partner," but an "employee," and his death was compensable. Id.

Where salesman was fatally injured in automobile accident while on way back to his office in District of Columbia from a business trip in Pennsylvania, the salesman's death was compensable since it "arose out of employment." B. F. Goodrich Co. v. Britton (1944, 139 F. 2d 362, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 221).

Where contract between employer and union required employer to furnish transportation for work outside District of Columbia and employer performed its contractual obligation by paying travel costs and allowing employees to select transportation method, Deputy Commissioner's finding that fatal injury, received by employee while driving his automobile homeward after terminating day's work, "arose out of and in course of employment", was justified even though employee was not being paid wages at time of accident. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins.

"Course of employment" within section 902 (2) of title 33, U.S. Code, may include incidents of social character, the correct criterion being involvement of the incident in the employment. Hurley v. Lowe (1948, 168 F. 2d 553, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 123, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1338, 334 U. S. 828, 92 L. Ed. 1756).

"Course of employment" on a specified errand or business trip, ordered by an employer, to a place different from the regular place of employment, includes all the ordinary incidents of the errand, such as the eating of meals in ordinary places at ordinary times which the employer would normally contemplate as occurring in the course of errand. Id.

Where attorney employed by law firm in District of Columbia was sent by firm on business trip to another city and during course of dinner with his father and mother at restaurant in that city sustained an injury from which he died, conclusion of deputy commissioner that dinner was of a social character and that therefore injury was not sustained in "course of employment" was not "forbidden by law" or without any reasonable legal basis, and hence could not be disturbed by reviewing court, though contrary to court's opinion. Id.

In proceeding to recover compensation for deaths of musicians who were performing in a restaurant and who were shot and killed by persons who had been ejected as intoxicated and disorderly patrons but who had returned with firearms, in view of showing that musicians had completed their performance and had been paid off before the occurrence but that they had sat around the restaurant for their own personal purposes instead of immediately leaving, there was no substantial evidence justifying finding that they were murdered in course of their employment. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner, etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

Where musicians engaged to perform in restaurant had completed their performance for the evening and had been immediately paid but they remained at the restaurant for their own personal purposes for about a period of a half hour before persons who had been ejected during the evening as disorderly patrons returned and shot them to death, at the time they were shot, they were not on premises in course of their employment and were not in employment status under this section, and their deaths were not compensable thereunder. Id.

15. Dependency

For dependency within Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, there must be a legal or a voluntarily created status where the contributions are made for the purpose and have the result of maintaining or helping to maintain the dependent in his customary standard of living. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Trust Co. v. Britton (1951, 188 F. 2d 674, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 293).

The term "justifiable cause," in Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 902 (16) of title 33, U. S. Code, defining widow, is used in its legal sense and ordinarily a wife who lives apart from her husband does so for what is called "justifiable cause" only when she does so because of her husband's matrimonial misconduct. Weeks v. Behrend (1943, 135 F. 2d 258, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 341).

Where employee and wife lived apart by mutual consent, so that employee would be eligible for relief, wife made no objection to employee's leaving and no attempt to rejoin him, and employee made no regular contributions to wife's support, the wife was not entitled to compensation under this chapter for death of employee on theory that she was living apart for "justifiable cause." Id.

Where employee and wife lived apart by mutual consent, employee made no regular contributions to wife's support, and wife testified in effect that she earned a modest living by running a rooming house which she and her brother owned, while her husband was on relief, evidence would not sustain award of compensation under this chapter on theory that the wife was "dependent for support" on the employee or that she was "living with" the employee. Id.

Partial dependency will sustain an award of compensation under the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, 33 section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, but occasional contributions will not sustain a finding of partial dependency unless they are necessary and relied on. Id.

Compensation benefits rest solely upon statutory authority and the rights of beneficiaries are dependent upon and limited by the terms of section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, the purpose of which is to protect a disabled employee and his dependents. Turner v. Christian Heurich Brewing Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 681, 83 U.S. App. D. C. 333).

16. Disability, definition of

In construing statutory provision that if an employee receive an injury which of itself would only cause permanent partial disability but which, combined with a previous disability, does in fact cause permanent total disability, the employer should provide compensation only for disability caused by the subsequent injury, the relevant parts of the statutory definitions of "disability" and "injury" must be read in the place of the defined word "disability", so that the statutory phrase "combined with a previous disability" becomes "combined with a previous incapacity because of accidental injury arising out of and in course of employment". National Homeopathic Hospital Ass'n of Dist. of Col. v. Britton (1945, 147 F. 2d 561, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 309, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1185, 325 U. S. 857, 89 L. Ed. 1977).

17. Election of remedies

Where widow had accepted award of benefits under Workmen's Compensation Act, all rights to damages had been superseded by provisions of act, and she could not maintain action against employer for loss of consortium for death of husband. Brown v. Curtin & Johnson, Inc. (1955, 221 F. 2d 106, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

Under this chapter, which entitles injured employee to receive from his employer any excess over reimbursement which employer recovers from third party wrongdoer, injured employee's acceptance of compensation operates as an absolute transfer to the employer of substantive rights of injured employee against the wrongdoer and strips the employee of any further right until the employer recovers an amount in excess of his expenditures and only then a new right arises against the employer for the excess. Moore v. Heckinger (1942, 127 F. 2d 746, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 391).

Workmen's Compensation Act applicable to District of Columbia, providing in part that liability of an employer under act shall be exclusive and in place of all other liability, would have precluded employee from maintaining action for heart injury suffered while moving a piano in the course of his employment by defendant, if the injury had not resulted in death and thus his widow and children, who had accepted benefits of Compensation Act, could not maintain action under wrongful death statute making right of action dependent on whether decedent would have been able to maintain action for injury if death had not ensued. O'Neil v. Shelton Bros. Trucking Co. (1954, 116 F. Supp. 654).

An injured employee's mere acceptance of compensation payments from his employer without an award under Longshoremen's Compensation Act does not preclude him from thereafter electing to sue a third-party tort-feasor for damages. Jordan v. District of Columbia (1954, 116 F. Supp. 559).

In action against District of Columbia for personal injuries, defense that plaintiff waived right to recover damages from District by receiving compensation payments from his employer without an award under Longshoremen's Compensation Act was legally insufficient, where plaintiff filed notice of election to recover damages from District, instead of receiving compensation under act. Id.

The alternative remedy against an employer who fails to secure payment of compensation as required by section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, provided by section 905 of title 33, U. S. Code, authorizing an election to claim compensation or to maintain action in law or in admiralty for damages on account of injury or death of employee is elective. Garcia v. De Leon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 637).

Standard workmen's compensation and employers' liability policy obligating insurer to pay promptly any person entitled to payment under the compensation law, and providing that all provisions of the law covered should remain part of policy, secured compensation to minor injured in course of employment while allegedly employed contrary to Child Labor Law, § 36-201 et seq., for any claim properly cognizable under the law, so that minor's remedy for workmen's compensation was exclusive, and minor could not maintain a common-law suit against employer for injuries, notwithstanding provision of policy obligating insurer to indemnify employer against loss by reason of liability imposed on him by law on account of injuries of employees "legally employed". Mellen v. Hirsch (D. C. Md. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 250, affirmed 171 F. 2d 127).

18. Employees' duties controlling

Where main duty of deckhand employed on a stripper dredge was to coal up dredge from scow, and coal was used to fire engine which operated scoop shovel, deckhand was not a "member of a crew," and hence his claim for injuries was covered by the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, as made applicable to a District of Columbia employer and not by the Merchant Marine Act, section 688 of title 46, U. S. Code. Beddoo v. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corporation (1942, 128 F. 2d 608, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 39).

19. Employers' liability

An employer is responsible in the particulars and to the extent specified by the Workmen's Compensation Act for all legitimate consequences flowing from a compensable injury, but the liability so imposed measures an employee's entitlement. Lindsay et al. v. George Washington University (1960, 279 F. 2d 819, 108 U.S. App. D.C. 44).

The liability of an employer who is insured under the Workmen's Compensation Act is limited to the amount of damages prescribed. Brown v. Curtin & Johnson Inc. (1954, 117 F. Supp. 830, affirmed 221 F. 2d 106, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

20. Employment outside state

In compensation proceeding under this chapter, evidence that offer of employment was made by employer's foreman in District of Columbia, that workman was not hired until he was put to work in Maryland, and that injury occurred in Maryland sustained deputy commissioner's finding that the employment relationship was created in Maryland and not in the District of Columbia and that the deputy commissioner did not have jurisdiction to make an award. Gudmundson v. Cardillo (1942, 126 F. 2d 521, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

21. Employment relationship

In workmen's compensation proceeding, evidence supported commissioner's findings that defendants were claimant's "employers" within meaning of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. Harris v. Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1955, 218 F. 2d 45, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

Under this chapter, right to compensation depends on existence of relation of master and servant at time of injury. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1946, 154 F. 2d 529, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 72, reversed on other grounds 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

Liability under this chapter is based, not on any act or omission of employer, but upon existence of relationship which employee bears to employment because of and in course of which he has been injured. Id.

While employee must have a reasonable time within which to leave employer's premises after his duties are finished for the day, if, for his own purposes, he tarries for some time after working hours, he is no longer in employment status under this section and any injuries sustained during that period are not compensable. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

22. Evidence

Where an employee within the provisions of this act is found dead and the evidence on the issue of accident or suicide is evenly balanced, the presumption created by section 20 (d) of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act that the death was not suicidal, has not the quality of affirmative evidence, and the presumption may be invoked only where there is an entire lack of competent evidence. Del Vecchio v. Bowers (1935, 56 S. Ct. 190, 296 U.S. 280, 80 L. Ed. 229).

Evidence sustained award of Deputy Commissioner to claimant under the District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Act, incorporating by reference the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, on ground that claimant sustained permanent partial disability as result of injury sustained in course of employment. Gilbane Building Company v. Britton (1959, 264 F. 2d 574, 105 U. S. App. D. C. 101).

In proceeding under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, the evidence sustained finding of Deputy Commissioner that employee's mother, sister and brother were dependents within meaning of Act. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Trust Co. v. Britton (1951, 188 F. 2d 674, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 293).

Evidence showed quite clearly that the possession of the pistol was reasonably necessary in the duty which deceased owed to protect his employer's property and his own life. Del Vecchio v. Bowers (1933, 67 F. 2d 751, 62 App. D. C. 327).

To justify an award there must have been some substantial connection between the alleged accident and the employment. Hoage v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1935, 78 F. 2d 874, 64 App. D. C. 395).

The weight of the evidence is for the deputy commissioner and not for the courts under the Compensation Act. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 107 F. 2d 962, 71 App. D. C. 163).

Where employee sustained toe injury in October which was followed by protracted infection, debility, and lowered resistance, and carbuncle appeared in June following, in workmen's compensation proceeding, fact that expert opinion regarding the links before the carbuncle was not unanimous might have detracted from its weight as evidence, but it did not destroy its substantiality. Great American Indemnity Co. v. Cardillo (1943, 135 F. 2d 241, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 306).

Where employee sustained toe injury in October which was followed by protracted infection, debility, and lowered resistance, and carbuncle appeared in June following, and causal relation between carbuncle, subsequent hip injury, osteomyelitis, and osteoporosis, which caused temporary total disability, was admitted, evidence that causal relation existed between the toe injury and the temporary total disability supported an award of compensation. Id.

In workmen's compensation proceeding presenting question whether this section was applicable to injuries sustained in Virginia, evidence sustained finding that employer, which had main office in New York, was engaged in construction work under three separate contracts, two located in the District and one in Virginia, that employer had an office in the District, that injured workmen's contract of employment was made in the District, and that no separate contract of employment was made when he was transferred from one job to another. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1944, 141 F. 2d 364, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 394).

Evidence supported finding that claimant, who was injured when brushed from running board of truck, had observed his fellow workers riding on the running board of truck. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Britton (1946, 152 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Appellant's contention that the act was not applicable since the employer had not obtained insurance covering his injury as required by the act, is clearly contrary to the evidence presented. Mellen v. Hirsch (1949, 171 F. 2d 127).

In proceeding on claim for compensation under provisions of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, deputy commissioner of bureau of employees' compensation improperly admitted into evidence police record of claimant disclosing not only prior criminal convictions but also prior convictions of crimes not within the meaning of statute regarding the admission of evidence to affect credibility of a witness who has been convicted of a crime and arrests which did not result in convictions. Colter v. C. Einbinder, Deputy Commissioner, etc. (1960, 184 F. Supp. 523).

Conclusions of deputy commissioner that employee's tuberculosis was contracted during employment and out of the employment because of aggravated risk resulting from employee's being sent by employer to work in Japan, which has a comparatively high incidence rate of tuberculosis, were reasonably supported by evidence. Travelers Insurance Co. v. Donovan (1955, 125 F. Supp. 261, affirmed 221 F. 2d 886, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 331).

A finding of Deputy Commissioner of District of Columbia Bureau of Employees' Compensation that death of night watchman as result of coronary occlusion arose out of his employment within Longshoremen's Compensation Act, applicable as District's workmen's compensation law, was supported by substantial evidence, whether such occlusion occurred immediately before or after deceased slipped and fell down stairway in course of his employment. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. et. al. v. Donovan et al. (1954, 124 F. Supp. 320).

In action to review award of compensation under Longshoremen's Compensation Act, applicable as District of Columbia workmen's compensation law, for employee's death, District Court may not substitute its own judgment for finding of Deputy Commissioner of District Bureau of Employees' Compensation, supported by substantial evidence, that death arose out of decedent's employment. Id.

In prosecution of employer for failing to secure payment of compensation as required under the Workmen's Compensation Act, employer's payroll books, which had been legally obtained from former employees of employer, were properly admitted in evidence as one link in chain of evidence to prove that employer was an employer during period alleged in information, however incriminating books might be. Tyree v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 155 A. 2d 914).

23. Exclusiveness of remedy

Exclusive remedy provision of the Workmen's Compensation Act barred a suit by an employee, against his employer, for damages for alleged malpractice at employer's hospital in treatment of a compensable injury, and fortuity that employer operated the hospital where the professional services complained of were rendered was immaterial. Lindsay et al. v. George Washington University (1960, 279 F. 2d 819, 108 U.S. App. D.C. 44).

The compensation provided by officers' mess for injuries to civilian employees of the mess was employee's exclusive remedy against the United States and he could not recover under Tort Claims Act though private insurance carrier was compensation insurer of the mess. Aubrey v. United States (1959, 254 F. 2d 768 103 U. S. App. D. C. 65).

In District of Columbia, Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act is the exclusive remedy for injuries occurring in course of employment. Reeves v. Hot Shoppes, Inc., and C. Kittredge (1960, 184 F. Supp. 436).

Defense that injury in District of Columbia occurred in course of employment is not an affirmative defense which may be treated or waived, but goes to jurisdiction of court. Id.

Where gas company employee recovered longshoremen's compensation for injuries, electric company sued by employee for injuries received when gas company's crane came in contact with electric company's overhead high voltage power line was barred from recovering contribution from gas company in third party action by provision in Longshoremen's Compensation Act that employer's liability for benefits under the Act is exclusive and in place of all other liability of employer to employee and to anyone else entitled to recover damages from employer on account of such injuries. Coates v. Potomac Electric Power Co. (1951, 95 F. Supp. 779).

24. Federal jurisdiction

Where Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act had been made applicable in District of Columbia as a workmen's compensation law, suit by employer's insurer as statutory assignee under Act against third party tort-feasors would involve a federal question under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act and Act was a law of United States within meaning of statute authorizing federal jurisdiction if cause of action arises under federal statute. City Stores Company v. Shull (1958, 161 F. Supp. 459).

25. Finality of award

Trial court's action in dismissing defendant's suit to set aside supplementary order, declaring amount in default in workmen's compensation proceeding, and in entering judgment for amount in default was not error, where defendants were notified of application for such supplementary order and failed to respond thereto. Harris v. Deputy Commissioner et. al. (1955, 218 F. 2d 45, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

26. General contractor as "third person"

Since the District of Columbia Compensation Law is an adaptation of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, it will by analogy be interpreted to render a general contractor suable as a "third person" by an employee of a subcontractor. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. v. Goode Const. Co. (1951, 97 F. Supp. 316).

27. Impaired annual earning capacity

In determining impaired annual earning capacity of an injured employee under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act as made applicable to the District of Columbia, "general earnings" are not restricted to employments or types of employment but rather extend to individual earnings. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner et al. (1956, 233 F. 2d 699, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 208, certiorari denied 77 S. Ct. 214, 352 U.S. 918, 1 L. Ed. 2d 122).

In workmen's compensation proceedings for injuries sustained by employee when he fell some 45 feet during installation of an elevator, evidence sustained finding of employee's impaired earning capacity. Id.

In awarding workmen's compensation based on impaired capacity to earn, previous earnings from a job other than the one in which the injury was sustained were properly considered along with previous earnings of the injured employee in the employment in which he was working at the time of the injury, even though the job at which employee was injured was full year-round employment. Id.

28. Injuries in the course of employment

Evidence held sufficient to show that warehouse manager was injured in the course of his employment, when injury occurred while he was on his way to the warehouse on Sunday. Voehl v. Indemnity Ins. Co. (1933, 53 S. Ct. 380, 288 U. S. 162, 77 L. Ed. 676).

Where coworker on third floor level was handing down to employee on ground planks weighing some 90 pounds each and employee collapsed while on the job, and it was found that he had suffered a paralysis of his right side due to occlusion of a cerebral vessel and that his "strenuous work" as found by deputy commissioner had accelerated a severe pre-existing, but symptom-free, diastolic hypertension, and also diagnosed was a sclerosis of the cerebral arteries, findings of district court that employee's injury arose out of and in course of his employment did not lack substantial support in the evidence. General Accident Fire & Life Assurance Corp. et al. v. Donovan, Deputy Commissioner, etc. (1958, 251 F. 2d 915, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 204, reconsideration denied 251 F. 2d 961, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 207).

Garage employee proved by sufficient evidence to be employee and entitled to compensation for injury. Lumbermens Mut. Casualty Co. v. Hoage (1932, 58 F. 2d 1072, 61 App. D. C. 171).

In a claim for compensation on ground of relationship of employer and employee, evidence warranted finding that relation was that of partnership. Georgia Casualty Co. v. Hoage (1932, 59 F. 2d 870, 61 App. D. C. 195).

Newspaper solicitor, when in the course of his employment has to pass along the public streets and thereby sustains an accident by reason of the risks incident to the streets, the accident "arises out of" as well as "in the course of" his employment. New Amsterdam Casualty Co. v. Hoage (1933, 62 F. 2d 468, 61 App. D. C. 306).

An injury "arises out of" the employment within the meaning of the Compensation Act when it occurs in the course of the employment and as the result of a risk involved in or incidental to the employment or to the conditions under which it is required to be performed, and the mere fact that the injury is contemporaneous or co-incident with the employment is not a sufficient basis for an award. Speaks v. Hoage (1935, 78 F. 2d 208, 64 App. D. C. 324).

Injury suffered by an insurance agent, on the way home, when superior ordered him home, was compensatable as occurring in and arising out of the course of employment. Proctor v. Hoage (1936, 81 F. 2d 555, 65 App. D. C. 153).

Although there were instructions by superior that employee should not touch anything alive, it was not sufficient to prevent action as one "arising out of and in the course of employment," when employee was electrocuted while repairing cylinder on street car. Capital Transit Co. v. Hoage (1936, 84 F. 2d 235, 65 App. D.C. 382).

When a chef was stabbed by a crazed stranger, the injuries "arose out of and in the course of his employment." Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. v. Hoage (1936, 85 F. 2d 417, 66 App. D.C. 160).

Evidence that claim adjuster handled more than 250 cases a month, being a great many in excess of adjuster's monthly capacity, and as a result suffered a severe spasm of angina pectoris which in turn resulted in coronary thrombosis, it was an accidental injury which is any injury unexpected or not designed. Hoage v. Royal Indem. Co. (1937, 90 F. 2d 387, 67 App. D. C. 142).

An unexpected attack upon a cook in a restaurant who was killed by a bus boy during altercation regarding boy's work "arose out of the employment." Maryland Casualty Co. v. Cardillo (1938, 99 F. 2d 432, 69 App. D. C. 199).

Injury which the employee received was a direct result of the position in which he was placed by the order of his superior and it therefore arose out of his employment. Williams v. American Employers Ins. Co. (1940, 107 F. 2d 953, 71 App. D. C. 153).

Injuries sustained by employee while driving automobile owned and kept by employer for employer's personal use, such driving being under the exclusive supervision and control of employer, were injuries arising out of and in the course of employment. Id.

Injury sustained by driver-employee while returning from lunch arose out of and in the course of employment. Cardillo v. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. (1940, 109 F. 2d 674, 71 App. D. C. 330).

Where one employed in a produce warehouse was engaged in loading a truck, and a checker, his superior, addressed him repeatedly as "Shorty" which the loader resented and called his superior a vile name, for which the superior assaulted him, inflicting injuries, the employee is entitled to compensation, the injury having arisen out of, and in course of, his employment. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 112 F. 2d 11, 71 App. D.C. 330).

To justify an award under the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, there must be a direct causal connection between the employment and the injury, whether it is the result of accident or disease. Groom v. Cardillo (1941, 119 F. 2d 697, 73 App. D. C. 358).

An injury "arises out of employment" within Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, if it is caused by the environment, whether inanimate, animal, or human, to which the employment exposes the employee, and it does not matter whether he is struck by a machine, a mule or a man so long at least as he does not provoke the attack, and an assault by a stranger or a fellow employee clearly "arises out of the employment" where the employment provides the motive for the assault. Penker Const. Co. v. Cardillo (1941, 118 F. 2d 14, 73 App. D. C. 168).

Where employer arranged to furnish employee transportation to and from work in employer's truck which regularly passed employee's home in lieu of a requested increase in salary and employee was struck by another vehicle while crossing road to where employer's approaching truck would stop, employee's injuries "arose out of and in course of employment" since the risks attendant on employee's crossing the road were incident to transportation in the truck and were assumed for the mutual convenience of the parties. Ward v. Cardillo (1943, 135 F. 2d 260, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 343).

The general rule that injuries sustained by employee when going to or returning from regular place of work are not deemed to "arise out of and in course of employment" is subject to exceptions, one of which is where the employer contracts to and does furnish transportation to and from work. Id.

An injury arises "out of employment" when it occurs in the course of employment and as a result of risk involved in or incidental to the employment or to conditions under which it is required to be performed. Ackerman v. Cardillo (1944, 140 F. 2d 348, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 310).

Where employee was an ice technician working at public skating rink and stadium, his duties required that he be on job during the night, and for his and his employer's convenience he slept in small room underneath stadium seats and while in room was assaulted and injured, and where explanations of the injury which were consistent with liability were just as plausible as those which would avoid liability, court would not reverse finding that injury arose out of employment. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1944, 140 F. 2d 10, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 255).

Where store manager sent employee to get lunch for all three employees to save time on exceptionally busy day, and employee was struck by automobile while carrying out manager's direction, the employee's fatal injury arose "out of and in course of employment." London Guarantee & Accident Co. v. Britton (1944, 138 F. 2d 932, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 195).

Where employee stepped on running board of dump truck, intending to hitch a ride on way to exit from employer's premises after work but employee was brushed from running board by a support post and was injured, evidence supported finding that injury arose out of and in course of employment. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Britton (1946, 152 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Generally, injuries sustained by employees when going to or returning from their regular place of work do not "arise out of and in course of employment", but exception exists where employer requires employees to travel on highways, where employer contracts to and does furnish transportation to and from work, where employee is subject to emergency calls, or where employee uses highway to do something incidental to his employment, with knowledge and approval of employer. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1946, 154 F. 2d 529, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 72, reversed on other grounds 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

Under this chapter, the presence or absence of control by employer over acts and movements of employee during transportation to or from work is a factor to be considered in determining whether injury during transportation arose out of and in course of employment, but is not decisive. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 610).

Injury sustained while an employee is going to or from lunch does not as a positive rule of law, without reference to particular facts, arise out of and in course of employment within section 902 (2) of title 33, U. S. Code. Wetzel v. Britton (1948, 170 F. 2d 285, 83 U.S. App. D. C. 327).

Where, in course of performance of his duties, or in protection of employer's property, employee uses excessive force as result of bad judgment or recklessness, such circumstance does not deprive employee of benefits of this section. National Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 187 F. Supp. 359).

Where employee is injured solely as result of act which employee commits with a willful intention to injure or kill another, no workmen's compensation is payable. Id.

Generally, an injury sustained by an employee while traveling to and from work is not within scope of workmen's compensation law, but, in District of Columbia, where employer has agreed to, and does furnish, employee with transportation, transportation becomes incident of contract of employment, and any injuries to employee while traveling are within course of employment and within scope of compensation law. Shreve v. Hot Shoppes, Inc. (1960, 184 F. Supp. 436).

Where employer had agreed to transport employee home, injury sustained by employee while being driven by person to whom employer had delegated this duty was not, as a matter of law, outside the District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Law. Id.

An employee's injury, occurring on employer's premises during employee's working hours, is presumed to have arisen out of his employment within Longshoremen's Compensation Act applicable as District of Columbia workmen's compensation law, unless contrary is shown. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. v. Donovan (1954, 124 F. Supp. 320).

While presumption that employee's injury, occurring on employer's premises, arose out of employment within Longshoremen's Compensation Act, applicable as District of Columbia workmen's compensation law, is not evidence, it shifts burden of going forward with evidence to overcome presumption. Id.

29. Injuries outside scope of employment

A finding of Deputy Commissioner that employee's disability because of Parkinson's disease was not caused by automobile collision while he was driving to work was supported by substantial evidence, so that Deputy Commissioner properly denied employee's claim for compensation under Longshoremen's Compensation Act. Richardson v. Britton (1951, 192 F. 2d 423, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 391, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 676, 343 U.S. 920, 96 L. Ed. 1334).

Deputy commissioner was right in holding that the injury sustained did not occur in the course of the deceased's employment, when he was not at the time of the occurrence performing any service which he was required to do by virtue of his employment as financial secretary of the lodge. Morgan v. Hoage (1934, 72 F. 2d 727, 63 App. D. C. 355).

When employee went on roof of building during lunch hour for a rest and fresh air, but fell into a ventilator shaft the injury did not arise "out of the employment." Monahan v. Hoage (1937, 90 F. 2d 419, 87 App. D.C. 174).

Injuries sustained by an employee in a personal difficulty with another employee of the same employer, having no relation to the employment itself and in which there is no causal connection between the injury and the employment, are not compensable. Fazio v. Cardillo (1940, 109 F. 2d 835, 71 App. D. C. 264).

The mere fact that an injury is contemporaneous or coincident with the employment is not a sufficient basis for an award under the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code. Groom v. Cardillo (1941, 119 F. 2d 697, 73 App. D. C. 358).

In workmen's compensation proceeding, evidence sustained finding that following removal of last load of freight from railroad box car claimant lifted fellow worker off floor, that in ensuing struggle both fell and that claimant's resulting injury was not sustained in course of employment. Ackerman v. Cardillo (1944, 140 F. 2d 348, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 310).

Where following removal of freight from railroad box car claimant lifted coworker from floor and in ensuing struggle both fell to floor with resulting injury to claimant and claimant during same morning and against remonstrances of intended victim had indulged in similar prank, the injury did not "arise out of and in course of employment." Id.

30. Injury, definition of Any attack of an occupational disease, whether an initial one or one following a symptom-free period, if it arises naturally out of the employment, is an "injury" within definition of term in Longshoremen's Compensation Act. Cadwallader v. Sholl (1952, 196 F. 2d 14, 89 U.S. App. D.C. 285, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 1061, 343 U. S. 966, 96 L. Ed. 1363).

Under provision of section 902 (2) of title 33, U. S. Code, that injury means accidental injury or death arising out of and in course of employment, "injury" comprises alternative events, and it is not necessary that both "accidental injury" and "death" occur in order that "injury" occur. National Homeopathic Hospital Ass'n of Dist. of Col. v. Britton (1945, 147 F. 2d 561, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 309, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1185, 325 U. S. 857, 89 L. Ed. 1977).

31. Insurance coverage

Bridge constructor's employee's electrocution, as result of crane's coming into contact with power line after lifting beam from assured's truck but prior to placing beam in position which it was eventually to occupy in new structure, occurred during the "unloading" of assured's truck, for purposes of "loading and unloading" clause of automobile liability policy. Indemnity Insurance Company of N. A. v. Old Dominion Hoisting Service (1958, 251 F. 2d 382, 102 U. S. App. D. C. 141).

32. Jurisdiction

Under this chapter, Deputy Commissioner had jurisdiction to entertain a claim by widow of an employee who had been a resident of District, who had been employed by a District employer, and who had been subject to work assignments in the District, although employee was assigned to work outside District at time fatal injury was received. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

In proceeding under District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Act, Deputy Commissioner's findings as to jurisdiction are entitled to great weight and will be rejected only where there is apparent error. United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Donovan (1954, 221 F. 2d 515, 94 U. S. App. D. C. 377).

To give Deputy Commissioner jurisdiction to award compensation, employee killed or injured need not have been working at time within the District of Columbia, and he would be within the intent and design of the statute when employer's office, the place of hiring, the employee's residence and other factors provide substantial connection between the district and the particular employee-employer relationship. Id.

The District Court had jurisdiction of action by administrator for balance due on compensation award to plaintiff's decedent although amount owing at time of decedent's death was less than $3,000. Turner v. Christian Hewrich Brewing Co. (1948, 169 F. 2d 681).

33. Legality of employment

The Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, made applicable in the District of Columbia as a workmen's compensation act, is applicable to illegally employed employees, as well as to legally employed employees. Mellen v. Hirsch (D. C. Md. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 250, affirmed 171 F. 2d 127).

34. Liability for medical service

The employer is liable for all legitimate consequences following an accident, including unskillfulness or error of judgment of the physician furnished as required, and the employee is entitled to recover under the schedule of compensation for the extent of his disability, based on the ultimate result of the accident, regardless of the fact that the disability has been aggravated and increased by the employer's selected physician, and this remedy is exclusive. Fernandez v. Gantz (1953, 113 F. Supp. 763).

Where award of compensation was based upon the ultimate result of the accident, including results of malpractice of physician furnished by employer, employer and its insurance carrier were not answerable in damages beyond the award of compensation, when it was not alleged that there had been negligence in selection of the physician. Id.

Where physician called defendant's manager and asked if it was all right for him to treat an employee and manager said it was all right if patient would retain him, it constituted sufficient authorization rendering defendant liable for medical services rendered. Skolnick v. Swagart (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 523).

35. Liability for recurring injury

Where claimant contracted tuberculosis while serving as a visiting nurse during period of policy issued by prior compensation carrier, and disability occurred again 12 years later during term of policy issued by subsequent carrier, liability would be imposed upon the carrier which was on the risk at time of occurrence of injury bearing the requisite causal relationship to the disability giving rise to the claim. American Casualty Co. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner, etc. (1956, 227 F. 2d 16, 97 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

36. Limitation of action

When injured employee elected to sue a third person and obtained judgment against tort-feasor, which was reversed, the employee then tried to proceed without paying costs and not being successful tried in forma pauperis, and then discontinued action, it was held that the employee was not entitled to compensation for the statute of limitations had run and employee failed to pursue the third-party remedy to final judgment. Chapman v. Hoage (1935, 78 F. 2d 233, 64 App. D. C. 349).

Provisions relating to the time within which the claimant shall present and prosecute his claim are essential parts of the procedure, and the court accordingly cannot revive a claim when barred by the limitations contained in the act. Shugard v. Hoage (1937, 89 F. 2d 796, 67 App. D. C. 52).

Where a statute gives a right unknown to the common law, and limits the time within which an action shall be brought to assert it, the limitation defines and controls the right. Young v. Hoage (1937, 90 F. 2d 395, 67 App. D. C. 150).

Statute of limitations applicable to this case and action must be brought by the personal representative within one year from the date of the death, or the employer must have vested in him within one year from the date of the death of the employee the right of the personal representative to bring such action. Chapman v. Griffith-Consumers Co. (1940, 107 F. 2d 263, 71 App. D. C. 64).

The limitation does not begin to run until the claim to compensation arises, the term "injury" being equivalent to "compensatable injury." Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. Cardillo (1940, 107 F. 2d 962, 71 App. D. C. 163).

Where defendant caused death of employee of another under such circumstances that, if death had not ensued, the employee would have been entitled to maintain action against defendant or to recover compensation under this section, death action instituted under section 1201 of title 16, U. S. Code, within one year after appointment of guardian for employee's infant son but more than one year after death was barred by limitation of section 1202 of title 16, U. S. Code, notwithstanding employees' compensation act provision that one year limitation on right to compensation for death should not be applicable to infants until appointment of guardian. Webster v. Clodfelter (1942, 130 F. 2d 434, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 171, 143 A. L. R. 280, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 261, 317 U. S. 689, 87 L. Ed. 552).

Where action for wrongful death was not filed within one year after the death as provided by section 913 of title 33, U. S. Code, action was barred notwithstanding that decedent if he had lived would have been entitled to compensation from his employer or his employer's insurance carrier and action was brought within one year after appointment of guardian for decedent's infant son, which was timely under Longshoremen's Compensation Act, since cause of action against third persons was not affected by the compensation act. Id.

Where decedent's employer and employer's insurer to their own use and use of widow and use of executor of estate of decedent brought action for wrongful death of employee against third party tort-feasors and second amended complaint indicated that sole plaintiff was employer, allowance of reinstatement of employer's insurer as plaintiff in third amended complaint would not assert a new cause of action, but merely reassert a cause of action, the jurisdictional basis of which was the same, in part, alleged to have existed in original, amended, and second amended complaints and cause of action would not be barred by Statute of Limitations. City Stores Company v. Shull (1958, 161 F. Supp. 459).

37. Loss of consortium

Payment of compensation under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act barred claim of employee's wife against employer for loss of consortium. Thomas v. Central Linen Co. (1959, 263 F. 2d 495, 105 U. S. App. D. C. 49).

Wife of injured employee was barred by the Workmen's Compensation Act from maintaining an action against his employer for loss of consortium as result of injuries sustained by employee while working for employer, on ground that employer was negligent. Smither and Company v. Coles (1957, 242 F. 2d 220, 100 U. S. App. D. C. 68, certiorari denied 77 S. Ct. 1299, 354 U. S. 914, 1 L. Ed. 2d 1129).

38. Loss of services

Where plaintiff's husband elected to file suit against third-part tort-feasor thereby electing not to receive workmen's compensation and a settlement was reached in which the wife joined, wife was not entitled to recover against the husband's employer for loss of services resulting from the injury to the husband occurring in the course of his employment. Hilton v. Fifteen Hundred Mass. Ave. Inc. (1958, 261 F. 2d 377, 104 U. S. App. D. C. 259).

39. Partial dependency

A partial dependency falls within the statute as well as a complete or total dependency. Harris v. Hoage (1933, 66 F. 2d 801, 62 App. D. C. 275).

40. Place of injury

As respects liability of employer carrying on any employment in the District of Columbia to injured employee under this section, it was immaterial that injury occurred in Maryland. Moyer v. Cardillo (1941, 119 F. 2d 785, 73 App. D. C. 261).

Where employer, with main office in New York, maintained office and store yard in District of Columbia, workman's contract of employment was made in the District, employer was engaged in construction work under three contracts, two located in District and one in Virginia, and injured workman's contract of employment was made in the District but he was transferred from one job to another, injury sustained in Virginia was to an employee of an employer carrying on employment in the District so that this section was applicable even though the work was being performed on a federal job on land owned by the United States. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1944, 141 F. 2d 364, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 394).

Where resident of District of Columbia was employed by construction company which had its principal office in the District and at time of injury and prior thereto was engaged in construction work in the District and in immediate vicinity, the employer was carrying on employment in the District and this section was applicable even though work being done at time of injury was on a federal job on property owned by the United States in Maryland. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Cardillo (1944, 141 F. 2d 362, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 392).

Even though the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, was adopted as the Compensation Law of the District of Columbia, section 903 (a) of said Act excluding jurisdiction of injuries compensable under state law, has no place in this section, which expressly extends its provisions to cases of injury or death, irrespective of the place where either occurred. Id.

Where salesman's office was in District of Columbia, though his selling contacts were largely outside and his time was nearly equally divided between the two, and he was fatally injured while traveling in Pennsylvania in connection with his employment, this section was applicable. B. F. Goodrich Co. v. Britton (1944, 139 F. 2d 362, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 221).

41. Power of commission

The Federal Government may confer upon administrative agencies, such as Deputy Commissioner United States Employees' Compensation Commission, created to aid in performance of governmental functions the determination of questions of fact, including existence of master and servant relation, the test being whether the delegation concerns the exercise of judicial power in enforcing constitutional limitations. Gudmundson v. Cardillo (1942, 126 F. 2d 521, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

42. Presumptions

Under the circumstances, evidence that tuberculosis rate in Japan was five times that in District of Columbia supported award of compensation to employee who was assigned to work in Japan and who there contracted the disease, in absence of substantial evidence to rebut statutory presumption that disability arose from employment. Travelers Insurance Co. v. Donovan, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1955, 221 F. 2d 886, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 331).

Where employee was on his employer's premises and was on his way to an exit within a reasonable time after quitting work, presumption existed that he was in course of his employment and that injury sustained at that time and place arose out of his employment. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Britton (1946, 152 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Provision of section 901 et seq. of title 33, U. S. Code, that in proceeding thereunder jurisdiction is to be presumed in absence of substantial evidence to contrary applies with equal force to proceedings under this chapter. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

43. Prior recovery

Under full faith and credit clause of federal constitution, Maryland award of workmen's compensation benefits for death of employee engaged in extrahazardous employment of plumbing, being a determination of all rights against employer and insurer growing out of employee's fatal injury, barred recovery of additional benefits allowable under District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Act. Gasch et al. v. Britton (1953, 202 F. 2d 356, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 64).

44. Progression of disease

Where subsequent recurrence of tuberculosis in claimant was result of natural progression of the disease unaffected by any intervening work-connected cause, compensation carrier which had granted coverage at time of claimant's original, compensable disability from tuberculosis, not subsequent carrier granting coverage at time of subsequent disability, would be liable for the subsequent disability. American Casualty Co. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner, etc. (1956, 227 F. 2d 16, 97 U. S. App. D. C. 1).

45. Purpose.

A prime purpose of this chapter is to provide residents of the District with a practical and expeditious remedy for their industrial accidents and to place on District of Columbia employers a limited and determinate liability. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

The purpose of the Workmen's Compensation Act is to provide not only for employees a remedy which is both expeditious and independent of proof of fault, but also for employers a liability which is limited and determinative. Smither and Company, Inc. v. Coles (1957, 242 F. 2d 220, 100 U. S. App. D. C. 68, certiorari denied 77 S. Ct. 1299, 354 U. S. 914, 1 L. Ed. 2d 1129).

The purpose of the Workmen's Compensation Act is to substitute fixed payments for personal injuries sustained or death caused in the course of employment for the common-law cause of action for damages. Brown v. Curtin & Johnson Inc. (1953, 117 F. Supp. 830, affirmed 221 F. 2d 106, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

46. Questions of law

Meaning of "course of employment" within section 902 (2) of title 33, U. S. Code, apart from any particular set of facts, is a question of law. Hurley v. Lowe (1948, 168 F. 2d 553, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 123, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1338, 334 U. S. 828, 92 L. Ed. 1756).

Where baker's contact with flour caused dermatitis and between first attack and its recurrence there was an interval during which she did not appear to have dermatitis, whether the recurrence was an injury within provision of Longshoremen's Compensation Act requiring claim to be filed within one year after injury or one year after last payment made without an award was question of law for court to decide, in absence of any specific elements that might differentiate baker's recurrence of dermatitis from other recurrences of occupational diseases. Cadwallader v. Sholl et al. (1952, 196 F. 2d 14, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 285, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 1061, 343 U. S. 966, 96 L. Ed. 1363).

47. Recurrence of disability

Where baker's contact with flour caused dermatitis which disabled her from July, 1944 to October, 1946, during which period employer paid her compensation without claim or award, and in December, 1946 she suffered a recurrence which wholly disabled her from January, 1947, and between first attack and its recurrence there was an interval during which she did not appear to have dermatitis, compensation claim filed in November, 1947 within one year after disease recurred was timely under Longshoremen's Compensation Act providing that right to compensation is barred unless a claim therefor is filed within one year after injury or one year after last payment made without award, whether baker resumed work during interval and thereby brought about recurrence or whether baker did not resume work in which case the second attack was a consequence of the previous work that had caused the previous attack. Cadwallader v. Sholl et al. (1952, 196 F. 2d 14, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 285, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 1061, 343 U. S. 966, 96 L. Ed. 1363).

Longshoremen's Act provision, barring right to compensation for disability unless claim therefor was filed within one year after injury, barred claim for compensation for recurrence of disability where claim was filed more than one year after injury responsibility for disability, even though such claim was filed within one year from date when disability recurred. Henriot v. General Accident Fire and Life Assurance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 374).

48. Remand

Where question whether Deputy Commissioner had jurisdiction over claim under this chapter was considered and determined by Deputy Commissioner, who was in turn sustained by District Court, and facts pertinent to that issue were not seriously disputed and matter had been fully briefed and argued before Supreme Court, even though Court of Appeals had not determined that issue, a remand for determination thereof was not required, but Supreme Court could consider the jurisdictional issue. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

49. Res judicata

Where minor's contention, made in common-law action in the District of Columbia, that minor had right to sue at law rather than make a claim for workmen's compensation because employed contrary to Child Labor Law, section 36-201 et seq., of District of Columbia, was definitely adjudicated against minor, contention was not open to further controversy in subsequent action in federal court in Maryland. Mellen v. Hirsch (D. C. Md. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 250, affirmed 171 F. 2d 127).

Decision of court in District of Columbia that minor had no cause of action in a suit at common-law against employer for injuries because compensation law, section 905 of title 33, U. S. Code, provided exclusive remedy, and that such law was not rendered inapplicable because of employer's alleged violation of the Child Labor Law, section 36-201 et seq. was not ineffective as to minor in subsequent common-law suit against employer in Maryland, on ground that the suit in the District of Columbia was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Id.

50. Review

A deputy employees' compensation commissioner's determination sustained by District Court, fixing injured employee's wage-earning capacity, on which award of compensation for permanent partial disability was based, at smaller sum per week than wages actually received by him before and after injury, pursuant to finding that his post-injury wages did not reasonably represent his wage-earning capacity, will not be disturbed by Court of Appeals. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. et ano. v. Britton et al. (1957, 243 F. 2d 659, 100 U. S. App. D. C. 236).

On appeal from summary judgment for defendants in suit by widow to set aside denial of benefits for death of husband under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, reviewing court's task was to ascertain whether Deputy Commissioner's findings were supported by substantial evidence on record considered as a whole, and reviewing court would not sustain administrative findings merely because they were substantiated by some isolated evidence. Friend, surviving widow v. Britton, Commissioner et al. (1955, 220 F. 2d 820, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 139, certiorari denied 76 S. Ct. 72, 350 U. S. 836, 100 L. Ed. 745).

In action to review Deputy Commissioner's order denying claim for compensation under Longshoremen's Compensation Act pursuant to finding that plaintiff's disability was not caused by accident, question is whether such finding is supported by substantial evidence on record considered as whole. Richardson v. Britton et al. (1951, 192 F. 2d 423, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 391, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 676, 343 U. S. 920, 96 L. Ed. 1334).

Where employer arranged to furnish employee transportation to and from place of work in employer's truck which regularly passed employee's home, and employee was struck by another vehicle while crossing road to where employer's approaching truck would stop, and deputy commissioner concluded that injury did not arise out of and in course of employment, principle that deputy commissioner's findings when supported by substantial evidence are not subject to review was inapplicable since the question presented was a "question of law" not a "question of fact." Ward v. Cardillo (1943, 135 F. 2d 260, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 343).

In workmen's compensation case, function of United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is limited to determining whether the finding of the deputy commissioner is supported by substantial evidence. Great American Indemnity Co. v. Cardillo (1943, 135 F. 2d 241, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 306).

In workmen's compensation case, the United States Court of Appeals for District of Columbia cannot sit as reappraisers of the evidence. Id.

In proceeding under this chapter, even if inference made by Deputy Commissioner involves application of broad statutory term or phrase to specific set of facts and is considered more legal than factual in nature, reviewing court's function is exhausted when it becomes evident that Deputy Commissioner's choice has substantial roots in evidence and is not forbidden by law. Cardillo v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1947, 67 S. Ct. 801, 330 U. S. 469, 91 L. Ed. 1028).

Court reviewing compensation order must review to determine, not whether principles of law applied by deputy commissioner are correct, but merely whether they are forbidden by law, or without any reasonable legal basis, or are invalidated by some formal principle of law. Hurley v. Lowe (1948, 168 F. 2d 553, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 123, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1338, 334 U. S. 828, 92 L. Ed. 1756).

Reviewing court is limited to determining whether Deputy Commissioner's conclusion in compensation case is forbidden by law or without any reasonable basis. Wetzel v. Britton (1948, 170 F. 2d 285, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 327).

Fact that evidence was taken and certified in disregard of technical rules of procedure does not invalidate it or render it any the less entitled to consideration on an appeal when no request was made for a trial de novo. Georgia Casualty Co. v. Hoage (1932, 59 F. 2d 870, 61 App. D. C. 195).

Scope of judicial review in workmen's compensation cases is strictly limited and statutory action to set aside award of compensation does not contemplate a trial de novo but merely a judicial review of administrative action on the administrative record, and the only questions which court may consider are, first, whether award is contrary to law and second, where administrative findings of fact are supported by substantial evidence. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

The substantial evidence necessary to sustain administrative findings when workmen's compensation award is challenged in statutory action is more than a scintilla of evidence but the court may not consider the weight of the evidence and is limited to determining merely whether there is substantial evidence in record sustaining findings of fact and the fact that countervailing evidence may have more probative value will not warrant overruling findings. Id.

In statutory action to set aside award of workmen's compensation, the court may not set aside inferences drawn by administrator from evidence that he chooses to believe if such inferences are reasonably possible and have a rational basis. Id.

Where employer, who was convicted of failing to secure payment of compensation as required by Workmen's Compensation Act, contended on appeal that trial court erred in admitting in evidence two payroll books, on ground that they had been obtained and seized illegally from persons other than the employer, and record was not clear whether employer made a motion to suppress books, and record was only a partial stenographic transcript without supporting statement of proceedings and evidence, Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia was required to hold, because of sketchy record, that the government did not obtain books as result of illegal search or seizure. Tyree v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1959, 155 A. 2d 914).

51. Right of action

Record clearly shows that the agent of the insurance carrier was a privy to all the proceedings leading to the bringing of the damage suit and its settlement, and it would also be inequitable to permit the employer and carrier to change their position to the prejudice of the claimant who had acquiesced in their position. Metro-politan Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1937, 89 F. 2d 798, 67 App. D. C. 54).

Since claimant was an independent contractor, he is not entitled to claim under the Compensation Act as an employee. Cardillo v. Mockabee (1939, 102 F. 2d 620, 70 App. D. C. 16).

Widow, who was receiving compensation under Workmen's Compensation Act for husband's death as a result of defendant employer's claimed negligence, was not entitled to recover as against employer for loss of consortium. Brown v. Curtin & Johnson Inc. (1953, 117 F. Supp. 830, affirmed 221 F. 2d 106, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

Under section 933 of title 33, U. S. Code, providing that acceptance of compensation under an award shall operate as an assignment to employer of all rights of injured employee to recover damages against third person causing injury, the right to maintain an action against a third person causing injury is in the employee if he does not elect to receive compensation and is in the employer if employee elects to receive compensation, and an employee cannot follow both courses. Moore v. Hechinger (1941, 39 F. Supp. 427, affirmed 127 F. 2d 746, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 391).

Regardless of whether employer secures payment of compensation either by taking out insurance or providing for paying such compensation directly, employer remains liable, and employee is entitled to institute proceedings for an award before deputy commissioner and then before United States District Court for collection of the award. Garcia v. De Leon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 637).

52. Rights of employer

When a person asserts a claim under the workmen's compensation law, the employer or his insurance carrier should be afforded a prompt opportunity to examine the claimant at the earliest possible time, especially when conditions of the heart are involved. Good Impressions, Inc., et ano. v. Britton (1958, 169 F. Supp. 866).

Under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act which provided that insurance carrier shall be subrogated to all rights of employer, fact that premium paid by decedent's employer for policy year in which injury and death occurred was materially increased by reason of a compensation claim paid by employer's insurer and fact that future premiums would be based upon experience rating of employer for prior years and would also be increased did not entitle employer to bring wrongful death action as sole plaintiff. City Stores Company v. Shull (1958, 161 F. Supp. 459).

Under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act which provided that the insurance carrier shall be subrogated to all rights of the employer, as between carrier and employer, carrier was, as statutory assignee, the sole recipient of all right of the person entitled to compensation to recover damages against one liable in damages other than the employer. Id.

53. Sickness and disease

Findings of fact by deputy commissioner that injury to hip of employee was not proximate cause of pulmonary tuberculosis must be accepted as conclusive if supported by evidence. Powell v. Hoage (1932, 57 F. 2d 766, 61 App. D. C. 99).

Death from "injuries in the course of employment" is proved by evidence of an epileptic seizure of employee while using hot water hose, which inflicted burns. Georgetown College v. Stone (1932, 59 F. 2d 875, 61 App. D. C. 200).

Employee not entitled to compensation because contracting tuberculosis while working in a restaurant. Ayers v. Hoage (1933, 63 F. 2d 364, 61 App. D. C. 388).

When there is evidence of a positive nature, and wholly uncontradicted, which definitely and conclusively traces the cause of death and places it wholly at the door of a fatal disease from which the employee was suffering and wholly away from any relation to the work, then, in such a case, the inference must yield to the actual and deputy commissioner's determination must be set aside. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1933, 65 F. 2d 822, 62 App. D.C. 189).

From an examination of the testimony, and the presumption of verity which the law accords the findings of fact by the deputy commissioner, the appellant has failed to establish a claim within the Compensation Act, as pneumonia causing death of taxicab driver was not occupational disease. Anderson v. Hoage (1934, 70 F. 2d 773, 63 App. D.C. 169).

Where employee, on day of death, was engaged in carrying hod up one flight of stairs, and in course of his work he complained of being ill, collapsed, and was taken to hospital where he died because of coronary occlusion, evidence sustained deputy commissioner's denial of compensation on ground that employee did not sustain an injury "arising out of and in course of employment." Carson v. Cardillo (1943, 132 F. 2d 604, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 82).

Evidence that pre-existing spinal arthritis was aggravated by back injury sustained by employee in 1930 and that after similar injury in 1935 employee became totally disabled from carrying out any type of gainful occupation justified an award of compensation on ground of "total disability" resulting from 1935 injury. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Cardillo (1942, 127 F. 2d 334, 75 U.S. App. D. C. 342).

That an employee is diseased does not bar his right to recover compensation for an accidental injury.

54. Subrogation

In case there is more than one dependent and one only elects to accept workmen's compensation and the other dependent or dependents elect to bring an action under the wrongful death statute, then the employer is not entitled to sue as a subrogee but the action must be brought by the personal representative of the decedent, the employee having the right to demand that such action be brought and that he share in the recovery. Doleman v. Levine (1935, 55 S. Ct. 741, 295 U.S. 221, 79 L. Ed. 1402).

An employer or an insurance carrier who has paid compensation to the only beneficiary or beneficiaries entitled to receive the same and who has a right of subrogation may bring the subrogation action against the third person who caused the death of the employee, and the action need not be brought by the personal representative of the decedent. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Moses (1931, 53 S. Ct. 231, 287 U.S. 530, 77 L. Ed. 477).

55. Subsequent injury

Provision of section 908(f) of title 33, U.S. Code, that if an employee receive an injury which of itself would only cause permanent partial disability but which, combined with a previous disability, does in fact cause permanent total disability, the employer shall provide compensation only for disability caused by the subsequent injury, deals with accidental injury and does not deal with death. National Homeopathic Hospital Ass'n of Dist. of Col. v. Britton (1945, 147 F. 2d 561, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 309, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1185, 325 U.S. 857, 89 L. Ed. 1977).

56. Sufficiency of notice

Where only alleged notice given employer of heart attack allegedly sustained by claimant in the course of his employment was a telephone call by claimant's wife to employer on the following day, in which she informed employer that claimant had been ill the night before and that the doctor said he had a heart attack, and that he was in the hospital, and no further notice was given until approximately one year later, employer was deprived of timely notice of the claim asserted, and such failure to give timely notice barred claimant's right to compensation. Good Impressions, Inc., et ano. v. Britton (1958, 169 F. Supp. 866).

57. Summary judgment

Where injured employee had received hospital treatment and compensation under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, and brought action against employer to recover damages apart from compensation statute, but set forth no cause of action against employer in which there was any genuine issue of material fact bearing upon claim for damages other than amounts due under compensation statute, summary judgment was properly entered for employer. Thomas v. Central Linen Co. (1959, 263 F. 2d 495, 105 U. S. App. D. C. 49).

58. Sunstroke

Death of laborer from sunstroke while working in sunny street was compensable. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Burris (1932, 59 F. 2d 1042, 61 App. D.C. 228).

Heat prostration is compensable as accidental injury if suffered while delivering groceries. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Hoage (1933, 63 F. 2d 818, 62 App. D.C. 6).

59. Third party, injury by

Where injured employee has accepted compensation under this chapter so that right to recover damages from third party wrongdoer has been transferred to employer, employer's insurer or the employer may bring action in his own name to his own use and to the use of the injured employee. Moore v. Hechinger (1942, 127 F. 2d 746, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 391).

Under this chapter, where an injury is sustained through the wrongful act of a third party, the employee must elect between compensation from his employer and suit against the wrongdoer and he cannot have both. Id.

60. Usual course of business

Words "usual course" refer to normal operations constituting the regular business of the employer. Hoage v. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. (1935, 77 F. 2d 381, 64 App. D.C. 258).

61. Widow

To be entitled to workmen's compensation award as widow, woman must have continued to live as deserted wife of employee who has deserted her, and there must be bond in reality between husband and wife in their relation to one another, essential ingredient in her claim being her real status factually, not existing legal formalities of relationship. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. et al. v. Donovan (1955, 218 F. 2d 860, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 49).

A woman must be a "widow" as defined by the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 902(16) of title 33, U.S. Code, in order to be entitled to compensation as a "surviving wife" during "widowhood." Weeks v. Behrend (1943, 135 F. 2d 258, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 341).

This chapter shall not apply in respect to the injury or death of (1) a master or member of a crew of any vessel; (2) an employee of a common carrier by railroad when engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or commerce solely within the District of Columbia; (3) an employee subject to the provisions of chapter 15 of title 5, U.S. Code; and (4) an employee engaged in agriculture, domestic service, or any employment that is casual and not in the usual course of the trade, business, occupation, or profession of the employer; and (5) any secretary, stenographer, or other person performing any services in the office of any Member of Congress or under the direction, employment, or at the request of any Member of Congress, within the scope of the duties performed by secretaries, stenographers, or such employees of Members of Congress. (May 17, 1928, 45 Stat. 600, ch. 612, § 2; June 15, 1938, 52 Stat. 689, ch. 392.)

1938—Act June 15, 1938, added clause (5) to include persons performing services for members of Congress.

EFFECTIVE DATE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Application of statute 1
Casual employment 2
Employees' duties controlling 3
Second injury 4

1. Application of statute

Where appellant was injured while working in appellee's car barn, he could not recover under § 44-401 of the Code since § 36-501 has become the applicable workman's compensation act for the District and appellee was not a common carrier by railroad and is excepted from the operation of § 36-501. Keffer v. Capital Transit Co. (1950, 183 F. 2d 808, 87 U.S. App. D.C. 13).

2. Casual employment

Death of ornamental ironworker resulting from accident while repairing door in grillwork was while engaged in "casual employment," and not in usual course of employer's business. Hoage v. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. (1935, 77 F. 2d 381, 64 App. D.C. 258, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 128, 296 U.S. 609, 80 L. Ed. 432).

Statutory provision excepting from workmen's compensation coverage those engaged in casual employment not in usual course of trade, business, occupation or profession of employer could not be invoked to exclude coverage for musicians temporarily employed by restaurant proprietor since music was furnished in restaurant in usual course of business. Great American Indemnity Co. et al. v. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1960, 186 F. Supp. 938).

3. Employees' duties controlling

Where main duty of deckhand employed on a stripper dredge was to coal up dredge from scow, and coal was used to fire engine which operated scoop shovel, deckhand was not a "member of a crew", and hence his claim for injuries was covered by the Longshoremen's Compensation Act, section 901 et seq. of title 33, U.S. Code, as made applicable to a District of Columbia employer and not by the Merchant Marine Act, section 688 of title 46, U.S. Code. Beddoo v. Smoot Sand & Gravel Corporation (1942, 128 F. 2d 608, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 38).

4. Second injury

Where deputy commissioner originally awarded compensation for temporary total disability, stipulated intermediate order finding temporary partial disability was made subject to deputy's right of review when claimant's condition might change, and compensation was paid after a second injury within less than one year of claim based on total disability, even if original award was suspended during reemployment of claimant, and claimant became only partially disabled, that classification did not prejudice claimant's rights to recover for total disability resulting from second injury. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Cardillo (1942, 127 F. 2d 334, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 342).

(Aug. 3, 1956, 70 Stat. 976, ch. 924, § 3.)

Payment in accordance with this section shall constitute payment for the purposes of complying with sections 36-602 and 36-604, only if there exists a bona fide dispute concerning the amount of wages due. (Aug. 3, 1956, 70 Stat. 977, ch. 924, § 4.)

(a) Action by an employee to recover unpaid wages and liquidated damages may be maintained in any court of competent jurisdiction by any one or more employees for and in behalf of himself or themselves and other employees similarly situated, or such employee or employees may designate an agent or representative to maintain such action for and on behalf of all employees similarly situated. Any employee, or his representative, shall have the power to settle and adjust his claim for unpaid wages. Whenever the Commissioners determine that wages have not been paid, as herein provided and that such unpaid wages constitute an enforceable claim, the Commissioners may, upon the request of the employee, take an assignment in trust for the assigning employee of such wages, and of any claim for liquidated damages, without being bound by any of the technical rules respecting the validity of any such assignments, may bring any appropriate legal action necessary to collect such claim and may join in one proceeding or action such claims against the same employer as the Commissioners deem appropriate. Upon any such assignment the Commissioners shall have power to settle and adjust any such claim or claims on such terms as they may deem just.

(b) The court in any action brought under this section shall, in addition to any judgment awarded to the plaintiff or plaintiffs, allow costs of the action, including costs or fees of any nature, and reasonable attorney's fees, to be paid by the defendant. Such attorney's fees in the case of actions brought under this subsection by the Commissioners shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia. The Commissioners shall not be required to pay the filing fee or other costs or fees of any nature or to file bond or other security of any nature in connection with any action or proceeding under this chapter. (Aug 3, 1956, 70 Stat. 978, ch. 924, § 8.)

1. In general

The provision of the code with respect to mechanic's liens is "fundamentally the same as in the former statute." Lipscomb v. Hough (1923, 286 F. 775, 52 App. D. C. 313).

2. Contract of lessee

Lessee was agent of lessor, in ordering improvements, so as to charge interest of lessor in land. McLean v. Nolan (44 App. D. C. 1).

"Nor does a covenant in the lease, vesting in the lessor title in the buildings, and improvements erected on the premises at the termination of the lease, create the relation of principal and agent between the lessor and lessee." Lipscomb v. Hough (1923, 286 F. 775, 52 App. D. C. 313). See, also, Albaugh v. Litho-Marble Decorating Co. (14 App. D. C. 113); Langley v. D'Audigne (31 App. D. C. 409).

"A builder contracting with the lessee of premises to furnish labor and material thereon, with notice that he is dealing with the lessee and not the owner, is estopped to complain of ignorance of the terms of the lease, where as here, it was a matter of public record." Lipscomb v. Hough (1923, 286 F. 775, 52 App. D. C. 313).

3. Contract of owner

"In the latter case, the statutes relative to mechanics' liens * * * are reviewed at length with the conclusion that a lien upon the premises can only be imposed where the building is erected or repaired at the instance of the owner or his agent. If the work is done and materials furnished at the instance of a lessee, or tenant for life, or years, or a person having an equitable interest therein, the lien can only extend to the interest of the lessee, tenant, or equitable owner." Lipscomb v. Hough (1923, 286 F. 775, 52 App. D. C. 313).

4. Pleading

Under this section providing that a mechanic's lien may be placed on property not only for work done but also for materials furnished, complaint for removal of lien alleging that contractor did no work on one of 2 lots was insufficient where it failed to allege that no materials were furnished for improvement of such lot. Clarke v. Huff (1948, 165 F. 2d 247, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 38).

5. Status of parties

The status of the parties at the time of the contract determines the question of the right to a lien. Deming v. Wardman Constr. Co. (1930, 39 F. 2d 504, 59 App. D. C. 254).

6. Statutory construction

A mechanic's lien is purely a creature of statute. "The performance of the work, or the furnishing of the materials, gives merely a right to acquire a lien. The statute prescribes the steps necessary to perfect it. These requirements relate to the remedy rather than the right." "In determining whether a right to a lien exists, the statute should be strictly construed against one claiming such right, * * * but * * * where the right to a lien clearly appears, and the sole question to be determined is whether the claimant has proceeded properly to acquire and establish his lien, the statute should be liberally construed in his favor." Fidelity Storage Corp. v. Trussed Concrete Steel Co. (35 App. D. C. 1). See, also, James B. Lambie Co. v. Bigelow (34 App. D.C. 49); Columbia Brick Co. v. District of Columbia (1 App. D. C. 351); Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Atkinson (16 App. D. C. 462); Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Trott (23 App. D.C. 284).

In determining whether a right to a lien exists, the statute should be strictly construed; but where the right to a lien is clear and the question is whether the claimant has proceeded properly, the statute should be liberally construed in his favor. Deming v. Wardman Constr. Co. (1930, 39 F. 2d 504, 59 App. D.C. 254).

7. Substantial performance

In a proceeding to foreclose a mechanic's lien, a contractor who intentionally fails to perform the contract according to its terms, and refuses to remedy the defect, is not entitled to the benefit of the doctrine of substantial performance. Turner v. Henning (1920, 262 F. 637, 49 App. D. C. 183).

8. Waiver

Taking of security generally operates as waiver of right to mechanic's lien, but a mere agreement to take such security, not carried into effect, does not operate as a waiver. McMurray v. Brown (1875, 91 U. S. 257, 1 Otto 257, 23 L. Ed. 321).

§ 38-102. Notice.

Any such contractor wishing to avail himself of the provision aforesaid, whether his claim be due or not, shall file in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia during the construction or within three months after the completion of such building, improvement, repairs, or addition, or the placing therein or in connection therewith of any engine, machinery, or other thing so as to become a fixture, a notice of his intention to hold a lien on the property hereby declared liable to such lien for the amount due or to become due to him, specifically setting forth the amount claimed, the name of the party against whose interest a lien is claimed, and a description of the property to be charged, and the said clerk shall file said notice and record the same in a book to be kept for the purpose. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1384, ch. 854, § 1238; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32 (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

- "Elevator" defined 3
- Interest in property 4
- Naming wrong person 5
- Purpose 6

- Time for filing 8

1. Completion

Question of completion or noncompletion should be determined by what the common intelligence and the common usage regard as completion, always, of course, with reference to the provisions of the building contract. At the same time no amount of work is too small, the completion of which is required to prevent the consummation of a fraud. Riggs Fire Ins. Co. v. Shedd (16 App. D. C. 150).

The abandonment of the work by the original contractor is deemed in law to be a completion of it for the purpose of filing mechanics' liens by subcontractors and materialmen. Harper v. Galliher & Huguely (1929, 29 F. 2d 452, 58 App. D. C. 252, certiorari denied 49 S. Ct. 185, 278 U. S. 657, 73 L. Ed. 565).

2. Distinct and separate notices

Two or more distinct and separate notices of lien may be comprised in one single instrument of writing; and two or more notices of lien may be enforced in one and the same proceeding in equity where the parties may be the same. Dicta in Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Trott (23 App. D. C. 284).

3. "Elevator" defined

Electric passenger elevator is both an engine and machine; and whether its motive power be electricity, water or steam, can make no difference in the contemplation of the statute, subjecting building to a lien under Mechanics' Lien Law. Lefler v. Forsberg (1 App. D. C. 36).

4. Interest in property

All persons concerned or interested in the estate are to be at least constructively notified of the interest in the property and the name against which the lien is claimed. Chamberlain Metal Weather Strip Co. v. Karrick (1932, 53 F. 2d 928, 60 App. D.C. 316).

5. Naming wrong person

Notice of mechanic's lien naming wrong person as owner is invalid. Chamberlain Metal Weather Strip Co. v. Karrick (1932, 53 F. 2d 928, 60 App. D.C. 316).

6. Purpose

The purpose of mechanic's lien laws is to protect by the property those who contribute to its value by labor or materials, and it is only by compliance with statutory requirements that this can be accomplished. Chamberlain Metal Weather Strip Co. v. Karrick (1932, 53 F. 2d 928, 60 App. D.C. 316).

7. Requisites

"It is apparent that, under the statute, three essential averments are necessary to constitute a valid notice. These are, first, the amount claimed; second, the name of the party against whose interest the lien is claimed; and, third, a description of the property to be charged." Fidelity Storage Corp. v. Trussed Concrete Steel Co. (35 App. D. C. 1).

8. Time for filing

A mechanic's lien, if filed by an original contractor, must be filed either during the construction of the improvement or within three months after its completion. Harper v. Galliher & Huguely (1929, 29 F. 2d 452, 58 App. D.C. 252, certiorari denied 49 S. Ct. 185, 278 U.S. 657, 73 L. Ed. 565).

§ 38-103. Subcontractor.

Any person directly employed by the original contractor, whether as subcontractor, material man, or laborer, to furnish work or materials for the completion of the work contracted for as aforesaid, shall be entitled to a similar lien to that of the original contractor upon his filing a similar notice with the clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia to that above mentioned, subject, however, to the conditions set forth in sections 38-104 to 38-122. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1384, ch. 854, § 1239; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32 (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

1. In general

Prior to code, see Leitch v. Emergency Hosp. (6 App. D. C. 247). See, also, Herrell v. Donovan (7 App. D. C. 322); Sommerville v. Williams (12 App. D. C. 520); Riggs Fire Ins. Co. v. Shedd (16 App. D. C. 150).

2. Knowledge of terms

"The subcontractor should acquaint himself with the terms and conditions of the building contract. This information is made available by statute * * *. In the absence of anything to the contrary, we must assume that the plaintiff possessed this information." Winter v. Hazen-Latimer Co. (42 App. D. C. 469).

3. Materialmen as contractors

Materialmen held to be contractors under § 1237 (§ 38-101), and not subcontractors under this section. McLean v. Nolan (44 App. D. C. 1).

4. Payment into court of sum equal to lien

"The evident purpose of sections 1254 and 1255 (§§ 38-118, 38-119) is to enable the owner, against whose building or fixtures a lien has been asserted, to be relieved of the embarrassment of the lien through the payment into court of a sum equal to the amount of the lien with interest and costs, or the filing of an undertaking to cover that amount. Where, admittedly an amount is due the principal contractor, and the lien is asserted by a subcontractor, there is no contest between the owner and the subcontractor; the issue being restricted to the contractor and subcontractor. If the owner does not take advantage of these provisions of the code for the release of the lien, the statute imposes upon him no duty to notify the contractor of the pendency of the subcontractor's suit." Woodward v. Union Trust Co. (1920, 262 F. 627, 49 App. D. C. 173).

5. Sub-subcontractor

Under this section, a subcontractor but not a sub-subcontractor has right to file a mechanic's lien. Battista v. Horton, Myers & Raymond (1942, 128 F. 2d 29, 76 U.S. App. D. C. 1).

Where general contractors and subcontractor had entered into written agreements with owners not to permit or suffer any mechanic's liens to be filed against property but contract between subcontractor and sub-subcontractor did not specifically impose that condition on the sub-subcontractor, it was entitled under its contract to retain all its legal rights until payment or a valid tender of payment. Id.

6. Waiver

Subcontractors who waive their remedy under the mechanic's lien statute at the instance of the owner, who refuses to pay the contractor until such releases are executed, cannot, in the absence of fraud, have the release set aside and the lien reinstated, when it appears that the amount paid the contractor was insufficient to pay the subcontractors in full. Stevens v. Gordon (48 App. D. C. 604).

§ 38-104. Conditions.

All such liens in favor of parties so employed by the contractor shall be subject to the terms and conditions of the original contract except such as shall relate to the waiver of liens and shall be limited to the amount to become due to the original contractor and be satisfied, in whole or in part, out of said amount only; and if said original contractor, by reason of any breach of the contract on his part, shall be entitled to recover less than the amount agreed upon in his contract, the liens of said parties so employed by him shall be enforceable only for said reduced amount, and if said original contractor shall be entitled to recover nothing said liens shall not be en-

§ 38-105. Notice to owner.

The said subcontractor or other person employed by the contractor as aforesaid, besides filing a notice with the clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia as aforesaid, shall serve the same upon the owner of the property upon which the lien is claimed, by leaving a copy thereof with said owner or his agent, if said owner or agent be a resident of the District, or if neither can be found, by posting the same on the premises; and on his failure to do so, or until he shall do so, the said owner may make payments to his contractor according to the terms of his contract, and to the extent of such payments the lien of the principal contractor shall be discharged and the amount for which the property shall be chargeable in favor of the parties so employed by him reduced. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1385, ch. 854, § 1241; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Harper v. Galliher & Huguely (1929, 29 F. 2d 452, 58 App. D. C. 252, certiorari denied 49 S. Ct. 185, 278 U.S. 657, 73 L. Ed. 565).

§ 38-106. Owner's duty.

After notice shall be filed by said party employed under the original contractor and a copy thereof served upon the owner or his agents as aforesaid, the owner shall be bound to retain out of any subsequent payments becoming due to the contractor a sufficient amount to satisfy any indebtedness due from said contractor to the said subcontractor, or other person so employed by him, secured by lien as aforesaid, otherwise the said party shall be entitled to enforce his lien to the extent of the amount so accruing to the principal contractor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1385, ch. 854, § 1242.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Contractor paid in full 1
 Limitation of rights 2
 Subcontractor's
 Knowledge of terms 3
 Rights 4

1. Contractor paid in full

Where the owner pays the contractor in full, without notice of subcontractor's right, the subcontractor has no lien upon moneys subsequently accruing to contractor's surety who completes the work under the power reserved to it in the bond. Winter v. Hazen-Latimer Co. (42 App. D. C. 469).

2. Limitation of rights

"The statute limits the right of a subcontractor to a lien upon money due the contractor from the owner at the time notice is given the owner." Winter v. Hazen-Latimer Co. (42 App. D. C. 469).

3. Subcontractor's knowledge of terms

"The subcontractor should acquaint himself with the terms and conditions of the building contract. This information is made available by statute * * *. In the absence of anything to the contrary, we must assume that the plaintiff possessed this information." Winter v. Hazen-Lattimer Co. (42 App. D.C. 469).

4. Subcontractor's rights

Subcontractor's rights are "dependent on the contract between the owner and the builder and on the state of the accounts between them; and * * * the subcontractors were bound by all the terms and conditions of that contract." But the subcontractor is equally entitled to the benefits of the contract as far as it inures to his advantage. Riggs Fire Ins. Co. v. Shedd (16 App. D. C. 150).

§ 38-107. Subcontractor entitled to know terms of contract.

Any subcontractor or other person employed by the contractor as aforesaid shall be entitled to demand of the owner or his authorized agent a statement of the terms under which the work contracted for is being done and the amount due or to become due to the contractor executing the same, and if the owner or his agent shall fail or refuse to give the said information, or wilfully state falsely the terms of the contract or the amounts due or unpaid thereunder, the said property shall be liable to the lien of the said party demanding said information, in the same manner as if no payments had been made to the contractor before notice served on the owner as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1385, ch. 854, § 1243.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Subcontractor's knowledge of terms

"The subcontractor should acquaint himself with the terms and conditions of the building contract. This information is made available by statute * * *. In the absence of anything to the contrary, we must assume that the plaintiff possessed this information." Winter v. Hazen-Lattimer Co. (42 App. D. C. 469).

§ 38-108. Advance payments.

If the owner, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions hereof, and defeating the lien of the subcontractor or other person employed by the contractor, as aforesaid, shall make payments to the contractor in advance of the time agreed upon therefor in the contract, and the amount still due or to become due to the contractor shall be insufficient to satisfy the liens of the subcontractors or others so employed by the contractor, the property shall remain subject to said liens in the same manner as if such payments had not been made. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1385, ch. 854, § 1244.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bad faith 1
Evidence 2
Extent of lien 3
Rights and remedies of subcontractors 4

1. Bad faith

In suit by subcontractors to establish liens against owners who had made advance payments to general contractor prior to filing of notice of liens by subcontractors, District Court's ruling that actual bad faith on owners' part need not be shown was erroneous. Merrill v. B. R. Acker Co. (1944, 142 F. 2d 102, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

Where owner has made advances to general contractor in order to speed up the work, prior to filing of notice of liens by subcontractors, bad faith cannot be presumed from mere fact of advance payments, and something more is necessary to support such an inference, in order to establish owner's liability to subcontractors under this section. Id.

2. Evidence

In suit by subcontractors to establish liens against owners who had made advance payments to general contractor prior to filing of notice of liens by subcontractors, evidence did not disclose purpose by owner to defeat subcontractors' liens. Merrill v. B. R. Acker Co. (1944, 142 F. 2d 102, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

3. Extent of lien

Where owners had, in good faith, made advance payments to general contractor and at time notice of lien was first filed by one of the subcontractors only a few dollars remained due from owners to general contractor, the subcontractors were not entitled to mechanic's liens in excess of amount remaining due when notice of lien was filed and served. Merrill v. B. R. Acker Co. (1944, 142 F. 2d 102, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

4. Rights and remedies of subcontractors

Subcontractors have ample opportunity to protect themselves against advance payments by owner to general contractor under §§ 38-103, 38-105, 38-107 entitling subcontractors to require owner to disclose terms of general contract and state of account between himself and general contractor and to secure liens by filing them and giving notice to owner. Merrill v. B. R. Acker Co. (1944, 142 F. 2d 102, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

Subcontractor's rights are "dependent on the contract between the owner and the builder and on the state of the accounts between them; and * * * the subcontractors were bound by all the terms and conditions of that contract." But the subcontractor is equally entitled to the benefits of the contract as far as it inures to his advantage. Riggs Fire Ins. Co. v. Shedd (16 App. D.C. 150).

§ 38-109. Priority of lien.

The lien hereby given shall be preferred to all judgments, mortgages, deeds of trusts, liens, and incumbrances which attach upon the building or ground affected by said lien subsequently to the commencement of the work upon the building, as well as to conveyances executed, but not recorded, before that time, to which recording is necessary, as to third persons; except that nothing herein shall affect the priority of a mortgage or deed of trust given to secure the purchase money for the land, if the same be recorded within ten days from the date of the acknowledgment thereof. When a mortgage or deed of trust of real estate securing advances thereafter to be made for the purpose of erecting buildings and improvements thereon is given, or when an owner of lands contracts with a builder for the sale of lots and the erection of buildings thereon, and agrees to advance moneys toward the erection of such buildings, the lien hereinbefore authorized shall have priority to all advances made after the filing of said notices of lien, and the lien shall attach to the right, title, and interest of the owner in said building and land to the extent of all advances which shall have become due after the filing of such notice of such lien, and shall also attach to and be a lien on the right, title, and interest of the person so agreeing to purchase said land at the time of the filing of said notices of lien. When a building shall be erected or repaired by a lessee or tenant for life or years, or a person having an equitable estate or interest in such building or land on which it stands, the lien created by this act shall only extend to and cover the interest or estate of such lessee, tenant, or equitable owners. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1385, ch. 854, § 1245.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. When lien attaches

Mechanic's lien attaches at commencement of work and sale thereafter does not affect validity. Deland v. Wagner (1933, 64 F. 2d 552, 62 App. D.C. 54).

The mechanic's lien attached upon the property at the time of the commencement of the work upon the building, but was subordinate to two deeds of trust previously executed. Id.

§ 38-110. How lien enforced.

The proceeding to enforce the lien hereby given shall be a bill in equity, which shall contain a brief statement of the contract on which the claim is founded, the amount due thereon, the time when the notice was filed with the clerk, and a copy thereof served on the owner or his agent, if so served, and the time when the building or the work thereon was completed, with a description of the premises and other material facts; and shall pray that the premises be sold and the proceeds of sale applied to the satisfaction of the lien. If such suit be brought by any person entitled, other than the principal contractor, the latter shall be made a party defendant, as well as all other persons who may have filed notices of liens, as aforesaid. All or any number of persons having liens on the same property may join in one suit, their respective claims being distinctly stated in separate paragraphs; and if several suits are brought by different claimants and are pending at the same time, the court may order them to be consolidated. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1386, ch. 854, § 1246.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Arbitration 2
Bill in equity 3
Burden of proof 4
Continuance 5
Evidence 6
Filing 7
Reinsurance agreements 8
Subcontractor entitled to lien 9

1. In general

If claim filed under law as it existed prior to act of Congress of 2d of July, 1884, it should have been made out against the former owner of the property with whom contract was made and not against subsequent purchaser. Lefler v. Forsberg (1 App. D. C. 36).

To enforce mechanics' liens although a personal judgment can only be enforced against party who incurred debt, still a personal decree by subcontractors against the owner of the property as well as original contractor is proper, especially where record shows an unexpended balance in owner's hands more than enough to pay claims of subcontractors. Emack v. Rushenberger (8 App. D. C. 249).

It has never been the practice for persons holding or claiming mechanics' liens, who have been made defendants, to take affirmative action as a prerequisite for their participation in the fund to be realized by the suit. Emack v. Campbell (14 App. D. C. 186).

Notices of lien should specifically set forth the amount claimed and not the items that go to make up that amount. Id.

2. Arbitration

Where proceeding was commenced by bill in equity, and, when case was reached for trial, continuance was granted for cause shown that arbitration proceedings were in progress, and parties knew that court's judgment was suspended pending award of arbitrators, the arbitration agreement achieved status of a "stipulation" and would be enforced as a rule of court. John W. Johnson, Inc. v. 2500 Wisconsin Ave., Inc. (1956, 231 F. 2d 761, 98 U. S. App. D. C. 8).

3. Bill in equity

A bill in equity is proper proceeding to enforce mechanics' lien against trustees under deed of trust. Roth v. Eisinger Mill & Lbr. Co. (1934, 70 F. 2d 294, 63 App. D. C. 128).

4. Burden of proof

Burden is on plaintiffs to show by clear proof, when the buildings were commenced, the nature and character of the work and materials furnished and the time when the buildings were completed; and the failure to establish these facts, to a reasonable intent, will cause the plaintiffs to fail in their claim to a lien. Brown v. Waring (1 App. D. C. 378).

5. Continuance

The Court of Appeals would take judicial notice of practice of the District Court that no case can be continued by the assignment commissioner but that continuance can be only upon order of assignment judge for cause shown. John W. Johnson, Inc. v. 2500 Wisconsin Ave., Inc. (1956, 231 F. 2d 761, 98 U. S. App. D. C. 8).

6. Evidence

There is no doubt of the right of the mortgagees and others acquiring an interest in the property against which the lien is sought to be enforced, to require and insist upon strict proof of everything that is essential to maintain the lien. Brown v. Waring (1 App. D. C. 378).

7. Filing

This section provides means for the enforcement of such liens only when filed within the limitations of the statutes. Harper v. Galliher Huguley (1929, 29 F. 2d 452, 58 App. D. C. 252, certiorari denied 49 S. Ct. 185, 278 U. S. 657, 73 L. Ed. 565).

Sworn answer of defendant made it necessary for complainant to prove all allegations of bill which includes filing of notice of lien in the manner and within time presented by statute. Landvoight v. Melovich (1 App. D. C. 498).

8. Reinsurance agreements

Reinsurers are liable to materialmen upon the first reinsurance agreements. Bruckner-Mitchell v. Sun Indem. Co. (1936, 82 F. 2d 434, 65 App. D. C. 178).

Fact that payment, under the reinsurance agreements, is to be made to the District of Columbia is not conclusive that only such a default under the bond as would affect the District in its own right, as distinguished from such a default as affects materialmen, is intended to be covered by the reinsurance agreements. Id.

9. Subcontractor entitled to lien

Under § 1239 (§ 38-103) a subcontractor is entitled to a mechanic's lien, which must be enforced by a bill in equity. Woodward v. Union Trust Co. (1920, 262 F. 627, 49 App. D. C. 173).

§ 38-111. Decree of sale.

If the right of the complainant, or of any of the parties to the suit, to the lien herein provided for shall be established, the court shall decree a sale of the land and premises or the estate and interest therein of the person who, as owner, contracted for the erection, repair, improvement of, or addition to the building, as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1386, ch. 854, § 1247.)

§ 38-112. Subcontractor preferred to contractor.

If the original contractor and the persons contracting or employed under him shall both have filed notices of liens, as aforesaid, the latter shall first be satisfied out of the proceeds of sale before the original contractor, but not in excess of the amount due him, and the balance, if any, of said amount shall be paid to him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1386, ch. 854, § 1248.)

§ 38-113. Distribution.

If one, or some only, of the persons employed under the original contractor shall have served notice on the owner, as aforesaid, before payments made by him to the original contractor, said party or parties shall be entitled to priority of satisfaction out of said proceeds to the amount of such payments; but, subject to this provision, if the proceeds of sale, after paying thereout the costs of the suit, shall be insufficient to satisfy the liens of said parties employed under the original contractor the said proceeds shall be distributed ratably among them to the extent of the payments accruing to the original contractor subsequently to the service of notice on the owner by said parties, as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1386, ch. 854, § 1249.)

§ 38-114. Several buildings.

In case of labor done or materials furnished for the erection or repair of two or more buildings joined together and owned by the same person or persons, it shall not be necessary to determine the amount of work done or materials furnished for each separate building, but only the aggregate amount upon all the buildings so joined, and the decree may be for the sale of all the buildings and the land on which they are erected as one building, or they may be sold separately if it shall seem best to the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1386, ch. 854, § 1250.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Separate notices 2

1. In general

A single mechanic's lien should cover no more than a single building, except in a case where there are two or more buildings joined together and owned by a single person. Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Trott (23 App. D.C. 284).

2. Separate notices

Where each lienor filed separate notices of lien, each in the full amount due, against each of the two lots, trustees under deed of trust were not prejudiced by release of the lien on one lot. Roth v. Eisinger Mill & Lbr. Co. (1934, 70 F. 2d 294, 63 App. D.C. 128).

3. Row of buildings

Where the contract to erect a row of buildings related to the row as an entirety and not to the particular buildings separately, the whole row was a building in the meaning of the mechanic's lien statute, from having been thus united by the parties in one contract, as one general piece of work, and the lien could be claimed on the whole row of buildings. Phillips v. Gilbert (1879, 101 U.S. 721, 11 Otto 721, 25 L. Ed. 833).

§ 38-115. When suit to be commenced.

Any person, entitled to a lien, as aforesaid, may commence his suit to enforce the same at any time within a year from and after the filing of the notice aforesaid or within six months from the completion of the building or repairs aforesaid, on his failure to do which the said lien shall cease to exist, unless his said claim be not due at the expiration of said periods, in which case the action must be commenced within three months after the said claim shall have become due. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1251.)

§ 38-116. Extent of ground bound by lien.

If there be any contest as to the dimensions of the ground claimed to be subjected to the lien aforesaid, the court shall determine the same upon the evidence and describe the same in the decree of sale. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1252.)

§ 38-117. Entry of satisfaction.

Whenever any person having a lien by virtue hereof shall have received satisfaction of his claim and cost, he shall, on the demand, and at the cost of the person interested, enter said claim satisfied, in the clerk's office aforesaid, and on his failure or refusal so to do he shall forfeit fifty dollars to the party aggrieved, and all damages that the latter may have sustained by reason of such failure or refusal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1253.)

§ 38-118. Payment into court and release.

In any suit to enforce a lien hereunder, the owner of the building and premises to which such lien may have attached, as aforesaid, may be allowed to pay into court the amount claimed by the lienor, and such additional amount, to cover interest and costs, as the court may direct, or he may file a written undertaking, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the court, to the effect that he and they will pay the judgment that may be recovered and costs, which judgment shall be rendered against all the persons so undertaking. On the payment of said money into court, or the approval of such undertaking, the property shall be released from such lien, and any money so paid in shall be subject to the final decree of the court. No such undertaking shall be approved by the court until the complainant shall have had at least two days' notice of the defendant's intention to apply to the court therefor, which notice shall give the names and residences of the persons intended to be offered as sureties and the time when the motion for such approval will be made, and such sureties shall make oath, if required, that they are worth, over and above all debts and liabilities, double the amount of said lien. The complainant may appear and object to such approval. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1254.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bond filed 1
Notice not required 2
Payment into court of sum equal to lien 3

1. Bond filed

Where bond is filed by purchaser of realty, for release of mechanic's lien, the suit to foreclose the lien is properly dismissed. Maiaico v. Fletcher (1930, 39 F. 2d 295, 59 App. D.C. 250).

Upon the filing and approval of the undertaking of the owner and his surety, the property was released from the operation of the mechanics' lien. Deland v. Wagner (1933, 64 F. 2d 552, 62 App. D.C. 54).

2. Notice not required

"It will be observed that no notice is required under section 1254 (this section), where a money payment is made by the owner; the theory evidently being that cash speaks for itself, and that no one possibly could be prejudiced by the substitution of cash for the obligation of the owner to pay the amount due under the contract. It was for this reason that section 1255 (§ 38-119) makes no mention of a cash payment." Woodward v. Union Trust Co. (1920, 262 F. 627, 49 App. D.C. 173).

3. Payment into court of sum equal to lien

"The evident purpose of sections 1254 and 1255 (this section and § 38-119) is to enable the owner, against whose building or fixtures a lien has been asserted, to be relieved of the embarrassment of the lien through the payment into court of a sum equal to the amount of the lien with interest and costs, or the filing of an undertaking to cover that amount. Where admittedly an amount is due the principal contractor, and the lien is asserted by a subcontractor, there is no contest between the owner and the subcontractor; the issue being restricted to the contractor and subcontractor. If the owner does not take advantage of these provisions of the code for the release of the lien, the statute imposes upon him no duty to notify the contractor of the pendency of the subcontractor's suit." Woodward v. Union Trust Co. (1920, 262 F. 627, 49 App. D.C. 173).

§ 38-119. Undertaking to discharge liens before suit.

Such an undertaking as above mentioned may be offered before any suit brought in order to discharge the property from existing liens, in which case notice shall be given as aforesaid to the parties whose liens it is sought to have discharged, and the same proceedings shall be had as above directed in relation to the undertaking to be given after the commencement of the suit, and said undertaking shall be to the effect that the owner and his said sureties will pay any judgment that may be rendered in any suit that may thereafter be brought for the enforcement of said lien. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1255.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Exclusive remedy

Where this section prescribed a specific method for removal of mechanic's liens from records by paying into court amount claimed plus interest and costs or by filing a bond, a direct action to remove the lien could not be maintained, notwithstanding plaintiff's contention that he was without funds either to pay amounts into court or to secure a bond and that delay incident to ordinary procedure would cause him irreparable damage, particularly where owner admitted that he had deposited sufficient money to cover lien with a title insurance company. Clarke v. Huff (1948, 165 F. 2d 247, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 38).

§ 38-120. Decree against sureties.

If such undertaking be approved before any suit brought, such suit shall be a suit in equity against the owner, to which the sureties may be made parties; if the undertaking be approved after suit brought, the said sureties shall ipso facto become parties to the suit, and in either case the decree of the court shall be against the sureties as well as the owner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1256.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Joinder of parties, see § 13-401.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Owner and surety; decree against

Where owner and his surety had filed an undertaking and had thereby released the mechanics' lien, the decree was properly rendered against said owner and surety. Deland v. Wagner (1933, 64 F. 2d 552, 62 App. D.C. 54).

§ 38-121. No action by subcontractor against owner.

No subcontractor, materialman, or workman employed under the original contractor shall be entitled to a personal judgment or decree against the owner of the premises for the amount due to him from said original contractor, except upon a special promise of such owner, in writing, for a sufficient consideration, to be answerable for the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1387, ch. 854, § 1257.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Liability to subcontractor 3
Personal obligation 2

1. In general

This section is applicable although the owner's contract with the contractor and the latter's contract with the subcontractor were to be performed in Maryland. Mathews v. Libbey (42 App. D. C. 272).

2. Personal obligation

Subcontractor is not entitled to personal judgment against owner of premises for money due him from general contractor, but a personal, new and direct promise by owner to pay for work, though not in writing, is enforceable and not violative of statute of frauds, provided such promise is supported by sufficient consideration, and such agreement is construed to be promise by owner to pay his own debt and not antecedent debt of contractor. Arthur Snowden Co., Inc. v. Meehan (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 118 A. 2d 687).

In subcontractor's action against owner of premises for reasonable value of work performed on houses, evidence would not sustain subcontractor's contention that owner had, after contractor's default on original contract, requested subcontractor to continue work and orally promised to pay him reasonable value thereof. Id.

Where principal contract did not cover additional work which owner, through general contractor requested plumbing subcontractor to perform for owner, subcontractor's claim against owner was based on owner's personal promise to pay owner's own debt and not debt of another, and authorizing subcontractor to recover amount owed by original contractor from owner who specially promises in writing for consideration to be answerable for such amount was inapplicable to subcontractor's claim against owner, and such claim was not within statute of frauds, § 12-302, requiring special promise to answer for debt of another person to be in writing. Jones v. Guice (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 190).

3. Liability to subcontractor

Where electrical contractor who initially undertook job at instance of general contractor could have quit the job because of general contractor's default, and he only agreed to continue in consideration of homeowner's personal new and direct agreement to pay for the work, homeowner was not relieved of obligation to pay, though his promise was merely verbal. Thomas v. Ehrmantraut (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 111 A. 2d 623).

A promise need not be in writing when it is an original or separate agreement to pay and not the mere assumption of another's debt. Id.

§ 38-122. Judgment for deficiency upon a sale.

In any suit brought to enforce a lien by virtue of the provisions aforesaid, if the proceeds of the property affected thereby shall be insufficient to satisfy such lien, a personal judgment for the deficiency may be given in favor of the lien or against the owner of the premises or the original contractor, as the case may be, whichever contracted with him for the labor or materials furnished by him, provided such person be a party to the suit and shall have been personally served with process therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1258.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Former owners liable

Where property was sold under a deed of trust, it was properly held that a personal judgment for the deficiency should be rendered against the former owners who contracted for the repairs. Davidson v. E. F. Brooks Co. (46 App. D.C. 457, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 63, 245 U.S. 665, 62 L. Ed. 538). See, also, Emack v. Rushenberger (8 App. D.C. 249); McCarthy v. Holtman (19 App. D.C. 150).

§ 38-123. Wharves and lots.

Any person who shall furnish materials or labor in filling up any lot or in constructing any wharf thereon, or dredging the channel of the river in front of any wharf, under any contract with the owner, shall be entitled to a lien for the value of such work or materials on said lot and wharf upon the same conditions and to be enforced in the same manner as in the case of work done in the erection of buildings, as provided in section 38-110. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1259.)

§ 38-124. Artisans' lien.

Any mechanic or artisan who shall make, alter, or repair any article of personal property at the request of the owner shall have a lien thereon for his just and reasonable charges for his work done and materials furnished, and may retain the same in his possession until said charges are paid; but if possession is parted with by his consent such lien shall cease. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1260.)

§ 38-125. Enforcement by sale.

If the amount due and for which a lien is given by section 38-124 is not paid after the end of a month after the same is due, and the property bound by said lien does not exceed the sum of fifty dollars, then the party entitled to such lien, after demand of payment upon the debtor, if he be within the District, may proceed to sell the property so subject to lien at public auction, after giving notice once a week for three successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in the District, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied, first, to the expenses of such sales and the discharge of such lien, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid over to the owner of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1263.)

§ 38-126. Enforcement by bill in equity.

If the value of the property so subject to lien shall exceed the sum of fifty dollars, the proceeding to enforce such lien shall be by bill or petition in equity, and the decree, which shall be rendered according to the due course of proceedings in equity, besides subjecting the thing upon which the lien was attached to sale for the satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand, shall adjudge that the plaintiff recover his demand against the defendant from whom such claim is due, and may have execution therefor as at law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1264.)

of such sale shall be applied, first, to the expenses of such sales and the discharge of such lien, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid over to the owner of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1263.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Conversion

Where garage owner after repairing conditional vendee's automobile turned the same over to the holder of conditional sales contract with permission of conditional vendee's son and collected his repair charges from holder, garage owner was not guilty of conversion in failing to follow the statutory requirements as to notice by repairers of automobile before enforcing lien for charges. Bullock v. Young (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 118 A. 2d 917).

§ 38-204. Lien of liverymen.

It shall be lawful for all persons keeping or boarding any animals at livery within the District, under any agreement with the owner thereof, to detain such animals until all charges under such agreement for the care, keep, or board of such animals shall have been paid: Provided, however, That before enforcing the lien hereby given notice in writing shall be given to such owner in person or by registered mail at his last-known place of residence of the amount of such charges and the intention to detain such animal or animals until such charges shall be paid. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 96, ch. 361, § 1.)

§ 38-205. Lien for storage, repairs and supplies for motor vehicles.

All persons storing, repairing, or furnishing supplies of or concerning motor vehicles including trailers shall have a lien for their agreed or reasonable charges for such storage, repairs, and supplies when such charges are incurred by an owner or conditional vendee or chattel mortgagor (including a grantor of deed of trust in lieu of mortgage) of such motor vehicle, and may detain such motor vehicle at any time they may have lawful possession thereof. Such lien shall have priority over all other liens or rights in or to the vehicle except as hereinafter limited with respect to claims for storage. Before enforcing such lien, notice in writing shall be given to the title holder, all lien holders shown by the certificate of title or registry of the vehicle, and any other persons known to claimant who have any interest in or lien upon the vehicle. Such notice shall be delivered personally or sent by registered mail to the last-known address of the person to whom given, shall state that a lien is claimed for the charges therein set forth or thereto attached, and shall demand payment thereof. There shall be incorporated in or attached to said notice a statement of particulars of the charge or charges for which a lien is claimed, to which may be added a claim for storage of the vehicle from the date of said notice to the date of payment or sale, which amount shall be set forth at a daily or weekly rate which shall not be in excess of charges prevailing at the time for similar storage, and shall not be in excess of $3 per day or $21 per week, which additional charge shall in no event cover a period in excess of ninety days. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 97, ch. 361, § 2.)

Notice of lien 6

1. In general

Congress seems to have taken notice that motor vehicles are sold frequently upon conditional sale contracts, and accordingly provided for a lien in favor of garage keepers, where the charges are incurred either by the owner or the conditional vendee. Barrett v. Commercial Credit Co. (1924, 296 F. 996, 54 App. D.C. 249).

The very fact that the statute awards a lien for work done or material furnished at the instance of the conditional vendee, and in view of the further fact that the automobile business is largely conducted upon a credit basis, by which dealers protect themselves through conditional sales agreements, are indicative of the legislative intent to give such a lien priority over the conditional bill of sale. Id.

2. Authority of Director of Vehicles and Traffic

Sole function of Director of Vehicles and Traffic under automobile lien statute is to satisfy himself that lienor has complied with notice provisions thereof. Sanders v. Keneipp et al. (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 109 A. 2d 141).

3. Bankruptcy

Where garage keeper, having a subsisting lien upon bankrupt's automobile, lawfully regained and held possession of automobile before owner was adjudicated a bankrupt, garage keeper had a statutory lien valid against the trustee in bankruptcy, even though it arose and was perfected while the bankrupt was insolvent and within four months of filing of petition in bankruptcy. Gordon v. Sullivan (1951, 188 F. 2d 980, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 144).

4. Conversion

Where garage owner after repairing conditional vendee's automobile turned the same over to the holder of conditional sales contract with permission of conditional vendee's son and collected his repair charges from holder, garage owner was not guilty of conversion in failing to follow the statutory requirements as to notice by repairers of automobile before enforcing lien for charges. Bullock v. Young (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 118 A. 2d 917).

5. Extent of lien

Where automobile owner contracted with garage keeper for small repair job and, despite repeated promises to call for automobile, left it with garage keeper who was required to provide valuable space for its storage, a quasi contract or promise implied in law to pay for such storage was created and that obligation was recognizable under automobile lien statute. Sanders v. Keneipp et al. (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 109 A. 2d 141).

6. Notice of lien

Garage owner, who did not give notice of lien until he had stored automobile for six months after repairing it, did not lose his lien or his right to claim storage thereby even though automobile lien statute allowed such notice after 30 days. Sanders v. Keneipp et al. (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 109 A. 2d 141).

7. Possession

Where garage keeper performed repairs upon an automobile, and turned over automobile to its owner, but garage keeper subsequently resumed possession of automobile, garage keeper had a lien on automobile by operation of law and did not lose it by failing to give statutory notice. Gordon v. Sullivan (1951, 188 F. 2d 980, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 144).

Where garage keeper made repairs upon an automobile and turned it over to the owner, and garage keeper subsequently repossessed the automobile from a third party by paying storage charges on automobile, garage keeper's taking and retention of automobile were lawful and he was entitled to retain possession as against the owner's trustee in bankruptcy. Id.

§ 38-206. Enforcement of lien by sale.

If the amount due and for which a lien is given by section 38-204 or 38-205 hereof is not paid by the end of thirty days after the giving of notice, then the party entitled to such lien may proceed to sell the property so subject to lien at public auction, after giving notice once a week for three successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in the District. Said advertisement shall set forth the date, time, and place of sale, which shall not be less than fifteen days from date of the first publication of such notice, that the purpose of the sale is to satisfy a lien, the amount for which said lien is claimed, including storage to date of sale if allowable, the names of all interested parties, and a description of the chattel, including, in the case of vehicles, the make, type, year and model number, serial number and engine number, if any, and State or District license number and year.

Any person selling such property in order to satisfy a fraudulent, excessive, or unreasonable lien shall be guilty of a conversion of such property and liable to the owner in damages therefor. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 97, ch. 361, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Conversion

Where garage owner after repairing conditional vendee's automobile turned the same over to the holder of conditional sales contract with permission of conditional vendee's son and collected his repair charges from holder, garage owner was not guilty of conversion in failing to follow the statutory requirements as to notice by repairers of automobile before enforcing lien for charges. Bullock v. Young (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 118 A. 2d 917).

§ 38-207. Application of proceeds of sale.

The proceeds of such sale shall be applied, first, to the expenses of such sales and the discharge of such lien; second, to payment of other liens, if any, in the order of their priority; and, third, to the owner of the property. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 97, ch. 361, § 4.)

§ 38-208. Limitation on lien for storage.

To the extent that any lien provided for in this chapter is based on a claim for storage of a motor vehicle in excess of $150, such lien shall be, as to such excess, inferior to the lien of a conditional vendor or chattel mortgagee (as defined in section 38-205) claiming under an instrument recorded on a date earlier than the period to which such charges are attributable. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 97, ch. 361, § 5.)

§ 38-209. Liens acquired under prior law.

Section 38-201 is hereby repealed and sections 38-104, 38-125, 38-202, 34-105, 38-126 and 38-203 are hereby made inapplicable to liens provided for in sections 38-204 and 38-205 hereof: Provided, however, That any liens heretofore acquired under the provisions of said section 38-201, shall be unaffected by the repeal of said section and may be enforced either in the manner provided in said sections 38-104, 38-125, 38-202, 34-105, 38-126 and 38-203 or in the manner provided herein. (June 3, 1952, 66 Stat. 98, ch. 361, § 6.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Contract of enlistment 2
Enlisted into military service 3
Trial by military authorities 4

1. In general

It is immaterial whether the arrest was made before or after the issue or the service of the writ to release minor son from military service. Ex Parte Foley (D.C. Ky. 1917, 243 F. 470).

Petitioner was not entitled to a discharge, and he could not be furloughed to the Reserve when he was in actual military service. Ex Parte Roach (D.C. Ala. 1917, 244 F. 625).

Effect of this section was at most to make the enlistment voidable by the parent. Reed v. Cushman (C.C.A. 1, 1918, 251 F. 872).

2. Contract of enlistment

Fact that minor is under 21 when he enlisted, or that the written consent of his parent or guardian was not given to such enlistment, or that he was an alien, who had not made a declaration of his intention to become a citizen, or that he had a mother dependent upon him for support does not make his contract of enlistment void. Ex Parte Dostal (D.C. Ohio 1917, 243 F. 664).

3. Enlisted into military service

It was not intended that the provision containing the expression "enlisted or mustered into the military service of the United States" should apply to only one branch of that service. Hoskins v. Dickerson (C.C.A. 5, 1917, 239 F. 275).

4. Trial by military authorities

Where petitioners were acting, under orders of the President in the discharge of a high duty, and might be ordered at any time to perform active military service, the State had no right to try the men for offense, but it was a case for the military authorities. In re Wulzen (D.C. Ohio 1916, 235 F. 362).

§ 39-402. Enlistment contract and oath.

Men enlisting in the National Guard of the District of Columbia, shall sign an enlistment contract and subscribe to the following oath of enlistment: "I do hereby acknowledge to have voluntarily enlisted this ---- day of -----, 19--, as a soldier in the National Guard of the United States and of the District of Columbia, for the period of three (or one) years, under the conditions prescribed by law, unless sooner discharged by proper authority. And I do solemnly swear that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America, and that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies whomsoever, and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States, and of the officers appointed over me according to law and the rules and Articles of War."

The oath of enlistment prescribed in this section may be taken before any officer of the National Guard authorized to administer oaths of enlistment in the National Guard of the District of Columbia, by respective laws thereof. All oaths of enlistment administered prior to June 19, 1935 by the officers described above are hereby validated. (June 3, 1916, 39 Stat. 201, ch. 134, § 70; June 4, 1920, 41 Stat. 781, ch. 227, subch. I, § 38; June 15, 1933, 48 Stat. 156, ch. 87, § 8; June 19, 1935, 49 Stat. 391, ch. 277, § 3.)

(e) The term "dealer" means any person engaged in the business of manufacturing, distributing, or dealing in motor vehicles or trailers.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS

Reorganization Order No. 54 of the Board of Commissioners dated June 30, 1953, and made effective Aug. 15, 1953, established under the direction and control of the Engineer Commissioner, a Department of Vehicles and Traffic, headed by a Director. The Department of Vehicles and Traffic was later redesignated as the Department of Motor Vehicles by Order No. 58-919 of the Commissioners, dated June 10, 1958. The new department is to provide for the planning of traffic and parking facilities and the administration of the Motor Vehicle laws of the District. A Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board was established, and the members of the former board reappointed. The previously existing Department of Vehicles and Traffic, the Registrar of Titles and Tags, the Board of Revocation and Review of Hackers' Identification Cards, the Driver Improvement Section, and the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency were abolished by the order. NOTES TO DECISIONS

"Operate," defined 1

1. "Operate" defined

In view of statutory provisions dealing with registration of motor vehicles and defining terms "operate" and "operated" to include operating, moving, standing, or parking any motor vehicle or trailer on public highway, defendant, who had no operator's permit and who was manually pushing automobile, temporarily incapable of movement under its own power, along highway and controlling its direction by reaching through open window and manipulating steering wheel was guilty of violating regulation that no individual shall operate a motor vehicle without first having obtained an operator's permit. Richardson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 492).

2. Owners

Where there had been a meeting of minds of sellers and buyer, payment of purchase price by buyer and delivery of automobiles by sellers, sellers were not the "owners", and were not liable for damage caused by buyer's negligent operation of automobile, notwithstanding fact that notarization of assignment of title was defective and automobile was still registered in sellers' names. Burt and Mumford v. Cordover (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 117 A. 2d 116).

§ 40-102. Registration of motor vehicles and trailers—
Certificates—Tags—Duplicates—Dealers—Fees—Official and foreign vehicles and trailers—Transfers—Regulations.

(a) No motor vehicle or trailer shall be operated (except motor vehicles or trailers operated by non-residents, exempted under the provisions of section 40-303, motor vehicles or trailers covered by a dealer's registration as provided in subsection (b) (1) of this section, and motor vehicles or trailers covered by a special use certificate as provided in subsection (b) (4) of this section) unless registered in the department of vehicles and traffic of the District of Columbia by the owner thereof. Upon receipt of an application from the owner of a motor vehicle or trailer and (except in the case of a motor vehicle or trailer covered by subsection (b) (2) of this section) payment of a registration fee computed as provided in section 40-103, and if there is in force with respect to such motor vehicle or trailer a valid certificate of title issued under section 40-603, the director shall issue to such owner a registration certificate and identification tags for such motor vehicle or trailer.

(b) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia by regulation shall provide for the issuance by the director—

(1) annually to any dealer, upon payment of the fee prescribed in section 40-103, of a registration certificate and identification tags bearing a distinguishing dealer's mark, for interchangeable use on motor vehicles and trailers in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Commissioners;

(2) annually, without charge, of certificates of registration and identification tags for all motor vehicles and trailers owned by the United States or by the District of Columbia, or officially used by any duly accredited representative of a foreign government;

(3) of duplicate registration certificates or duplicate identification tags, upon proof satisfactory to the director of loss, mutilation, or destruction thereof, upon payment of a fee of $1 for each set of duplicate tags or 50 cents for each duplicate registration certificate; and

(4) to any person, upon payment of a fee of $1, of a special use certificate and special use identification tags bearing a distinguishing mark, valid for a period not exceeding ten days, for use on a motor vehicle or trailer in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Commissioners: Provided, That if any person be convicted of a violation of such regulations, the director may refuse thereafter to issue a special use certificate and special use identification tags to such person for a period of one year: Provided further, That the issuance of a special use certificate and special use identification tags for a motor vehicle or trailer shall not constitute a registration of such motor vehicle or trailer for any purpose.

(c) Every registration made under this title shall expire at midnight on the last day of the registration year for which the registration was made, unless the time be extended by the Commissioners. Any such registration may be renewed for the ensuing registration year upon application made by the owner during the months of February and March, and upon payment of the fees required by law. During the month of March it shall be lawful to operate a motor vehicle or trailer registered for the ensuing registration year. For the purposes of this chapter, a registration year shall be deemed to begin on April 1 and end on March 31.

(d) Upon the sale or other transfer to another owner of any motor vehicle or trailer registered under this title, the registration thereof shall expire. The owner selling or otherwise transferring such vehicle or trailer may register another motor vehicle or trailer for the unexpired portion of the registration year upon payment of a fee of $1 and a sum equal to the difference between the registration fee originally paid and the fee computed for such other motor vehicle or trailer under section 40-103, in case the latter is the greater. Upon the death of a joint owner of a motor vehicle or trailer registered under this chapter the registration thereof shall be transferred to the survivor or survivors and the fee for such transfer shall be $1.

(e) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this title and shall prescribe such forms of application for registration and for a special use certificate, such forms of registration and special use certificate, such design of identification tags, and provide for the keeping of such records of registration and issuance of special use certificates and transfers of registration as will facilitate the identification and the regulation of motor vehicles and trailers operated in the District of Columbia.

(f) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are further authorized to prescribe regulations under which the director may revoke or suspend the registration of any dealer who shall cease to be a dealer as defined in this chapter, or who shall have violated the provisions of this chapter or the regulations promulgated thereunder by the Commissioners, and to revoke or suspend and provide for the return to the director of all dealers' identification tags issued to such dealer, subject to review by the Commissioners under rules and regulations prescribed by them. Pending such review, any such order of revocation or suspension shall be stayed unless the Commissioners shall otherwise direct. No order of the director or the Commissioners hereunder shall be set aside or suspended by any court unless such order is arbitrary or capricious. (Aug. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 680, ch. 690, § 2, title IV; May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 359, ch. 223, § 4; July 17, 1939, 53 Stat. 1045, ch. 313, § 1; Sept. 8, 1950, 64 Stat. 792, ch. 921, § 3; May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 111, ch. 218, § 601; Apr. 6, 1956, 70 Stat. 102, ch. 182, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Purpose 1
Recording of lien 2
Violation 3

1. Purpose

Purpose of Vehicle Title and Registration Regulations was to make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to perpetrate fraudulent automobile transfers. Chiplock v. Stewart Motor Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 851).

2. Recording of lien

Where automobile dealer had a "floor plan" arrangement by which plaintiff would advance funds to dealer for purchase of automobiles and would take back chattel mortgages, and dealer had arrangement whereby finance company would purchase the conditional sales contracts executed by buyers of automobiles, and the buyer of an automobile gave conditional sales contract which was assigned to finance company but company never received title certificate because dealer had financial difficulties and never repaid plaintiff, plaintiff was estopped from asserting lien against buyer who had no actual knowledge of plaintiff's recorded chattel mortgage lien, and the buyer, not being in default, was entitled to use and enjoyment of automobile, and finance company was entitled to have its lien recorded on certificate of title. Smith, Kirkpatrick Co., Inc. v. Continental Autos, Ltd., et al. (1960, 184 F. Supp. 764).

3. Violation

Where defendant was convicted for operating an automobile without identification tags, basic error was committed in convicting him of an offense for which he was not arrested or charged, and while great strictness should not be employed in construing an information in traffic cases, it is nevertheless the law that an information must state an offense. Smith v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 766).

§ 40-103. Fees classified and use of proceeds designated.

(a) There shall be levied, collected, and paid for each registration year for each motor vehicle or trailer required to be registered under sections 40-101 to 40-105, the registration fee provided in this section, except that in the event the Commissioners prescribe and issue as the official identification tags for the District of Columbia tags treated with special reflective materials designed to increase the visibility and legibility of such tags, the Commissioners may charge a fee not exceeding fifty cents in addition to all other fees which may be required.

(b) Class A. For each passenger vehicle, including passenger vehicles licensed under paragraph (d) of section 47-2331.

(1) When wholly equipped with pneumatic tires, the manufacturer's shipping weight of which is less than three thousand five hundred pounds, $22; three thousand five hundred pounds or more, $32.

(2) When wholly or partially equipped with other than pneumatic tires, double the above fees.

Class B. For each truck, tractor, and passenger-carrying vehicle for hire having a seating capacity of eight passengers or more in addition to the driver or operator, with the exception of passenger vehicles licensed under paragraph (b) of section 47-2331.

(1) When wholly equipped with pneumatic tires, the manufacturer's shipping weight of the chassis, plus the weight of the cab and body, is less than three thousand pounds, $40; three thousand pounds or more but less than four thousand pounds, $44; four thousand pounds or more but less than five thousand pounds, $52; five thousand pounds or more but less than six thousand pounds, $60; six thousand pounds or more but less than seven thousand pounds, $68; seven thousand pounds or more but less than eight thousand pounds, $74; eight thousand pounds or more but less than nine thousand pounds, $84; nine thousand pounds or more but less than ten thousand pounds, $96; ten thousand pounds or more but less than twelve thousand pounds, $122; twelve thousand pounds or more but less than fourteen thousand pounds, $142; fourteen thousand pounds or more but less than sixteen thousand pounds, $172, sixteen thousand pounds or more, $202: Provided, That in determining the total weight of a vehicle subject to the provisions of this clause, there shall be excluded, in computing such weight; the weight of any special equipment which is subject to taxation as tangible personal property under subsection (e) of this section.

(2) When wholly or partially equipped with other than pneumatic tires, double the above fees.

Class C. For each trailer, when the manufacturer's shipping weight of the chassis, plus the weight of the body, is less than five hundred pounds, $8; five hundred pounds or more but less than one thousand pounds, $12; one thousand pounds or more but less than one thousand five hundred pounds, $20; one thousand five hundred pounds or more but less than two thousand five hundred pounds, $32; two thousand five hundred pounds or more but less than three thousand five hundred pounds, $46; three thousand five hundred pounds or more but less than six thousand pounds, $60; six thousand pounds or more but less than eight thousand pounds, $74; eight thousand pounds or more but less than ten thousand pounds, $92; ten thousand pounds or more but less than twelve thousand pounds, $122; twelve thousand pounds or more but less than sixteen thousand pounds, $152; sixteen thousand pounds or more, $182: Provided, That in determining the total weight of a trailer subject to the provisions of this Class C, there shall be excluded, in computing such weight, the weight of any special equipment which is subject to taxation as tangible personal property under subsection (e) of this section.

Class D. For each motorcycle, motor bicycle, motor tricycle, and motor wheel, $12.00.

Class E. For each motor vehicle classified by the Commissioners or their designated agent as an antique motor vehicle on the basis of a finding that such vehicle was manufactured prior to January 1, 1930, and is owned solely as a collector's item, with its use limited to participation in club activities, exhibits, tours, parades, and similar uses, but in no event for general transportation, $5.

Class F. For dealers' identification tags, first set of tags, $30, and $10 for each additional set.

Class G. For each motor vehicle propelled by fuel not subject to taxation under chapter 19 of title 47, and motor vehicles propelled by any means other than motor fuels as defined in said chapter, double the fees provided in this subsection for classes A through D.

(c) When application for registration of any motor vehicle or trailer or for registration as a dealer or for issuance of dealers' identification tags is received by the director on or after October 1, the registration fee, or the fee for issuance of dealers' identification tags shall be one-half the amount otherwise provided.

(d) Proceeds from fees payable under this chapter shall be divided between the General Fund and the Highway Fund. The Commissioners are authorized and empowered to determine the percentage of all proceeds from fees payable under this chapter which shall be deposited to the credit of the General Fund of the District of Columbia: Provided, That the percentage of proceeds deposited to the credit of the General Fund shall be not less than sixty-four per centum or more than seventy-four per centum of all proceeds from fees payable under this chapter. The remainder of such proceeds payable under this chapter, all moneys collected from the motor-vehicle-fuel tax, and fees charged for the titling of motor vehicles and trailers, including fees charged for the issuance of permits to operate motor vehicles, shall be deposited in a special account in the Treasury of the United States entirely to the credit of the District of Columbia and shall be appropriated and used solely and exclusively for the following purposes:

(a) (1) The Commissioners or their designated agent shall, upon application, the payment of a fee of $3, and compliance with such regulations as the Commissioners or their designated agent may prescribe, issue a motor vehicle operator's permit valid for a period not in excess of three years, to any individual sixteen years of age or over who, after examination, in the opinion of the Commissioners or their designated agent, is mentally, morally, and physically qualified to operate a motor vehicle in such manner as not to jeopardize the safety of individuals or property. The Commissioners or their designated agent shall cause each applicant to be examined as to his knowledge of the traffic regulations of the District and shall require the applicant to give a practical demonstration, or produce evidence acceptable to the Commissioners or their designated agent, of his ability to operate a motor vehicle within a congested portion of the District, except that upon the renewal of any such operator's permit such examination and demonstration may be waived in the discretion of the Commissioners or their designated agent. Should the Commissioners or their designated agent believe that the issuance or reissuance of a permit in accordance with the provisions of this chapter may prove a menace to public safety, they or their agent may refuse the issuance or reissuance thereof. No operator's permit issued to any individual under eighteen years of age shall authorize the operation by such individual while he is under the age of eighteen years of any motor vehicle other than a passenger vehicle or motorcycle or motor bicycle, used solely for purposes of pleasure and not for compensation.

(2) The Commissioners or their designated agent may, upon application and the payment of a fee of $1, issue a learner's permit, valid for a period of sixty days, to any applicant for a motor vehicle operator's permit, sixteen years of age or over, who has successfully passed all parts of the examination other

Such permit shall entitle the permittee, while having such permit in his immediate possession, to operate a passenger motor vehicle, used solely for purposes of pleasure and not for compensation, when accompanied by the holder of a valid motor vehicle operator's permit who is occupying a seat beside such permittee.

(3) Any pupil fifteen years of age or over enrolled in a high school or junior high school driver education and training course approved by the Commissioners or their designated agent may, without obtaining either an operator's or a learner's permit, operate a dual-control motor vehicle at such times as such pupil is under instruction and accompanied by a licensed motor-vehicle driving instructor: Provided, That such instructor shall at all times while he is engaged in such instruction have on his person a certificate from the principal or other person in charge of such school, stating that such instructor is officially designated to instruct pupils enrolled in such course, and whenever demand is made by a police officer such instructor shall display to him such certificate.

(4) In case of the loss of an operator's permit or a learner's permit, the individual to whom such permit was issued shall forthwith notify the commissioners or their designated agent, who shall furnish such individual with a duplicate permit. The fee for each such duplicate permit shall be 50 cents.

(5) Enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard shall be issued, without charge, a permit to operate Government-owned vehicles, while engaged in official business, upon the presentation of a certificate from their commanding officers to the effect that they are assigned to operate a Government vehicle and are qualified to drive, and upon proving to the satisfaction of the director of vehicles and traffic that they are familiar with the traffic regulations of the District of Columbia.

(6) Notwithstanding the provisions of this subsection, the Commissioners or their designated agent may, upon compliance with such regulations as they or their designated agent may prescribe, extend for a period not in excess of six years the validity of the operator's permit of any person who is a resident of the District and who is on active duty outside the District in the Armed Forces or the Merchant Marine of the United States and who was at the time of leaving the District the holder of a valid operator's permit.

(b) Each operator's permit shall state the name and address of the permittee, together with such other matter as the Commissioners or their designated agent may by regulation prescribe, and shall bear the signature of the permittee.

(c) Any individual to whom has been issued a permit to operate a motor vehicle shall have such permit in his immediate possession at all times when operating a motor vehicle in the District and shall exhibit such permit to any police officer when demand is made therefor. Any individual failing to comply with the provisions of this subdivision shall upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than $2 nor more than $40: Provided, That this shall not apply to transient visitors from States in the Union which do not require drivers' permits.

(d) No individual shall operate a motor vehicle in the District, except as provided in section 40-303, without first having obtained an operator's permit or a learner's permit issued under the provisions of this chapter. Any individual violating any provision of this subdivision shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $300 or be imprisoned not more than ninety days.

1. In general

In action by child and others against automobile owners, father and son, for injuries received when child was pinned to school bus from which she had just alighted by owners' automobile which was then being driven by father's employee without owners' permission, questions whether father was negligent in permitting employee to have access to the automobile and whether there was causal connection between such negligence and injury were for jury. Boland, etc. v. Love et al. (1955, 222 F. 2d 27, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 337).

In prosecution for driving without permit and leaving scene of collision, tried by court, erroneous admission of officer's testimony that persons who witnessed collision identified accused, in his presence, as driver of automobile involved in collision, was not cured by court's recognition of error and statement that such testimony was disregarded, where competent evidence of accused's guilt was far from conclusive. Penwell v. District of Columbia (1943, 31 A. 2d 891).

2. Change of residence

A person does not cease to be a legal resident of one jurisdiction for automobile operator's permit purposes by merely forming an intention of moving to another jurisdiction in which such person has never resided. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

3. Evidence

Evidence was sufficient to show that motorist having Maryland driver's permit and owning automobile having Maryland tags was District of Columbia resident required to have District operator's permit and was not resident of Maryland not required to have District permit to operate automobile in District. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

4. Exclusive powers of Congress

Congress, as to the District of Columbia, has express power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, thus possessing the combined powers of a general and a state government in all cases where legislation is possible, and when and how it shall delegate or distribute authority to make detailed regulations under the police power are questions which Congress may determine for itself. LaForest v. Board of Comrs. of District of Columbia (1937, 92 F. 2d 547, 67 App. D.C. 396).

5. Fines

Fine of $275 with commitment to jail for sixty days on default of payment, was not excessive. Dorsey v. Peak (1928, 24 F. 2d 892, 58 App. D.C. 64).

6. Government employees

Traffic regulations apply to United States employees, driving government automobiles. Croson v. District of Columbia (1925, 2 F. 2d 924, 55 App. D.C. 122).

There is no exception in favor of the vehicles of the Post Office Department, and the manifest purpose of the acts does not imply such an exception. White v. District of Columbia (1925, 4 F. 2d 163, 55 App. D.C. 197).

7. Law governing

Where, in personal injury action, which arose from automobile accident occurring in Virginia, but which was brought in Federal District Court in District of Columbia in which defendants resided, court was unable to determine from Virginia decisions standard of conduct to be required of the parties, District of Columbia law would be referred to to determine such standard. Boland etc. v. Love et al. (1955, 222 F. 2d 27, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 337).

8. Nonresidents

The exception of motorist not residing in District of Columbia and complying with automobile registration and driver's license laws of a State from statutory prohibition against operation of automobile in District without District operator's permit is a defense and not part of description of offense, and District law enforcement officers are not required to prove that motorist is not within exception but motorist must prove facts establishing that motorist is within exception. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

9. "Operate," defined

In view of provisions dealing with registration of motor vehicles and defining terms "operate" and "operated" to include operating, moving, standing, or parking any motor vehicle or trailer on public highway, defendant, who had no operator's permit and who was manually pushing automobile, temporarily incapable of movement under its own power, along highway and controlling its direction by reaching through open window and manipulating steering wheel was guilty of violating regulation that no individual shall operate a motor vehicle without first having obtained an operator's permit. Richardson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 492).

10. Permit in possession

Holder of a permit is required to have it in his immediate possession when operating a motor vehicle and exhibit the same to any police officer when demand is made therefor. Dorsey v. Peak (1928, 24 F. 2d 892, 58 App. D.C. 64).

11. Suspension of permit

Failure to prove that the permit had not been restored before the date of arrest was immaterial, even though the information contained no averment of it, as such averment was mere surplusage, and the burden of proof respecting it did not rest on the prosecution. Chesevoir v. District of Columbia (1929, 29 F. 2d 798, 58 App. D.C. 268).

Action of the Commissioners in suspending petitioner's permit was not based upon illegally delegated power. LaForest v. Board of Comrs. of District of Columbia (1937, 92 F. 2d 547, 67 App. D.C. 396).

§ 40-302. Revocation or suspension of operators' permits—Procedure—New permit after revocation—Nonresidents—Penalty.

(a) Except where for any violation of this chapter revocation of the operator's permit is mandatory, the Commissioners or their designated agent may with or without a prior hearing revoke or suspend an operator's permit for any cause which they or their agent may deem sufficient: Provided, That in each case where a permit is revoked or suspended the reasons therefor shall be set out in the order of revocation or suspension: Provided further, That such order shall take effect five days after its issuance unless the holder of the permit shall have filed within such period, written application with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for a review of their order or the order of their agent, and, if upon such review, the Commissioners shall sustain such order, the same shall become effective immediately: Provided further, That application to said Commissioners for a review shall not operate as a stay of such order of the commissioners or their agent when the order has been issued revoking or suspending a permit on account of mental or physical incapacity, for driving under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs; for manslaughter when an automobile is involved, or for operating a motor vehicle equipped with a smoke screen: Provided further, That any individual whose permit shall be denied, suspended, or revoked by the commissioners or their agent may, within thirty days after such denial, revocation, or suspension is ordered, if application for a review by the commissioners of an order for revocation or suspension has not been filed, or in case such application has been filed, within thirty days after decision of the Commissioners, apply to the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for a writ of error to review the order of the Commissioners or their agent complained of or the decision of the Commissioners. Said court is authorized to promulgate rules governing the application for the writ, and the record and proceedings thereon, and to affirm, modify, or reverse the order of the Commissioners or their agent or the decision of the Commissioners, where the writ is allowed pursuant hereto; and the decision of said court shall be final: And provided further, That the application to said court for a writ of error shall not operate as a stay of such order of the Commissioners or their agent or the decision of the Commissioners.

(b) In case the operator's permit of any individual is revoked no new permit shall be issued to such individual for at least six months after the revocation except in the discretion of the Commissioners or their designated agent.

(c) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or their designated agent, may suspend or revoke the right of any nonresident person as defined in section 40-303, to operate a motor vehicle in the District of Columbia, for any cause they or their agent may deem sufficient, and the proper authority at the place of issuance of the permit, or other authority to operate a motor vehicle shall be notified of such suspension and the reason therefor, immediately: Provided, That such order of suspension or revocation shall take effect ten days after its issuance, and the same be subject to review and appeal in the manner and under the same conditions as are provided for such matters in subsection (a) of this section.

(d) Any individual found guilty of operating a motor vehicle in the District during the period for which his operator's permit is revoked or suspended or for which his right to operate is suspended under this act shall, for each such offense, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500, or imprisoned not less than 30 days nor more than one year, or both. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1125, ch. 443, § 13; July 3, 1926, 44 Stat. 814, ch. 739, § 3; Feb. 27, 1931, 46 Stat. 1424, 1428, ch. 317, §§ 2, 4; June 7, 1934, 48 Stat. 926, ch. 426; May 15, 1936, 49 Stat. 1273, ch. 393; Aug. 31, 1954, 68 Stat. 1048, ch. 1173, § 1.)

CODIFICATION

"The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia" was substituted for "any justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia" to conform to the provisions of act Aug. 31, 1954, which vested exclusive jurisdiction to review action of the Commissioners in revoking, suspending or denying a license under this section in the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. See § 11-772(e)(3).

AMENDMENTS

1936—Act May 15, 1936, amended paragraph (c) by adding the proviso and giving the right to revoke for any cause, this right being previously given only upon conviction of a violation.

1931—Act Feb. 27, 1931, substituted "commissioners or their designated agent" for "director"; and in subdivision (a) substituted "five days" for "ten days" in the second proviso; omitted from the second proviso "but if the director or his assistant, such order shall thereupon be vacated;" and added the third proviso.

1926—Act July 3, 1926, amended paragraph (a) generally, and among other changes, provided for a hearing on revocation or suspension of operator's permit.

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 7, 1934, substituted "United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia" for "court of appeals of the District of Columbia."

1. Actual physical control

Where automobile, ownership of which was not disclosed, was parked facing east on north sidewalk of a one-way street, and defendant, whose operator's permit had been revoked, was sitting behind steering wheel, and motor was running, in absence of any explanatory testimony from defendant, trial court was justified in finding that defendant was in actual physical control of automobile, capable of putting it into movement or preventing its movement, and hence "operating" the automobile within meaning of statute prohibiting operation during period for which operator's permit has been revoked. Houston v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1959, 149 A. 2d 790).

2. Appeals

Where there was nothing in record on appeal by motorist from order of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia sustaining order suspending motor vehicle operator's permit of motorist, to support motorist's contention that prior to his election to forfeit collateral posted by him when he was charged with backing without caution and with being involved in an accident involving a pedestrian, there was a mutual understanding between him and office of Corporation Counsel that charge of an accident involving a pedestrian would be withdrawn, Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia could not consider that contention on appeal. Lambert v. Board of Commissioners of District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 116 A. 2d 926).

3. Authority to revoke

Where driver had been convicted in Virginia of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and such conviction had been certified to the District of Columbia, and where, as a result of such certification, driver's total points under "point system" of regulation exceeded 12 thereby permitting revocation of driver's operator's permit, Director of Motor Vehicles did not abuse his discretion in allowing points to be assessed for conviction outside District, since, if incident had occurred in District of Columbia, it would have meant mandatory revocation of driver's permit without exercise of any discretion by Director, without a hearing and without reference to any point system. Council v. Director of Motor Vehicles, etc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 159 A. 2d 874).

Traffic hearing officer did not exceed his authority in revoking operator's permit of a motorist convicted of speeding in a school zone even though under the "point system" used in the District, only three points could be assessed for such violation, since notwithstanding such point system Director of Vehicles and Traffic was authorized to revoke operator's permit when, following lawful hearing, he concluded that motorist drove in such a manner as to show a flagrant disregard for the safety of persons or property. Tillman v. Director of Vehicles and Traffic of District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1958, 144 A. 2d 922).

4. Foreign registration after suspension

One whose operator's permit in the District of Columbia had been revoked was properly convicted of driving in the District during the suspension period though he had become a resident of Virginia and had obtained registration and operator's licenses from that state. District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

5. Mandatory revocation

Where it was mandatory on the Commissioners to revoke the defendant's operator's permit when notified of his conviction of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, the defendant was not entitled to a hearing on the matter of revocation and administrative review. Oliver v. Silver (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 155 A. 2d 719).

In prosecution for operating a motor vehicle in the District of Columbia during period for which defendant's operator's permit had been revoked, charge that there was no dispute as to fact that defendant's permit had been revoked and that he had driven in the District was not erroneous in view of defendant's statement in final argument that prosecutor's statement that defendant was driving a motor vehicle on a street in the District was substantially true. Mathews v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 650).

In prosecution for operating a motor vehicle in District of Columbia during period for which defendant's operator's permit had been revoked, failure of court to charge that if the Government failed to prove each element of the offense beyond a reasonable doubt, the jury should find the defendant not guilty, was error but not prejudicial in view of defendant's failure to request such instruction and failure to object to charge as given and in view of charge that jury was sole judge of facts and that it was their duty as finders of the facts to reach a verdict on the testimony. Id.

6. Operating vehicle after revocation

Conviction for operating a motor vehicle after revocation of license was affirmed, and it was not necessary for the prosecution to show that no new permit had been issued. Chesevoir v. District of Columbia (1929, 29 F. 2d 798, 58 App. D.C. 268).

7. "Operator" defined

In view of Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act definition of driver or operator, and in view of regulation defining driver or operator as "every person who drives or is in actual physical control of a vehicle", an "operator" within this section, prohibiting operation of a motor vehicle during a period for which operator's permit has been revoked is one who is in actual physical control of a vehicle upon a public highway. Houston v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 149 A. 2d 790).

8. Public sidewalk

Where automobile, ownership of which was not disclosed, was parked facing east on north sidewalk of a one-way street, and defendant, whose operator's permit had been revoked, was sitting behind steering-wheel, and motor was running, conviction of operating a motor vehicle during period for which his operator's permit had been revoked was not invalid on ground that traffic statutes and regulations were directed at operation of motor vehicles on public highways since a public sidewalk is part of the public highway. Houston v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1959, 149 A. 2d 790).

9. Reasonableness of regulation

Point system which provides for the assessment of points against the motorist for moving traffic violations and for suspension of the motorist's operating permit upon accumulation of eight points, is a reasonable regulation concerning the control of traffic and Board of Commissioners had the authority to enact such a system. Ritch, Jr. v. Director of Vehicles and Traffic of District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 124 A. 2d 301).

10. Statutory right of review

Where statute authorized the Board of Commissioners of District of Columbia to delegate any of its functions to other agencies and the Board did delegate its right to review action of Department of Vehicles and Traffic in revoking a motorist operator's permit to the Director of Vehicles and Traffic, motorist who had his operator's permit revoked was not denied statutory right of having his case reviewed by the commissioners when it was reviewed by the Board's legally delegated authority. Ritch, Jr. v. Director of Vehicles and Traffic of District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 124 A. 2d 301).

§ 40-303. Nonresidents exempt from registration—Period of exemption.

(a) The owner or operator of any motor vehicle who is not a legal resident of the District, and who has complied with the laws of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of a foreign country or political subdivision thereof, in respect of the registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of operators thereof, shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be exempt from compliance with section 40-301 and with any provision of law or regulation requiring the registration of motor vehicles or the display of identification tags in the District. Such exemption shall cover the period immediately following the entrance of such owner or operator into the District equal to the period for which the Commissioners or their designated agent have previously found that a similar privilege is extended to legal residents of the District by such State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or foreign country or political subdivision thereof. The Commissioners or their designated agent shall from time to time ascertain such privileges and cause their or his findings to be promulgated. When the laws of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States or of a foreign country or of a political subdivision thereof contain a reciprocity provision similar to that hereinabove set forth, or the privilege extended to a legal resident of the District is for the remaining portion of the current District of Columbia registration year, then the owner of any motor vehicle who is a legal resident of such State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of a foreign country or political subdivision thereof shall comply with the provisions of section 40-301 and with every other provision of law or regulation requiring the registration of motor vehicles and the display of identification tags in the District at the time of the expiration of the current motor vehicle registration issued to such owner by such State, Territory, or possession of the United States or a foreign country or political subdivision thereof, unless the Commissioners or their designated agent shall have entered into a reciprocal agreement or arrangement with the duly authorized representatives of such State, Territory, or possession of the United States or a foreign country or political subdivision thereof, further to limit or to extend the period of time during which the validity of the motor vehicle registration and identification tags of such State, Territory, or possession of the United States or foreign country or political subdivision thereof shall be recognized by the District. The Commissioners or their designated agent are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into reciprocal agreements and arrangements as aforesaid. The following persons shall, with respect to the registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of operators thereof, if they have complied with the laws of the State, Territory, or possession from which they have been elected or appointed, or of which they are legal residents, be exempt during their respective terms of office or during the period of their employment as administrative employees from compliance with section 40-301 and with any other provision of law or regulation requiring the registration of motor vehicles and the display of identification tags in the District: Senators and Representatives in Congress; Delegates to Congress; Resident Commissioners; administrative employees of Senators, Representatives, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners who are legal residents of the State, Territory, or possession from which said Senators, Representatives, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners have been elected or appointed; and officers of the executive branch of the Government of the United States who are not domiciled within the District of Columbia, whose appointment to the office held by them was by the President of the United States, subject to confirmation by the Senate, and whose tenure of office is at the pleasure of the President.

(b) Any operator of a motor vehicle who is not a legal resident of the District and who does not have in his immediate possession an operator's permit issued by a State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or foreign country or political subdivision thereof, having motor vehicle reciprocity relations with the District, shall not operate a motor vehicle in the District unless (1) the laws of the State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or foreign country or political subdivision thereof, under which the motor vehicle is registered do not require the issuance of a motor vehicle operator's permit or (2) he has submitted to examination within 72 hours after entering the District and obtained an operator's permit in accordance with the provisions of section 40-301. Any individual who violates any provision of this subdivision shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than $5 nor more than $50 or imprisoned not less than 30 days, or both. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1123, ch. 443, § 8; Feb. 27, 1931, 46 Stat. 1424, ch. 317, § 2; Aug. 16, 1954, 68 Stat. 733, ch. 741, § 6.)

AMENDMENT

1954—Act Aug. 16, 1954, amended subsection (a) to authorize the District to enter into reciprocity agreements on registration of vehicles and licensing of drivers and to clarify the application of laws in the case of similar reciprocity provisions.

Act Aug. 16, 1954, also added a new provision exempting certain Government officials from the requirement of registering personal motor vehicles and licensing operators in the District. The exemption was extended to administrative employees of Members of Congress, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners.

1931—Act Feb. 27, 1931, inserted "commissioners or their designated agent" in lieu of "director."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Change of residence 2
Construction 3
Duty of nonresident to obey regulations 4
Evasion of revocation 5
Evidence 6
Owners 7

1. In general

Where bus passenger sued bus company for injuries arising from bus collision with automobile owned by District of Columbia and being operated by policeman, bus company could not maintain a third party action against District of Columbia for contribution notwithstanding provisions of the Financial Responsibility Act. Capital Transit Co. v. District of Columbia (1955, 225 F. 2d 38, 96 U. S. App. D. C. 199).

2. Change of residence

A person does not cease to be a legal resident of one jurisdiction for automobile operator's permit purposes by merely forming an intention of moving to another jurisdiction in which such person has never resided. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

3. Construction

In the first part of this act the word "registration" is applied to the vehicle and the word "licensing" to the operator; and in the latter part the words "licensed or registered" should be treated as used in the same relation as their noun forms in the first part. King v. District of Columbia (1922, 277 F. 562, 51 App. D.C. 160). This case was in effect overruled on another point by District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

The meaning of this act being doubtful, the District's interpretation thereof as evidenced by its agreement with Virginia as to operation of a motor vehicle in the District by a person of that State should prevail. King v. District of Columbia (1922, 277 F. 562, 51 App. D.C. 160). This case was in effect overruled on another point by District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

The exception of motorist not residing in District of Columbia and complying with automobile registration and driver's license laws of a state from statutory prohibition against operation of automobile in District without District operator's permit is a defense and not part of description of offense, and District law enforcement officers are not required to prove that motorist is not within exception but motorist must prove facts establishing that motorist is within exception. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

4. Duty of nonresident to obey regulations

This act does not relieve a nonresident operator of amenability to valid traffic regulations. King v. District of Columbia (1922, 277 F. 562, 51 App. D.C. 160). This case was in effect overruled on another point by District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

This section does not exempt a nonresident from compliance with the laws of the District of Columbia when, while a resident of the District, his driver's permit was revoked under § 40-302 and he is subject to punishment under that section. District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

5. Evasion of revocation

One may be convicted of operating a motor vehicle without a license who procures a Virginia license after his District license has been revoked, and drives in the District during its unexpired period. District of Columbia v. Fred (1930, 50 S. Ct. 163, 281 U.S. 49, 74 L. Ed. 694).

6. Evidence

Evidence was sufficient to show that motorist having Maryland driver's permit and owning automobile having Maryland tags was District of Columbia resident required to have District operator's permit and was not resident of Maryland not required to have District permit to operate automobile in District. Bush v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 234).

7. Owners

Where there had been a meeting of minds of sellers and buyer, payment of purchase price by buyer and delivery of automobiles by sellers, sellers were not the "owners", and were not liable for damage caused by buyer's negligent operation of automobile, notwithstanding fact that notarization of assignment of title, was defective and automobile was still registered in sellers' names. Burt and Mumford v. Cordover (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 117 A. 2d 116).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Chattel mortgagee 1
Conditional sales 2
Joint enterprise 3
"Operator" defined 4
Owners and ownership 5

1. Chattel mortgagee

Chattel mortgagee is not an "owner" of an automobile, nor does he become such merely by virtue of a default by the mortgagor, though the right to possession may accrue immediately upon default, but something more than a lien on the automobile, though presently and summarily enforceable, is necessary. Mason v. Automobile Finance Co. (1941, 121 F. 2d 32, 73 App. D.C. 284).

2. Conditional sales

One who had sold and delivered taxicab to another on conditional sale contract and had retained legal title solely for security, was not the owner thereof nor liable for the property damage caused by negligence of another to whom purchaser had entrusted the taxicab and was not estopped to deny such ownership though his name appeared on taxicab. Gasque v. Saidman (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

3. Joint enterprise

Whether the contributory negligence of the driver of a rented taxicab may be imputed to its owner must be based on the theory that both were engaged in a joint enterprise, but to establish such relationship there must exist not only a community of interest in the subject of the venture but also an equal right, express or implied, to direct and control the management and movement of the car. National Trucking and Storage Co. v. Driscoll (D.C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 304).

To constitute a joint enterprise there must be not only joint or community of interest but also an equal right, express or implied, to direct and control the management and movement of the motor vehicle involved. Gasque v. Saidman (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

4. "Operator" defined

In view of Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act definition of driver or operator, and in view of regulation defining driver or operator as "every person who drives or is in actual physical control of a vehicle", an "operator" within provision prohibiting operation of a motor vehicle during a period for which operator's permit has been revoked is one who is in actual physical control of a vehicle upon a public highway. Houston v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 149 A. 2d 790).

5. Owners and ownership

The terms "owner" and "ownership" must be defined by judicial determination, made in a manner giving effect to the objects and purposes of statutory provisions. Mason v. Automobile Finance Co. (1941, 121 F. 2d 32, 73 App. D.C. 284).

Possession plus power and legal right to permit its use by another constitutes ownership. Id.

Where there had been a meeting of minds of sellers and buyer, payment of purchase price by buyer and delivery of automobiles by sellers, sellers were not the "owners", and were not liable for damage caused by buyer's negligent operation of automobile, notwithstanding fact that notarization of assignment of title, was defective and automobile was still registered in sellers' names. Burt and Mumford v. Cordover (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 117 A. 2d 116).

§ 40-419. Administration by Commissioners.

(a) The Commissioners shall administer and enforce the provisions of this chapter, and may make rules and regulations necessary for its administration.

(b) The Commissioners shall receive and consider any pertinent information upon request of persons aggrieved by their orders or acts under any of the provisions of this chapter.

(c) The Commissioners shall prescribe and provide suitable forms requisite or deemed necessary for the purpose of this chapter.

(d) The Commissioners shall retain records required for the administration of this chapter for a period of five years, after which the Commissioners may destroy or otherwise dispose of such records. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 121, ch. 222, § 3; Sept. 8, 1960, 74 Stat. 862, Pub. L. 86-730, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1960—Subsec. (d) added by act Sept. 8, 1960.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-420. Review by Commissioners.

Any order or act of any agent of the Commissioners under the provisions of this chapter shall be subject to review by the Commissioners. Application for review of any such order or act shall be in writing and shall set out in detail the reasons for such review. Such application shall be filed with the Commissioners within five days after the issuance of the order or occurrence of the act in question. If upon review the Commissioners shall sustain such order or act, the same shall become effective immediately.

Any person whose license or motor-vehicle registration shall be denied, suspended, or revoked by the Commissioners under the provisions of this chapter may, within thirty days after such denial, revocation, or suspension has been reviewed by the Commissioners and sustained by them, file in the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia an application for the allowance of an appeal from the order or decision of the Commissioners. If a majority of the court are of the opinion that the appeal should be allowed, the appeal shall be recorded as granted and the case set down for hearing on appeal. If a majority of the court shall be of the opinion that the appeal should be denied such denial shall stand as an affirmation of the order appealed from. Said court is authorized to prescribe fees and promulgate rules governing the application for the allowance of an appeal and the record and proceedings on appeal, and the said court shall have power to affirm, modify, or reverse the order or decision of the Commissioners, where the appeal is allowed pursuant hereto; and the decision of said court whether in denying an application for allowance of appeal or in deciding an appeal after it has been granted shall be final. The application to said court for the allowance of an appeal shall not operate as a stay of such order of the Commissioners, unless the applicant shall have deposited with the Commissioners, under protest and subject to the decision of the court, security in the amount required by the Commissioners in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, or a bond in an amount equal to the amount of security required by the Commissioners, guaranteeing that the applicant, in the event the order appealed from is sustained or modified by the court, will comply fully therewith. In the event said order of the Commissioners shall be ordered vacated, either by the court or the Commissioners, the security deposited under protest shall be returned to the depositor or the bond shall be canceled.

For the purposes of this section, the phrase "review by the Commissioners" shall mean a review by the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia or a review by any board of review established by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to review the order or act of any agent of the Commissioners pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. No member of such board of review established by the Commissioners shall review any of his own orders or acts. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 122, ch. 222, § 4; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 954, Pub. L. 85-792, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, struck the second sentence providing for filing of application of review with commissioners within five days after issuance of order or occurrence complained of, and added the new matter set out as the second and third sentences of the section.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

AUTHORITY OF COMMISSIONERS NOT AFFECTED—DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

Section 16 of act Aug. 28, 1958, provides as follows: "Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to affect the authority vested in the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia by Reorganization Plan Numbered 5 of 1952 (66 Stat. 824). The performance of any function vested by this Act in the Board of Commissioners or in any office or agency under the jurisdiction and control of said Board of Commissioners may be delegated by said Board of Commissioners in accordance with section 3 of such plan."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Suspension mandatory

Automobile driver's license was properly suspended after driver, who had been in accident which resulted in property damage in excess of $100, failed to post security since suspension of license is mandatory under circumstances, without respect to question of nonliability on part of driver. Haith v. Commissioners of the District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

§ 40-421. Abstract of operating record.

(a) The Commissioners shall upon request furnish any person a certified abstract of the District of Columbia operating record of any person subject to the provisions of this chapter, which abstract shall include enumeration of any motor-vehicle accidents in which such person has been involved and reference to any convictions of said person for violation of the motor-vehicle laws as reported to the Commissioners and a record of any vehicles registered in the name of such person. The Commissioners shall collect for each abstract the sum of $2.

(b) The Commissioners shall upon request furnish any person an uncertified abstract of the District operating record of any person subject to the provisions of this chapter, which abstract shall include enumeration of any motor vehicle accidents in which such person has been involved and reference to any convictions of said person for violation of the motor vehicle laws, as reported to the Commissioners. The Commissioners shall collect for each such uncertified abstract a sum equal to the cost to the District of furnishing such abstract, as such cost may be determined by the Commissioners from time to time. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 122, ch. 222, § 5.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-422. Information regarding financial responsibility to be furnished person injured.

The Commissioners shall furnish to any person who may be injured in person or property by any motor vehicle, upon written request, a statement that the owner or operator of any motor vehicle has furnished evidence of his ability to respond in damages in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and if such owner or operator shall have furnished evidence of having had in effect at the time of such injury or damage a motor-vehicle liability policy, the name and address of the insurance carrier writing such policy. The Commissioners shall collect for each abstract the sum of $2. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 122, ch. 222, § 6.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-423. Service of process on nonresident.

(a) The operation by a nonresident or by his agent of a motor vehicle on any public highway of the District of Columbia shall be deemed equivalent to an appointment by such nonresident of the Commissioners or their successors in office to be his true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served all lawful processes in any action or proceedings against such nonresident growing out of any accident or collision in which said nonresident or his agent may be involved while operating a motor vehicle on any such public highway, and said operation shall be a signification of his agreement that any such process against him, which is so served, shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served upon him personally in the District of Columbia. Service of such process shall be made by leaving a copy of the process with a fee of $2 in the hands of the Commissioners or in their office, and such service shall be sufficient service upon the said nonresident: Provided, That the plaintiff in such action shall first file in the court in which said action is commenced an undertaking in form and amount, and with one or more sureties, approved by said court, to reimburse the defendant, on the failure of the plaintiff to prevail in the action, for the expenses necessarily incurred by the defendant, including a reasonable attorney's fee in an amount to be fixed by the said court in defending the action in the District of Columbia, except that nothing contained in this proviso shall be construed to require the United States or the District of Columbia to file the undertaking hereby required: And provided further, That notice of such service and a copy of the process are forthwith sent by registered mail by the plaintiff, or his attorney, to the defendant, and the defendant's return receipt appended to the writ and entered with the declaration, or such notice of such service and a copy of the process may be served upon the defendant in the manner provided by section 13-108. The court in which the action is pending may order such continuances as may be necessary to afford the defendant a reasonable opportunity to defend the action, and no judgment by default in any such action shall be granted until at least twenty days shall have elapsed after service upon the defendant, as hereinabove provided, of a copy of the process and notice of service of said process upon the Commissioners.

(b) For the purposes of this section—

(1) The term "operation" as used in connection with a motor vehicle includes any use as well as any operation of such vehicle.

(2) The term "nonresident" shall include any person who is not a resident of the District of Columbia and who was the owner or operator of a motor vehicle at the time such vehicle was involved in an accident or collision in the District of Columbia, and includes any such person who was a resident of the District of Columbia at the time such motor vehicle was involved in such accident or collision but who subsequently became a nonresident of the District of Columbia and is a nonresident thereof at the time process is sought to be served on him as a result of such accident or collision.

(c) The appointment of the Commissioners or their successors in office to be the true and lawful attorney for such nonresident as provided by this section shall be irrevocable and binding upon the executor, administrator, or other personal representative of such nonresident. Where a nonresident has been served in accordance with this section and he dies thereafter, the court must allow the action to be continued against his executor, administrator, or other personal representative upon motion, and with such notice as the court deems proper. Except as otherwise provided in the two preceding sentences, service of process may be made on the executor, administrator, or other personal representative of a nonresident in the same manner as is provided in this section in the case of a nonresident. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 123, ch. 222, § 7; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 954, Pub. L. 85-792, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, amended section generally, and among other changes, designated first paragraph as (a), second paragraph as (b), inserted exception clause at the end of the first proviso preceding the color in paragraph (a), added the definition of the term "operation" in paragraph (b), and added paragraph (c).

1. Attorney's fees

Where it was clear that statute providing for institution in District of Columbia of automobile negligence action against nonresident, had been invoked against defendant, that defendant engaged attorney and came into District to defend suit, and that plaintiff failed to prevail in the action, defendant was entitled, in absence of special circumstances or presentation of reason to contrary to an attorney's fee under bond executed by plaintiff as required by statute. Dew v. Simon (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 95 A. 2d 482).

Where motion by nonresident defendant for attorney's fee under bond executed by unsuccessful plaintiff in automobile negligence action was presented to same judge who tried case, judge could have fixed amount of fee without taking evidence on the subject, since he was considered to be an expert on the value of legal services. Id.

Fact that defendant operated taxicab in District of Columbia and lived "within metropolitan area" in nearby Maryland did not preclude his recovery of attorney's fee under bond executed in his favor by plaintiff who instituted in the District of Columbia an automobile negligence action against defendant as a "nonresident." Id.

2. Common law

Statute is in derogation of common law and must be strictly construed. Wood v. White (1938, 97 F. 2d 646, 68 App. D.C. 341).

3. Forum non conveniens

Unless the balance is strongly in favor of the defendant, the plaintiff's choice of forum should rarely be disturbed. Caspar et al. v. Devine et ano. (1958, 257 F. 2d 197, 103 U.S. App. D. C. 193).

4. Nature and scope of process

Financial Responsibility Act authorizing substituted service on nonresident motorist imposes a contractual obligation in derogation of common law, affects substantial rights, and has effect of conferring jurisdiction upon courts where none existed before, and hence it must be strictly construed and strictly complied with. Brenner v. Margolies (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 300).

5. Notice and mailing of process

Requirement of Financial Responsibility Act, which authorizes substituted service on non-resident motorist, that notice of such service and a copy of the process be sent by registered mail to defendant, was not met by mailing a copy of the complaint to defendant. Brenner v. Margolies (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 300).

6. Power of attorney

Where judgment creditor instituted action against judgment debtor's insurer to recover on judgment, and served the summons and a copy of complaint upon agent of board of commissioners, and insurer had filed power of attorney authorizing agent of board of commissioners to accept service on its behalf thereby enabling its insureds to comply with financial responsibility act specifically providing it was not applicable to accidents occurring prior to its effective date which was subsequent to creditor's accident, even though power of attorney was broader than statutory requirements, when it was considered together with a resolution by insurer directors authorizing same, it could not be construed to apply to creditor's action. Orban v. The State Automobile Ass'n (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 127 A. 2d 143).

7. Purpose of substituted service

Provision for service of summons on nonresident defendant in motor vehicle accident case by substituted service on Director of Vehicles and Traffic was passed for the benefit of injured persons within the District of Columbia, not for the benefit of nonresident motorists who caused injury within the District and then by absenting themselves therefrom avoid service and prevent recovery. Seymour v. Hawkins (1943, 133 F. 2d 15, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 376).

Financial Responsibility Act authorizing substituted service on non-resident motorist was not intended to reach an actual resident, but was enacted to provide a means of bringing before the local court a non-resident transient motorist, and hence the statute did not apply to a motorist who was a resident at time of accident and who never thereafter became a non-resident. Brenner v. Margolies (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 300).

8. Residents

The Financial Responsibility Act of District of Columbia authorizing substituted service on nonresident motorist does not apply to one who was resident of the District at time of accident and who became nonresident after accident, but prior to time action was instituted. Johnson v. Jacoby (1952, 195 F. 2d 563, 90 U.S. App. D. C. 280).

Under the District of Columbia Financial Responsibility Act authorizing substituted service on "nonresident" motorist, quoted word did not include one who had lived in the District for more than 15 months before accident and continued to live there for more than eight months after it occurred, although he was driving a vehicle using New York license plates and may have been domiciled in New York on date of accident. Id.

One may be resident of District of Columbia although domiciled elsewhere for purposes of the Financial Responsibility Act authorizing substituted service on non-resident motorist. Id.

Statute does not apply where person was resident of District of Columbia at time of accident and later moved from the jurisdiction. Wood v. White (1938, 97 F. 2d 646, 68 App. D.C. 341).

9. Review

Where, on date complaint was filed, plaintiff furnished copies of complaint to be served to initiate the process of effecting service on nonresident defendants, but no undertaking was filed and no return of service appeared in the docket, and subsequently the District Court dismissed the complaint without prejudice, there was final judicial action subject to appellate review, notwithstanding no appearance was entered for the appellees in the appellate court or in the District Court. Caspar et al. v. Devine et ano. (1958, 257 F. 2d 197, 103 U.S. App. D. C. 193).

10. Surety

Automobile negligence action defendant who, as successful nonresident defendant, was entitled to attorney's fee on plaintiff's undertaking, would have to give surety notice and an opportunity to be heard before he was entitled to have judgment on undertaking run against such surety. Dew v. Simon (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 95 A. 2d 482).

11. Undertaking

One purpose of statute requiring that plaintiff, who institutes automobile negligence action in District of Columbia against nonresident by service of process on Director of Vehicles and Traffic, file undertaking in favor of nonresident defendant is to prevent the reckless reaching out into other jurisdictions and forcing of nonresident to come back into District to defend collision suits, and another is to reimburse a nonresident defendant for expense of successfully defending such action. Dew v. Simon (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 95 A. 2d 482).

The undertaking in favor of a nonresident defendant which is required of a plaintiff who institutes automobile negligence action in District of Columbia against such nonresident by service of process on Director of Vehicles and Traffic, is such an "undertaking" as is defined by Code as an agreement by a party to a suit upon which a judgment or decree may be rendered in same suit or proceeding in which it has been filed. Id.

§ 40-424. Operator deemed to be agent of owner.

Whenever any motor vehicle, after the passage of this chapter, shall be operated upon the public highways of the District of Columbia by any person other than the owner, with the consent of the owner, express or implied, the operator thereof shall in case of accident, be deemed to be the agent of the owner of such motor vehicle, and the proof of the ownership of said motor vehicle shall be prima facie evidence that such person operated said motor vehicle with the consent of the owner. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 123, ch. 222, § 8.)

1. In general

Where statute, except final clause making proof of ownership of motor vehicle involved in accident prima facie evidence of consent, was in identical words of statute previously enacted by other states, there was imported into its terms the construction adopted by courts of such other states. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

2. Accident occurring before effective date

Prior to passage of the statute imposing on the owner of a car liability for the acts of any person who drives it with his consent, a corporation was not liable for an accident of its driver merely because it had entrusted its car to him. Balinovic v. Evening Star Newspaper Co. (App. D.C., 1940, 113 F. 2d 505).

In accident occurring before enactment statute imposing liability on owner, a corporation was not liable for damages where the driver of its car at the time of the collision was engaged in chasing a traffic violator under direction of a policeman who was riding on the running board. Id.

The Automobile Financial Responsibility Law cannot be applied to a collision occurring before its effective date. Smith v. Doyle (1938, 98 F. 2d 341, 69 App. D.C. 60).

3. Agency based on consent

Where party, injured by taxicab owned and operated by member of unincorporated association composed of men who owned and operated taxicabs, obtained judgment against members of association on theory that they were engaged with negligent operator in joint enterprise and were responsible for his negligence, the negligent operator was "agent" of other members of association within this section, so that permits and registration certificates of members of association were required to be suspended unless judgment against them was promptly paid. Champ v. Atkins (1942, 128 F. 2d 601, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 15).

This section makes express or implied consent by owner to another's operation of his vehicle on public highways the equivalent of agency. Rosenberg v. Murray (1941, 116 F. 2d 552, 73 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

Congress intended to establish a new rule of liability in which agency is based on consent. Forrester v. Jerman (1937, 90 F. 2d 412, 67 App. D.C. 167).

Proof that record title to taxicab, O. D. T. certificate, tire ration application, gas allotment papers and Public Utilities Commission certificate were in defendant's name, which was on outside of taxicab, operated by another, gave rise to presumption that taxicab was being operated by defendant's agent with defendant's consent and required proof from defendant to the contrary. Gasque v. Saidman (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

In determining whether an automobile is operated with consent of owner, the usual rules governing relation of master and servant are applied and a substantial deviation from an authorized use terminates consent. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

4. Bailors and bailees

Owner of car was liable in damages for injury from accident which occurred when her car was being delivered to her by employee of a garage with which she had a monthly storage and delivery contract. Jones v. King (App. D.C., 1940, 113 F. 2d 522).

The better reasoned view is that the contributory negligence of a bailee is attributable to a bailor under the Automobile Financial Responsibility Law. National Trucking and Storage Co. v. Driscoll (D.C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 304).

5. Burden of proof

The effect of this provision is simply to shift burden of proof and impose on owner the affirmative duty of proving that automobile was not at time of accident operated with his express or implied consent. Rosenberg v. Murray (1941, 116 F. 2d 552, 73 App. D.C. 67).

In action against District of Columbia for damages sustained when truck collided with plaintiff's automobile, the presumption under the District of Columbia Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act, if such act was applicable, that driver was operating truck with consent of district, arising out of proof of ownership of truck by district, placed on district the burden of proving that truck at time of accident was not operated with district's express or implied consent. District of Columbia v. Abramson et ano. (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 148 A. 2d 578).

Financial Responsibility Act providing that proof of ownership of motor vehicle involved in accident shall be prima facie evidence that driver operated automobile with owner's consent casts burden of proof as to question of consent upon owner of automobile. Milstead v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 93).

Effect of Owners' Financial Responsibility Act declaring that where accident results when person other than owner is driving motor vehicle on highway, with express or implied consent of owner, driver shall be deemed agent of owner, and that proof of ownership shall be prima facie evidence of consent, is to place burden on owner of proving that vehicle was not operated with his express or implied consent at time of accident. Conrad v. Porter (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 777).

The effect of statute making proof of ownership of automobile evidence of owner's consent to operation of automobile by another is simply to shift the burden of proof and impose on owner the affirmative duty of proving that automobile at time of accident was not operated with his express or implied consent. Schwartzbach v. Thompson (1943, 33 A. 2d 624). See, also, Rice v. Simmons (D.C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 587).

6. Common law

Except insofar as statute creates a prima facie case of owner's consent to use of his automobile at time of accident, common-law rules defining liability of employer for acts of employee are unaffected by such statute. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

7. Conditional sale vendor

One who had sold and delivered taxicab to another on conditional sale contract and had retained legal title solely for security, was not the owner thereof nor liable for the property damage caused by negligence of another to whom purchaser had entrusted the taxicab and was not estopped to deny such ownership though his name appeared on taxicab. Gasque v. Saidman (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

8. Defective vehicles

Where defendant owned the taxicab and rented it to the driver he was legally responsible for the driver's negligence as well as his own in maintaining a door of a cab in defective condition or the negligence of the driver in failing to see that the door was closed when the trip resulting in injury to plaintiff began. Greene et al. v. Hathaway (1951, 191 F. 2d 656, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 229).

9. Deviation from authorized use

Presumption that owner consented to use of automobile continues until there is creditable evidence to contrary and ceases when there is uncontradicted proof that automobile was not at time being used with owner's permission, but, when fact of deviation from authorized use is established, the issue is one of law for court. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

10. Directed verdict

In action for damage growing out of operation of taxicab, where evidence established defendant's ownership of taxicab, and defendant's evidence was somewhat inconsistent and self-contradictory, and the police report of accident stated that defendant was driver of taxicab at time of accident and testimony of plaintiff and one of his witnesses, brought out on cross-examination, contradicted defendant's story that taxicab was being operated without defendant's permission and placed the defendant as operator, evidence was sufficient for jury and directed verdict for defendant was improper. Hiscox v. Jackson (1942, 127 F. 2d 160, 75 U.S. App. D. C. 293).

Under provision of statute that proof of ownership of automobile causing damage shall be prima facie evidence that driver was operating automobile with owner's consent, to justify a directed verdict for defendant, shown to be owner of automobile involved, evidence must destroy all inferences and presumptions supporting plaintiff and must raise no doubts against defendant. Id.

Under statute making proof of ownership of motor vehicle involved in accident prima facie evidence that driver was operating vehicle with owner's consent, where ownership is proved in defendant who offers no credible evidence to negative the statutory presumption, plaintiff who has otherwise established liability is entitled to directed verdict. Milstead v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 93).

11. Evidence overcoming presumption

The statutory presumption that vehicle was driven with owner's consent continues only until there is credible evidence to contrary, and ceases when there is uncontradicted proof that automobile was not at the time being used with owner's permission. Hudson v. Lazarus (1954, 217 F. 2d 344, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 16).

Rosenberg v. Murray (1941, 116 F. 2d 552, 73 App. D. C. 67). See, also, Conrad v. Porter (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 777); Schwartzbach v. Thompson (1943, 33 A. 2d 624); Rice v. Simmons (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 587).

Mere ownership of vehicle causing accident creates a presumption that operation was with the consent of the owner, but such may be overcome by uncontradicted proof that the vehicle was not being operated with the owner's consent, and when so overcome, the owner is entitled to a directed verdict. Sawyer et ano. v. Miseli (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 156 A. 2d 141).

In action against District of Columbia for damages sustained when truck, which was owned by district and which was assigned to recreation department and which was operated by department employee, collided with plaintiff's automobile while employee was driving truck out from the curb in front of employee's house where employee had parked truck while he was having his lunch, proof of district's ownership of truck raised a presumption under District of Columbia Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act, if such act was applicable, that employee was operating with consent of district, and the evidence, consisting of regulation of district commissioners requiring that government-owned vehicles be used exclusively for official purposes and testimony of employee's superiors in the department that employee did not have permission to use truck to go home for lunch, was sufficient to overcome such presumption. District of Columbia v. Abrahamson et ano. (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 148 A. 2d 578).

In action for personal injuries and property damage sustained when truck owned by defendant and driven by one of his employees struck rear of plaintiff's vehicle, evidence on consent issue was sufficient to overcome statutory presumption and entitled defendant to directed verdict as a matter of law. Stumpar v. Harrison (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 136 A. 2d 870).

In action against truck owners for damages caused by employee, where statutory presumption that owners had consented to such employee's driving truck was rebutted by uncontradicted proof that he had no authority to drive, fact that authorized employee-driver had turned truck over to unauthorized employee to park it did not establish owners' liability under principles of master and servant relationship, in view of fact that transfer of possession took place. Chasin v. Miller (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 94 A. 2d 647).

Presumption created by Owners' Financial Responsibility Act which arises by mere fact of ownership of motor vehicle that owner has consented to driving of his automobile by another person, is sufficiently rebutted by the uncontradicted denial by owner that vehicle was used with his express or implied consent. Conrad v. Porter (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 777).

Under statute, making proof of ownership prima facie evidence of consent, owner must offer evidence sufficient to overcome the prima facie case. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

12. Findings

Where owner of automobile involved in accident had permitted driver to drive automobiles on previous occasions and the testimony, that at time of accident automobile was not driven with owner's consent was inconsistent and self-contradictory, a finding that owner had failed to break the force of the statutory presumption of consent was justified. Schwartzbach v. Thompson (1943, 33 A. 2d 624).

13. Husband and wife

Negligence of driver who was taking lady home at her request in her husband's automobile, was attributable to husband, under District of Columbia statute making one who operates automobile with owner's consent the agent of the owner in case of accident, in his action against motor carrier for expenses due to collision with its truck and in carrier's counterclaim against him, in absence of sufficient evidence to overcome prima facie case of consent arising, by statute, from husband's ownership. Baber v. Akers Motor Lines (1954, 215 F. 2d 843, 94 U. S. App. D. C. 211).

District of Columbia rule that a married woman may not maintain action, under District of Columbia Financial Responsibility Act, for injuries she sustained as passenger in automobile while it was driven by one who was, at time of maintaining action, her husband, against person who lent automobile to her husband, whether spouses were married at time of accident was applicable to preclude actions being brought in District for injuries sustained in New York. Baker v. Gaffney (1956, 141 F. Supp. 602).

A married woman may not maintain action, under District of Columbia Financial Responsibility Act, for injuries she sustained as passenger in automobile while it was driven by one who was, at time of maintaining action, her husband, against person who lent automobile to her husband, whether spouses were married at time of accident. Id.

14. Joint enterprises

Whether the contributory negligence of the driver of a rented taxicab may be imputed to its owner must be based on the theory that both were engaged in a joint enterprise, but to establish such relationship there must exist not only a community of interest in the subject of the venture but also an equal right, express or implied, to direct and control the management and movement of the car. National Trucking and Storage Co. v. Driscoll (D.C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 304).

To constitute a joint enterprise there must be not only joint or community of interest but also an equal right express or implied, to direct and control the management and movement of the motor vehicle involved. Gasque v. Saidman (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

15. Law governing

Principle that questions of liability in tort are governed by law of state in which tort is committed is subject to exception where forum does not possess necessary procedural machinery to enforce such law. Baker v. Gaffney (1956, 141 F. Supp. 602).

16. New trial

Where principal question was whether colliding automobile was being operated with owner's consent and Municipal Court judge in case tried without a jury made a general finding for plaintiff and assessed damages and general finding was entered on the jacket of the case and in court's minutes and docket, and before judgment was entered defendant moved to set aside and render judgment for defendant, the court was without power to reverse such general finding and enter judgment for defendant, but the court's only recourse was to grant a new trial. Rice v. Simmons (D.C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 587).

17. Operation and control

Evidence was insufficient to present question for jury as to whether owner of automobile could be held liable under Financial Responsibility Act for injuries sustained in collision when automobile was being driven by employee of service station and it appeared that owner at most entrusted employee with driving automobile from owner's place of work to service station, and that employee was not driving back to the station by any route at time of collision but was driving away from it. Hudson v. Lazarus (1954, 217 F. 2d 344, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 16).

Where parking lot attendant was authorized to drive automobile and park it in street in front of owner's store after 6:30 p.m. and attendant had driven four blocks beyond his usual route at time of accident at 6:45 p.m., finding that evidence did not establish that attendant had removed automobile from parking lot for purpose of delivering automobile to owner, and did establish that at time of accident attendant was operating automobile without consent of owner, did not justify judgment relieving owner from liability for attendant's negligence. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

18. "Owners" and "ownership"

The terms "owner" and "ownership" which are not defined in this provision must be defined by judicial determination, made in a manner giving effect to the objects and purposes of this provision. Mason v. Automobile Finance Co. (1941, 121 F. 2d 32, 73 App. D.C. 284).

Possession plus power and legal right to permit its use by another constitutes ownership within the meaning of this provision. Id.

Chattel mortgagee is not an "owner" of an automobile, nor does he become such merely by virtue of a default by the mortgagor, though the right to possession may accrue immediately upon default, but something more than a lien on the automobile, though presently and summarily enforceable, is necessary. Id.

19. Ownership as evidence

Under provision that proof of ownership of motor vehicle causing damage shall be "prima facie evidence" that driver operated automobile with owner's consent, with proof that defendant owned automobile involved and with no evidence on behalf of defendant, a plaintiff who has otherwise established liability is entitled to a directed verdict. Hiscox v. Jackson (1942, 127 F. 2d 160, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 293).

Under provision of statute that proof of ownership of motor vehicle causing damage shall be prima facie evidence that driver operated motor vehicle with owner's consent, the presumption continues until there is credible evidence to the contrary and ceases when there is uncontradicted proof that the vehicle was not at the time being used with the owner's permission. Id.

20. Purpose

In absence of some definite statutory criterion of ownership, the purpose of statute was to place liability on the person in a position immediately to allow or prevent the use of the automobile and to do so by giving a lawful and effective consent or prohibition to its operation by others, and its object was to control the giving of consent to irresponsible drivers by the one having that power rather than to impose liability on one having a naked legal title with no immediate right of control. Mason v. Automobile Finance Co. (1941, 121 F. 2d 32, 73 App. D.C. 284).

The statute has a twofold purpose: To furnish a financially responsible defendant in case a person driving a car, with the owner's consent, negligently causes damage to another; and to promote more careful driving. National Trucking and Storage Co. v. Driscoll (D.C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 304).

The purpose of this chapter was the extension of liability of master for acts of servant to those owners who entrust their automobiles to others or give consent, express or implied, to their use by others. Senator Cab Co. v. Rothberg (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 245).

21. Questions of fact

In action for damages sustained when a plaintiff's taxicab was struck by an automobile owned by defendant, evidence, including testimony that driver and passenger in the automobile ran away from it after the collision which occurred about four blocks from automobile owner's home, and that automobile owner appeared on the scene shortly after the occurrence, was sufficient to present a question for the jury as to whether automobile was being driven at time of the accident by owner, or with consent of the owner. Farralietano v. Ellis (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 127).

In an action against owner of an automobile, for damages sustained by a plaintiff, when his taxicab collided with the automobile, unless automobile owner offered uncontradicted proof that his automobile was not at the time of the accident being used with his permission, question of automobile owner's liability should have been submitted to the jury as a question of fact. Id.

Positive, unequivocal and uncontradicted testimony of owner of an automobile that it was not being used with his permission, at time it was involved in an accident in question, may constitute uncontradicted proof to that effect, for purposes of excusing owner from liability, but if the proof offered by the owner contains inconsistencies and self-contradictions, raising doubt as to owner's credibility or that of his witnesses, issue of permissive use of the automobile is for the jury. Id.

"Uncontradicted proof" requires evidence which destroys all inferences and presumptions supporting one party, and which raises no doubts against the other party. Id.

In action brought by automobile owner to recover for damage sustained when his automobile was struck, while parked, at night, against one whose automobile had been identified as the one doing the damage, defendant's evidence that neither he nor anyone with his consent had driven his automobile at time involved was not so uncontradicted as to justify withdrawal of matter from jury. Love et ano. v. Gaskins (D. C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 660).

Statutory presumption of consent may be overcome by positive testimony of motor vehicle's owner, and if such presumption is overcome by uncontradicted proof, owner is entitled to directed verdict as a matter of law; but if on the other hand, evidence contains inconsistencies and self-contradictions or is reasonably subject to contradictory interpretations, question is one of fact for jury determination. Stumpner v. Harrison (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 136 A. 2d 870).

Upon establishment of defendant's ownership of automobile involved in accident while being driven by another, the Financial Responsibility Act creates presumption of agency and places burden of proof as to question of consent upon defendant, but defendant overcomes such presumption when he offers uncontradicted proof that automobile was not being used with his permission, and is then entitled to favorable finding as matter of law, but where defendant offers some credible evidence to overcome presumption, but not enough to entitle him to judgment as matter of law, question of liability becomes one of fact. McMickle v. Nickens (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 409).

Where statutory presumption that defendant truck owners had consented to the driving of their truck by employee was overcome by uncontradicted proof, question of truck owners' liability to owners of automobiles struck by truck was not strictly one of fact such that trial court's decision should not be disturbed on appeal. Chasin v. Miller (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 94 A. 2d 647).

Upon establishment of defendant's ownership of automobile involved, the Financial Responsibility Act creates a presumption of agency and places burden of proof as to question of consent upon defendant-owner, but defendant-owner overcomes such presumption when he offers uncontradicted proof that automobile was not being used with his permission and owner is then entitled to favorable finding as a matter of law, but, where defendant-owner offers some credible evidence to overcome the presumption but not enough to entitle him to judgment as matter of law, question of liability becomes one of fact. Simon v. Dew (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 214).

Whenever presumption raised by statute providing that proof of ownership of motor vehicle involved in accident shall be prima facie evidence that driver was operating vehicle with owner's consent is overcome by uncontradicted proof, a directed verdict for owner is proper, but if the evidence is contradictory, question of owner's liability is for the jury. Milstead v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 93).

Although presumption, arising under Owners' Financial Responsibility Act by virtue of ownership of vehicle, that vehicle, driven by person other than owner when involved in accident, was being driven with consent of owner and thereby as agent of owner, ceases when confronted with uncontradicted denial by owner of giving of consent, when uncontradicted denial is self-contradictory and inconsistent, it becomes question for jury as to credibility of witness and as to whether presumption has been rebutted. Conrad v. Porter (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 777).

Evidence presented was sufficient to meet the statutory presumption of consent under Owner's Financial Responsibility Act, and when a statutory presumption is met by some credible evidence, it becomes, in a sense, something like an inference and when more than a single inference may be drawn from the evidence, it becomes a question of fact for a jury's determination. Bill's Auto Rental, Inc. v. Bonded Taxi Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 254).

If the presumption that automobile was being used with the express or implied consent of owner at time of accident is overcome by uncontradicted proof, a motion for directed verdict for the owner will be granted, but if the evidence is contradictory or reasonably subject to contradictory interpretations, the question of liability is for the trier of the facts. Rice v. Simmons (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 587).

Where owner of taxicab driven by another was in taxicab at time of collision and the evidence was conflicting whether driver was driving with owner's consent, the inferences to be drawn from the facts were for jury. Gasque v. Saidman (D.C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 537).

Where action against owner of taxicab involved in accident was heard before court without jury, and trial judge's memorandum opinion did not state whether statutory presumption of agency had been overcome as a matter of law or of fact, the Municipal Court of Appeals would assume that the trial judge had found for defendant as a matter of law. Simon v. Dew (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 214).

On appeal from judgment for plaintiff in action against automobile owner for damages resulting from operation of automobile by another, the test is whether the showing was such as to justify a holding that defendant had failed to break the force of the statutory presumption of owner's consent, and in applying that test and in measuring the force, effect and extent of the testimony, the municipal court of appeals, like the trial court, was governed by the rules of reason, credibility, and probability. Schwartzbach v. Thompson (1943, 33 A. 2d 624).

23. Setting aside default judgment

Where plaintiff obtained default judgment in automobile accident case and the court had jurisdiction of the subject and of the parties and there was a lack of proof of ownership of the automobile involved, such fact would render the judgment merely erroneous and not void and hence motion to set it aside was properly denied. Lynch v. Williams etc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 162 A. 2d 770).

24. Unauthorized use

In action for damage to automobiles, uncontradicted testimony by defendant truck owners that driver-employees were instructed to allow no one else to drive, and that a helper-employee who was driving truck in intoxicated condition at time of collision, had no driver's license and went out on truck only when specifically instructed to do so, overcame statutory presumption that owners had consented to helper's driving of truck. Chasin v. Miller (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 94 A. 2d 647).

Where lessee of taxicab obeyed lessor's instructions not to permit any one else to drive taxicab, but, after locking ignition, left keys on radio in her apartment, and another person obtained such keys without lessee's knowledge and became involved in automobile accident, owner did not consent to such use and was not liable for the accident. Simon v. Dew (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 214).

Under Owners' Financial Responsibility Act which raises presumption of consent by owner to driving of his automobile by another person involved in accident upon showing of single fact of ownership, where there was uncontradicted testimony of owner and his agents which was not self-contradictory that automobile was driven without consent by third party when accident occurred, it was error to submit issue of owner's liability to jury. Conrad v. Porter (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 777).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Waiver of deposit

Question whether Commissioners of the District of Columbia should have discretion to waive deposit of security, as required by automobile statute relating to accidents when driver does not have liability policy, in cases of nonliability or in cases of possible extortion is for legislature. *Haith v. The provisions of this chapter, requiring deposit of security and suspensions for failure to deposit security, subject to certain exemptions, shall apply to the driver and owner of any vehicle of a type subject to registration under the motor vehicle laws of the District of Columbia which is in any manner involved in an accident within the District of Columbia, which accident has resulted in bodily injury to or death of any person or damage to the property of any one person in excess of $100. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 124, ch. 222, § 16.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Suspension mandatory 1
Waiver of deposit 2

1. Suspension mandatory

Automobile driver's license was properly suspended after driver, who had been in accident which resulted in property damage in excess of $100, failed to post security since suspension of license is mandatory under circumstances, without respect to question of nonliability on part of driver. Haith v. Commissioners of the District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

2. Waiver of deposit

Question whether Commissioners of the District of Columbia should have discretion to waive deposit of security, as required by automobile statute relating to accidents when driver does not have liability policy, in cases of nonliability or in cases of possible extortion is for legislature. Haith v. Commissioners of the District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

§ 40-433. Determination of the amount of security.

(a) The Commissioners, not less than twenty days after receipt of a report of an accident as described in sections 40-426 to 40-431, shall determine the amount of security which shall be sufficient in their judgment to satisfy any judgment or judgments for damages resulting from such accident as may be recovered against each driver or owner. Such determination shall not be made with respect to drivers or owners who are exempt under succeeding sections of this chapter from the requirements as to security and suspension.

(b) The Commissioners shall determine the amount of security deposit required of any person upon the basis of the reports or other information submitted. In the event a person involved in an accident as described in this chapter fails to make a report or submit information indicating the extent of his injuries or the damage to his property within fifty days after the accident and the Commissioners do not have sufficient information on which to base an evaluation of such injuries or damage, then the Commissioners after reasonable notice to such person, if it is possible to give such notice, otherwise without such notice, shall not require any deposit of security for the benefit or protection of such person. If the Commissioners find that a person required by this subsection to make such report or submit such information is or was physically incapable of so doing within the specified fifty-day period, the Commissioners shall permit such person to make such report or submit such information within thirty days after becoming physically able so to do.

(c) The Commissioners within fifty days after receipt of report of any accident referred to herein and upon determining the amount of security to be required of any person involved in such accident or to be required of the owner of any vehicle involved in such accident shall give written notice to every such person of the amount of security required to be deposited by him and that an order of suspension will be made as hereinafter provided upon the expiration of ten days after the sending of such notice unless within said time security be deposited as required by said notice. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 125, ch. 222, § 17; Sept. 8, 1960, 74 Stat. 862, Pub. L. 86-730, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

1960—Subsec. (b) amended by act Sept. 8, 1960, empowered the Commissioners to permit a report or submission of information to be made within thirty days after a physically incapable person is able to do so.

(a) No policy or bond shall be effective under section 40-434 unless issued by an insurance company or surety company authorized to do business in the District of Columbia, except as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, nor unless such policy or bond is subject, if the accident has resulted in bodily injury or death, to a limit, exclusive of interest and costs, of not less than $10,000 because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident and, subject to said limit for one person, to a limit of not less than $20,000 because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and if the accident has resulted in injury to, or destruction of property, to a limit of not less than $5,000 because of injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Coverage of insurance 1
Power of attorney construed 2

1. Coverage of insurance

Where policy of liability insurance by its own terms "does not cover any liability for death sustained by named insured" the financial responsibility act was applicable, where the insured was killed in her own automobile driven by another and the administratrix of named insured could not recover. Hepburn v. Pennsylvania Indem. Corp. (1940, 109 F. 2d 833).

2. Power of attorney construed

Where judgment creditor instituted action against judgment debtor's insurer to recover on judgment, and served the summons and a copy of complaint upon agent of board of commissioners, and insurer had filed power of attorney authorizing agent of board of commissioners to accept service on its behalf thereby enabling its insureds to comply with financial responsibility act specifically providing it was not applicable to accidents occurring prior to its effective date which was subsequent to creditor's accident, even though power of attorney was broader than statutory requirements, when it was considered together with a resolution by insurer directors authorizing same, it could not be construed to apply to creditor's action. Orban v. The State Automobile Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 127 A. 2d 143).

§ 40-436. Security—Form and amount.

(a) The security required under sections 40-432 to 40-449 shall be in such form and in such amount as the Commissioners may require, but in no case in excess of the limits specified in section 40-435 in reference to the acceptable limits of a policy or bond.

(b) Every depositor of security shall designate in writing every person in whose name such deposit is made, but any single deposit of security shall be applicable only on behalf of persons required to furnish security because of the same accident. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 126, ch. 222, § 20.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-437. Failure to deposit security—Suspensions.

In the event that any person required to deposit security under sections 40-432 to 40-449 fails to deposit such security within ten days after the Commissioners have sent the notice as hereinbefore provided, the Commissioners shall thereupon suspend—

(1) the license of each driver in any manner involved in the accident;

(2) the registration of all vehicles owned by the owner of each vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia involved in such accident;

(3) if the driver is a nonresident, the privilege of operating, within the District of Columbia, a vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia; and

(4) if such owner is a nonresident, the privilege of such owner to operate or permit the operation within the District of Columbia of a vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia.

Such suspensions shall be made in respect to persons not otherwise exempt under this chapter who are required by the Commissioners to deposit security and who fail to deposit such security, except as otherwise provided under this chapter. (May 25, 1954, 60 Stat. 126, ch. 222, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Suspension mandatory 1
Waiver of deposit 2

1. Suspension mandatory

Automobile driver's license was properly suspended after driver, who had been in accident which resulted in property damage in excess of $100, failed to post security since suspension of license is mandatory under circumstances, without respect to question of nonliability on part of driver. Haith v. Commissioners of the District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

2. Waiver of deposit

Question whether Commissioners of the District of Columbia should have discretion to waive deposit of security, as required by automobile statute relating to accidents when driver does not have liability policy, in cases of nonliability or in cases of possible extortion is for legislature. Haith v. Commissioners of the District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

§ 40-438. Release from liability.

(a) A person shall be relieved from the requirement for deposit of security for the benefit or protection of another person injured or damaged in the accident in the event he is released from liability by such other person.

(b) A covenant not to sue shall relieve the parties thereto as to each other from the security requirements of sections 40-432 to 40-449.

(c) In the event the Commissioners have evaluated the injuries or damage to any minor in an amount not more than $200 the Commissioners may accept, for the purpose of sections 40-432 to 40-449 only, evidence of a release from liability executed by a natural guardian or a legal guardian on behalf of such minor without the approval of any court.

(d) In any accident involving property of the United States or the District of Columbia, should it appear upon investigation by or on behalf of the United States or the District that a person involved in such accident may not be liable to the United States or the District for any damage resulting therefrom, such person may submit, and the appropriate United States official and the Commissioners are hereby authorized to give to him, a statement to such effect, and such statement may be in lieu of the release required by this section: Provided, That the United States and the Commissioners may withdraw such statement at any time if it should appear that the person to whom it was given may be liable to the United States or the District for damages arising out of such accident, and if such statement be withdrawn, the person to whom it was given shall be required to comply with the provisions of this chapter. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 127, ch. 222, § 22; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 955, Pub. L. 85-792, § 7.)

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, amended the section by adding subparagraph (d) thereto.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-439. Adjudication of nonliability—Release from requirement of the deposit of security.

A person shall be relieved from the requirement for deposit of security in respect to a claim for injury or damage arising out of the accident in the event such person has been finally adjudicated not to be liable in respect to such claim. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 127, ch. 222, § 23.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective one year after May 25, 1954, see section 87 of act May 25, 1954, set out as a note under § 40-417.

§ 40-440. Agreements for payment of damages.

(a) Any two or more of the persons involved in or affected by an accident as described in section 40-432 may at any time enter into a written agreement for the payment of an agreed amount with respect to all claims of any such persons because of bodily injury to or death or property damage arising from such accident, which agreement may provide for payment in installments, and may file a signed copy thereof with the Commissioners.

(b) The Commissioners, to the extent provided by any such written agreement filed with them, shall not require the deposit of security and shall terminate any prior order of suspension, or if security has previously been deposited, the Commissioners shall return such security to the depositor or his personal representative, or pay such security to the depositor's assignee, as the case may be, when all payments required by such agreement have been made in full, when an amount equal to such security has been paid in accordance with such agreement, or when such security is assigned to the person injured or damaged as a result of said accident.

(c) In the event of a default in any payment under such agreement and upon notice of such default the Commissioners shall take action suspending the license or registration of such person in default as would be appropriate in the event of failure of such person to deposit security when required under this chapter.

(d) Such suspension shall remain in effect and such license or registration shall not be restored unless and until the person in default has paid all payments then in default.

(e) The Commissioners may accept evidence of a payment to the driver or owner of a vehicle involved in any accident by any other person involved in such accident or by the insurance carrier of any other person involved in such accident on account of damage to property or bodily injury as a settlement agreement relieving such driver or owner from the security and suspension provisions of sections 40-432 to 40-449 in respect to any possible claim by the person on whose behalf such payment has been made might have for property damage or bodily injury arising out of the accident. A payment to the insurance carrier of a driver or owner under the carrier's right of subrogation for the purposes of sections 40-432 to 40-449 shall be considered the equivalent of a payment to such driver or owner. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 127, ch. 222, § 24; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 955, Pub. L. 85-792, § 8.)

§ 40-442. Termination of security requirement.

The Commissioners, if satisfied as to the existence of any fact which under sections 40-438, 40-439, 40-440, and 40-441 would entitle a person to be relieved from the security requirements of sections 40-432 to 40-449, shall not require the deposit of security by the person so relieved from such requirement and shall terminate any prior order of suspension in respect to such person, or if security has previously been deposited by such person, the Commissioners shall immediately return such deposit to such person or to his personal representative. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 127, § 26.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Commissioners of the District of Columbia* (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 458).

§ 40-443. Duration of suspension.

Unless a suspension is terminated under other provisions of sections 40-432 to 40-449, any order of suspension by the Commissioners under such sections shall remain in effect and no license shall be renewed for or issued to any person whose license is so suspended and no registration shall be renewed for or issued to any person whose vehicle registration is so suspended until—

(1) such person shall deposit or there shall be deposited on his behalf the security required under sections 40-332 to 40-449; or

(2) one year shall have elapsed following the date of such suspension and evidence satisfactory to the Commissioners has been filed with them that during such period no action for damages arising out of the accident resulting in such suspension has been instituted.

An affidavit of the applicant that no action at law or damages arising out of the accident has been filed against him or, if filed, that it is not still pending shall be prima facie evidence of that fact. The Commissioners may take whatever steps are necessary to verify the statement set forth in any said affidavit. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 128, ch. 222, § 27.)

§ 40-444. Nonresidents—Unlicensed drivers—Unregistered vehicles—Accidents in other States.

(a) In case the driver or the owner of a vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia involved in an accident within the District of Columbia has no license or registration in the District of Columbia, then such driver shall not be allowed a license, nor shall such owner be allowed to register any vehicle in the District of Columbia, until he has complied with the requirements of sections 40-432 to 40-449 to the same extent that would be necessary if, at the time of the accident, he had held a license or been the owner of a vehicle registered in the District of Columbia.

(b) When a nonresident's operating privilege is suspended pursuant to section 40-437, the Commissioners shall transmit a certified copy of the record of such action to the official in charge of the issuance of licenses and registration certificates in the State in which such nonresident resides.

(c) Upon receipt of certification that the operating privilege of a resident of the District of Columbia has been suspended or revoked in any State pursuant to a law providing for its suspension or revocation for failure to deposit security for the payment of judgments arising out of a motor vehicle accident, under circumstances which would require the Commissioners to suspend a nonresident's operating privilege had the accident occurred in the District of Columbia, the Commissioners shall suspend the license of such resident if he was the driver, and all of his registrations if he was the owner of a motor vehicle involved in such accident. Such suspension shall continue until such resident furnishes evidence of his compliance with the law of such State relating to the deposit of such security.

The provisions of this subsection shall be applicable only to a certification from a State which by its laws has made provision for the suspension or revocation of the license and all registrations of a resident of such State for failure to deposit security for the payment of any judgment arising out of a motor vehicle accident in the District of Columbia, or for failure to make payment of an agreed amount with respect to all claims arising from such accident, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. The term "proof of financial responsibility for the future" as used in this chapter shall mean: Proof of ability to respond in damages for liability, on account of accidents occurring subsequent to the effective date of said proof, arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of a vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia in the amount of $10,000 because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident, and, subject to said limit for one person, in the amount of $20,000 because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and in the amount of $5,000 because of injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident. Wherever used in this chapter the term "proof of financial responsibility" or "proof" shall be synonymous with the term "proof of financial responsibility for the future". The following words and phrases when used in sections 40-450 to 40-484 shall, for the purpose of such sections, have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section.

(a) The term "judgment" shall mean: Any judgment which shall have become final by expiration without appeal of the time within which an appeal might have been perfected, or by final affirmation on appeal, rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction of any State, the District of Columbia, or of the United States, upon a cause of action arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of any vehicle of a type subject to registration under the laws of the District of Columbia, for damages, including damages for care and loss of services, because of bodily injury to or death of any person, or for damages because of injury to or destruction of property including the loss of use thereof, or upon a cause of action on an agreement of settlement for such damages.

(b) The term "State" shall mean: Any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or any province of the Dominion of Canada. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 130, ch. 222, § 36.)

§ 40-453. Suspension of license and registration for certain convictions—Effect of proof of financial responsibility—Vehicles owned or leased by the United States, a State, or a political subdivision thereof—Suspension for out of District convictions.

(a) The license and registration of all vehicles registered in the name of any person who by a final order or judgment shall have been convicted of, or shall have forfeited any bond or collateral given to secure appearance for trial for a violation of any of the following provisions of law:

(1) Operating a motor vehicle under the influence of any intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug;

(2) Any homicide committed by means of a motor vehicle;

(3) Leaving the scene of an accident in which the motor vehicle driven by him was involved and in which there is personal injury, without giving assistance or making known his identity and address and the identity and address of the owner of said vehicle;

(4) Reckless driving involving personal injury;

(5) Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used; or

(6) A conviction of, or forfeiture of bail or collateral for an offense in any State which, if committed in the District of Columbia, would be one of the offenses listed in paragraphs (1) through (5) of this subsection (a);

shall be suspended by the Commissioners and shall remain so suspended and shall not at any time thereafter be renewed, nor shall any other motor vehicle be thereafter registered in the name of such person as owner, except that (1) if such owner has previously given or shall immediately give and thereafter maintain proof of financial responsibility for the future with respect to all such vehicles registered by such person as the owner, the Commissioners shall not suspend such registration unless otherwise required or permitted by law, or (2) if a conviction arose out of the operation, with permission, of a vehicle owned by or leased to the United States, the District of Columbia, a State, or a political subdivision of a State or a municipality thereof, the Commissioners shall not suspend the registration of any vehicle so owned or leased. If such person be not a resident of the District of Columbia, the privilege of operating any motor vehicle in the District of Columbia and the privilege of operation within the District of Columbia of any motor vehicle owned by him shall be suspended until he shall have furnished proof of financial responsibility for the future with respect to all such vehicles registered by such person as the owner, and such person shall not be allowed a license, nor shall such owner be allowed to register any vehicle in the District of Columbia, until he has complied with the requirements of sections 40-450 to 40-484 to the same extent that would be necessary if, at the time of the conviction or forfeiture, he had held a license or had been the owner of a vehicle registered in the District of Columbia.

(b) Upon receipt of a certification from any State that the operating privilege of a resident of the District of Columbia has been suspended or revoked pursuant to a law providing for such suspension or revocation for a conviction or forfeiture under circumstances which would require the Commissioners to suspend a nonresident's operating privilege had the offense occurred in the District of Columbia, the Commissioners shall suspend the license of such resident and the registration of all vehicles registered in his name. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 130, ch. 222, § 37; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 955, Pub. L. 85-792, § 9; Sept. 8, 1960, 74 Stat. 862, Pub. L. 86-730, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Violations in foreign jurisdictions

Where driver had been convicted in Virginia of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and such conviction had been certified to the District of Columbia, and where, as a result of such certification, driver's total points under "point system" of regulation exceeded 12 thereby permitting revocation of driver's operator's permit, Director of Motor Vehicles did not abuse his discretion in allowing points to be assessed for conviction outside District since, if incident had occurred in District of Columbia, it would have meant mandatory revocation of driver's permit without exercise of any discretion by Director, without a hearing and without reference to any point system. Council v. Director of Motor Vehicles, etc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 159 A. 2d 874).

§ 40-454. Duration of suspension—Giving and maintenance of proof of financial responsibility.

The suspension or revocation hereinbefore required shall remain in effect and the Commissioners shall not issue to such person any new or renewal of license or register or reregister in the name of such person as owner of any such vehicle until permitted under the motor vehicle laws of the District of Columbia and not then unless and until such person shall give and thereafter maintain proof of financial responsibility for the future. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 131, ch. 222, § 38.)

§ 40-455. Suspension of unlicensed or licensed person after certain convictions—Proof of financial responsibility required—Certificate of conviction to be forwarded to Commissioners.

(a) If a person by final order or judgment is convicted of or forfeits any bail or collateral deposited to secure an appearance for trial for:

(1) Driving a motor vehicle upon the highways without being licensed to do so under the laws of the District of Columbia when so required; or

(2) Driving a vehicle not registered under the laws of the District of Columbia when so required; the operating privilege of such person shall be suspended and no license shall thereafter be issued to such person, but if such person has obtained a license prior to the time the Commissioners have issued an order precluding the issuance of such license, then such license shall be suspended; and no vehicle shall continue to be registered or thereafter be registered in the name of such person as owner, unless such person shall give and thereafter maintain proof of financial responsibility.

(b) It shall be the duty of the clerk of the court in which any such conviction or forfeiture is ordered to forward immediately to the Commissioners a certified copy of said order, which certified copy shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 131, ch. 222, § 39; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 956, Pub. L. 85-792, § 10.)

(May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 131, ch. 222, § 40.)

§ 40-457. Report by courts of nonpayment of judgments.

Whenever any person fails within thirty days to satisfy any judgment, then upon the written request of the judgment creditor or his attorney it shall be the duty of the clerk of the court in which any such judgment is rendered within the District of Columbia to forward to the Commissioners immediately upon such request a certificate of facts relative to such judgment, upon a form provided by the Commissioners, which said certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 131, ch. 222, § 41; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 957, Pub. L. 85-792, § 11.)

The Commissioners upon receipt of a certified copy of a judgment or a certificate of facts relative to such judgment, shall forthwith suspend the license and registration and any nonresident's operating privilege of any person against whom such judgment was rendered, except as hereinafter otherwise provided in this chapter. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 131, ch. 222, § 43; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 957, Pub. L. 85-792, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Where party, injured by taxicab operated by member of unincorporated association composed of men who owned and operated taxicabs, obtained judgment against members of association on theory that they were engaged with the negligent operator in joint enterprise and were responsible for his negligence, such judgment was conclusive in suit by members of association for declaratory judgment that members' permits and registration certificates should not be suspended on ground that they were not judgment debtors within this section. Champ v. Atkins (1942, 128 F. 2d 601, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 15).

§ 40-460. Government vehicles—Exception as to non-payment of judgment provisions.

The provisions of section 40-459 shall not apply with respect to any such judgment arising out of an accident caused by the ownership or operation with permission, of a vehicle owned by or leased to the United States, a State or any political subdivision thereof, the District of Columbia or any political subdivision of the District of Columbia. If the judgment creditor consents in writing, in such form as the Commissioners may prescribe, that the judgment debtor be allowed license and registration or nonresident's operating privilege, the same may be allowed by the Commissioners, in their discretion, for six months from the date of such consent and thereafter until such consent is revoked in writing, notwithstanding default in the payment of such judgment, or of any installments thereof prescribed in section 40-466, provided the judgment debtor furnishes proof of financial responsibility. § 40-462. Commissioners finding that an insurer is obligated to pay judgment—Effect of finding—License, registration and operating privileges in the event of a finding.

No license, registration, or nonresident's operating privilege of any person shall be suspended under the provisions of sections 40-450 to 40-484 if the Commissioners shall find that an insurer was obligated to pay the judgment upon which suspension is based, at least to the extent and for the amounts required in this chapter, but has not paid such judgment for any reason. A finding by the Commissioners that an insurer is obligated to pay a judgment shall not be binding upon such insurer and shall have no legal effect whatever except for the purpose of administering this section. Whenever in any judicial proceedings it shall be determined by any final judgment, decree or order that an insurer is not obligated to pay any such judgment, the Commissioners, notwithstanding any contrary finding theretofore made by them shall forthwith suspend the license and registration and any nonresident's operating privilege of any person against whom such judgment was rendered, as provided in section 40-459. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 132, ch. 222, § 46.)

Such license, registration and nonresident's operating privilege shall remain so suspended and shall not be renewed, nor shall any such license or registration be thereafter issued in the name of such person, including any such person not previously licensed, unless and until every such judgment is stayed, satisfied in full or to the extent hereinafter provided and until the said person gives proof of financial responsibility subject to the exemptions stated in sections 40-460, 40-461, and 40-466. (a) Judgments herein referred to shall, for the purpose of this chapter only, be deemed satisfied—

(1) when $10,000 has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of bodily injury to or death of one person as the result of any one accident; or

(2) when, subject to such limit of $10,000 because of bodily injury to or death of one person, the sum of $20,000 has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons as the result of any one accident; or

(3) when $5,000 has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of injury to or destruction of property of others as a result of any one accident.

(a) A judgment debtor upon due notice to the judgment creditor may apply to the court in which such judgment was rendered for the privilege of paying such judgment in installments and the court, in its discretion and without prejudice to any other legal remedies which the judgment creditor may have, may so order and fix the amounts and times of payment of the installments.

(b) The Commissioners shall not suspend a license, registration, or nonresident's operating privilege, and shall restore any license, registration, or nonresident's operating privilege suspended following nonpayment of a judgment, when the judgment debtor gives proof of financial responsibility and § 40-470. Certificate of insurance as proof.

Proof of financial responsibility for the future may be furnished by filing with the Commissioners the written certificate of any insurance carrier duly authorized to do business in the District of Columbia certifying that there is in effect a motor-vehicle liability policy for the benefit of the person required to furnish proof of financial responsibility. Such certificate shall give the effective date of such motor-vehicle liability policy, which date shall be the same as the effective date of the certificate, and shall designate by explicit description or by appropriate reference all vehicles covered thereby unless the policy is issued to a person who is not the owner of a motor vehicle. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 133, ch. 222, § 54.)

- (1) Said insurance carrier shall execute a power of attorney authorizing the Commissioners to accept service on its behalf of notice or process in any action arising out of a motor-vehicle accident in the District of Columbia;
- (2) Said insurance carrier shall agree in writing that such policies shall be deemed to conform with the laws of the District of Columbia relating to the terms of motor-vehicle liability policies issued therein.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Power of attorney construed

Where judgment creditor instituted action against judgment debtor's insurer to recover on judgment, and served the summons and a copy of complaint upon agent of board of commissioners, and insurer had filed power of attorney authorizing agent of board of commissioners to accept service on its behalf thereby enabling its insureds to comply with financial responsibility act specifically providing it was not applicable to accidents occurring prior to its effective date which was subsequent to creditor's accident, even though power of attorney was broader than statutory requirements, when it was considered together with a resolution by insurer directors authorizing same, it could not be construed to apply to creditor's action. Orban v. The State Automobile Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 127 A. 2d 143).

§ 40-472. Default by nonresident insurance carrier.

If any insurance carrier not authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia, which has qualified to furnish proof of financial responsibility defaults in any said undertakings or agreements, the Commissioners shall not thereafter accept as proof any certificate of said carrier whether theretofore filed or thereafter tendered as proof, so long as such default continues. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 134, ch. 222, § 56.)

§ 40-473. "Motor-vehicle liability policy" defined.

(a) CERTIFICATION.—A "motor-vehicle liability policy" as said term is used in this chapter shall mean an "owner's policy" or an "operator's policy" of liability insurance, certified as provided in section 40-470 or section 40-471 as proof of financial responsibility for the future, and issued, except as otherwise provided in section 40-471, by an insurance carrier duly authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia to or for the benefit of the person named therein as insured.

(b) OWNER'S POLICY.—Such owner's policy of liability insurance—

1. shall designate by explicit description or by appropriate reference all vehicles with respect to which coverage is thereby to be granted; and

2. shall insure the person named therein and any other person as insured, using any such vehicle or vehicles with the express or implied permission of such named insured, against loss from the liability imposed by law for damages arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of such vehicle or vehicles within the United States of America or the Dominion of Canada, subject to limits exclusive of interest and costs, with respect to each such vehicle, as follows: $10,000 because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident and, subject to said limit for one person, $20,000 because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and $5,000 because of injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident.

(c) OPERATOR'S POLICY.—Such operator's policy of liability insurance shall insure the person named as insured therein against loss from the liability imposed upon him by law for damages arising out of the use by him of any motor vehicle not owned by him, within the same territorial limits and subject to the same limits of liability as are set forth above with respect to an owner's policy of liability insurance.

(d) REQUIRED STATEMENTS IN POLICIES.—Such motor vehicle liability policy shall state the name and address of the named insured, the coverage afforded by the policy, the premium charged therefor, the policy period, and the limits of liability, and shall contain an agreement or be endorsed that insurance is provided thereunder in accordance with the coverage defined in this chapter as respects bodily injury and death or property damage, or both, and is subject to all the provisions of this chapter.

(e) POLICY NEED NOT INSURE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION, ETC.—Such motor-vehicle liability policy need not insure any liability under any workmen's compensation law nor any liability on account of bodily injury to or death of an employee of the insured while engaged in the employment, other than domestic, of the insured, or while engaged in the operation, maintenance, or repair of any such vehicle nor any liability for damage to property owned by, rented to, in charge of, or transported by the insured.

(f) PROVISIONS INCORPORATED IN POLICY.—Every motor vehicle liability policy shall be subject to the following provisions which need not be contained therein:

1. The liability of the insurance carrier with respect to the insurance required by this chapter shall become absolute whenever injury or damage covered by said motor-vehicle liability policy occurs; said policy may not be canceled or annulled as to such liability by any agreement between the insurance carrier and the insured after the occurrence of the injury or damage; no statement made by the insured or on his behalf and no violation of said policy shall defeat or void said policy.

2. The satisfaction by the insured of a judgment for such injury or damage shall not be a condition precedent to the right or duty of the insurance carrier to make payment on account of such injury or damage.

3. The insurance carrier shall have the right to settle any claim covered by the policy, and if such settlement is made in good faith, the amount thereof shall be deductible from the limits of liability specified in subdivision 2 of subsection (b) of this section.

4. The policy, the written application therefor, if any and any rider or endorsement which does not conflict with the provisions of this chapter shall constitute the entire contract between the parties.

(g) EXCESS OR ADDITIONAL COVERAGE.—Any policy which grants the coverage required for a motor-vehicle liability policy may also grant any lawful coverage in excess of or in addition to the coverage specified for a motor-vehicle liability policy and such excess or additional coverage shall not be subject to the provisions of this chapter. With respect to a policy which grants such excess or additional coverage the term "motor-vehicle liability policy" shall apply only to that part of the coverage which is required by this section.

(h) REIMBURSEMENT PROVISION PERMITTED.—Any motor-vehicle liability policy may provide that the insured shall reimburse the insurance carrier for any payment the insurance carrier would not have been obligated to make under the terms of the policy except for the provisions of this chapter.

(i) PRORATION OF INSURANCE PERMITTED.—Any motor-vehicle liability policy may provide for the prorating of the insurance thereunder with other valid and collectible insurance.

(j) MULTIPLE POLICIES.—The requirements for a motor-vehicle liability policy may be fulfilled by the policies of one or more insurance carriers which policies together meet such requirements.

(k) BINDERS.—Any binder issued pending the issuance of a motor-vehicle liability policy shall be deemed to fulfill the requirements for such a policy. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 134, ch. 222, § 57.)

same, it could not be construed to apply to creditor's action. Orban v. The State Automobile Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 127 A. 2d 143).

3. Vehicles included

§ 40-603. Commissioners authorized to make regulations—Department of Vehicles and Traffic—Director—Congressional tags—Titling—Joint board—Arterial and boulevard highways—Commissioners may prescribe penalties—Publication of regulations—Signs on highways—Prosecutions—Excise tax imposed for issuance of motor vehicle title certificates.

(a) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered to make, modify, repeal, and enforce usual and reasonable traffic rules and regulations relating to vehicles, and rules and regulations concerning the control of traffic, the registration of motor vehicles, and the issuance and revocation of operators' permits; and to exercise any power or perform any duty imposed on the director of traffic, which office is hereby abolished; and in the administration of the above powers and authority the commissioners may exercise the same through such officers or agents of the District as the commissioners may designate: Provided, That no member of the Metropolitan Police Department may be empowered to perform any function under this chapter other than in the enforcement thereof.

(b) There is established in the government of the District of Columbia a department of vehicles and traffic, which, under the direction of the commissioners, shall have charge of the issuance and revocation of operators' permits, the registration and titling of motor vehicles, the making of traffic studies and plans, the installation and maintenance of traffic signs, signals, and markers, and of such other matters as may be determined by the commissioners. The commissioners shall appoint a director of vehicles and traffic, who shall be in charge of said department, and such other personnel as they may deem necessary to perform the duties thereof and as may be appropriated for by Congress. The salaries of such director of vehicles and traffic and other personnel shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1949. The director of vehicles and traffic shall be responsible directly to the commissioners for the faithful performance of his duties and shall be subject to removal by the commissioners for cause.

(c) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered to make, modify, and enforce reasonable regulations in respect to brakes, horns, lights, mufflers, and other equipment, the inspection of the same; the registering, reregistering, titling, retitling, transferring of titles, and revocation of the certificate of title to motor vehicles and trailers: Provided, That congressional tags shall be issued by the commissioners under consecutive numbers, one to each Senator and Representative in Congress, to the elective officers and disbursing clerks of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the chief clerk of the Senate, the Parliamentarian of the Senate, the Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives, the attending physician of the Capitol, and the assistant secretaries (one for the majority and one for the minority of the Senate), for their official use, which, when used by them individually while on official business, shall authorize them to park their automobiles in any available curb space in the District of Columbia, except within fire plug, fire house, loading station, and loading platform limitations, and such congressional tags shall not be assigned to or used by others: Provided further, That such congressional tags shall be valid only for the Congress in which such tags are so issued, and it shall be unlawful to display such congressional tags for a period longer than thirty days after the opening of the next Congress.

Any person violating this section shall be fined not more than $300 or imprisoned not more than ninety days, or both.

(d) The commissioners shall cause to be levied, collected, and paid such fees for titling and retitling as they deem necessary, not to exceed the sum of $1 for each such titling or retitling, and they shall not, after the 1st day of January, 1932, register or renew the registration of any motor vehicle or trailer unless and until the owner thereof shall make application in the form prescribed by the commissioners, under oath, and be granted an official certificate of title for such vehicle. No registration or other fee shall be charged to vehicles owned by the federal or District government or any duly accredited representative of a foreign government. The owner of a motor vehicle or trailer registered in the District of Columbia shall not, after the 1st day of January, 1932, operate or permit or cause to be operated any such vehicle upon any public highway in the District without first obtaining a certificate of title therefor, nor shall any individual knowingly permit any certificate of title to be obtained in his name for any vehicle not in fact owned by him, and any individual violating any provision of this subsection or any regulations promulgated thereunder shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. If the properly designated agent of the commissioners shall determine that an applicant for a certificate of title is not entitled thereto, such certificate of title may be refused, and in that event unless such determination is reversed upon written application to the commissioners by the individual affected, such individual shall be entitled to proceed further as provided under section 40-302 (a), and jurisdiction is conferred upon the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for this purpose: Provided, That reasonable time for hearing be given the applicant in the first instance.

(e) The commissioners may in the administration of this chapter, section or any provision of the Traffic Acts for the District, exercise any power or perform any duty conferred on them by this chapter through such officers and agents of the District as the commissioners may designate. The commissioners are further authorized and empowered to make, modify, repeal, and enforce reasonable rules and regulations in respect to the movement of traffic, speed, length, weight, height, width, routing, and parking of vehicles, and the establishment and location of hack stands: Provided, That the commissioners shall establish and locate parking areas in the vicinity of governmental establishments for use only by members of Congress and governmental officials when on official business: Provided further, That as to all common carriers by vehicle which enter, operate in, or leave the District of Columbia, the power to route such vehicles within the District of Columbia, to regulate their equipment other than that specifically named elsewhere in this chapter, to regulate their schedules and their loading and unloading, to locate their stops, and all platforms and loading zones and to require the appropriate marking thereof, is vested in the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia: Provided further, That whenever any order, rule, or regulation of the Public Utilities Commission shall be made relative to the routing of common carrier vehicles, to the location of their stops, to the establishment or change in location of platforms, loading zones, or other spaces on the public highway to be reserved for any purpose whatsoever, or to the appropriate marking thereof, or whenever any order, rule, or regulation of the District commissioners shall be made which affects such routing, stops, platforms, zones, or spaces, said order, rule, or regulation shall, prior to promulgation, be referred to a joint board to be composed of the commissioners of the District of Columbia and the members of the Public Utilities Commission, which is hereby authorized and created. Such joint board may, by the affirmative action of any three members thereof, adopt rules and regulations which, when promulgated, shall be binding and shall have the full force and effect of law, and the engineer commissioner shall be the chairman of such joint board, and shall have but one vote. Any of said rules and regulations, after reasonable trial and within a reasonable time, may be changed by the joint board upon the request of the commissioners of the District of Columbia or of the Public Utilities Commission.

(f) The commissioners may establish and designate arterial and boulevard highways, regulate the speed of vehicles thereon, and provide for the equipment of any street, road, or highway, with control lights and/or other devices for the regulation of traffic, and make such other regulations with respect to the control of traffic as are deemed advisable.

(g) The District Commissioners are authorized to prescribe within the limitations of this chapter reasonable penalties of fine, or imprisonments not to exceed ten days in lieu of or in addition to any fine, for the violation of any rule or regulation promulgated under the authority of this chapter not otherwise herein provided for. All traffic, motor vehicle, and vehicle regulations not inconsistent herewith adopted and promulgated prior to July 1, 1931, are continued and shall remain in full force and effect until amended, altered, or revoked.

(h) All regulations promulgated under the authority of this chapter, except those made by the Public Utilities Commission under powers given it by Title 43 of this Code, shall, when adopted, be printed in one or more of the daily newspapers published in the District, and no penalty shall be enforced for any violation of any such regulation which occurs within ten days after such publication, except that whenever the commissioners of the District of Columbia deem it advisable to make effective immediately any regulation relating to parking, diverting of vehicular traffic, or the closing of streets to such traffic, the regulation shall be effective immediately upon placing at the point where it is to be in force conspicuous signs containing a notice of the regulation. The placing at or upon the public highway of any sign relating to parking or regulation of traffic, except by the authority of the commissioners of the District of Columbia or their designated agent, or of the joint board, is prohibited: Provided, That this restriction shall not apply to any such signs which do not purport to reserve space on the public highways and which the Public Utilities Commission may authorize under the provision of this chapter.

(i) All prosecutions for violations of this chapter, excepting section 40-610, and this act or regulations made and promulgated under the authority of this chapter shall be in the municipal court for the District of Columbia upon information filed by the corporation council of the District of Columbia or any of his assistants.

(j) In addition to the fees and charges levied under other provisions of this Act, there is hereby levied and imposed an excise tax for the issuance of every original certificate of title for a motor vehicle or trailer in the District, and for the issuance of every subsequent certificate of title for a motor vehicle or trailer in the District in the case of sale or resale thereof, at the rate of 2 per centum of the fair market value of such motor vehicle or trailer at the time such certificate is issued, as determined by the Assessor of the District of Columbia or his duly authorized representatives. As used in this section, the term "original certificate of title" shall mean the first certificate of title issued by the District of Columbia for any particular motor vehicle or trailer. No certificate of title so issued shall be delivered or furnished to the person entitled thereto until the tax has been paid in full. The Assessor of the District of Columbia may require every applicant for a certificate of title to supply such information as he deems necessary as to the time of purchase, the purchase price, and other information relative to the determination of the fair market value of any motor vehicle or trailer for which a certificate of title is required and issued. The issuance of certificates of title for the following motor vehicles and trailers shall be exempt from the tax imposed by this subsection:

(1) Motor vehicles and trailers owned by the United States or the District of Columbia.

(2) Motor vehicles and trailers purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into the District of Columbia and establishing or maintaining residences in the District.

(3) Motor vehicles and trailers purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into the District of Columbia and establishing or maintaining a business or businesses in the District. Except as hereinafter provided, it is not intended to exempt from the tax the issuance of certificates of title for motor vehicles and trailers owned by nonresidents who are engaged in business in the District at the time of their purchase or acquisition of such vehicles and trailers and who use such vehicles and trailers in the conduct of their District business or businesses.

(4) Motor vehicles and trailers owned by a utility or public service company for use in furnishing a commodity or service: Provided, That the receipts from furnishing such commodity or service are subject to a gross-receipts or mileage tax in force in the District of Columbia at the time of a certificate of title for any such vehicle or trailer is issued.

(5) New motor vehicles acquired from dealers as replacements for defective vehicles purchased new not more than sixty days prior to the date of such replacement, except that if the fair market value of any replacement vehicle is greater than that of the vehicle which it replaces, then the tax imposed by this section shall be paid on such difference in value. If the fair market value of any replacement vehicle is less than that of the vehicle which it replaces, then the Commissioners or their designated agent are authorized to refund to the owner of the replacement vehicle an amount equal to the difference between the excise tax paid on the defective vehicle and the excise tax paid on the replacement vehicle.

1. In general

Traffic Act, as amended, delegates to the commissioners authority to make rules and regulations in relation to traffic on the public highways, and to the Director of Parks authority to make regulations in relation to traffic on the roads in the public parks within the District; and to provide for punishment for violations by proceedings in the police court at instance of corporation counsel and to exclude United States Attorney from any prosecutions except provision involving smoke-screen felony. Persham v. United States (1939, 104 F. 2d 249, 70 App. D.C. 116).

2. Authority to revoke permit

Traffic hearing officer did not exceed his authority in revoking operator's permit of a motorist convicted of speeding in a school zone even though under the "point system" used in the District, only three points could be assessed for such violation, since notwithstanding such point system Director of Vehicles and Traffic was authorized to revoke operator's permit when, following lawful hearing, he concluded that motorist drove in such a manner as to show a flagrant disregard for the safety of persons or property. Tillman v. Director of Vehicles and Traffic of District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 144 A. 2d 922).

3. Constitutionality

This section is not unconstitutional as vesting legislative power and unregulated discretion in administrative officers. La Forest v. Board of Comrs. of District of Columbia (1937, 92 F. 2d 547, 67 App. D. C. 396).

4. Duplicate certificates

The requirements of this section for registration of a motor vehicle do not apply to duplicate certificates of title, and the oath required for registration is not required for issuance of a duplicate certificate. Shelton v. U. S. (1948, 165 F. 2d 241, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

5. Effect on contracts of purchase

Subsection (d) of this section providing that the owner of a motor vehicle shall not operate it upon any public highway in the District of Columbia without first obtaining a certificate of title therefor does not void an otherwise valid contract for purchase of an automobile. Associates Discount Corporation v. Hardesty (1941, 122 F. 2d 18, 74 App. D. C. 44).

6. Government-owned vehicles

Traffic laws of District govern as to mail trucks over orders of Post Office Department. White v. District of Columbia (1925, 4 F. 2d 163, 55 App. D. C. 197).

7. Pedestrians' right of way

Under the regulations of this act pedestrians are given the right of way at all crosswalks except at controlled crossings. Griffith v. Slaybaugh (1929, 29 F. 2d 437, 58 App. D. C. 237).

8. "Pick-up and delivery" of railroads

In a mandamus action brought by a railroad company to compel the Public Utilities Commission to act on the railroad company's petition for designation of a route for alleged "pick-up and delivery service," relief was denied until the railroad company obtained a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Interstate Commerce Commission. United States ex rel. Arlington & F. Auto R. Co. v. Elgen (1938, 98 F. 2d 264, 68 App. D. C. 392).

The question of what constitutes a terminal district is so largely one of fact and so far involves considerations calling for the expert knowledge in technical matters of transportation, that a railroad company seeking by mandamus to require the Public Utilities Commission to designate a route for alleged "pick-up and delivery service" within railroad terminal districts, should pursue its remedy before the Commerce Commission rather than the courts. Id.

9. Prosecution

By (1) last paragraph Congress intended that all prosecutions for violations of the traffic act, except for the violation of the smoke-screen provision in section eleven should be at the instance of the corporation counsel and in the name of the District of Columbia. District of Columbia v. Moyer (1938, 93 F. 2d 527, 68 App. D. C. 98).

10. Residence

A long-continued physical presence, without more, does not constitute "residence" within meaning of statutory provision exempting from excise tax levied for issuance of every original certificate of title for a motor vehicle or trailer in the District of Columbia those motor vehicles and trailers purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into the District and establishing or maintaining "residences" in the District. District of Columbia v. Fleming (1954, 217 F. 2d 18, 95 U. S. App. D.C. 4).

Where government employee, who lived at mother's home in District of Columbia, purchased automobile in District and drove it immediately to Connecticut where he had maintained a home for seven years, and left automobile in Connecticut for use of his wife and their two daughters, and he spent every other week end in Connecticut with his family, and it was not until a year later that his wife joined him in District, he was not subject to excise tax in District under statute levying an excise tax for issuance of every original certificate of title for a motor vehicle in District but exempting from tax motor vehicles purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into District and "establishing" or denied 69 S. Ct. 168, 335 U. S. 871, 93 L. Ed. 415).

11. Sale without certificate of title

The registration regulation requiring that certificate of title be assigned at time ownership of motor vehicle is transferred, and the regulation requiring that a dealer acquire a certificate of origin with a new motor vehicle should be construed consistently with reference to the effect of a failure to assign and deliver required certificate at time of transfer. Fogle v. General Credit (1941, 122 F. 2d 45, 74 App. D. C. 208, 136 A. L. R. 814).

The sale of used automobile by dealer who had possession thereof with authority from finance company to offer it for sale in regular course of business was not void because certificate of title held by finance company was not assigned to buyer by dealer at time of transfer, as required by registration regulations. Id.

The purpose of registration regulation that no dealer shall have any used motor vehicle or trailer in his possession unless he shall have a certificate of title for it issued or assigned to him is apparently to prevent persons holding certificate from giving possession of vehicle to a dealer without also delivering certificate to him. Id.

12. Suspension of sentence

Where defendant was convicted for violation of a traffic regulation, and execution of sentence was suspended, such suspension must be vacated because such power is derived from the Federal Probation Act, and though under the District of Columbia Probation Act, the court is authorized to suspend execution, clearly the suspension in this case was not and did not purport to be exercised under the authority of the probation law and was beyond the power of the court. Ziegler v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 618).

13. Validity and reasonableness

Regulations prohibiting use of vehicles with solid tires on certain arterial streets were valid and reasonable. Smallwood v. District of Columbia (1927, 17 F. 2d 210, 57 App. D. C. 58).

Regulations prohibiting speed in excess of 15 miles an hour on certain bridges were valid and reasonable. District of Columbia v. Bailey (1927, 18 F. 2d 367, 57 App. D. C. 151).

Regulations which prevent parking of automobiles on certain streets between 2 a. m. and 8 a. m. to enable the snow-removal machinery of the city to function is a reasonable and proper regulation. District of Columbia v. Smith (1938, 93 F. 2d 650, 68 App. D. C. 104).

14. Violation as negligence

Violation of an ordinance intended to promote safety is negligence, and if by creating hazard which ordinance was intended to avoid it brings about harm which ordinance was intended to prevent, it is a legal cause of the harm. Ross v. Hartman (1944, 139 F. 2d 14, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 217, 158 A. L. R. 1370, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 790, 321 U. S. 790, 88 L. Ed. 1080).

An ordinance requiring motor vehicles, left unattended in public place, to be locked is a safety measure, and its violation is negligence. Id.

Where truck owner's agent violated traffic ordinance by leaving truck unattended, in a public alley, with ignition unlocked and key in switch, and an unknown person drove truck away and negligently ran over plaintiff, the violation of the ordinance was negligence and constituted the "proximate cause" of the injury rendering owner liable therefor. Id.

Where defendant's driver was negligent in leaving motor vehicle unlocked and such negligence was proximate cause of accident in which plaintiffs were injured, defend-

Violation of a traffic regulation constitutes negligence per se. Rogers v. Cox (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 776).

§ 40-603-1. Appeal from assessment of excise tax for issuance of motor vehicle title certificates—Election of remedies.

The remedy provided in this section shall not be deemed to take away from the person entitled to such certificate of title any remedy which he might have under any other provisions of law, but no suit by such person for the recovery of a tax, or any part thereof, imposed by subsection 40-603 (j) shall be instituted in any court if such person has elected to file an appeal with respect to such tax with the Board of Tax Appeals for the District of Columbia. AMENDMENTS

1926—Act July 3, 1926, provided for the regulation of speed in outlying districts.

1931—Act Feb. 27, 1931, amended paragraph (a) as it now exists, and also changed the definition of reckless driving in paragraph (b). The penalties for reckless driving were originally a fine of $25 to $100 and imprisonment of 10 to 30 days for first offense; and a fine of $100 to $1,000 and imprisonment of 30 days to 1 year for a subsequent offense. The 1931 act removed the lower limits on the fines and imprisonment permitted and included the provision that the subsequent offense must be committed within two years, removed the lower limits on the fines and imprisonments and changed the upper limits on third and subsequent offenses as now provided in this section. The 1931 act also included the provisions that subsequent offenses must be committed within one year of the first offense.

1936—Act June 24, 1936, raised the upper limits for a first offense to those now provided in this section. The penalties for other offenses provided by this section were originally a fine of from $5 to $25 for a first offense; a fine of from $25 to $100 for a second offense; and a fine of from $100 to $500 and imprisonment of 30 days to one year for subsequent offenses.

1942—Act Nov. 25, 1942, amended subsec. (d) of section by deleting provisions making first offense punishable with $25 fine, second offense within one year punishable with $100 fine, and third offense within one year punishable with $300 fine and/or imprisonment not more than ninety days or both.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1931 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 1, 1931, effective July 1, 1931, see section 6 of act Feb. 27, 1931, set out as a note under § 40-302.

Evidence 1
Jury trial 2
Regulations of director of traffic 3
Review 4

1. Evidence

Where arresting officer testified that he had paced defendant for about two blocks at a speed varying from thirty-three to thirty-eight miles per hour, it cannot be said that the trial judge was wrong in making a finding of guilt. Seidenberg v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 607).

2. Jury trial

One charged with driving an automobile recklessly, and so as to endanger property and individuals, has a right to a jury trial. District of Columbia v. Colts (1930, 51 S. Ct. 52, 282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177).

3. Regulations of director of traffic

Provisions of this act are not in conflict with regulations of director of traffic, as to speed of vehicles on certain bridges and highways. District of Columbia v. Bailey, (1927, 18 F. 2d 367, 57 App. D. C. 151).

Section 40-603 authorized regulation excluding commercial vehicles equipped with solid tires on certain streets, in view of paragraph (a) of this section and act Mar. 3, 1925, ch. 443, § 14, 43 Stat. 1123, 1125. Smallwood v. District of Columbia (1927, 17 F. 2d 210, 57 App. D. C. 58).

Regulation, excluding commercial vehicles equipped with solid tires from certain streets, was reasonable. Id.

4. Review

Where fine was imposed for speeding and was within the statutory limitation, appellate court has no right to disturb it. Seidenberg v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 607).

§ 40-606. Negligent homicide.

Any person who, by the operation of any vehicle at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless, or negligent manner, but not wilfully or wantonly, shall cause the death of another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than $1,000 or both.

It shall be the duty of the coroner of the District of Columbia, upon any inquisition taken before him which results in the jury finding that negligent homicide, as defined herein, has been committed on the deceased, to require such witnesses as he thinks proper to give recognizance to appear and testify, or in default thereof to be committed to jail for appearance, in either the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the municipal court for the District of Columbia, and the coroner shall return to either said court the said inquisition, testimony, and recognizance or order by him taken or given. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 802 (a), as added June 17, 1935, 49 Stat. 385, ch. 266, and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

CONSOLIDATION OF POLICE COURT AND MUNICIPAL COURT

"Municipal Court for the District of Columbia" was substituted for "Police Court of the District of Columbia" to conform to act Apr. 1, 1942, which consolidated the Police Court and the Municipal Court. See section 11-751.

1. Concurring negligence

Where, as a consequence of collision of bus and an automobile, deceased motorist was struck by bus or such automobile, or both, joinder of both bus driver and driver of automobile in the same information in prosecution for statutory negligent homicide was proper, and refusal of separate trials was not an abuse of discretion. Miciotto v. United States (1952, 198 F. 2d 951, 91 U. S. App. D. C. 102.)

Where driver of first automobile collided with bus at intersection, and either the automobile or the bus or both struck second automobile with such force that the driver was thrown from it and killed, bus driver and driver of first automobile would be deemed in prosecution under Negligent Homicide Statute to have participated in the same act or transaction or in the same series of acts or transactions constituting the offense charged within meaning of rule that two or more defendants may be charged in an information if they are alleged to have participated in the same act or transaction or in the same series of acts or transactions constituting an offense or offenses. Simcic v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 98).

If defendant drove bus at an immoderate rate of speed and such act was proximate or direct cause of death of deceased who was riding in another automobile with which the bus collided, defendant was not relieved from guilt of negligent homicide, because negligence of the driver of the automobile concurred in producing the result though acts of other drivers were to be considered so far as they shed light on question of defendant's negligence, but if negligence of other driver was sole cause of decedent's death, defendant was entitled to an acquittal. Prezzi v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 196).

2. Constitutionality

This section specifies with sufficient certainty the conduct which it is intended to proscribe and punish and hence comes within the requirements of constitutionality. U. S. v. Henderson (1941, 121 F. 2d 75, 73 App. D.C. 369).

3. Crime, elements of

In prosecution for negligent homicide based on death caused by motortruck, the "corpus delicti" consisted of the death of a human being by the instrumentality of a motortruck operated at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless or negligent manner but not willfully or wantonly. Ercoli v. U.S. (1943, 131 F. 2d 354, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 360).

The elements of the corpus delicti of negligent homicide by motor vehicle are the death of a human being, by the instrumentality of a motor vehicle, operated at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless, or negligent manner, but not willfully or wantonly. Solar v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 94 A. 2d 34).

In negligent homicide prosecution against motorist whose automobile entered intersection and struck taxicab which crushed child on curb, corroborating evidence independent of motorist's extrajudicial confessions was sufficiently substantial to establish the element of the corpus delicti that motorist operated his automobile in a careless, reckless or negligent manner in failing to observe and obey stop sign. Id.

4. Double jeopardy

Where defendant was charged with negligent homicide by motor vehicle, an offense against United States, and with violation of traffic regulation making it offense against District of Columbia for operator of motor vehicle to fail to give his full time and attention to operation of vehicle, principle of double jeopardy did not preclude prosecution of defendant on the traffic charge after he had been acquitted of charge of negligent homicide. Randolph v. District of Columbia, (D. C. Mun. App. 1959, 156 A. 2d 686).

5. Evidence

In prosecution for negligent homicide based on death caused by motortruck, evidence that the motortruck under defendant's control was of tremendous size and weight, that it was being driven on busy city street at speed that made it impossible to stop when defendant first saw pedestrian approximately 25 to 30 feet away, and that automobile in traffic lane to defendant's right obstructed his view of pedestrian until it was too late to stop truck, tended to prove the "corpus delicti", so that defendant's extrajudicial admissions were properly received in evidence. Ercoli v. U.S. (1943, 131 F. 2d 354, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 360).

In prosecution for negligent homicide, there was sufficient substantial independent evidence to corroborate extrajudicial admissions made by defendant to police officers after accident in which his automobile allegedly collided with pedestrian in crosswalk. Sanderson v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 125 A. 2d 70).

Circumstantial, as well as direct evidence, may supply sufficient corroboration of the corpus delicti in cases of negligent homicide. Solar v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 94 A. 2d 34).

6. Instructions

In prosecution of bus driver and driver of automobile under the Negligent Homicide Statute, wherein driver of automobile testified that the first thing he knew, he heard a tremendous noise to his left and his automobile was then hit by the bus, driver of automobile was not entitled to instruction on theory of imminent or unexpected danger. Simcic v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 98).

In prosecution of bus driver and driver of automobile under the Negligent Homicide Statute, court sufficiently charged with respect to element of causation as to automobile driver, where at outset of instruction court carefully told jury that charge was that defendants operated bus and automobile at an immoderate rate of speed and in such a careless, reckless, and negligent manner as to cause the death of the deceased, and that in order to convict driver of automobile, jury was required first to find that in operation of automobile he violated the law in one of the particulars charged and that such operation was a proximate cause of the death of the deceased. Id.

In prosecution of bus driver and driver of automobile under the Negligent Homicide Statute, court properly refused to give requested instruction of driver of automobile that to justify finding of guilt, jury must find beyond reasonable doubt not only that driver of automobile drove automobile at an immoderate rate of speed or negligently, but also that such immoderate rate of speed or such negligence directly and proximately caused death of deceased, since instruction was an erroneous and incomplete statement. Id.

In prosecution of bus driver and driver of automobile under the Negligent Homicide Statute, instruction that if jury found beyond reasonable doubt that bus driver operated bus in a negligent, careless, or reckless manner or at an immoderate rate of speed, and that such operation by bus driver was cause of collision, and that driver of automobile also operated automobile in negligent, careless, or reckless manner or at immoderate rate of speed and that such operation was also a cause of the collision, and collision was proximate cause of death of deceased, it was duty of jury to find both bus driver and driver of automobile guilty, was not subject to objection that it was confusing and did not properly explain theory of causation. Id.

Refusal of defendant's instructions precluding conviction of negligent homicide unless death of deceased was the proximate result of operation of the bus by defendant was not error in view of instruction by the court on same subject matter though nowhere therein did the court use the expression "proximate cause." Prezzi v. U.S. (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 196).

In prosecution for negligent homicide by driver of bus which collided with automobile in which decedent was riding instructions not to ignore other drivers' action because whether defendant was driving at an immoderate rate of speed depended upon all other circumstances, and that if defendant was driving at such speed, then he was one of the causes of the accident, and that if driver of other automobile also caused the accident would make no difference but that defendant was not responsible for acts of the other drivers, were sufficient. Id.

7. Judicial comment

In prosecution for negligent homicide by driving a bus at an immoderate rate of speed and colliding with an automobile in which decedent was riding, trial court's comment that in its opinion, and as a matter of common sense, if immoderate speed was established, such speed caused the death, which contradicted or at least materially weakened, previous instruction respecting immoderate speed, and which had a strong tendency to eliminate from the jury, the question whether the acts of the driver of the other automobile were the sole cause of the collision, was reversible error. Prezzi v. U.S. (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 196).

8. Joint trial

Where driver of first automobile collided with bus at intersection, and either the automobile or the bus or both struck second automobile with such force that the driver was thrown from it and killed, the case was a proper one in which to order a joint trial of bus driver and driver of first automobile for negligent homicide. Simcic v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 98).

9. Res judicata

Judgment of acquittal of defendant charged with negligent homicide, a crime against United States, was not res judicata of charge of failing to give full time and attention to operation of motor vehicle in violation of traffic and motor vehicle regulations of District of Columbia although both charges arose out of same accident. Randolph v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 156 A. 2d 686).

§ 40-607. Negligent homicide included in manslaughter where death due to operation of vehicle.

The crime of negligent homicide defined in section 40-606 shall be deemed to be included within every crime of manslaughter charged to have been committed in the operation of any vehicle, and in any case where a defendant is charged with manslaughter committed in the operation of any vehicle, if the jury shall find the defendant not guilty of the crime of manslaughter such jury may, in its discretion, render a verdict of guilty of negligent homicide. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 802 (b), as added June 17, 1935, 49 Stat. 385, ch. 266.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Evidence

In prosecution for injuring a person with a motor vehicle and failing to stop and give assistance and report to police, excluding evidence of accused's reputation for tenderness and mercy was not shown to be error where record did not disclose the evidence concerning flight. Morris v. District of Columbia (1942, 124 F. 2d 284, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 82).

In prosecution for injuring a person with a motor vehicle and failing to stop and give assistance and report to police, where accused asked for a subpoena duces tecum requiring production of statements which record implied were obtained by counsel for the person injured, but where there was nothing in the record to show that, at the trial, a foundation was or could have been laid for admitting the statements in evidence, either to impeach their authors or for any other purpose, there was no basis in the record for an inference that the error, if any, in refusing the subpoena was prejudicial. Id.

In prosecution for injuring a person with a motor vehicle and failing to stop and give assistance and report to police, excluding evidence that accused carried $100,000 of liability insurance was not prejudicial error where record did not show what testimony concerning flight there may or may not have been. Id.

§ 40-608. Immoderate speed not dependent on legal rate of speed.

In any prosecution under sections 40-606 or 40-607, whether the defendant was driving at an immoderate rate of speed shall not depend upon the rate of speed fixed by law for operating such vehicle. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 802(c), as added June 17, 1935, 49 Stat. 385, ch. 266.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Evidence

This section providing that in any prosecution for negligent homicide whether defendant was driving at an immoderate rate of speed shall not depend upon rate fixed by law for operating the vehicle manifests intent that speed shall be determined as a fact from all surrounding circumstances and this section does not expressly prohibit evidence of speed regulations which are admissible as one of the circumstances for the jury, in determining the question of immoderate speed. Prezzi v. U.S. (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 196).

§ 40-609. Fleeing from scene of accident—Driving under the influence of liquor or drugs.

(a) Any person operating a vehicle, who shall injure any person therewith, or who shall do substantial damage to property therewith and fail to stop and give assistance, together with his name, place of residence, including street and number, and the name and address of the owner of the vehicle so operated, to the person so injured, or to the owner of such property so damaged, or to the operator of such other vehicle, or to any bystander who shall request such information on behalf of the injured person, or, if such owner or operator is not present, then he shall report the information above required to a police station or to any police officer within the District immediately. In all cases of accidents resulting in injury to any person, the operator of the vehicle causing such injury shall also report the same to any police station or police officer within the District immediately.

Any operator whose vehicle causes personal injury to an individual and who fails to conform to the above requirements shall, upon conviction of the first offense, be fined not more than $500, or shall be imprisoned not more than six months, or both; and upon the conviction of his second or subsequent offense, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or shall be imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

Any operator whose vehicle causes substantial damage to any other vehicle or property and fails to conform to the above requirements, shall, upon conviction of the first offense, be fined not more than $100, or be imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both; and for the second or any subsequent offense, be fined not more than $300, or be imprisoned not more than ninety days, or both.

(b) No individual shall, while under the influence of any intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug, operate any vehicle in the District. Any individual violating any provision of this subdivision shall upon conviction for the first offense be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both; and upon conviction for the second or any subsequent offense be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

(c) Any violation of any provision of law or regulation issued thereunder which is repealed or amended by this Act, and any liability arising under such provisions or regulations may, if the violation occurred or the liability arose prior to such repeal or amendment, be prosecuted to the same extent as if this Act had not been enacted.

(d) The Commissioners or their designated agent shall revoke the operator's permit or the privilege to drive a motor vehicle in the District of Columbia, or revoke both such permit and privilege, of any person who is convicted in the District of any of the following offenses:

(1) Operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of any intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug.

(2) Any homicide committed by means of a motor vehicle.

(3) Leaving the scene of an accident in which the motor vehicle driven by him was involved and in which there is bodily injury, without giving assistance or making known his identity and address and the identity and address of the owner of said vehicle.

(4) Reckless driving involving bodily injury.

(5) Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is involved.

(e) Whenever a judgment of conviction of any offense set forth in subsection (d) has become final, the clerk of the court in which the judgment was entered shall certify such conviction to the Commissioners or their designated agent, who shall thereupon take the action required by subsection (d) of this section. A judgment of conviction shall be deemed to have become final for the purposes of this subsection—

(1) if no appeal is taken from the judgment, upon the expiration of the time within which an appeal could have been taken, or

(2) if an appeal is taken from the judgment, the date upon which the judgment, having been sustained, can no longer be appealed from or reviewed on a writ of certiorari.

AMENDMENT

1954—Act Aug. 16, 1954, amended section by striking the third sentence from subsection (b) which sentence concerned revocation of an operator's permit upon conviction of a violation of the paragraph, and the manner of certification of a conviction. These matters are covered by new subsections (d) and (e) added to the section by the act.

Subsection (d) adds to the traffic offenses calling for mandatory revocation of an operator's permit homicide committed by an automobile, a person's leaving the scene of an accident involving bodily injury without giving assistance or making his identity or the identity of the vehicle's owner known, reckless driving involving bodily injury, and any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is involved.

Subsection (e) requires a court to certify to the Commissioners convictions of the offenses included in subsection (d) just as was previously required on convictions of drunken driving.

1944—Act Dec. 15, 1944, amended section generally by omitting word "motor" preceding "vehicle" whenever appearing in subsection (a), by inserting "involving the operator of a motor vehicle" following "of this paragraph" in subsection (b), and reenacting subsection (c).

1931—Act Feb. 27, 1931, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, subsection (a) of this section provided for the giving of the information upon striking "any individual or any vehicle" or where the vehicle has been struck by another vehicle and provided only for the giving of information concerning the driver including the registration and operators permit numbers. The act also added all that part of the first paragraph of subsection (a) beginning with "if such owner or operator is not present."

The penalties provided for in subsection (a) were originally, for personal injury, a fine of $100 to $500 and imprisonment of 60 days to 6 months for a first offense, and a fine of $500 to $1,000 and imprisonment of 6 months to 1 year for a subsequent offense. The 1931 act removed the lower limits of fines and imprisonment. The penalties for damage to a vehicle prior to the 1931 amendment were a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment of not more than six months for a first offense and a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment of not more than one year for a subsequent offense.

The penalties provided for in subsection (b) were originally a fine of from $100 to $500 and imprisonment of 60 days to 6 months for a first offense, and a fine of $200 to $1,000 and imprisonment of 6 months to 1 year for a subsequent offense. The 1931 act removed the lower limits of fines and imprisonment and also added the present subsection (c) and included former paragraph (c) as the last sentence in present paragraph (b).

Amendment of section by act Aug. 16, 1954, effective 30 days after Aug. 16, 1954, see section 9 of act Aug. 16, 1954, set out as a note under section 40-301.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1931 AMENDMENT

1. Agreement not to prosecute

The entry of a nolle prosequi, without more, to an information charging operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated, would not warrant a holding that there was an implied agreement by assistant corporation counsel to withdraw information in consideration of a plea of guilty to less serious charge in another information of operating a motor vehicle on wrong side of street. District of Columbia v. Buckley (1942, 128 F. 2d 17, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 57, 317 U. S. 658, 87 L. Ed. 529).

An agreement between assistant corporation counsel and a defendant for withdrawal of an information, to which a nolle prosequi was entered, charging operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated, in consideration of a plea of guilty to less serious charge in another information of operating a motor vehicle on wrong side of street, would not be binding. Id.

2. Arrest without warrant

Where police officer, in early hours of morning, heard a crash and subsequently received certain information from a citizen, he was justified in stopping defendant's automobile and making inquiries and when, after observing defendant, officer believed him to be intoxicated, he was justified in arresting defendant, without warrant, for driving while under influence of intoxicating liquor. Johnson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 119 A. 2d 444).

3. Constitutionality

Subsection (a) of this section making it an offense for a motorist to leave the scene of an accident, without making his identity known, where he has caused substantial damage to property, is not invalid on ground that it is indefinite because it provides no guide to a motorist for determination of what constitutes substantial damage. Scott v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 854).

4. Evidence

In view of fact that District of Columbia sobriety test statute gives a right to refuse the test, accused's refusal to take test was explained and justified, and refusal was not admissible in prosecution for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Stuart v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 294).

Evidence sustained conviction of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, where defendant's intoxication was conceded, on the ground that the government's proof was sufficient to establish that defendant operated the vehicle, where the circumstantial evidence in support of the admission by the defendant had the effect of placing him in the driver's position immediately following the accident. McKnight v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1958, 141 A. 2d 922).

Evidence sustained conviction for operating automobile while under influence of intoxicating liquor and making an improper turn resulting in collision against a defendant who contended that he had not drunk but was suffering from kidney trouble, low blood pressure, ulcers and shock brought about by collision and that alleged smell of alcohol was caused by medicine. Idler v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 104).

Evidence warranted conviction for drunken driving and for driving through safety zone. Williams v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 130 A. 2d 596).

In drunken driving prosecution, where government introduced evidence of intoxication and defendant offered medical testimony that his behavior was caused by a blackout and not by intoxication, there was an issue of fact for trier of fact, who was not compelled to give controlling weight to such medical testimony even though no rebutting medical testimony was offered by government. Id.

In prosecution for driving without permit and leaving scene of collision, tried by court, erroneous admission of officer's testimony that persons who witnessed collision identified accused, in his presence, as driver of automobile involved in collision, was not cured by court's recognition of error and statement that such testimony was disregarded, where competent evidence of accused's guilt was far from conclusive. Penwell v. District of Columbia (1943, 31 A. 2d 891).

Testimony as to manner in which defendant's automobile was driven, identification of defendant as driver, and condition of defendant a short time thereafter, as reported by officers, was sufficient evidence, independent of defendant's confession, to support conviction of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Price v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 142).

In prosecution for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, proof that defendant, while in such condition, collided with another vehicle and left the scene of the collision without stopping, although disclosing two other offenses, was admissible as proof of the offense charged and as merely incidentally proving other offenses. Id.

It was error to exclude testimony of police officers who observed defendant that, in their opinion, defendant was under influence of intoxicating liquor, on ground that an expert may not testify to his conclusion regarding facts from which the jury are capable of drawing their own conclusions. Even though one is not an expert he may give his opinion based on personal observation as to whether a person is intoxicated. Woolard v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 62 A. 2d 640).

5. Failure to report accident

Admitted failure of defendant to report automobile accident to police station or officer justified conviction, and failure of prosecution to establish other charge that defendant failed to stop, give name and residence would not invalidate verdict or sentence. Carpenter v. District of Columbia (1943, 32 A. 2d 251).

In prosecution for drunken driving, admission of records of analysis of specimen of urine taken from defendant who had been legally arrested and was being detained was not an infringement of defendant's rights under U. S. Code Const. Amend. 4 prohibiting unreasonable searches and seizures. Novak v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 88, reversed on other grounds 160 F. 2d 588, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 95).

The taking of specimen of urine from defendant who had been arrested and was being detained for drunken driving and the use in evidence of the analysis of the urine was not violative of defendant's rights under U. S. Code Const. Amend. 5 where specimen was given voluntarily, notwithstanding that police officer who requested specimen was in uniform and did not state that defendant had a right to refuse to give the sample, but did state that "if sample were right it would be to the defendant's benefit." Id.

6. Failure to stop and give assistance

Fact that defendant stopped and parked her automobile at the nearest available point, when informed of the accident, at a distance not exceeding 150 feet from the point where the collision occurred and furnished all the information, is all that the statute requires. Oden v. District of Columbia (1935, 79 F. 2d 175, 65 App. D. C. 50).

While defendant testified that he intended to return and give the assistance and information required, the jury was at liberty to disbelieve him under the circumstances, and to conclude from his conduct, as testified to by the District's witnesses, that he did not so intend. Seher v. District of Columbia (1938, 95 F. 2d 118, 68 App. D. C. 207).

7. Former jeopardy

In prosecution for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, police judge erroneously sustained defendant's plea of "autrefois convict" alleging that offense of driving on wrong side of street, in respect of which defendant had pleaded guilty, and offense of driving while intoxicated were the outgrowth of one identical act, since the same evidence would not sustain the two charges. District of Columbia v. Buckley (1942, 128 F. 2d 17, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 57, 317 U. S. 658, 87 L. Ed. 529).

8. Instructions

Where there was sufficient evidence independent of defendant's statement to authorize conviction of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and trial court charged on presumption of innocence, burden of proof and reasonable doubt, requested charge that there could be no conviction upon an uncorroborated confession without first proving the corpus delicti was properly refused. Price v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 142).

9. Proof of damage

In prosecution of motorist for causing substantial property damage and leaving scene of collision without disclosing his identity, evidence disclosed substantial damage to other vehicle even though there was no proof of cost of repairing the other vehicle. Russel, Jr. v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 118 A. 2d 519).

10. Purpose

Subsection (a) of this section making it an offense for a motorist to leave the scene of an accident, without making his identity known, where he has caused substantial damage to property, was intended to discourage and punish "hit and run" drivers. Scott v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 854).

11. Questions for jury

In prosecution for drunken driving, the weight to be given to results of analysis of specimen of defendant's urine and the medical testimony on the meaning thereof was for the jury. Novak v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 88, reversed on other grounds 160 F. 2d 588, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 95).

12. Specimen analysis, proof

In prosecution for driving automobile while intoxicated, the government must prove that urine specimen taken from defendant and the specimen analyzed by chemists and reported on in court were the same and were in substantially the same condition when tested as when taken. Novak v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 88, reversed on other grounds 160 F. 2d 588, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 95).

Where witness for prosecution testified that he made an analysis of defendant's urine, the right of the defendant was properly protected by withdrawing from the jury all consideration of the urine analysis, and the withdrawal of such evidence had the effect of showing the jury that they were to make no inference regarding the test. Woolard v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 62 A. 2d 640).

13. Substantial damage

In prosecution of motorist for causing substantial property damage and leaving scene of collision without disclosing his identity, evidence established that motorist struck another vehicle. Russel, Jr. v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 118 A. 2d 519).

Motorist who ran into a parked vehicle, mashing in its rear bumper, damaging trunk and skirt, knocking out speedometer, and driving vehicle up and over sidewalk into lamp post caused "substantial damage" within subsection (a) of this section. Scott v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 854).

In prosecution of motorist for leaving scene of accident, without making his identity known, after causing "substantial damage" to property, motorist was not entitled to have the prosecution dismissed because of government's failure to prove cost of repairing damage, where there was evidence that motorist caused substantial damage. Id.

14. Violations in foreign jurisdictions

Where driver had been convicted in Virginia of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and such conviction had been certified to the District of Columbia, and where, as a result of such certification, driver's total points under "point system" of regulation exceeded 12 thereby permitting revocation of driver's operator's permit, Director of Motor Vehicles did not abuse his discretion in allowing points to be assessed for conviction outside District, since, if incident had occurred in District of Columbia, it would have meant mandatory revocation of driver's permit without exercise of any discretion by Director, without a hearing and without reference to any point system. Council v. Director of Motor Vehicles etc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1960, 159 A. 2d 874).

15. Hearing

Where it was mandatory on the Commissioners to revoke the defendant's operator's permit when notified of his conviction of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, the defendant was not entitled to a hearing on the matter of revocation and administrative review. Oliver v. Silver (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 155 A. 2d 719).

§ 40-609a. Operating of vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and in violation of other laws—Prima facie evidence of intoxication—Relevant evidence of use of intoxicating liquor—Results of tests available to person tested—Blood test—Only physician at request of police may withdraw blood—Tested person may have private physician make added test—Test not compulsory.

(a) If as a result of the operation of a vehicle, any person is tried in any court of competent jurisdiction within the District of Columbia for (1) operating such vehicle while under the influence of any intoxicating liquor in violation of section 40-609 (2) negligent homicide in violation of section 40-606, or (3) manslaughter committed in the operation of such vehicle in violation of section 22-2405, and in the course of such trial there is received in evidence, based upon a chemical test, competent proof to the effect that at the time of such operation—

(1) defendant's blood contained five one-hundredths of 1 per centum or less, by weight, of alcohol, or that an equivalent quantity of alcohol was contained in two thousand cubic centimeters of his breath (true breath or alveolar air having 5½ per centum of carbon dioxide), or that defendant's urine contained eight one-hundredths of 1 per centum or less, by weight, of alcohol, such proof shall be deemed prima facie proof that defendant at such time was not under the influence of any intoxicating liquor;

(2) defendant's blood contained more than five one-hundredths of 1 per centum, but less than fifteen one-hundredths of 1 per centum, by weight, of alcohol, or that an equivalent quantity of alcohol was contained in two thousand cubic centimeters of his breath (true breath or alveolar air having 5½ percentum of carbon dioxide), or that defendant's urine contained more than eight one-hundredths of 1 per centum, but less than twenty one-hundredths of 1 per centum, by weight, of alcohol, such proof shall constitute relevant evidence, but shall not constitute prima facie proof that defendant was or was not at such time under the influence of any intoxicating liquor; and

(3) defendant's blood contained fifteen one-hundredths of 1 per centum or more, by weight, of alcohol, or that an equivalent quantity of alcohol was contained in two thousand cubic centimeters of his breath (true breath or alveolar air having 5½ per centum of carbon dioxide), or that defendant's urine contained twenty one-hundredths of 1 per centum or more, by weight, of alcohol, such proof shall constitute prima facie proof that defendant at such time was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

(b) Upon the request of the person who was tested, the results of such test shall be made available to him.

(c) Only a physician acting at the request of a police officer can withdraw blood for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content therein. This limitation shall not apply to the taking of a urine specimen or the breath test.

(d) The person tested shall be permitted to have a physician of his own choosing administer a chemical test in addition to the one administered at the direction of the police officer.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be construed to require any person to submit to the withdrawal of blood, the taking of a urine specimen from him, or to a breath test. (Mar. 4, 1958, 72 Stat. 30, 31, Pub. L. 85-338, §§ 1, 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Refusal to take test

In view of fact that District of Columbia sobriety test statute gives a right to refuse the test, accused's, refusal to take test was explained and justified, and refusal was not admissible in prosecution for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Stuart v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 294).

§ 40-610. Smoke screens.

(2) Use or permit the use of any such device in the operation of any motor vehicle; or

(3) Have in his possession or control any motor vehicle equipped with any such device or specially fitted for the attachment thereto of any such device.

(b) Any individual violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1124, ch. 443, § 11.)

Police regulations 2

1. Hotels

This section does not apply to a taxicab stationed near a hotel which was for the exclusive use of the hotel and its guests, as the cab was under jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission and not of the District Commissioners. Bell v. District of Columbia (1921, 273 F. 315, 50 App. D. C. 351). See, also, Parker v. District of Columbia (1921, 273 F. 320, 50 App. D. C. 356).

2. Police regulations

This section supersedes police regulation, art. 4, § 8, adopted April 1918. Willis v. District of Columbia (1924, 295 F. 1012, 54 App. D. C. 191).

3. Public street

As the space upon which the cab was standing at the time of the arrest of its driver is stipulated to have been the private property of the Washington Terminal Company, by whose authority and permission he was there, it follows that he was not then upon any public street or avenue, and consequently his presence there did not fall within the purview of an act directed against the improper use of public streets and avenues. Reamy v. District of Columbia (1921, 273 F. 323, 50 App. D. C. 359).

SAVINGS CLAUSE

Section 16 of act July 2, 1940, provided in part that: "Nothing herein contained shall effect existing liens on motor vehicles and trailers, or any equipment or accessories affixed thereto recorded prior to the effective date of this Act [January 1, 1941]".

§ 40-702. Lien to appear on certificate of title—Effect of other liens.

During the time a certificate is outstanding for any motor vehicle or trailer, no lien against such motor vehicle or trailer or any equipment or accessories affixed or sold to be affixed thereto shall be valid except as between the parties and as to other persons having actual notice, unless and until entered on such certificate as hereinafter set forth: Provided, That the foregoing shall not apply to a lien or liens in existence on January 1, 1940, against a motor vehicle or trailer for which a certificate is outstanding at the effective date of this chapter, or any equipment or accessories affixed thereto. The provisions of §§ 42-101 to 42-103, shall not apply to liens recorded as herein provided and a lien shall have no greater validity or effect during the time a certificate is outstanding for the motor vehicle or trailer covered thereby by reason of the fact that the lien has been filed in accordance with said sections or, in case of a conditional sales contract, that the purchase price of the property does not exceed $100. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Recording

Where automobile dealer had a "floor plan" arrangement by which plaintiff would advance funds to dealer for purchase of automobiles and would take back chattel mortgages, and dealer had arrangement whereby finance company would purchase the conditional sales contracts executed by buyers of automobiles, and the buyer of an automobile gave conditional sales contract which was assigned to finance company but company never received title certificate because dealer had financial difficulties and never repaid plaintiff, plaintiff was estopped from asserting lien against buyer who had no actual knowledge of plaintiff's recorded chattel mortgage lien, and the buyer, not being in default, was entitled to use and enjoyment of automobile, and finance company was entitled to have its lien recorded on certificate of title. Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co., Inc. v. Continental Autos, Ltd., et al. (1960, 184 F. Supp. 764).

A contract, made in District of Columbia, for conditional sale of automobile to resident of Maryland, wherein he used and retained automobile, was not required to be recorded in such District, but was properly recorded in Maryland, law of which requires recordation of such contract where vendee resides. In re Burton (1954, 120 F. Supp. 148).

§ 40-703. Entry of lien—Priority.

In the absence of agreement of all parties affected and in the absence of circumstances estopping a lienholder from insisting upon such rights, lien shall be entered on the certificate by the recorder and shall have priority among themselves in the following order:

(a) If the motor vehicle or trailer has been previously titled or registered in this or some other jurisdiction, unsatisfied liens shown by the previous certificate, title, registry, or proof of ownership shall be entered in the order in which they appear on such previous certificate, title, registry, or proof of ownership.

(b) Liens for which instruments are presented with the application for the certificate.

(c) Liens, where the instruments are presented for recording, together with the certificate, irrespective of the fact that one or more instruments not entered on the certificate may have been previously presented for recording without such certificate.

(d) As between two or more instruments presented for recording without the certificate, the one first presented for recording shall have priority. (July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 737, ch. 527, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective January 1, 1941, see section 16 of act July 2, 1940, set out as a note under section 40-701.

§ 40-704. Entry of lien—Form and requirements of instrument creating lien—When lien not entered.

An instrument shall be in writing; shall show the name and address of the holder, the trade name and engine, serial or identification number of the motor vehicle or the trade name and serial number, if any, of the trailer; shall be signed by the parties and acknowledged by the owner in the manner provided by law for deeds of real estate. A lien shall not be entered upon a certificate unless (1) the motor vehicle or trailer has been previously titled or registered in this or some other jurisdiction and the lien is shown upon such previous certificate, title, registry, or proof of ownership; or (2) such an instrument is presented for recording pursuant to the provisions of this chapter; or (3) the lien is shown on the application for a certificate, and was created prior to January 1, 1941, or was created while the motor vehicle or trailer was titled or registered in some other jurisdiction. (July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 737, ch. 527, § 4; June 4, 1952, 66 Stat. 100, ch. 365, § 1.)

(July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 737, ch. 527, § 5.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective January 1, 1941, see section 16 of act July 2, 1940, set out as a note under section 40-701.

Applications for certificates, in addition to all other matters which may be required by law, shall show under oath whether or not there are any liens against the motor vehicle or trailer or any equipment or accessories affixed thereto and if so, the lien information in the order of its priority, and shall be accompanied by instruments or any other papers necessary to entitle liens to be entered on the certificate. Upon receipt by the recorder from the director of an application for a certificate and accompanying documents, if any, or on the application for a duplicate, the recorder shall compare the statements in the application as to liens with his records and the documents and instruments accompanying the application and if such statements are incorrect or incomplete or if any of the liens shown by the application are not entitled to be entered on the certificate in the same order as they appear on the application the recorder shall return all of said papers to the director and advise him of the reasons therefor. If the statements as to liens are full, true, and complete and all liens shown by the application are entitled to be entered on the certificate in the same order as they appear on the application, the recorder shall stamp on the application the words, "Statements as to liens in accordance with records," a facsimile of his signature, and the date, shall accept all instruments accompanying the application for recording and shall stamp his record number opposite the statement of each lien on the application for certificate. The recorder shall retain the instruments for his permanent file and collect the fees and charges thereon and return the application and all other papers to the director, who shall thereupon deliver same to a representative of the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia, stationed in the office of the director. Said representative shall then collect from the applicant or his representative all fees and charges in connection with the issuance of the certificate and shall return said application and papers to the director. The director shall thereupon issue the certificate and where liens are shown on such an application shall stamp upon each of two cards, the size of which shall be fixed by the director, the information stamped by the director on the face of such certificate and shall deliver such certificate, its application, cards, if any, and the identification-tag application to the recorder. If the application for title shows no liens, the recorder shall stamp on the certificate and on the reverse side of that portion of the application for identification tags known as "Collector's Coupon" the words "No Liens Shown By Records" and the date. If the application shows liens, the recorder shall stamp aforesaid "Collector's Coupon" with the words "Lien Recorded" and shall enter the lien information on certificate and on each of the said cards. The aforesaid stamping and entering shall be made on the face of the certificate in the space provided for the use of the recorder. The recorder shall then deliver both applications and the papers attached and the certificate to the director, who shall retain the application and the papers attached and shall deliver or mail the certificate to the record holder of the first lien shown thereon or his representative; or if there are no liens, then to the owner or his representative. (July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 737, ch. 527, § 6.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective January 1, 1941, see section 16 of act July 2, 1940, set out as a note under section 40-701.

The recorder shall enter the lien infor-

§ 40-708. Assignment of lien—Form and requirement of assignment—Entry and recording of assignment—Certificate to holder of first lien.

The rights of the holder of an unsatisfied lien shown on a certificate may be assigned by an assignment in writing, which shall show the name and address of the assignee, the trade name and engine, serial or identification number of the motor vehicle, or the trade name and serial number, if any, of the trailer, and the recorder's record number of the instrument, or if none, a brief description sufficient to identify the lien shall be signed by the holder of the lien and acknowledged by him in the manner provided by law for deeds of real estate. Upon presentation of an assignment and a certificate and the payment of the prescribed fee to the representative of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia in the office of the director, the recorder shall enter upon the face of the certificate and upon each of the cards hereinbefore described the recorder's record number of the lien which is being assigned, or, if no such instrument is on file, a brief description sufficient to identify the lien, the date of the assignment and the words, "Assigned to," and the name and address of the assignee, and the date. This section shall not be deemed to affect the priority given under section 40-703 (c) to a lien where the instrument is presented together with the certificate. NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Duplicate certificates 2
Number of offenses 3
Prosecution by corporation counsel 4

1. In general

Where counts charging perjury were merged and it could not be determined upon which false statement in application for certificate of title the jury rested its general verdict, but verdict if upon statement as to liens would not support sentence, judgment of conviction was subject to reversal. Shelton v. U. S. (1948, 165 F. 2d 241, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

2. Duplicate certificates

Section 706 of this title and this section relating to certificates of title apply to duplicate as well as original certificates. Shelton v. U. S. (1948, 165 F. 2d 241, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 32.)

3. Number of offenses

One making two false statements, one violating the general perjury statute, § 22-2501, and the other violating this section, commits two offenses, though both statements are under one oath. Shelton v. U. S. (1948, 165 F. 2d 241, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

4. Prosecution by corporation counsel

The making of false statement of lien under oath in application for certificate or duplicate certificate of title for motor vehicle in the District of Columbia must be prosecuted by corporation counsel in the name of the District of Columbia, under this section, rather than by the United States attorney in the name of the United States under the general perjury statute, § 22-2501. Shelton v. U. S. (1948, 165 F. 2d 241, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 32).

§ 40-715. Appropriation.

Appropriation is hereby authorized to be made to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to include in their annual estimates provision for all the expenses of the office of the director and recorder incident to such purposes, and for personnel subject to the limitations of the Classification Act of 1949. § 40-802. Findings and declaration of necessity.

It is hereby declared that the free circulation of traffic of all kinds through the highways of the District is necessary to the health, safety, and general welfare of the public, whether residing in said District, or traveling to, through, or from said District in the course of lawful pursuits; that in recent years the greatly increased use by the public of motor vehicles of all kinds has caused serious traffic congestion on the highways of the District; that the parking of motor vehicles on the highways of the District has contributed to this congestion to such an extent as to interfere seriously with the primary use of such highways for the movement of traffic; that such parking prevents the free circulation of traffic in, through, and from said District impedes rapid and effective fighting of fires and the disposition of police forces in the District, threatens irreparable loss in valuations of property in the District, which can no longer be readily reached by vehicular traffic, and endangers the health, safety, and welfare of the general public; that this parking nuisance can be reduced by providing sufficient off-street parking facilities conveniently located in the several residential, commercial, industrial, and governmental areas of the District; that adequate off-street parking facilities have not been provided by private enterprise; that it may be necessary to supplement private parking spaces by off-street parking facilities provided by public undertaking; and that the enactment of this chapter, as well as the use of land for the purposes set forth in this chapter, is hereby declared to be a public necessity. The term "parking facilities" means one or more public off-street parking areas for motor vehicles, including necessary structures. (Feb. 16, 1942, 56 Stat. 91, ch. 76, § 2.)

§ 40-804. Commissioners' powers—Requisition of property—Construction and maintenance—Leasing to private interests—Disposal of property—Establishment of rates—Miscellaneous rules and regulations—Parking meters.

The Commissioners, within the limits of appropriations by Congress therefor, are authorized to exercise all powers necessary and convenient to carry out the purposes of this chapter, the said purposes being hereby declared to be the acquisition, creation, and operation, in any manner hereinafter provided, under public regulation, of public off-street parking facilities in the District as a necessary incident to insuring in the public interest the free circulation of traffic in and through said District. Such powers shall include, but shall not be limited to, the powers hereinafter enumerated:

(a) The power to acquire any property, real or personal, or any interest therein, by purchase, lease, gift, bequest, devise, or grant, or by condemnation under the provisions of sections 16-601, 16-602, 16-604, 16-606 to 16-611 in any area of the District as to which the agency shall have made a determination that public parking facilities are necessary or expedient. Before acquiring any area for parking facilities the Commissioners shall request the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for its recommendations and it shall be the duty of said Commission to report thereon within thirty days of such request.

(b) The power to undertake, by contract or otherwise, the clearance and improvement of any such property as well as the construction, establishment, reconstruction, alteration, repair, maintenance, and operation thereon of parking facilities; to contract, by lease or otherwise, with competitive bidding, with any individual, firm, association, or corporation, private or public, for the operation of any parking facilities for such period, not exceeding five years, as the Commissioners shall determine, and to terminate, without prior notice, any contract in the event of any failure or omission of any party thereto to observe or enforce the rules or schedules of rates made under authority of paragraph (d) of this section. The words "such property" in this paragraph shall include, in addition to property acquired under this chapter, any other property, heretofore or hereafter acquired by the District, until needed for the purpose for which it was acquired, or if no longer needed for the purpose for which it was acquired, or upon which parking facilities may be established without impairing its use for the purpose for which it was acquired: Provided, That in each case the agency shall have made a determination that parking facilities thereon are necessary or expedient. Before establishing any parking facilities upon the property not acquired under authority of this chapter, the Commissioners shall request the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for its recommendations and it shall be the duty of said Commission to report thereon within thirty days of such request.

(c) The power to sell, exchange, transfer, or assign any property, real or personal, or any interest therein, acquired under authority of this chapter, whether or not improved: Provided, That such action shall be in accordance with the general law covering the disposal of such property by the District of Columbia; Provided further, That the agency shall have first determined such property to be no longer necessary for the purposes of this chapter.

(d) The power to establish and from time to time to revise, with or without public hearings, uniform schedules of rates to be charged for use of space in each such parking facility; to provide rate differentials between said parking facilities for such reasons as the amount of space occupied, the location of the facility, and other reasonable differences; and to prescribe and promulgate such rules and regulations for the carrying out of the provisions of this chapter as may be necessary to keep said parking facilities subject at all times to public regulation, and to insure the maintenance and operation of such parking facilities in a clean and orderly manner and in such a manner as to provide efficient and adequate service to the public. The rates to be charged for parking of motor vehicles within said parking facilities shall be fixed at the lowest possible rates, consistent with the achievement of the purposes of this chapter, that will defray the cost of maintaining, operating, and administering the parking facilities; liquidate within such time as the Commissioners shall determine the cost of acquiring and improving the required property for parking-facility purposes; and provide for the acquisition and improvement of other necessary parking facilities, but without any purpose of obtaining for the District any profit or surplus revenue from the operation of said parking facilities. There shall be no discrimination in rates or privileges among the members of the public using said parking facilities.

(e) The power to secure and install mechanical parking meters or parking devices on the streets, avenues, roads, highways, and other public spaces in the District under the jurisdiction and control of the said Commissioners, in addition to those mechanical parking meters and devices installed pursuant to the authority conferred on the said Commissioners by section 40-616, such meters or devices to be located at such points as the Commissioners may determine, and the said Commissioners are authorized and empowered to make and enforce rules and regulations for the control of parking of vehicles on such streets, avenues, roads, highways, and other public spaces, and as an aid to such regulation and control of the parking of vehicles the Commissioners may prescribe fees for the parking of vehicles where meters or devices are installed.

(f) The power to lease on competitive bids for terms not exceeding fifty years, any property acquired pursuant to this chapter, or any other property heretofore or hereafter acquired by the District if no longer needed for the purpose for which it was acquired, and to stipulate in any such lease that the lessee shall erect at his or its expense a structure or structures on the land leased, which structure or structures and property shall be used, maintained, and operated for the purposes of this chapter, including purposes incidental thereto, subject to regulation as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, except that the rates for use of space in parking facilities covered by any such lease shall be fixed and regulated by the Commissioners so as to allow to the lessee a fair return, as fixed by the Commissioners, on the cost of such structure or structures, together with an amount sufficient to amortize within the term of any such lease the cost of such structure or structures. Every such lease shall be entered into upon such terms and conditions as the Commissioners shall impose including, but not limited to, requirements that such structure or structures shall conform with plans and specifications approved by the Commissioners, that such structure or structures shall become the property of the District upon termination or expiration of any such lease; that the lessee shall furnish security in the form of a penal bond or otherwise to guarantee fulfillment of his or its obligations, and any other requirement which, in the judgment of the Commissioners, shall be related to the accomplishment of the purposes of this chapter.

(g) The power to use moneys in the fund established by section 40-808 for the purpose of widening or channelizing streets or making other street improvements to correct or improve traffic conditions in the vicinity of off-street parking facilities, and to correct traffic conditions resulting from a lack or shortage of parking facilities. (Feb. 16, 1942, 56 Stat. 91, ch. 76, § 3; Dec. 16, 1944, 58 Stat. 808, ch. 595, § 1; June 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 565, ch. 559; Aug. 20, 1958, 72 Stat. 686, Pub. L. 85-692, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Parking regulations 2
Presumption 3

1. In general

Appellant's contention, that, by placing the sign upon the meters the District is estopped to urge that Saturday afternoon is not a holiday within the meaning of the traffic regulation, is unfounded since the principle of estoppel generally does not apply to a city or a state when acting in its governmental capacity. Doing v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 396).

2. Parking regulations

Where appellant was convicted for illegal parking on Saturday afternoon and controversy arose by reason of fact that parking meter bore sign limiting parking to one hour, except on Sundays and holidays, his contention that Saturday afternoon was a legal holiday is without merit because Saturday is not a holiday under the statute or regulations issued thereunder. Doing v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 396).

3. Presumption

The presumption that everyone is presumed to know the law applies to traffic regulations just as it does to statutes. Doing v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 396).

§ 40-805. Motor-Vehicle Parking Agency—Creation and composition—Term—Powers.

There is hereby created a motor-vehicle parking agency consisting of seven members, namely, a representative of the Federal Works Agency, to be designated by the Administrator thereof; a representative of the National Park Service, to be designated by the Secretary of the Interior; a representative of the Department of Vehicles and Traffic of the District, to be designated by the Commissioners, and four other members, each of whom shall have been a bona fide resident of the District for at least three years immediately preceding his appointment, to be appointed by the Commissioners, without regard to race or creed. The Secretary of the Interior, the Federal Works Administrator, and the Commissioners may from time to time, in their discretion, change their respective designates in office, and they shall name new designates to fill any vacancies caused by the death, resignation, or other inability to serve, of their respective designates in office. The terms of the other four members of the agency shall be four years each, except that in the case of the initial appointments, one shall be for a term of one year, one for a term of two years, and one for a term of three years. In the case of any vacancy in the position of the members appointed for definite terms the same shall be filled for the remainder of the term. The said agency shall perform the duties imposed upon it by this chapter and such other duties as the Commissioners may assign to it. The Commissioners are authorized to delegate to the agency any or all of the powers vested in the said Commissioners by this chapter, except the powers set forth in paragraphs lettered (a) and (c) in section 40-804. The Commissioners are also authorized to delegate to the agency any or all of the powers vested in said Commissioners by sections 1 and 2 of the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to provide for the parking of automobiles in the Municipal Center", approved June 6, 1940. The term includes a chattel mortgage, conditional sale contract, and a contract in the form of a bailment or a lease if the bailee or lessee contracts to pay as compensation for use a sum substantially equivalent to or in excess of the value of the motor vehicle sold and it is agreed that the bailee or lessee is bound to become, or, for no further or a merely nominal consideration, has the option of becoming, the owner of the motor vehicle upon full compliance with the provisions of the bailment or lease.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 12 of act Apr. 22, 1960, provided that: "This Act [adding this chapter and amending § 47-2345] shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of enactment of this Act [Apr. 22, 1960]."

§ 40-902. Maximum finance charges—Computation—Proportionate adjustments—Investigation of economic conditions to determine finance charges—Regulations—Classification of parties—Waiver.

(a) Notwithstanding the provisions of any instrument of security, refinancing contract, or other instrument to the contrary, made or entered into on or after the effective date of this chapter, no person shall charge, contract for, receive, or collect a finance charge if such charge exceeds the larger of $25 or an amount determined under the following schedule:

Class 1. Any new domestic motor vehicle designated by the manufacturer by a year model not earlier than the year in which the sale is made and any new foreign motor vehicle—$8 per $100 per year.

Class 2. Any new domestic motor vehicle not in class 1 and any used domestic motor vehicle designated by the manufacturer by a year model of the same or not more than two years prior to the year in which the sale is made and used foreign motor vehicle not more than two years old—$11 per $100 per year.

Class 3. Any used motor vehicle not in class 2, and, if a domestic motor vehicle, designated by the manufacturer by a year model not more than four years prior to the year in which the sale is made, and, if a foreign motor vehicle, not more than four years old—$14 per $100 per year.

Class 4. Any used motor vehicle not in class 2 or class 3—$16 per $100 per year.

(b) The finance charge authorized by the preceding subsection shall be computed on the principal balance payable for a motor vehicle from the date of the instrument or contract until the maturity of the final installment, notwithstanding that the balance thereof is required to be paid in installments.

(c) For a period less or greater than twelve months or for amounts less or greater than $100, the amount of the maximum charge set forth in the foregoing schedule shall be decreased or increased proportionately.

(d) The Commissioners shall from time to time investigate the economic conditions and other factors relating to and affecting finance charges, and shall ascertain all pertinent facts necessary to determine what maximum charges should be permitted in such transactions. Upon the basis of such ascertained facts, the Commissioners, notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding subsections, shall from time to time by regulation or order determine and fix the maximum finance charges sufficiently high to result in a fair return on investment to persons engaged in the business of financing retail installment transactions, but not so high as to constitute an unreasonable economic burden on the purchasers of motor vehicles under retail installment contracts. The Commissioners may from time to time, upon the basis of changed conditions or facts, redetermine and refix any such maximum finance charge, but, before determining or redetermining any such maximum charge, the Commissioners shall give reasonable notice of their intention to consider doing so, and provide a reasonable opportunity to persons desiring to be heard with respect to any such proposed determination or redetermination. Notice of the action proposed by the Commissioners shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in one or more of the daily newspapers published in the District. Any such changed maximum finance charge shall not affect any preexisting instrument of security lawfully entered into between the seller and the purchaser of any motor vehicle.

(e) (1) The Commissioners are hereby authorized to make and enforce such regulations as they in their discretion deem appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section and to prevent unconscionable practices in connection with retail installment transactions, including, without limitation, provisions:

(i) governing the form and substance of instruments of security;

(ii) requiring that installment payments under instruments of security be made in substantially equal amounts and at regular intervals except (1) that the interval for the first installment payment may be longer than the other intervals; (2) that the final installment payment may be less in amount than the preceding installment payments; (3) that where a buyer's livelihood is dependent upon seasonal or intermittent income, one or more installment payments in the schedule of payments included in any such instrument of security may be reduced or omitted; and (4) that any contract covering a new motor vehicle to be used primarily as a demonstrator sold to a bona fide motor-vehicle salesman employed by the seller shall be exempt from the requirement that installment payments be in substantially equal amounts;

(iii) requiring that amounts due under instruments of security may be prepaid in full and that the unearned charges, whether for finance, insurance, or for other purposes, attributable to or resulting from such prepayments shall be refunded or credited;

(iv) establishing maximum delinquency, collection, repossession and other charges;

(v) specifying the types and maximum amounts of insurance which may be required, at the expense of the retail buyer, to protect from loss the seller in a retail installment transaction or his assignee or any other person entitled to payments from a retail buyer under an instrument of security;

(vi) respecting the manner and methods of the sale or disposition of repossessed motor vehicles under such conditions, including, without limitation, rights of redemption, as the Commissioners deem advisable;

(vii) requiring the books and records of persons engaged in the business of financing retail installment transactions to be subject to production for examination by the Commissioners.

(2) The Commissioners are further authorized, in their discretion, to make and enforce such additional regulations as they deem necessary to insure that purchasers of motor vehicles under instruments of security are not being required, directly or indirectly, to pay finance, insurance, or other charges in excess of those authorized by this chapter or by the Commissioners pursuant to the authority vested in them.

(3) In exercising their powers and authority under this subsection (e), the Commissioners are authorized, in their discretion, to make reasonable classifications (i) according to the parties to retail installment transactions, or (ii) according to the parties to the instruments of security, or (iii) according to the parties involved in repossessions, or (iv) according to other bases, or (v) according to two or more of the foregoing clauses (i) through (iv), and to exercise such powers and authority under this subsection with respect to any one or more of any classifications so made or with respect to all of said classifications.

(f) No provision shall be inserted in any retail installment contract whereby the buyer waives or purports to waive any provision of this chapter, and any such waiver or purported waiver shall be void and of no effect. The Commissioners are authorized in their discretion, by regulation (1) to prohibit the inclusion in any retail installment contract of any provision waiving or purporting to waive any provision of any regulation promulgated by the Commissioners relating to retail installment transactions, and (2) to provide that any such waiver or purported waiver, shall be void and of no effect. (Apr. 22, 1960, 74 Stat. 69, Pub. L. 86-431, § 2.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective on the thirtieth day after Apr. 22, 1960, see section 12 of act Apr. 22, 1960, set out as a note under section 40-901.

§ 40-903. Bonding of automobile dealers and applicants—Liability Insurance—Designation of Commissioners as agents for service of process—Limitation on bonds—Action on bonds.

(a) In connection with the licensing of persons under the authority of chapter 23 of title 47, the Commissioners are authorized to require either bonds or such other security as they may by regulation deem necessary, of persons licensed to engage in the business of buying or selling motor vehicles and of persons licensed to engage in the business of purchasing contracts for the retail installment sales of motor vehicles, and the Commissioners may, from time to time, and in their discretion, establish classes and subclasses of such persons and, subject to subsection (b) of this section, specify the amount and conditions of the bond to be deposited by each of the members of any such class or subclass. In connection with the licensing of said persons, and the bonding of the members of any class or subclass of the said persons, the Commissioners, in their discretion, may by regulation require applicants for licenses:

(1) to furnish and keep in force a bond running to the District, or other security, to protect members of the public against financial loss by reason of the failure of the licensee or of any officer, agent, employee, or other person acting on behalf of said licensee, to observe any law or regulation in force in the District of Columbia applicable to the licensee's conduct of the licensed business;

(2) to procure and keep in force public liability insurance or property damage insurance, or both;

(3) to appoint the Commissioners as their true and lawful attorney upon whom all judicial and other process or legal notice directed to such person may be served.

NOTES TO DECISIONS1. Liability of partners

Persons who hold themselves out or knowingly permit others to hold them out as partners become bound as partners to all who deal with them in that apparent relation. Orndorff v. Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 62 A. 2d 794).

When liability of a partner must be predicated on the fact that one of them was held out by another as a partner, it must appear that the person so held out consented in fact to the holding out, or when the fact of the holding out came to his knowledge, he negligently failed to assert the non-existence of the partnership in time to prevent others from relying thereon. Id.

§ 41-127. Suits against general and special partners may be prosecuted against general partners.

If, in any case or suit brought against general and special partners, it shall appear at the trial of the case that the special partners or any one of them are not liable to the suit of the plaintiff, the court may proceed to judgment or decree against the partners who may appear to be liable, in the same manner as if such partners were the only parties defendant to the suit, excepting that the partners who may be deemed not liable shall recover their legal costs against the plaintiffs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1417, ch. 854, § 1524.)

§ 41-128. New suits against special partners after judgment against general partners.

If, in any case or suit brought against general and special partners, the creditor shall recover a judgment or obtain a decree against the general partners only, and shall afterward discover that special partners, or some one or more of them, have become liable as general partners, he may bring a new suit against such special partner or partners. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1417, ch. 854, § 1525.)

§ 41-129. Judgment prima facie evidence—Merger of partnership debt in judgment.

In the suits mentioned in sections 41-127 and 41-128 the judgment recovered shall be prima facie evidence of the amount due by the partnerships, and the partnership debt shall not be merged in any judgment or decree recovered or obtained against any partner or partners as against any other partner or partners. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1417, ch. 854, § 1526.)

§ 41-130. Voluntary dissolution.

No dissolution of such partnership by act of the partners shall take place previous to the time specified in the certificate of its formation, or in the certificate of its renewal, unless in consequence of the death of one of the partners or insolvency of the partnership or of one of the general partners, nor until a notice of such dissolution shall have been filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court for the District, and published once a week for four weeks in two newspapers to be designated by the clerk, which publication may be proved by affidavit, and recorded as hereinbefore prescribed for the publication of the certificate for the formation of such partnership. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1417, ch. 854, § 1527; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

§ 41-131. Liability of the general partners.

The general partners shall be liable to account to each other and to the special partners for the management of the concern, both at law and in equity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1418, ch. 854, § 1528.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Right to sue

The law does not forbid partners to sue each other at law merely because they are or have been partners. It is only when the adjustment of the matter in controversy involves an investigation and audit of the partnership account that resort must be had to equity. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

Chapter 2.—DISSOLUTION AND PAYMENT OF DEBTS

41-201. Composition with creditors on dissolution.

41-202. Memorandum of exoneration may be furnished—
Use of memorandum in evidence or to release judgment.

41-203. Other partners not discharged.

41-204. Partners' right of contribution.

§ 41-201. Composition with creditors on dissolution.

Where a partnership is dissolved, by mutual consent or otherwise, any partner may make a separate composition or compromise with any creditor of the partnership; and such a composition or compromise shall be a full and effectual discharge to the debtor who makes the same, and to him only, of and from all and every liability to the creditor with whom the same is made, according to the terms thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1414, ch. 854, § 1494.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Negotiable instruments

It is not within the general scope of the authority of one partner to make or endorse negotiable paper in the firm name. Presbrey v. Thomas (1 App. D. C. 171).

§ 41-202. Memorandum of exoneration may be furnished—Use of memorandum in evidence or to release judgment.

Every such debtor who makes such composition or compromise may take from the creditor with whom he makes the same a note or memorandum, in writing, exonerating him from all and every individual liability incurred by reason of his connection with the partnership, which note or memorandum may be given in evidence by such debtor, in bar of such creditor's right of recovery against him; and if such liability be by judgment, then, on the production and filing with the clerk of the notes or memorandum, the clerk shall enter the judgment as released by the plaintiff as far as the compromising debtor is concerned. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1414, ch. 854, § 1495.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Discretion of commission 1
Federal laws, scope of 2
Power to fix rates 3

1. Discretion of commission

In public utility rate proceeding, Public Utility Commission's refusal of demand of intervening Price Administrator that thoroughgoing examination be made into rate base, rate of return, operating expenses, depreciation, and all other matters relative to establishment of fair return was not an abuse of discretion. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

2. Federal laws, scope of

The right conferred on Price Administrator to intervene in public utility rate proceeding does not include the power to compel the regulatory party to undertake a complete investigation against its better judgment or upon lines contrary to governing statute. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

3. Power to fix rates

The power to fix public utility rates is a legislative power which has been delegated by Congress to Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia, and in its exercise, within constitutional limits, discretion of commission may not be controlled even by courts. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

§ 41-203. Other partners not discharged.

Such compromise or composition with an individual member of a firm shall not be held to discharge the other partners, nor shall it impair the right of the creditor to proceed against such members of the partnership as have not been discharged; and the members of the partnership so proceeded against shall be permitted to set off any demand against the creditor which could have been set off had the suit been brought against all the individuals composing the firm. Nor shall the compromise or discharge of an individual member of a firm prevent the other members of the firm from availing themselves of any defense that would have been available had this title not been passed, except that they shall not set up the discharge of one individual as a discharge of the other partners, unless it appear that all were intended to be discharged; but the discharge of any such partner shall be deemed a payment to the creditor equal to the proportionate interest of the partner discharged in the partnership concern. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1414, ch. 854, § 1496.)

§ 41-204. Partners' right of contribution.

Such compromise or composition of a member of a firm with a creditor of such firm shall in no wise affect the right of the other partners to call on the member who makes it for his ratable proportion of any partnership debt which they may be compelled to pay. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1415, ch. 854, § 1497.)

Chapter 1.—RECORDATION OF INSTRUMENTS

Sec.
42-101. Recording of bills of sale, chattel mortgages, and deeds of trust.
42-102. Instruments relating to chattels need not be transcribed—Instruments retained by recorder—Legal effect.

42-106. Destruction of released instruments.
42-107. False statements—Penalty.

§ 42-101. Recording of bills of sale, chattel mortgages, and deeds of trust.

No bill of sale, mortgage, or deed of trust to secure a debt of any personal chattels whereof the vendor, mortgagor, or donor shall remain in possession, shall be valid or effectual to pass the title therein, except as between the parties to such instruments and as to other persons having actual notice of it, unless the same be executed, acknowledged, and within ten days from the date of such acknowledgment filed in the office of the recorder of deeds and the said filing of such instrument therein as aforesaid as to third persons not having notice of it as aforesaid shall be operative only from the time within the said ten days when it is delivered to said recorder. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1275, ch. 854, § 546-A, formerly § 546; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1103, ch. 417; renumbered June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 1.)

 Date of acknowledgment 4
 Failure to deliver possession 5
 Landlord's lien 6
 Purpose 7
 Rights of attaching creditor of vendor 8
 Unrecorded bill of sale 9

1. Actual notice

The sale is not void as to persons who had "actual notice of it" before their rights accrued. Splain v. B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. (1923, 29 F. 275, 53 App. D. C. 300).

Where automobile dealer had a "floor plan" arrangement by which plaintiff would advance funds to dealer for purchase of automobiles and would take back chattel mortgages, and dealer had arrangement whereby finance company would purchase the conditional sales contracts executed by buyers of automobiles, and the buyer of an automobile gave conditional sales contract which was assigned to finance company but company never received title certificate because dealer had financial difficulties and never repaid plaintiff, plaintiff was estopped from asserting lien against buyer who had no actual knowledge of plaintiff's recorded chattel mortgage lien, and the buyer, not being in default, was entitled to use and enjoyment of automobile, and finance company was entitled to have its lien recorded on certificate of title. Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co., Inc. v. Continental Autos, Ltd. et al. (1960, 184 F. Supp. 764).

2. Construction

This chapter applies to chattels, generally, not merely to automobiles, and accordingly a construction peculiarly applicable to motor vehicles is not appropriate. Fogle v. General Credit (1941, 122 F. 2d 45, 74 App. D.C. 208, 136 A.L.R. 814).

3. Constructive notice

A mortgagee cannot throw the buyer of mortgaged property off guard concerning protection which this section gives to him and take advantage at the same time of what otherwise would or might have been discovered, and thus if the mortgagee clothes mortgagor with indicia of ownership, or gives him authority to sell the property, or stands by in silence and watches the mortgagor deal with it as owner, the mortgagee nullifies the effect of recording by his inconsistent representation. Fogle v. General Credit (1941, 122 F. 2d 45, 74 App. D.C. 208, 136 A.L.R. 814).

The opportunity to investigate is foundation of the "constructive notice" afforded by this section and when it exists unimpaired by any act of mortgagee, this section casts burden of investigation on those who may deal with the mortgagor, and their failure to make it assumes something of the quality of negligence, but this section is a bulwark, not a trap, and mortgagee is favored only so long as he acts consistently with its conditions, and when he goes further and either by his conduct prevents purchaser from making usual investigation or takes advantage of circumstances which he knows or reasonably should know would have such effect, he destroys the foundation on which his own protection rests. Id.

4. Date of acknowledgment

"Record is required within 10 days after * * * the act of acknowledgement. There is nothing in the law which requires that acknowledgment of the instrument be of its date, and, unless the delay in acknowledging be unreasonable and intervening rights accrue during the period of delay the recorded instrument will have the same force and effect as if acknowledged on the date of its execution." R. P. Andrews Paper Co. v. Southern Soda Fountain Co. (46 App. D. C. 84).

Rights under the mortgage do not relate back to the time of the execution of the deed where mortgage was not acknowledged or recorded until after mortgagor had contracted new debts with third parties without notice. In re Nolan Motor Co., Inc. (1938, 25 F. Supp. 186).

The code regarding recordation of chattel mortgages does not require acknowledgment simultaneous with the execution thereof. Id.

5. Failure to deliver possession

Failure to deliver possession to the buyer did not make the sale void, but was a fact to be considered by the jury in determining whether or not the sale was fraudulent. Splain v. B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. (1923, 290 F. 275, 53 App. D. C. 300).

6. Landlord's lien

Whether landlord's lien is embraced within provision requiring recordation of conditional sales contract, see R. P. Andrews Paper Co. v. Southern Soda Fountain Co. (46 App. D. C. 84).

7. Purpose

This chapter is intended ordinarily to make a recorded instrument effective to give constructive notice to all with whom person in possession may undertake to deal, but the protection is not entirely one-sided or absolute, and this section has the further function of providing an opportunity for investigation of the title and discovery of liens. Fogle v. General Credit (1941, 122 F. 2d 45, 74 App. D. C. 208, 136 A. L. R. 814).

8. Rights of attaching creditor of vendor

Unrecorded bill of sale to automobile which remained in possession of vendor did not operate to pass title to buyer as against attaching judgment creditor of vendor. Barlow v. Langlands (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 110 A. 2d 688).

9. Unrecorded bill of sale

Failure to record bill of sale does not make sale void as to marshal who levied on the property with notice of the transfer of title. Splain v. B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. (1923, 290 F. 275, 53 App. D. C. 300).

10. Unrecorded transfer

Unrecorded transfer is good inter partes. V. G. Fisher Art Co. v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 156). See, also, Colbert v. Baetjer (4 App. D. C. 416).

§ 42-102. Instruments relating to chattels need not be transcribed—Instruments retained by recorder—Legal effect.

It shall not be necessary for the Recorder of Deeds to spread upon the records of his office the instruments filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103, but the same shall be indexed and, except as hereinafter provided, shall be kept on file and shall be open to inspection by the public, and shall have the same force and legal effect as if they were actually recorded in the books of said office. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1275, ch. 854, § 46-C, formerly § 546; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1103, ch. 417; renumbered and amended June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

1952—Act June 5, 1952, added "filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103" following word "instruments", substituted "and, except as hereinafter provided," for "in the manner as deeds to real estate are indexed" and deleted the provision for fees for filing and indexing.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1952 AMENDMENT

Section 6 of act June 5, 1952, provided that: "This Act [adding §§ 42-104 to 42-107, and amending the section and sections 40-711, 42-103] shall take effect ninety days after its enactment [June 5, 1952]."

§ 42-103. Conditional sales.

No conditional sale of chattels in virtue of which the property is delivered to the purchaser, but by the terms of which the title is not to pass until the price of said chattels is fully paid, where the purchase-price exceeds $100, shall be valid as against third persons acquiring title to said property from said purchaser without notice of the terms of said sale, unless the terms of said sale are reduced to writing and signed by the parties thereto and acknowledge by the purchaser and filed in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, and said writing shall be indexed as if the purchaser were a mortgagor and the seller a mortgagee of such chattels, and shall be operative as to third persons without actual notice of it from the time of being filed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1275, ch. 854, § 546-B, formerly § 547; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 533, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1103, ch. 417; renumbered and amended June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1952—Act June 5, 1952, struck out provisions for collection of fees for filing and indexing, and the effective date of the 1925 amendment.

1925—Act Mar. 3, 1925, substituted "where" for "when" preceding "the purchase price exceeds $100", "filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia" for "recorded in the same manner as a chattel mortgage, as hereinabove provided", and "filed" for "so recorded", and added the last sentence providing for fees for filing and indexing.

1902—Act June 30, 1902, added the words "when the purchase price exceeds $100".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1952 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act June 5, 1952, effective 90 days after June 5, 1952, see section 6 of act June 5, 1952, set out as a note under section 42-102.

1. Assignee of lease

Assignee of lease was not a third person "acquiring title to said property from said purchaser." Palm v. Bachrach (1925, 5 F. 2d 125, 55 App. D. C. 302).

2. Construction and application

Whether creditor of vendee in contract of conditional sale, or of purchaser (without notice) from him, are entitled to the benefits of this section, see Baum v. Knabe Mfg. Co. (33 App. D. C. 237).

"Since this statute restricts the rights of property by regulating its use its scope may not be broadened by construction." Gill v. Kahl-Holt Co. (47 App. D. C. 53).

Lease construed as conditional sales agreement. Stern v. Drew (1923, 285 F. 925, 52 App. D. C. 191). See, also, Smith v. Gilmore (7 App. D. C. 192).

3. Election of remedies

Election of remedies as affecting rights under conditional bill of sale, see Smith v. Gilmore (7 App. D. C. 192).

4. Fictitious names, use of

A conditional seller who records conditional sale agreement obtains full protection under this section, even though such instrument was executed in a fictitious name by buyer. Zweig v. Schwartz (1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

5. Landlord's lien

Unrecorded conditional sale contract of chattels brought upon leased premises is superior to landlord's lien on chattels. Stern Co. v. Rosenberg (1937, 89 F. 2d 843, 67 App. D. C. 99).

6. Notice

Where conditional buyer of $400 diamond ring perpetrated fraud in representing herself to be another person, but sellers did not record conditional sale agreement and second-hand dealer purchased ring for $75 in usual course of business from one known to the dealer, the price paid was not so inadequate as to constitute "notice" to the second-hand dealer of possible defects in the title acquired by him. Zweig v. Schwartz (1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

7. Oral agreement

An assignee of after-acquired property takes it subject to the conditions with which it is encumbered, notwithstanding that such encumbrance is an oral conditional sales agreement. Gill v. Kahl-Holt Co. (47 App. D. C. 53)

8. Title withheld

"A sale and delivery of personal property on condition that the title remain in the vendor until performance of the condition authorizes the vendor, in case of failure to fulfill the conditions, to repossess himself of the property, not only from the vendee but from those holding under him. * * * Such a condition may exist either in the case of a sale for cash or on time." Minnix Co. v. L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Co. (33 App. D. C. 357).

Title does not pass until condition is fulfilled. Minnix Co. v. L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Co. (33 App. D. C. 357). See, also, Wall v. De Mitkiewicz (9 App. D. C. 109).

9. Unrecorded conditional sale

When property under conditional sale contracts is reserved in the vendor until the purchase price is paid, such contracts are valid even though unrecorded except as against third persons acquiring title without notice of the terms of sale. Baum v. Knabe Mfg. Co. (33 App. D. C. 237).

Unrecorded conditional sale was valid against judgment, creditor levying upon buyer's property. The provision that it should not be valid against third persons without notice applies only in favor of subsequent purchasers and mortgagees. Higgins v. Central Cigar Co. (1929, 32 F. 2d 400, 59 App. D. C. 9).

Unrecorded conditional sale contract superior to levy on an automobile, the latter not transferring any title. C. I. T. Corp. v. Carl (1936, 85 F. 2d 809, 66 App. D. C. 232).

At common law a conditional bill of sale was valid not only as between parties but also as to third parties, but under this section when purchase price exceeds $100, unless seller protects his lien by recording the conditional sale agreement, the buyer may convey an indefeasible title to a third party for value and without notice. Zweig v. Schwartz (1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

Even though conditional buyer perpetrated fraud in representing herself to be another person, conditional sellers who did not avail themselves of benefit of this section could not recover from subsequent buyer if he was a purchaser for value and acquired title without notice of the conditional sale. Id.

10. Warehouseman's lien

Conditional sale contract, not of record, is inferior to warehouseman's lien. Fidelity Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1934, 69 F. 2d 569, 63 App. D. C. 83).

§ 42-104. Void instruments—Disposal.

Every instrument filed with the Recorder of Deeds pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103 and instruments filed with said Recorder or presented for recording pursuant to sections 40-701 to 40-715, shall be void as against the creditors of the party indebted thereon and subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith after the expiration of seven years from the filing thereof, unless, within ninety days next preceding the expiration of the term of seven years from such filing and each seven-year period thereafter, the vendor, mortgagee, trustee, conditional vendor, or donor shall make and file an affidavit setting forth the amount then due and unpaid: Provided, That no such instrument filed prior to September 3, 1952, shall be void as against such creditors, subsequent purchasers or mortgagees, if such affidavit be made and filed within ninety days before the expiration of seven years from the filing of such instrument or one year from September 3, 1952, whichever is later, and each seven-year period thereafter. The Recorder of Deeds shall attach such affidavit after the filing thereof to the instrument to which it relates. The Recorder of Deeds may destroy any such instrument which has become void under the provisions of this chapter, together with any affidavit, release and assignment relating thereto: Provided, That such destruction shall not be effected until the expiration of one year from September 3, 1952: Provided, That this paragraph shall not be applicable to any bill of sale, mortgage, deed of trust, or conditional sale of railroad rolling stock filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103 of this chapter. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 546-D, as added June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 3, and amended June 18, 1953, 67 Stat. 64, ch. 126, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1953—Act June 18, 1953, added proviso that this section would not be applicable to any bill of sale, mortgage, deed of trust, or conditional sale of railroad rolling stock filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective 90 days after June 5, 1952, see section 6 of act June 5, 1952, set out as a note under section 42-102.

§ 42-105. Instrument of release.

When the debt secured by any instrument filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103 of this chapter has been paid in full, the vendor, mortgagee, trustee or conditional vendor or his assignee shall, within twenty days thereafter, (a) execute or cause to be executed a release thereof, acknowledged before a notary public, and (b) deliver or cause to be delivered such release to the Recorder of Deeds. The Recorder (a) shall file the instrument of release by attaching the same to the instrument to which it relates; and (b) shall enter on the released instrument and on the index record thereof the word "released", the date of filing of the instrument of release and a facsimile of his signature. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 546-E, as added June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective 90 days after June 5, 1952, see section 6 of act June 5, 1952, set out as a note under section 42-102.

§ 42-106. Destruction of released instruments.

When any instrument filed pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103 of this chapter has not become void but has, subsequent to September 3, 1952, been released as provided in section 42-105 of this chapter, the Recorder may, after the expiration of three years from the date of the filing of such release, destroy such instrument, the release, and assignments relating thereto. (March 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 546-F, as added June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective 90 days after June 5, 1952, see section 6 of act June 5, 1952, set out as a note under section 42-102.

§ 42-107. False statements—Penalty.

Any person intentionally making a false statement with respect to an instrument filed with the Recorder of Deeds pursuant to section 42-101 or section 42-103 of this chapter, or who, after receipt of payment in full of the debt secured by any such instrument, shall, for a period of more than twenty days after written demand by the person indebted, neglect or refuse to execute and file with the Recorder of Deeds a release as provided in section 42-105 of this chapter shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or be imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

Prosecutions for violations of this chapter shall be by the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia or any of his assistants, in the name of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 546-G, as added June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrative agency 1
Jurisdiction 2

1. Administrative agency

Congress of the United States exercises exclusive legislative powers within the District of Columbia, and the Public Utilities Commission is merely an administrative agency. Patrick v. Smith (1931, 45 F. 2d 924, 60 App D. C. 6).

2. Jurisdiction

Utility companies operating under public franchises and having monopolistic characteristics are subject to special regulations, and cases involving utility's operations are not governed by the ordinary rules applicable to judicial interference in the conduct of a business enterprise. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia v. Capital Transit Co. et al. (1954, 214 F. 2d 242, 94 U. S. App. D. C. 140).

Where transit company for the District of Columbia installed radio loudspeakers in its vehicles for radio broadcasts of music and commercial announcements, and on protest of passengers the Public Utilities Commission ordered an investigation and dismissed the investigation by final order which was appealed to the District Court which dismissed the petitions of the passengers on the grounds that no legal rights had been invaded, jurisdiction of the Commission and the District Court was present. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D.C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

§ 43-203. Acts of prior Commission validated.

Sections 43-201 to 43-203 shall not be construed (1) to invalidate any subpoena, valuation, order, rule, regulation, or revocation, or any rescission, alteration, modification, amendment, or suspension thereof issued by the commission prior to the date on which the commissioners first appointed under section 43-201 take office; or (2) to invalidate any complaint served, or any investigation, inquiry, or hearing held or commenced, or any determination, or decision rendered by the commission prior to such date; or (3) to invalidate, abate, or discontinue any action, suit, trial, or proceeding commenced by or against such commission prior to such date. (Dec. 15, 1926, 44 Stat. 921, ch. 8, § 2.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 43-204. Corporation counsel as counsel of Commission—Duties—Additional compensation—Employment of additional counsel—Enforcement of orders.

The corporation counsel of the District of Columbia shall be the general counsel of the commission and shall receive from and be paid out of the appropriations provided and to be provided for the expenses of the commission in addition to his compensation otherwise provided by law the sum of $1,000 per annum, payable in equal monthly installments. It shall be the duty of the general counsel to represent and appear for the commission in all actions and proceedings involving any question under chapters 1-10 of this title, or under or in reference to any act, order, or proceeding of the commission, and if directed to do so by the commission, to intervene, if possible, in any action or proceeding in which any such question is involved; to commence and prosecute all actions and proceedings directed or authorized by the commission, and to expedite, in every way possible, final and just determination of all such actions and proceedings; to advise the commission and each commissioner, when so requested, in regard to all matters in connection with the powers and duties of the commission and of the members thereof, and generally to perform all duties and services as attorney and counsel to the commission which the commission may reasonably require of him. The assistants to the corporation counsel shall perform such duties relating to matters arising under chapters 1-10 of this title and all other matters as the corporation counsel may prescribe. The commission may, if at any time it deems necessary, employ other attorneys at law as additional assistants to the said general counsel for the performance of such extraordinary legal services for or in behalf of the commission at such special compensation for such additional assistants as the commission may prescribe, which said compensation shall be paid out of the appropriations provided for the expenses of the commission. The said corporation counsel and any of his assistants designated by him or by the commission shall have the right to appear and prosecute any civil, quasi criminal, or criminal case to recover any penalty, forfeiture, fine, or for the imposition of any punishment provided for in chapters 1-10 of this title whether instituted by or on behalf of the United States of America or by or on behalf of the District of Columbia or otherwise, and on every appeal provided by law. The commission may enforce its orders in any case by mandamus or other legal or equitable remedy in any court of competent jurisdiction, and it shall be the duty of the corporation counsel or his assistants to represent the commission in every such proceeding. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 993, ch. 150, § 8, par. 91.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Injunction

Where it appeared that District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, in determining whether transit company's depreciation reserve was adequate, might find it necessary to issue an order, which would be subject to judicial review, directing withdrawal of amount from earned surplus, but corporation proposed to pay a dividend from earned surplus, preliminary injunction would be issued restraining corporation from paying proposed dividend pending determination of adequacy of reserve. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia v. Capital Transit Co. et al. (1954, 214 F. 2d 242, 94 U. S. App. D. C. 140).

Where it did not appear that there was a substantial likelihood that Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, after investigation of transit company's financial condition, would be able to conclude that proposed retirement of bond issue would so handicap the company as to require the cancellation or modification of retirement program, Commission was not entitled to preliminary injunction restraining retirement pending investigation. Id.

§ 43-205. People's counsel—Duties, term of office, salary, qualifications.

All payments and disbursements, as provided in chapters 1-10 of this title, shall be made by the disbursing officer of the District of Columbia upon proper vouchers, certified as required by the commission; and the commission is hereby also granted power and authority to designate and appoint during its pleasure such officers, clerks, inspectors, and employees of the District of Columbia and members of the Metropolitan police force of the District of Columbia to perform any of the duties which the commission may from time to time, respectively, assign to them, and to employ any assistance within the limits of the appropriations for its use made by Act of Congress. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 994, ch. 150, § 8, par. 95.)

§ 43-208. Orders as to repairs—Improvement in equipment, service.

Whenever the commission shall be of opinion, after hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint, that repairs, improvements, or changes in any street railroad, gas plant, electric plant, telephone line, telegraph line, pipe line, water-power plant, or the facilities of any common carrier ought reasonably to be made, or that any addition of service or equipment ought reasonably to be made thereto, or that the vehicles or cars of any street railroad or common carrier are unclean, insanitary, uncomfortable, inconvenient, or improperly equipped, operated, or maintained, or are in need of paint, or unsightly in appearance, or that any addition ought reasonably to be made thereto, in order to promote the comfort or convenience of the public or employees, or in order to secure adequate service or facilities, the commission shall have power to make and serve an order directing that such repairs, improvements, changes, or additions to service or equipment be made within a reasonable time and in a manner to be specified therein, and every such public utility is hereby required and directed to obey every such order of the commission. 1. Determination of rate base—Generally

Where power company served District of Columbia and parts of Virginia and Maryland and certain interstate consumers, use by Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia of power company's system-wide revenues and revenue needs as part of process of reaching approved rate for District of Columbia was proper. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safeguarded. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

If gas rates are to be granted for emergency purposes in a summary proceeding before the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, provision should be made for adjustment of subsequent rates, as under the sliding scale arrangement, if upon a statutory full rate hearing it should be found that the emergency rates had produced either excessive or inadequate returns. Id.

The composition of gas rate base is within province of District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, and commission can adopt any method of valuation so long as end result of rate order is not unjust and unreasonable and can even use a method of calculating rates other than the traditional one which depends on the finding of a rate base. Id.

District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission not inquiring into issues necessary to determination of fair rate of return in gas rate proceeding could not rely on finding in some prior rate proceeding that six per cent was fair rate of return, where risk factor had been materially reduced in recent years and pertinent local conditions and economic factors had not remained static. Id.

Gas company's expenditure for adapting customer's appliances to natural gas to permit changeover from manufactured to natural gas is a proper item of expense currently deductible from operating revenues for rate purposes and can be treated as a deferred expense allocable over period of future years. Id.

The inclusion of items in gas rate base must meet the test of justness and reasonableness to the consumer as well as to the investor. Id.

Under reproduction cost theory, it is unreasonable to burden public with gas rates based on cost of obsolete and abandoned property which no one will conceivably think of reproducing. Id.

2. — Prudent investment theory of return

The District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission's statement that return of less than four per cent was inadequate to maintain gas company in sound financial condition was insufficient to support commission's conclusion that gas rates were reasonable, just and nondiscriminatory, where the commission adopted prudent investment theory of rate regulation but did not subject issue of rate of return to inquiry at the hearing. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

Whether gas company's expenditure for adapting customer's appliances to natural gas to permit changeover from manufactured to natural gas should be considered a prudent investment includible in the rate base is a matter for the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission. Id.

In gas rate proceeding, whether risk of obsolescence has been borne by the investor in the past and whether he has been compensated for such risk is an inquiry which must be made in the first instance by the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission. Id.

District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission awarding higher gas rates because of past inequities to investors must support the factual premise by evidence in the record, and if the factual premise that past earnings were not sufficient to compensate investors for inadequate depreciation charges is true the commission can properly require the burden to be borne by consumers or to be shared by investors and consumers depending upon the circumstances. Id.

Where conversion to natural gas makes retirement of gas manufacturing plant imminent, District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, in order to depreciate plant at accelerated pace for gas rate purposes, must determine whether investors have already been compensated for the risk that annual depreciation charges would prove inadequate at time of retirement because of obsolescence. Id.

If District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission includes abandoned property in gas rate base, protection of consumer interest requires that such treatment of abandoned property be offset in the rate of return. Id.

In gas rate proceeding, compensation to investors for risk of obsolescence may be made either through inclusion of obsolescence as one of the elements used in calculating depreciation expense or as risk considered in fixing the permissible rate of return, so if in the past the risk of obsolescence was so provided for, abandoned property should not be included in the rate base. Id.

The prudent investment theory of gas rate base valuation contemplates that rates will enable investor to maintain his original prudent investment intact until it is recovered through annual charges to depreciation expense reflected in a depreciation reserve, and if a unit of property resulting from prudent investment becomes obsolete before it has been recovered in full by the investor it is not necessarily erroneous as a matter of law for the commission to include such property in the rate base until such recovery has occurred, and such a course may be necessary to assure efficiency and progress in the art and continued attraction of capital to the enterprise. Id.

The prudent investment theory of gas rate regulation requires determination by District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission of the rate base and of a rate of return on that rate base sufficient to produce adequate revenues above operating expenses, including depreciation, to pay interest on bonds, dividends on stock and maintain financial integrity of the enterprise, and it is essential to inquiry on fair rate of return that there be a study of capital costs of the business, such as service on debt and dividends on stock, in light of returns on other investments in other enterprises having similar risk factor. Id.

3. Gas rates

Commission is without power to fix rates at which gas piped from another State will be supplied to local distributing company. Galloway v. Bell (1926, 11 F. 2d 558, 56 App. D. C. 172).

4. Injunctive relief

Where telephone company, operating in the District, received a letter from U. S. attorney requesting company to discontinue service because phone was used in violation of District gambling statute, an injunction against the United States attorney would be improper because his action was that of the United States. Fay v. Miller (1950, 183 F. 2d 986, 87 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

5. Jurisdiction

Where transit company for the District of Columbia installed radio loudspeakers in its vehicles for radio broadcasts of music and commercial announcements, and on protest of passengers the Public Utilities Commission ordered an investigation and dismissed the investigation by final order which was appealed to the District Court which dismissed the petitions of the passengers on the grounds that no legal rights had been invaded, jurisdiction of the Commission and the District Court was present. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

6. Previously established rates

The legality of past rates cannot be challenged in a gas rate proceeding, and past excessive earnings belong to the gas company and past losses must be borne by the company. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

7. Right to compel furnishing service

Appellant has no positive right to compel the power company to furnish service to him contrary to its own rules and regulations duly approved by the Commission, and the company's right to suspend or discontinue the service in accordance with its notice can neither be controlled nor restrained. Lewis v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (1933, 64 F. 2d 701, 62 App. D. C. 63).

8. Service

Under the act of Congress applicable to the District of Columbia requiring public utilities to furnish service and facilities reasonably safe and adequate and in all respects just and reasonable, the term "service" is used in its broadest and most inclusive sense. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

9. System rates

Where power company served District of Columbia and parts of Virginia and Maryland and certain interstate consumers, and system-wide method was pursued in determining rates for District of Columbia consumers, such rates would have to be reasonable, just, and non-discriminatory as a part of, or in relation to, system rates contained in schedules for areas and services beyond jurisdiction of Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia so that District consumers would not subsidize non-District consumers or vice versa. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

§ 43-302. Use of equipment of other companies—Application to Commission to require such use in event of disagreement.

Every utility doing business in the District of Columbia having tracks, conduits, subways, poles, wires, switchboards, exchanges, works, or other equipment shall, for a reasonable compensation, permit the use of the same by any other public utility whenever public convenience and necessity require such use, and such use will not result in irreparable injury to the owners or other users of such equipment; nor in any substantial detriment to the service to be rendered by such owners or other users. In case of failure to agree upon such use, or the conditions or compensation for such use, any public utility or any person, firm, copartnership, association, or corporation interested may apply to the commission, and if after investigation the commission shall ascertain that public convenience and necessity require such use and that it would not result in irreparable injury to the owners or other user of such equipment nor in any substantial detriment to the service to be rendered by such owners or other users of such equipment, it shall by order direct that such use be permitted and prescribe the conditions and compensation for such joint use. Such use so ordered shall be permitted and such conditions and compensation so prescribed shall be the lawful conditions and compensation to be observed, followed, and paid, subject to recourse to the courts upon the complaint of any interested party, as hereinafter provided, which provisions, so far as applicable, shall apply to any action arising on such complaint so made. Any such order of the commission may be from time to time revised by the commission upon application of any interested party or upon its own motion after hearing and notice by order in writing. § 43-304. Proposed changes in law to be submitted to Commission—Hearings—Recommendations to Congress.

Whenever any public utility or person shall propose any change in any law relating directly or indirectly to the property or operations of any public utility the said proposed change shall also and at the same time be submitted to the commission, which may take testimony and give a public hearing thereon, and the commission shall recommend such bills as will in its judgment protect the interests of the public and such public utility and transmit the same to the proper committees of the Senate and House of Representatives. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 978, ch. 150, § 8, par. 5.)

§ 43-305. Commission to ascertain cost of construction, replacement value, outstanding stock—Information to be printed in annual report.

The commission shall ascertain, as soon and as nearly as practicable, the amount of money expended in the construction and equipment of every public utility, including the amount of money expended to procure any right of way; also the amount of money it would require to secure the right of way, reconstruct any roadbed, track, depots, cars, conduits, subways, poles, wires, switchboards, exchanges, offices, works, storage plants, power plants, machinery, and any other property or instrument not included in the foregoing enumeration used in or useful to the business of such public utility, and to replace all the physical properties belonging to the public utility. It shall ascertain the outstanding stock, bonds, debentures, and indebtedness, and the amount, respectively, thereof, the date when issued, to whom issued, to whom sold, the price paid in cash, property, or labor therefor, what disposition was made of the proceeds, by whom the indebtedness is held, so far as ascertainable, the amount purporting to be due thereon, the floating indebtedness of the public utility, the credits due the public utility, other property on hand belonging to it, the judicial or other sales of said public utility, its property or franchises, and the amounts purporting to have been paid, and in what manner paid therefor, and the taxes paid thereon. The commission shall also ascertain in detail the gross and net income of the public utility from all sources, the amounts paid for salaries to officers and the wages paid to its employees, and the maximum hours of continuous service required of each class. Whenever the information required by this section is obtained it shall be printed in the annual report of the commission. In making such investigation the commission may avail itself of any information in possession of any department of the government of the United States or of the commissioners of the District of Columbia. 1. In general

The valuation sections of the code are not binding on District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission in gas rate proceedings. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

2. Goodwill

Court when fixing rate base valuation of street railway property on appeal from the Public Utilities Commission could properly include the goodwill of one of the companies that had previously consolidated. Public Utilities Comm. v. Capital Trac. Co. (1927, 17 F. 2d 673, 57 App. D.C. 85).

3. Methods used by commission—In general

The composition of gas rate base is within province of District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, and commission can adopt any method of valuation so long as end result of rate order is not unjust and unreasonable and can even use a method of calculating rates other than the traditional one which depends on the finding of a rate base. *Washington Gas Light Co. v. 4. — Segregation of properties

Where electric power company supplied from the same powerhouse electric current to customers in the District of Columbia and to customers in Maryland and Virginia, the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, in determining whether rates for electric power should be increased, properly treated the business of the company as a single enterprise and refused to segregate properties or allocate costs attributable to the part of the business done in the District of Columbia. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

If part of the business of electric power company is subject to state regulation and part is subject to federal regulation, state, in fixing rates, must segregate properties used in the intrastate business and establish intrastate rates on basis of the segregated properties as a rate base, and costs must be allocated as between intrastate and interstate business, but such segregation is not mandatory if business of company is subject to regulation by two or more states, no part of it being subject to federal supervision. Id.

Normally, the unit for rate-making purposes for electricity is the entire inter-connected operating property of the utility, without regard to geographical subdivisions, though conditions may be such as to require or permit segregation of a smaller unit. Id.

§ 43-306. Property to be valued as of time of evaluation.

The commission shall value the property of every public utility within the District of Columbia actually used and useful for the convenience of the public at the fair value thereof at the time of said valuation. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 978, ch. 150, § 8, par. 7.)

1. In general

The composition of gas rate base is within province of District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, and commission can adopt any method of valuation so long as end result of rate order is not unjust and unreasonable and can even use a method of calculating rates other than the traditional one which depends on the finding of a rate base. *Washington Gas Light Co. v. Where consent decree fixed rate base, established a sliding scale of rates, and provided that if rates yielded more than a certain per cent return, one-half of excess should be used in reduction of future rates, and Public Utilities Commission, after full hearing on proper notice, directed electric company to file new lower rate schedules, the new rate order, which would allow fair return on fair valuation, was not invalid on ground that company had not consented thereto nor on ground that valuation requirements of this section had not been complied with. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1947, 158 F. 2d 521, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 225, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 1303, 331 U.S. 816, 91 L. Ed. 1834).

§ 43-307. Valuation—Notice and hearing—Statement of valuation to be filed.

Before final determination of such value the commission shall, after notice of not less than thirty days to the public utility, hold a public hearing as to such valuation in the manner hereinafter provided for a hearing, which provisions, so far as applicable, shall apply to such hearing. The commission shall, within ten days after such valuation is determined, serve a statement thereof upon the public utility interested, and shall file a like statement with the District Committees in Congress. These rates shall be such as will provide the amounts required over and above the expense of maintenance to keep such property in a state of efficiency corresponding to the progress of the industry. Each public utility shall conform its depreciation accounts to such rates so ascertained and determined by the commission. The commission may make changes in such rates of depreciation from time to time as it may find to be necessary. The commission shall also prescribe rules, regulations, and forms of accounts regarding such depreciation which the public utility is required to carry into effect. The commission shall provide for such depreciation in fixing the rates, tolls, and charges to be paid by the public. All moneys in this fund may be expended in keeping the property of such public utility in repair and good and serviceable condition for the use to which it is devoted, or invested, and, if invested, the income from the investments shall also be carried in the depreciation fund. No such arrangement or device shall be lawful until it shall be found by the commission, after investigation, to be reasonable and just and not inconsistent with the purposes of chapters 1-10 of this title. Such arrangement shall be under the supervision and regulation of the commission. The commission shall ascertain, determine, and order such rates, charges, and regulations, and the duration thereof, as may be necessary to give effect to such arrangement, but the right and power to make such other and further changes in rates, charges, and regulations as the commission may ascertain and determine to be necessary and reasonable, and the right to alter or amend all orders relative thereto, is reserved and vested in the commission notwithstanding any such arrangement and mutual agreement. Emergency Price Control Act 3
Emergency purposes, rates for 4
Previously established rates 5

1. Deposits

Order of Public Utilities Commission which permits deposits in advance from those unable to establish financial responsibility was not discriminatory. Riegel v. Public Utilities Comm. (1931, 48 F. 2d 1023, 60 App. D. C. 111).

2. Emergency Fleet Corporation

The Emergency Fleet Corporation, although organized as a private corporation under District of Columbia laws, is entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the Post Roads Act of 1866 giving it special rates for telegraph service. United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1928, 48 S. Ct. 198, 275 U. S. 415, 72 L. Ed. 345).

3. Emergency Price Control Act

In determining whether power of Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia to regulate utility rates had been restricted by amendment to Emergency Price Control Act, former section 901 et seq. and section 961 of title 50 U. S. Code App., the purpose of said act and amendment were required to be considered. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

On application of gas company to Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia for a rate increase in accordance with a sliding scale arrangement entered into in 1935, Commission should afford president's representatives the opportunity to intervene pursuant to amendment to Emergency Price Control Act, former section 901 et seq. and section 961 of title 50 U. S. Code App., and grant them opportunity to fully test the inflationary trend, if any, which proposed increase in rates might portend. Byrnes v. Flanagan (1943, 48 F. Supp. 703).

Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia could not proceed on application of gas company for a rate increase in accordance with a sliding scale arrangement entered into in 1935 alone, in face of amendment to Emergency Price Control Act, former section 901 et seq. and section 961 of title 50 U. S. Code App., requiring public utilities seeking general increase in their rates which were in effect on September 15, 1942, to first give 30 days' notice to president, or such agency as he may designate, and consent to timely intervention by such agency before the federal, state or municipal authority having jurisdiction to consider such increase. Id.

4. Emergency purposes, rates for

If gas rates are to be granted for emergency purposes in a summary proceeding before the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission, provision should be made for adjustment of subsequent rates, as under the sliding scale arrangement, if upon a statutory full rate hearing it should be found that the emergency rates had produced either excessive or inadequate returns. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

5. Previously established rates

District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission not inquiring into issues necessary to determination of fair rate of return in gas rate proceeding could not rely on finding in some prior rate proceeding that six percent was fair rate of return, where risk factor had been materially reduced in recent years and pertinent local conditions and economic factors had not remained static. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

§ 43-318. Utilities to furnish accounts and reports—Information to be included.

Each public utility shall furnish to the commission in such form and at such times as the commission shall require, such accounts, reports, and information as shall show in itemized detail: Depreciation; salaries and wages; legal expenses; taxes and rentals; quantity and value of material used; receipts from residuals, by-products, services, or other sales; total and net costs; net and gross profits; dividends and interest; surplus or reserve; prices paid by consumers; and in addition such other items, whether of a nature similar to those hereinbefore enumerated or otherwise, as the commission may prescribe, in order to show completely and in detail the entire operation of the public utility in furnishing its product or service to the public. § 43-319. Annual report of Commission.

The commission shall publish annual reports showing its proceedings relating to all the public utilities of each kind in the District of Columbia, and such other occasional reports as it may deem advisable. The commission shall also publish in its annual reports the value of all property actually used and useful for the convenience of the public, of every public utility as to whose rates, charges, service, or regulations any hearing has been held by the commission or the value of whose property has been ascertained by it under the provisions of chapters 1-10 of this title. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 980, ch. 150, § 8, par. 20.)

§ 43-320. Commission to fix adequate and serviceable standards—Regulations for testing products, service, and meters.

The commission shall ascertain and fix adequate and serviceable standards for the measurement of quality, pressure, initial voltage, or other condition pertaining to the supply of the product or service rendered by any public utility, and prescribe reasonable regulations for examining and testing such product or service and for the measurement thereof. It shall establish reasonable rules, regulations, specifications, and standards to secure the accuracy of all meters and appliances for measurements, and every public utility is required to carry into effect all orders issued by the commission relative thereto. The commission shall provide for the examination and testing of any and all appliances used for the measuring of any product or service of a public utility. Any consumer or user may have any such appliance tested upon payment of the fees fixed by the commission. The commission shall declare and establish reasonable fees to be paid for testing such appliances on the request of the consumers or users, the fee to be paid by the consumer or user at the time of his request, but to be paid by the public utility and repaid to the consumer or user if the appliance be found defective or incorrect to the disadvantage of the consumer or user. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 980, ch. 150, § 8, par. 22.)

§ 43-322. Commission may purchase material and equipment for tests—Entry on premises of utilities for purpose of tests.

The commission may purchase such materials, apparatus, and standard measuring instruments for such examination and tests as it may deem necessary. The commission, its agents, experts, or examiners, shall have power to enter upon any premises occupied by any public utility for the purpose of making the examinations and tests provided for in chapters 1-10 of this title, and to set up and use on such premises any apparatus and appliances and occupy reasonable space therefor. § 43-323. Schedule of rates to be filed—Existing rates to remain in force until changed.

Every public utility shall file with the commission, within a time to be fixed by the commission, schedules, which shall be open to public inspection, showing all rates, tolls, and charges which it has established and which are in force at the time for any service performed by it within the District of Columbia, or for any service in connection therewith or performed by any public utility controlled or operated by it. The rates, tolls, and charges shown on such schedules shall not exceed the rates, tolls, and charges allowed by law on March 4, 1913, and shall be the lawful rates, tolls, and charges within the District of Columbia, and shall remain and be in force until set aside by the commission. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Jurisdiction of commission

Limitations upon the commission forbid any attempt at regulation by it of the manner or price at which gas shall be delivered by a Maryland company to its consumers. Galloway v. Bell (1926, 11 F. 2d 558, 56 App. D.C. 172).

(Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 981, ch. 150, § 8, par. 27.)

§ 43-327. Change in schedule—Notice.

No change shall be made in any schedule, including schedules of joint rates, except upon ten days' notice to the commission, and all such changes shall be plainly indicated upon existing schedules, or by filing new schedules in lieu thereof ten days prior to the time the same are to take effect: Provided,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Jurisdictional lines 5
- Power to fix rates 6
- Prudent investment theory 7
- Rate base 8

1. Burden of proof

In proceeding by power company, which served District of Columbia and parts of Virginia and Maryland and certain interstate consumers, and which was also subject to regulation by other commissions, including Federal Power Commission, before Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia for rate increase, wherein power company's customer, a District of Columbia transit company, intervened as an interested party, burden upon customer to sustain its attack upon order granting rate increases was carried where findings rationally manifesting the method used in determining the rates, essential to adequate review, were lacking. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

2. Discretion of commission

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safeguarded. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

In public utility rate proceeding, Public Utility Commission's refusal of demand of intervening Price Administrator that thoroughgoing examination be made into rate base, rate of return, operating expenses, depreciation, and all other matters relative to establishment of fair return was not an abuse of discretion. Washington Gas Light

Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

Ordinarily, in determining electric power rate, question whether smaller unit of electric power should be used as a basis for rate making is a matter of discretion for the regulatory agency. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

Bus and street car transportation between points in the District of Columbia and points on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, which operations were performed within territorial limits of the District of Columbia municipal zone and involved intrastate transportation subject to regulation by the Commissions of Virginia and the District of Columbia, was not "interurban" but "urban transportation," and, as such, it was not within jurisdiction of Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate fares for such transportation. Capital Transit Co. v. U. S. (1944, 55 F. Supp. 51).

3. Evidence

Evidence sustained orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

4. Hearing, sufficiency of Record showed that the Director of Economic Stabilization and the Administrator of the Office of Price Administration of the United States as interveners in a rate proceeding before the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia were offered every opportunity for a full hearing. Vinson v. Washington Gas Light Co. (1944, 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

The District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission's statement that return of less than four per cent was inadequate to maintain gas company in sound financial condition was insufficient to support commission's conclusion that gas rates were reasonable, just and nondiscriminatory, where the commission adopted prudent investment theory of rate regulation but did not subject issue of rate of return to inquiry at the hearing. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

5. Jurisdictional lines

Where problem of determining rate for power company lies across jurisdictional lines and is not solved by the permissible formulae of allocating, as between jurisdictions, either properties, costs, and revenues, or costs and revenues, method which is adopted must be rationally manifested in findings and conclusions, the findings grounded in evidence and the conclusions grounded in evidence and reasoning, which enable the court to support the rates for one jurisdiction alone. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

Where areas served by power company are found to be substantially the same with respect to all features bearing upon reasonableness of power company's rate, and areas are shown to be intimately bound together, there is not any occasion to separate costs and revenues of power company according to jurisdictional lines, but evidence and findings must bring the situation within such tests if such tests are to apply. Id.

6. Power to fix rates

The power to fix public utility rates is a legislative power which has been delegated by Congress to Public Utility Commission of District of Columbia, and in its exercise, within constitutional limits, discretion of commission may not be controlled even by courts. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

The Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, former section 901 et seq. of title 50 U. S. Code App., and the Inflation Control Act of 1942, former section 961 et seq. of title 50 U. S. Code App., did not limit powers conferred by law on regulatory commissions over utility rates nor prohibit such commissions from permitting any increase in utility rates which were not shown to be necessary to prevent actual hardship, nor endow a different federal agency with new and superior rights and powers over utility rates. Vinson v. Washington Gas Light Co. (1944, 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

7. Prudent investment theory

A commission, in reaching decision concerning reasonable rate of return for power company under the prudent investment theory of rate regulation, must make findings upon underlying issues of return necessary to service company's outstanding funded debt and its preferred stock, return necessary to attract investors in common stock, and return on funded debts, preferred stock, and common stock of other public utilities having a risk factor similar to that of the company, and upon issue whether local conditions, economic conditions generally, and risk factor have remained static since determination of rate of return in a previous proceeding involving the company. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

8. Rate base

Where power company served District of Columbia and parts of Virginia and Maryland and certain interstate consumers, ascertainment of rate base on basis of system-wide operations of the well integrated power company without allocation of its properties, costs, or revenues to the different jurisdictions served was not illegal in itself nor upon facts peculiar to power company's case. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

In aid of process of rate making within jurisdiction of Public Utility Commission of the District of Columbia, Commission may make findings upon evidence concerning conditions and events beyond its regulatory jurisdiction if such conditions and events are thought to affect rates to be determined by Commission. Id.

Where electric power company supplied from the same powerhouse electric current to customers in the District of Columbia and to customers in Maryland and Virginia, the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, in determining whether rates for electric power should be increased, properly treated the business of the company as a single enterprise and refused to segregate properties or allocate costs attributable to the part of the business done in the District of Columbia. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

9. Reconsideration after intervention

Record showed that Director of Economic Stabilization and Administrator of the Office of Price Administration as interveners in a rate proceeding before the Public Utilities Commission in the District of Columbia requested the reconsideration of the basic principle of sliding scale arrangement and demanded the suspension of the sliding scale and re-examination of its basis in a complete investigation of all the elements that entered into the determination of a utility rate by a regulatory body and that such demands were properly denied. Vinson v. Washington Gas Light Co. (1944, 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

§ 43-402. Commission may adopt rules and regulations.

The commission shall have power to adopt reasonable and proper rules and regulations relative to all inspections, tests, audits, and investigations, and to adopt and publish reasonable and proper rules to govern its proceedings and to regulate the mode and manner of all investigations and hearings of public utilities and other parties before it. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 982, ch. 150, § 8, par. 32.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Federal laws, scope of 1
Intervention, effect of 2

1. Federal laws, scope of

The right conferred on Price Administrator to intervene in public utility rate proceeding does not include the power to compel the regulatory party to undertake a complete investigation against its better judgment or upon lines contrary to governing statute. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

2. Intervention, effect of

The intervention of the Director of Economic Stabilization and Administrator of Office of Price Administration in rate proceeding before the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia was in subordination to Commission's standing rule that intervention should not change or enlarge the issues. Vinson v. Washington Gas Light Co. (1944, 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

§ 43-403. Commission to keep informed as to conduct of business—May obtain from utilities all necessary information.

The commission shall keep itself informed as to the manner and method in which the business of all public utilities is conducted, and shall have the right to obtain from any public utility all necessary information to enable the commission to perform its duties. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 982, ch. 150, § 8, par. 33.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 43-404. Inspection of books and examination of officers of utilities.

The commission or any commissioner or any person or persons employed by the commission for that purpose shall, upon demand, have the right to inspect the books, accounts, papers, records, and memoranda of any public utility, and to examine, under oath, any officer, agent, or employee of such public utility in relation to its business and affairs. Any person other than one of said commissioners who shall make such demand shall produce his authority to make such inspection or examination. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 982, ch. 150, § 8, par. 34.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Similar provisions, see § 43-314 et seq.

§ 43-405. Production of records of utilities compellable by summons—Attendance of witnesses—Duties of United States attorney and corporation counsel.

The commission may require, by order or subpoena, to be served upon any public utility in the same manner that a summons is served in a civil action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, the production within the District of Columbia at such time and place as it may designate of any books, accounts, papers, or records kept by such public utility in any office or place without the District of Columbia, or verified copies in lieu thereof, if the commission shall so order, in order that an examination thereof may be made by the commission under its direction. Any public utility failing or refusing to comply with any order or subpoena shall for each day it shall so fail or refuse forfeit and pay to the District of Columbia the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action to be brought in the name of said District.

Attendance of witnesses and the production of such documentary evidence may be required from any place in the United States. And in case of disobedience to a subpoena the commission, or any party to a proceeding before the commission may invoke the aid of any court of the United States or the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, and documents under the provisions of this section. And the said commission is hereby given power to call on any United States attorney, the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia or any counsel of the commission to enforce the provisions of chapters 1-10 of this title in the proper courts of the United States, and on such call it shall be the duty of the said United States attorney, corporation counsel, or any counsel of the commission, upon request of said commission, to enforce the provisions of this section, the cost and expenses incurred to be paid out of the appropriations for the expenses of the courts of the United States. The commission may conduct any number of such investigations contemporaneously through different agents, and may delegate to such agent or agents the taking of all testimony bearing upon any investigation or hearing. The decision of the commission shall be based upon its examination of all testimony and records. The recommendations made by such agents shall be advisory only, and shall not preclude the taking of further testimony, if the commission so order, nor further investigation. Every public utility shall furnish to the commission all information required by it to carry into effect the provisions of chapters 1-10 of this title, and shall make specific answers to all specific questions submitted by the commission. Any public utility receiving from the commission any blanks with directions to fill the same shall cause the same to be properly filled out so as to answer, fully and correctly, each question therein propounded, and in case it is unable to answer any question it shall give a good and sufficient reason for such failure; and said answer shall be verified under oath by the president, secretary, superintendent, or general manager of such public utility, and returned to the commission at its office within the period fixed by the commission. Whenever required by the commission, every public utility shall deliver to the commission any or all maps, profiles, contracts, reports of engineers, and all documents, books, accounts, papers, and records, or copies of any or all of the same, with a complete inventory of all its property, in such form as the commission may direct. § 43-408. Commission may investigate unjust discriminatory rates, schedules, or services—No order to be entered without formal hearing.

Upon its own initiative or upon reasonable complaint made against any public utility that any of the rates, tolls, charges, or schedules, or services, or time and conditions of payment, or any joint rate or rates, schedules, or services, are in any respect unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, or that any time schedule, regulation, or act whatsoever affecting or relating to the conduct of any street railway or common carrier, or the production, transmission, delivery, or furnishing of heat, light, water, or power, or any service in connection therewith, or the conveyance of any telegraph or telephone message, or any service in connection therewith, is in any respect unreasonable, insufficient, or unjustly discriminatory, or that any service is inadequate or can not be obtained, the commission may, in its discretion, proceed, with or without notice, to make such investigation as it may deem necessary or convenient. But no order affecting said rates, tolls, charges, schedules, regulations, or act complained of shall be entered by the commission without a formal hearing. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrative remedy 2
Federal laws, scope of 3
Findings of commission 4
Legislative intent 5
Public opinion surveys 6
Scope of review 7

1. In general

It was within statutory authority of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia to prohibit or to permit and regulate the receipt and amplification of transit radio programs on streetcars and busses under such conditions that total utility service would not be unsafe, uncomfortable or inconvenient. Public Utilities Commission v. Pollak (1952, 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451 96 L. Ed. 1068).

2. Administrative remedy

Where suit by transit company against carrier to obtain injunction against certain competitive bus operations alleged to be illegal, presented both judicial and administrative questions, but administrative action might be determinative of entire controversy, transit company would be required to exhaust its available administrative remedies before seeking injunctive relief. Capital Transit Co. v. Safeway Trails, Inc. (1953, 201 F. 2d 708, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 20).

3. Federal laws, scope of

The right conferred on Price Administrator to intervene in public utility rate proceeding does not include the power to compel the regulatory party to undertake a complete investigation against its better judgment or upon lines contrary to governing statute. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U.S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

4. Findings of commission

Where Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia conducted investigation of transit radio service on busses and streetcars in accordance with prescribed statutory procedure and found that radio reception was not an obstacle to safety of operation, that public comfort and convenience were not impaired and that in fact the creation of better will among passengers tended to improve conditions under which the public rode, concluding that such installation and use were not inconsistent with public convenience, comfort and safety, Board was within its discretion in dismissing investigation. Public Utilities Commission v. Pollak (1952, 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

5. Legislative intent

It is not contemplated that any resident of the District, feeling himself aggrieved, may rush into the courts without first submitting his case to the Public Utilities Commission, whose duty it is primarily to hear and adjust and, if possible, finally dispose of such complaints. Hollis v. Kutz (1920, 265 F. 451, 49 App. D. C. 301).

6. Public opinion surveys

In proceeding by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia to determine whether installation and use of radio receivers in streetcars and busses were consistent with public convenience, comfort and safety, weight to be attached to public opinion surveys was a proper matter for determination by the Commission. Public Utilities Commission v. Pollak (1952, 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

7. Scope of review

In proceeding by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia to determine whether installation and use of radio receivers in streetcars and busses were consistent with public convenience, comfort and safety, courts on review were expressly restricted to facts found by Commission insofar as those findings did not appear to be unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious. Public Utilities Commission v. Pollak (1952, 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

§ 43-409. Commission to notify utility of complaints.

The commission shall prior to such formal hearing notify the public utility complained of that a complaint has been made, and ten days after such notice has been given the commission may proceed to set a time and place for a hearing and an investigation as hereinafter provided. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 983, ch. 150, § 8, par. 39.)

§ 43-410. Notice as to hearings—Compulsory attendance of witnesses.

The commission shall give the public utility and the complainant, if any, ten days' notice of the time and place when and where such hearing and investigation will be held and such matters considered and determined. Both the public utility and complainant shall be entitled to be heard and shall have process to enforce the attendance of witnesses. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 983, ch. 150, § 8, par. 40.)

§ 43-411. Reasonable rates may be ordered—Notice to be given utility affected thereby.

If upon such investigation the rates, tolls, charges, schedules, or joint rates shall be found to be unjust, unreasonable, insufficient, or unjustly discriminatory, or to be preferential or otherwise in violation of any of the provisions of chapters 1-10 of this title, the commission shall have power to determine and by order fix and order to be substituted therefor such rate or rates, tolls, charges, or schedules as shall be just and reasonable. If upon such investigation it shall be found that any regulation, time schedule, act, or service complained of is unjust, unreasonable, insufficient, preferential, unjustly discriminatory, or otherwise in violation of any of the provisions of this section, or if it be found that reasonable service is not supplied, the commission shall have power to determine and substitute therefor such other regulations, time schedules, service, or acts and to make such orders respecting and such changes in such regulations, time schedules, service, or acts as shall be just and reasonable. And upon any investigation for the purpose of determining upon and requiring any reasonable extension or extensions of lines or of service that shall promise to be compensatory within a reasonable time, the commission shall have power to fix, determine, and require every such extension or extensions to be made and the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be made: Provided, That no hearing shall be had and no order shall be made respecting such extension or extensions, without notice to the public utility affected thereby, as provided in section 43-410. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 983, ch. 150, § 8, par. 41.)

Constitutionality 1
Cost of stock capital 2
Determination of rates 3
Extensions 4
Findings 5
Hearing, sufficiency of 6
Increase in rate 7
Reasonableness of rates 8

1. Constitutionality

The constitutional rights of private consumers of gas are not invaded by rates established by the Public Utilities Commission at a higher rate than is charged to the Government. Hollis v. Kutz (1921, 41 S. Ct. 371, 255 U. S. 452, 65 L. Ed. 727).

2. Cost of stock capital

In proceedings before Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia relating to fixing gas rates, question before Commission was what constitutes a reasonable allowance based on cost of common stock capital, and by "cost of capital" is meant interest charges and enough more to attract capital to the company and to maintain its credit. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1944, 55 F. Supp. 627).

3. Determination of rates

Where power company's rates in District of Columbia are arrived at by formulating schedules on system-wide basis, extending into other jurisdictions, rates must be supported also by findings of similar conditions pertinent to rate-fixing where the other rates are similar or, where other rates are different, by findings of other relevant economic conditions which justify, on a rational basis, the District rates in relation to the other rates, and, if this can not be done, it would seem necessary to resort to allocation. Capital Transit Co. v. Public Utilities Commission et al. (1954, 213 F. 2d 176, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 194, certiorari denied 75 S. Ct. 25, 348 U. S. 816, 99 L. Ed. 643).

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safeguarded. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

Where electric power company supplied from the same powerhouse electric current to customers in the District of Columbia and to customers in Maryland and Virginia, the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, in determining whether rates for electric power should be increased, properly treated the business of the company as a single enterprise and refused to segregate properties or allocate costs attributable to the part of the business done in the District of Columbia. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

4. Extensions

A motor lines company which operated bus lines under routes the effect of which was to provide direct passenger service to downtown Washington, D. C., or by connecting carrier to any part of Washington, D. C., was entitled to such notice of hearing conducted by Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia, relative to whether routes of another bus company operating in area should be extended, as would afford such motor lines reasonable opportunity to protect any of its interests which might be involved, and mere presence of employee of motor lines at such hearing did not meet requirement of reasonable notice, nor did posting of notice in District building. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

5. Findings

Whatever formula is adopted by District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission for gas rate purposes, the commission's findings must be based on substantial evidence in the record. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

6. Hearing, sufficiency of

The District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission's statement that return of less than four per cent was inadequate to maintain gas company in sound financial condition was insufficient to support commission's conclusion that gas rates were reasonable, just and non-discriminatory, where the commission adopted prudent investment theory of rate regulation but did not subject issue of rate of return to inquiry at the hearing. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

7. Increase in rates

Evidence sustained orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

8. Reasonableness of rates

Gas rates fixed by Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia, to be valid, must enable company to operate successfully, to maintain its financial integrity to attract capital, and to compensate its investors for risks assumed. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1944, 55 F. Supp. 627).

§ 43-412. Expenses of investigation or revaluation to be borne by utility—Deposit for costs—Limitation of expenditures in rate and revaluation hearings.

The expenses of any investigation, valuation, revaluation, or proceeding of any nature by the Public Utilities Commission of or concerning any public utility operating in the District of Columbia, and all expenses of any litigation, including appeals, arising from any such investigation, valuation, revaluation, or proceeding, or from any order or action of the said commission, shall be borne by the public utility investigated, valued, revalued, or otherwise affected as a special franchise tax in addition to all other taxes imposed by law, and such expenses with interest at 6 per centum per annum may be charged to operating expenses and amortized over such period as the Public Utilities Commission shall deem proper and be allowed for in the rates to be charged by such utility. When any such investigation, valuation, revaluation, or other proceeding is begun the said Public Utilities Commission may call upon the utility in question for the deposit of such reasonable sum or sums as in the opinion of said commission, it may deem necessary from time to time until the said proceeding or the litigation arising therefrom is completed, the money so paid to be deposited in the treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation account known as "miscellaneous trust fund deposit, District of Columbia" and to be disbursed in the manner provided for by law for other expenditures of the government of the District of Columbia, for such purposes as may be approved by the Public Utilities Commission. Any unexpended balance of such sum or sums so deposited shall be returned to the utility depositing the same: Provided, That the amount expended by the commission in any valuation or rate case shall not exceed one-half of 1 per centum of the existing valuation of the company investigated, and that the amount expended in all other investigations shall not exceed one-tenth of 1 per centum of the existing valuation for any one company for any one year. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 42; Mar. 3, 1927, 44 Stat. 1351, ch. 304; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 884, ch. 742, § 3.)

CODIFICATION

Act Aug. 27, 1935, consolidated paragraphs 42 and 42a of act Mar. 4, 1913, and redesignated them as paragraph 42.

AMENDMENT

1935—Act Aug. 27, 1935, added the following: "and all expenses of any litigation, including appeals, arising from any such investigation, valuation, revaluation, or proceeding, or from any order or action of the said commission," in the first sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Payment of expenses

Later statute requiring utility to bear expenses of investigation or revaluation by Public Utilities Commission prevails over a previous statute which requires a utility to pay expenses only where utility is at fault. Washington R. & Elec. Co. v. District of Columbia (1935, 77 F. 2d 366, 64 App. D. C. 243).

§ 43-413. Separate hearings on complaints—Complaints not to be dismissed because of absence of direct damage.

The commission may, in its discretion, when complaint is made of more than one rate or charge, order separate hearings thereon, and may consider and determine the several matters complained of separately and at such times as it may prescribe. No complaint shall of necessity at any time be dismissed because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 43.)

§ 43-414. Summary investigation.

Whenever the commission shall believe that any rate or charge may be unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, or that any reasonable service is not supplied, or that an investigation of any matter relating to any public utility should for any reason be made, it may, on its own motion, summarily investigate the same with or without notice. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 44.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Where suit by transit company against carrier to obtain injunction against certain competitive bus operations alleged to be illegal, presented both judicial and administrative questions, but administrative action might be determinative of entire controversy, transit company would be required to exhaust its available administrative remedies before seeking injunctive relief. Capital Transit Co. v. Safeway Trails, Inc. (1953, 201 F. 2d 708, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 20).

§ 43-415. Hearings after summary investigation.

Ten days after such notice has been given the commission may proceed to set a time and place for a hearing and an investigation as hereinbefore provided. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 45.)

Notice of the time and place for such hearing shall be given to the public utility and to such other interested persons as the commission shall deem necessary, as provided in section 43-410, and thereafter proceedings shall be had and conducted in reference to the matter investigated in like manner as though complaint had been filed with the commission relative to the matter investigated, and the same order or orders may be made in reference thereto as if such investigation had been made on complaint. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 46.)

§ 43-417. Utility may make complaint.

Any public utility may make complaint as to any matter affecting its own product or service with like effect as though made by the commissioner or upon reasonable complaint as hereinbefore provided. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 984, ch. 150, § 8, par. 47.)

§ 43-703. Rates to be in force and to be prima facie reasonable.

All rates, tolls, charges, time and condition of payment thereof, schedules, and joint rates fixed by the commission shall be in force and shall be prima facie reasonable until finally found otherwise in an action brought for that purpose. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 988, ch. 150, § 8, par. 63.)

§ 43-704. Application to District Court for instructions—Application for reconsideration.

If at any time the commission shall be in doubt of the elements of value to be by them considered in arriving at the true valuation under the provisions of chapters 1-10 of this title, they are authorized and empowered to institute a proceeding in equity in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia petitioning said court to instruct them as to the element or elements of value to be by them considered as aforesaid, and the particular utility under valuation at the time shall be made party defendant in said action.

Any public utility or any other person or corporation affected by any final order or decision of the commission may, within thirty days after the publication thereof, file with the commission an application in writing requesting a reconsideration of the matters involved, and stating specifically the errors claimed as grounds for such reconsideration. No public utility or other person or corporation shall in any court urge or rely on any ground not so set forth in said application. The commission, within thirty days after the filing of such application, shall either grant or deny it. Failure by the commission to act upon such application within such period shall be deemed a denial thereof. If such application be granted, the commission, after giving notice thereof to all interested parties, shall, either with or without hearing, rescind, modify, or affirm its order or decision. The filing of such an application shall act as a stay upon the execution of the order or decision of the Commission until the final action of the Commission upon the application: Provided, That upon written consent of the utility such order or decision shall not be stayed unless otherwise ordered by the Commission. No appeal shall lie from any order of the Commission unless an application for reconsideration shall have been first made and determined. AMENDMENT

1935—Act Aug. 27, 1935, amended section generally, and among other changes, eliminated provisions for commencement of proceedings in equity in Supreme Court of District by persons dissatisfied with orders or decisions of the commission, preference of such actions over any other civil action, appeal from decisions of court, suspension by commission of decision or order pending appeal, prohibition of taxation of costs against commission and liability for damage, loss, or injury, and substituted therefore provisions for filing application in writing with commission requesting reconsideration of final order or decision, such filing to act as stay of order or decision until final action of commission upon the application, and determination of application as prerequisite to appeal.

Provisions for appeal, prohibition against taxation of costs and for liability of commission for damage or injury, and precedence of cases are contained in section 43-705.

1. Agreement not to resell product

Utility may require agreement from user not to remeter and resell current. Lewis v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (1933, 64 F. 2d 701, 62 App. D. C. 63).

2. Application or petition for reconsideration

Petition of motor lines company which operated bus lines under routes the effect of which was to provide direct passenger service to downtown Washington, D. C., or by connecting carrier to any part of Washington, D. C., for reconsideration by Public Utilities Commission of order which extended lines of another bus company which operated in area, was sufficient to comply with section of District Code permitting public utility affected by order of Commission to apply for reconsideration, as against contention that petition was insufficient and that therefore motor lines had not exhausted administrative remedies and could not seek relief in court. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

Where first order of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia in proceedings for increase of rates for electric power was in effect an interlocutory order formulating merely principles on which new rate schedules should be prescribed, and second order prescribing actual rates was the final order, petition for reconsideration filed within 30 days of second order, though not filed within 30 days of first order, sufficiently complied with statutory requirement that in order to be qualified to appeal from an order of the commission party claiming to be aggrieved must make an application to commission for reconsideration within 30 days after publication of its final order or decision. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

3. Complaint and hearing

A formal complaint and hearing before the Commission are not necessary conditions precedent to a suit in equity. Hollis v. Kutz (1921, 41 S. Ct. 371, 255 U. S. 452, 65 L. Ed. 727).

4. Costs on appeal

Appeal taken by the Public Utilities Commission from the order of the District Court of the United States for the District in a rate case was an administrative proceeding and the costs of printing the record and the brief of the Commission upon the appeal were expenses of the proceeding, although the appeal wherein these expenses were incurred was dismissed as a result of changed conditions. Washington R. & Elec. Co. v. District of Columbia (1935, 77 F. 2d 366, 64 App. D. C. 243).

5. Exhaustion of administrative remedy

Petition of motor lines company which operated bus lines under routes the effect of which was to provide direct passenger service to downtown Washington, D. C., or by connecting carrier to any part of Washington, D. C., for reconsideration by Public Utilities Commission of order which extended lines of another bus company which operated in area, was sufficient to comply with this section permitting public utility affected by order of Commission to apply for reconsideration, as against contention that petition was insufficient and that therefore motor lines had not exhausted administrative remedies and could not seek relief in court. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

6. Legislative intent

Congress intended that the court shall revise the legislative discretion of the Commission by considering the evidence and full record of the case and entering the order it deems the Commission ought to have made. Keller v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (1923, 43 S. Ct. 445, 261 U. S. 428, 67 L. Ed. 731).

§ 43-705. Appeal to District Court from certain orders—Precedence over other civil causes—Proceeding when additional evidence proper—Statement to accompany decision—Subsequent appeals—Commission not liable for costs or damages.

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine any appeal from an order or decision of the Commission. Any public utility or any other person or corporation affected by any final order or decision of the Commission, other than an order fixing or determining the value of the property of a public utility in a proceeding solely for that purpose, may, within sixty days after final action by the Commission upon the petition for reconsideration, file with the clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia a petition of appeal setting forth the reasons for such appeal and the relief sought; at the same time such appellant shall file with the Commission notice in writing of the appeal together with a copy of the petition. Within twenty days of the receipt of such notice of appeal the Commission shall file with the clerk of the said court the record, including a transcript of all proceedings had and testimony taken before the Commission, duly certified, upon which the said order or decision of the Commission was based, together with a statement of its findings of fact and conclusions upon the said record, and a copy of the application for reconsideration and the orders entered thereon: Provided, That the parties, with the consent and approval of the Commission, may stipulate in writing that only certain portions of the record be transcribed and transmitted. Within this period the Commission or any other interested party shall answer, demur, or otherwise move or plead. Thereupon the appeal shall be at issue and ready for hearing. All such proceedings shall have precedence over any civil cause of a different nature pending in said court, and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall always be deemed open for the hearing thereof. Any such appeal shall be heard upon the record before the Commission, and no new or additional evidence shall be received by the said court. The said court, or any judge or judges thereof, before whom any such appeal shall be heard, may require and direct the Commission to receive additional evidence upon any subject related to the issues on said appeal concerning which evidence was improperly excluded in the hearing before the Commission or upon which the record may contain no substantial evidence. Upon receipt of such requirement and direction the Commission shall receive such evidence and without unreasonable delay shall transmit to the said court the findings of fact made thereon by the Commission and the conclusions of the Commission upon the said facts.

Upon the conclusion of its hearing of any such appeal the court shall either dismiss the said appeal and affirm the order or decision of the Commission or sustain the appeal and vacate the Commission's order or decision. In either event the court shall accompany its order by a statement of its reasons for its action, and in the case of the vacation of an order or decision of the Commission the statement shall relate the particulars in and the extent to which such order or decision was defective.

Any party, including said Commission, may appeal from the order or decree of said court to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, which shall thereupon have and take jurisdiction in every such appeal. Thereafter the Supreme Court of the United States may, upon a petition for certiorari granted in its discretion, review the said case.

Said Commission shall not, nor shall any of its members, officers, agents, or employees, be taxed with any costs, nor shall they or any of them be required to give any supersedeas bond or security for costs or damages on any appeal whatsoever. Said Commission, or any of its members, officers, agents, or employees, shall not be liable to suit or action or for any judgment or decree for any damages, loss, or injury claimed by any public utility or person, nor required in any case to make any deposit for costs or pay for any service to the clerks of any court or to the marshal of the United States. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 989, ch. 150, § 8, par. 65; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 882, ch. 742, § 2; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32 (a), (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

AMENDMENT

1935—Act Aug. 27, 1935, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section provided: "That every proceeding, action, or suit to set aside, vacate, or amend any determination or order of the Commission, or to enjoin the enforcement thereof, or to prevent in any way any such order or determination from becoming effective shall be commenced, and every appeal to the courts or right of recourse to the courts shall be taken or exercised, within one hundred and twenty [120] days after the entry or rendition of such order or determination, and the right to commence any such action, proceeding, or suit, or to take or exercise any such appeal or right of recourse to the courts, shall terminate absolutely at the end of such one hundred and twenty days."

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia", "judge" for "justice" and "judges" for "justices."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

1. In general

Administrative determinations which are not commands may for all practical purposes determine rights as effectively as the judgment of a court, and may be re-examined by courts under particular statutes providing for the review of "orders". Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

Ordinarily, in determining electric power rate, question whether smaller unit of electric power should be used as a basis for rate making is a matter of discretion for the regulatory agency. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

2. "Affected," definition

Where order of the Public Utilities Commission authorized District of Columbia transit company to use radio loudspeakers in its vehicles, persons who used the services of the transit and intervened before the Commission were "affected by" the Commission's order and could appeal. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

The word "affected", as used in this section was chosen by Congress to expand the privilege of complaint and appeal beyond that contemplated by words it used in other statutes, and beyond the conventional tests used in equity suits seeking restraint of governmental action. U. S. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1945, 151 F. 2d 609, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 227).

3. Application for reconsideration

Where first order of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia in proceedings for increase of rates for electric power was in effect an interlocutory order formulating merely principles on which new rate schedules should be prescribed, and second order prescribing actual rates was the final order, petition for reconsideration filed within 30 days of second order, though not filed within 30 days of first order, sufficiently complied with statutory requirement that in order to be qualified to appeal from an order of the commission party claiming to be aggrieved must make an application to commission for reconsideration within 30 days after publication of its final order or decision. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

4. Burden of proof

Though the burden of proof was upon the party contesting a finding of the Commission, the court must exercise its own judgment where challenged for a mistake of law, failure of evidence or contrary to weight of evidence. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. Public Utilities Comm. (1922, 276 F. 2d 71, 51 App. D. C. 77).

5. Evidence to support findings

When supported by substantial evidence, Public Utilities Commission's choice between two conflicting views will not be disturbed, even though court might justifiably have reached a different conclusion had the matter been before it de novo. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1953, 114 F. Supp. 328, affirmed 206 F. 2d 490).

Evidence sustained orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

Where Public Utilities Commission's witness found that investors' appraisal of return required on common stock capital of gas company was 11.68 percent, and company's witnesses fixed it at 10.98 percent, both exclusive of cost of financing, and earnings-price ratio of companies involved to which Commission's witness testified was 10.54 percent, Commission's action in substituting 9 percent as a reasonable allowance in fixing rates and in amending sliding scale order so as to reduce primary rate of return from 6½ percent to 5¼ percent, was void, as not supported by substantial evidence. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1944, 55 F. Supp. 627).

6. Exhaustion of administrative remedy

Petition of motor lines company which operated bus lines under routes the effect of which was to provide direct passenger service to downtown Washington, D. C., or by connecting carrier to any part of Washington, D. C., for reconsideration by Public Utilities Commission of order which extended lines of another bus company which operated in area, was sufficient to comply with section 43-704 permitting public utility affected by order of Commission to apply for reconsideration, as against contention that petition was insufficient and that therefore motor lines had not exhausted administrative remedies and could not seek relief in court. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

7. Final and conclusive orders

Where each year during which sliding scale arrangement under consent decree had been in effect, electric rates were fixed by an order of Public Utilities Commission, the annual orders became final and conclusive when no person affected thereby availed himself of right of appeal under this section, and therefore the rates so fixed became the legal rates for the periods during which they were to endure, and neither the United States, as a consumer, nor any other party affected thereby could brand them as illegal. U. S. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1947, 158 F. 2d 533, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 237, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 1305, 331 U. S. 816, 91 L. Ed. 1835).

8. Findings of commission

Findings of administrative agency such as Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia, where there is evidence to support them, may not be set aside by court. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

A mere general opinion of Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia in relation to gas rates, unsupported by findings of fact based on substantial evidence is ineffective. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1944, 55 F. Supp. 627).

9. Jurisdiction of courts

Congress may vest in the courts of the District power to review the discretion of a Public Utilities Commission fixing rates for a public service corporation, and enter the order which they deem the commission should have made. Keller v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (1923, 43 S. Ct. 445, 261 U. S. 428, 67 L. Ed. 731).

Where order of the Public Utilities Commission dismissing investigation with respect to radio broadcasts on vehicles of the transit system for the District of Columbia was erroneous as matter of law and the District Court dismissed the petitions of appellants on the ground that no legal right of theirs had been invaded, the Court of Appeals was authorized to vacate the judgment of the District Court with instructions to vacate the Commission's order and remand the case to the Commission for further proceedings, and appellants whose constitutional rights were allegedly invaded, were not required to sue out an injunction under the court's general equity powers, in order to obtain relief. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

10. Nature and scope of appeal

The right of appeal from order of public service commission is statutory in character, and extent of the right in each case depends upon meaning of language used in the statute, and not upon ordinary requirements of injunction suits. U. S. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1945, 151 F. 2d 609, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 227).

If total effect of rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia for electric power cannot be said to be unjust and unreasonable, judicial inquiry is at an end. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

On appeals from orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power, federal District Court could consider whether commission committed any error of law vitiating its orders, whether conclusions were adequately supported by findings of fact, and whether findings of fact were sustained by substantial evidence. Id.

On appeals from orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power, federal District Court could consider whether commission committed any error of law vitiating its orders, whether conclusions were adequately supported by findings of fact, and whether findings of fact were sustained by substantial evidence. Id.

11. Persons affected

Where order of the Public Utilities Commission dismissed its investigation of protests by passengers against use of radio loudspeakers on vehicles of transit company of the District of Columbia and the final decision of the Commission was that the transit company could use loudspeakers in its vehicles, the order was appealable. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

The term "person affected", as used in this section includes a consumer of a public utility company. U. S. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1945, 151 F. 2d 609, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 227).

The United States, as a customer of public utility company, had standing as a "person affected" to prosecute its petition of appeal in the District Court from an order of Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia determining rates which the company could charge for sale of electric energy in District of Columbia. Id.

12. Petitions of appeal

Where appellants' petition of appeal from an order of the Public Utilities Commission permitting use of radio loudspeakers on vehicles of transit system for the District of Columbia, stated that they were obliged to use the vehicles of the system and were thereby subjected against their will to the broadcasts in issue and the appellees moved to dismiss the petitions, allegations of the petitions were admitted. Pollak et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 450, 89 U. S. App. D. C. 94, reversed on other grounds 72 S. Ct. 813, 343 U. S. 451, 96 L. Ed. 1068).

13. Presumption of validity of orders

Orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power carried presumption of validity, and those who would upset the rate orders had heavy burden of making a convincing showing that orders were invalid because unjust and unreasonable. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

14. Record

Order of District Court vacating Public Utility Commission's order granting utility a rate increase could not be reversed on theory that district judge did not have before him record of case before commission where material parts of record were brought to attention of district judge at time of hearing and before his decision was rendered. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Byrnes (1943, 137 F. 2d 547, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 107, affirmed 64 S. Ct. 731, 321 U. S. 489, 88 L. Ed. 883).

15. Validity

A section of the statute providing for review is not rendered wholly void by the inclusion in it of an invalid provision for ultimate appeal to the Supreme Court. Keller v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (1923, 43 S. Ct. 445, 261 U. S. 428, 67 L. Ed. 731).

§ 43-706. Appeal limited to questions of law.

In the determination of any appeal from an order or decision of the Commission the review by the court shall be limited to questions of law, including constitutional questions; and the findings of fact by the Commission shall be conclusive unless it shall appear that such findings of the Commission are unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 989, ch. 150, § 8, par. 66; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 883, ch. 742, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

1935—Act Aug. 27, 1935, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section provided: "That no injunction shall issue suspending or staying any order of the commission, except upon application to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia or a judge thereof, and only upon notice to the commission and after hearing had."

1. In general

The District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission should keep in mind its obligation to facilitate judicial review of its orders and should assemble record and make findings which cover all the relevant issues and should indicate the formula chosen and should make clear the evidentiary support for its findings under whatever formula adopted. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

2. Application for reconsideration

Where first order of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia in proceedings for increase of rates for electric power was in effect an interlocutory order formulating merely principles on which new rate schedules should be prescribed, and second order prescribing actual rates was the final order, petition for reconsideration filed within 30 days of second order, though not filed within 30 days of first order, sufficiently complied with statutory requirement that in order to be qualified to appeal from an order of the commission party claiming to be aggrieved must make an application to commission for reconsideration within 30 days after publication of its final order or decision. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

3. Discretion of commission

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safe-guarded. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

4. Evidence supporting findings

When supported by substantial evidence, Public Utilities Commission's choice between two conflicting views will not be disturbed, even though court might justifiably have reached a different conclusion had the matter been before it de novo. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1953, 114 F. Supp. 328, affirmed 206 F. 2d 490).

Evidence sustained orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

On appeals from orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power, federal District Court could consider whether commission committed any error of law vitiating its orders, whether conclusions were adequately supported by findings of fact, and whether findings of fact were sustained by substantial evidence. Id.

5. Presumption of validity of orders

Orders of the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia increasing rates for electric power carried presumption of validity, and those who would upset the rate orders had heavy burden of making a convincing showing that orders were invalid because unjust and unreasonable. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

6. Rates, computation of

Ordinarily, in determining electric power rate, question whether smaller unit of electric power should be used as a basis for rate making is a matter of discretion for the regulatory agency. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

Normally, the unit for rate-making purposes for electricity is the entire interconnected operating property of the utility, without regard to geographical subdivisions, though conditions may be such as to require or permit segregation of a smaller unit. Id.

7. Reasonableness and justness of rates fixed

If Public Utilities Commission's order providing for increase in rate to be charged by transit company produces no arbitrary results, court's inquiry is at an end. Allied Civic Group, Inc., et al. v. Public Utilities Commission (1955, 125 F. Supp. 453).

If total effect of rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia for electric power cannot be said to be unjust and unreasonable, judicial inquiry is at an end. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

8. Record

On appeal from order of Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia, case is not before court de novo, and court will not consider and review entire record. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1953, 114 F. Supp. 328, affirmed 206 F. 2d 490).

§ 43-707. Orders to remain in force pending appeal—Suspension of order.

All orders and decisions of the Commission shall remain in full effect, except as provided in section 43-704 hereof, unless and until they are suspended, superseded, or rescinded by the Commission or are vacated by lawful order of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia: Provided, That if in any petition made to the said court appealing from an order or decision of the Commission it be alleged that substantial and irreparable property loss would be occasioned to the petitioner by the operation of the said order pending the determination of the said appeal, the court shall set a time and place for hearing upon the said allegation after not less than three days' notice to the Commission (during which period the execution of the order or decision shall be stayed), and the said court may then, upon a clear showing of the irreparable and substantial property loss as alleged, suspend the effective date of the said order. No such suspension shall be for a greater period than sixty days without further order after notice or hearing by the court. In the event of the issuance of an order suspending the operation of any order of the Commission, the court may include therein such provision as it deems advisable for the preservation of records or accounts and the impounding or otherwise securing of moneys necessary to give effect to the order of the Commission in the event the said order is sustained. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 989, ch. 150, § 8, par. 67; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 884, ch. 742, § 2; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Error of law

High profits of electric company and alleged fact that Public Utilities Commission had not been as vigilant as it might have been in driving down the company's rates did not establish an error of law requiring judicial remedy and did not justify retrospectively holding invalid rate schedules authorized by the Commission over a course of many years. U. S. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia (1947, 158 F. 2d 533, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 237, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 1305, 331 U. S. 816, 91 L. Ed. 1835).

The earnings, in percentages, are meaningful only when they are related to electric company's total capital structure which presents a task for the Public Utilities Commission, and federal appellate court should not impose its judgment to effect that earnings were unlawful unless it is clearly shown that the rates which gave rise to the earnings were invalid because they woefully neglected the interests of consumers. Id.

§ 43-708. Certification of question to United States Court of Appeals.

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia, or any judge thereof before whom an appeal from an order of the Commission is pending, may certify to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia any questions or propositions of law concerning which instructions are desired for the proper disposition of the appeal; and thereupon the Court of Appeals may either give binding instructions on the questions and propositions certified or may require that the entire record in the cause be sent up for its consideration, and thereupon shall decide the whole matter in controversy in the same manner as if it had been brought there by writ of error or appeal. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 989, ch. 150, § 8, par. 68; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 884, ch. 742, § 2; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(a), (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

1935—Act Aug. 27, 1935, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section provided: "That if the commission shall rescind its order complained of the proceeding or suit shall be dismissed; if it shall alter, modify, or amend the same, such altered, modified, or amended order shall take the place of the original order complained of and judgment shall be rendered thereon as though made by the commission in the first instance. If the original order shall not be rescinded or changed by the commission, judgment shall be rendered upon such original order, and costs shall be taxed as may be deemed proper under the circumstances."

§ 43-709. Authority of Commission to rescind its order after appeal is filed.

If, after appeal is filed, the Commission shall rescind the order or decision appealed from, the appeal shall be dismissed; if it shall alter, modify, or amend the same, such altered, modified, or amended order or decision shall take the place of the original order and the court shall proceed thereon as though the late order had been made by the Commission in the first instance. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 989, ch. 150, § 8, par. 69; Aug. 27, 1935, 49 Stat. 884, ch. 742, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safeguarded. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U. S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Discretion of commission 1
Rates, computation of 2

1. Discretion of commission

Ordinarily, in determining electric power rate, question whether smaller unit of electric power should be used as a basis for rate making is a matter of discretion for the regulatory agency. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

2. Rates, computation of

Normally, the unit for rate-making purposes for electricity is the entire inter-connected operating property of the utility, without regard to geographical subdivisions, though conditions may be such as to require or permit segregation of a smaller unit. Leeman et al. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1952, 104 F. Supp. 553).

NOTES TO DECISIONS1. Rates, computation of

Whatever formula is adopted by District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission for gas rate purposes, the commission's findings must be based on substantial evidence in the record. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Baker (1951, 188 F. 2d 11, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 115, certiorari denied 71 S. Ct. 571, 340 U.S. 952, 95 L. Ed. 686).

Gas rate making is primarily a legislative process, and District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission is not bound to the use of any single formula or combination of formulae in determining rates so long as result of rate order is not unjust or unreasonable, and commission can formulate its own standards so long as investor interest against confiscation and consumer interest against exorbitant rates are safeguarded. Id.

The new department is to perform sanitary engineering services and operations for the District including water distribution, sanitary, storm and combined sewer systems, sewage treatment, and collection and disposal of waste material. The office of the Water Registrar and the previously existing Department of Sanitary Engineering were abolished and their functions transferred to the new department. This order was issued pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. 5 of 1952. The plan and the order are set out in the Appendix to title 1, Administration.

§ 43-1507. Prevention of water waste.

In order to prevent unnecessary waste of Potomac water, and in order to more fully enforce the laws in relation to the distribution of the same, the Chief of Engineers is authorized, after giving notice, to shut off the water when such notice shall be disregarded from any places where a waste of water is occurring. (R. S., D. C., § 214.)

§ 43-1508. Use of Potomac water for mechanical and manufacturing purposes.

The use of Potomac water for mechanical and manufacturing purposes, or for private fountains, street and pavement washers, shall be allowed only when, in the opinion of the Chief of Engineers, it will not be detrimental to the general distribution of water in the District of Columbia. (R. S., D. C., § 215; Feb. 25, 1885, 23 Stat. 319, ch. 145.)

§ 43-1509. Water supply in large quantities to be determined by meters maintained by consumers.

The supply of water to all manufacturing establishments, hotels, livery-stables, and other places requiring a large quantity, shall be determined by meters erected and maintained at the expense of the consumer. (R. S., D. C., § 216.)

§ 43-1510. Water mains and service sewers erected at discretion of Commissioners—Costs assessed against abutting property.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed, whenever in their judgment the same may be necessary for the public safety, health, comfort, or convenience, to construct water mains and service sewers in any street, avenue, road, or alley in the District of Columbia; and the assessor of said District shall levy assessments for the same against abutting property in the amount and manner hereinafter prescribed. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 244, ch. 1417, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Tort liability of district

District of Columbia has no immunity from consequences of its negligent operation of sewerage department. Scull et al. v. District of Columbia, et al. (1958, 250 F. 2d 767, 102 U. S. App. D. C. 104, certiorari denied 78 S. Ct. 703, 356 U. S. 920, 2 L. Ed. 2d 715).

For tort liability purposes, if installation of water mains was a "governmental" function when performed by District of Columbia, District would not be subject to suit. Id.

§ 43-1511. Assessments for water mains.

For laying or constructing water mains in the District of Columbia assessments shall be levied at the rate of $3 per linear front foot against all lots or land abutting upon that part of the street, avenue, road, or alley in which a water main shall be laid, and that for laying or constructing service sewers in the District of Columbia assessments shall be levied at the rate of $4 per linear front foot against all lots or land abutting upon that part of the street, avenue, road, or alley in which a sewer shall be laid: Provided, That assessments for water mains and service sewers in the case of lots or parcels of land not more than one hundred feet in depth shall be levied upon the fronts or rears of such lots or parcels of land, and not upon both the fronts and rears of such lots or parcels of land; but lots or parcels of land more than one hundred feet in depth, except corner lots, shall be assessed upon both their fronts and rears when water mains or service sewers are laid abutting the same: Provided, That corner lots shall be assessed for water mains and service sewers only on their short fronts with a depth of not exceeding one hundred feet; any excess of the other front over one hundred feet shall be subject to assessment, as hereinbefore provided: Provided, That the areas of all lots or parcels of land which have been assessed for water mains by the square foot under any previous Act of Congress, or of the late legislative assembly of the District of Columbia, shall not be again assessed for water mains: Provided further, That when the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall deem it advantageous to lay water mains or service sewers on each side of any street, avenue, road, or alley assessments shall be levied at the rate, within the time and in the manner in this section provided for, against the lots abutting the side of the street, avenue, road, or alley in which the water main or service sewer is laid. (Aug. 11, 1894, 28 Stat. 275, ch. 253; Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 244, ch. 1417, § 2; Dec. 22, 1927, 45 Stat. 11, ch. 5; July 3, 1930, 46 Stat. 989, ch. 848; June 4, 1934, 48 Stat. 876, ch. 389, § 1; July 16, 1947, 61 Stat. 360, ch. 258; May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 109, ch. 218, §§ 301, 302.)

AMENDMENTS

1954—Act May 18, 1954, amended the first sentence of the section by increasing the rate of assessment for water mains from $1.90 to $3.00 per linear foot, and the rate of assessment for service sewers from $1.50 to $4.00 per linear foot for service sewers and water mains constructed after June 30, 1954.

1947—Act July 16, 1947, fixed the rate of assessment for water mains at $1.90 per linear foot for water mains constructed on or after July 1, 1947.

1934—Act June 4, 1934, fixed the rate of assessment for service sewers at $1.50 per linear foot for sewers constructed on or after July 1, 1934.

1930—Act July 3, 1930, increased rate for water-mains to three dollars per linear foot.

1927—Act Dec. 22, 1927, provided that rates of assessment in effect on June 30, 1927, for laying or constructing water mains and service sewers in the District of Columbia under provisions of act of 1904 should continue in effect during the remainder of the fiscal year 1928 and thereafter.

1904—Act Apr. 22, 1904, amended section generally, and among other changes, included assessments for service sewers as well as water-mains.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Excess of cost, assessment in 1
Frontage rule inapplicable 2
Necessity and benefits of work 3
Powers of Congress 4

1. Excess of cost, assessment in

Assessment exceeding actual cost of the work is not bad where the laying of the main was a part of a water-system and the assessment included a fund to keep the system in efficient repair. Parsons v. District of Columbia (1898, 18 S. Ct. 521, 170 U.S. 45, 42 L. Ed. 943).

2. Frontage rule inapplicable

If the paving of an avenue be treated as an original improvement, converting a highway into a paved city street, its constitutional infirmities are emphasized by reason of the existence of physical conditions forbidding any equal, fair, or equitable application of the frontage rule of taxing benefits, and, if considered as a repair of the avenue, in the form of repaving, its validity must be condemned on theory that it taxes individual property fronting on the improvement for all or fixed portion of the expense, to exemption of all other property in the municipality. Johnson v. Rudolph (1927, 16 F. 2d 525, 57 App. D. C. 29.)

3. Necessity and benefits of work

This act must be deemed conclusive alike of the question of the necessity of the work, and of the benefits as against abutting property; and to open such questions for review by the courts, on the petition of any and every property holder, would create endless confusion; and when questions submitted to Commission, the inquiry becomes in its nature judicial. Parsons v. District of Columbia (1898, 18 S. Ct. 521, 170 U.S. 45, 42 L. Ed. 943). See, also, Wight v. Davidson (1901, 21 S. Ct. 616, 181 U. S. 900, 45 L. Ed. 900):

4. Powers of congress

Congress has the power to provide for assessments in the District of Columbia for the opening of streets. Wight v. Davidson (1901, 21 S. Ct. 616, 181 U. S. 371, 45 L. Ed. 900).

Congress of the United States has the entire control over the District for every purpose of government. Sims v. Rives (1936, 84 F. 2d 871, 66 App. D. C. 24).

§ 43-1511a. Increased rate of assessment for laying mains.

CODIFICATION

Section, act July 16, 1947, 61 Stat. 360, ch. 258, Act V, § 2, which established the rate of assessment for laying or constructing water mains in the District of Columbia, on and after July 1, 1947, at $1.90 per linear foot, is omitted as superseded by section 43-1511.

§ 43-1512. Assessor to give notice of assessments.

The assessor of the District of Columbia shall give notices as herein provided of the levying of assessments for water mains and service sewers. Assessments shall be levied within sixty days after the completion of the main or service sewer, and the owner or owners affected by such assessments shall be notified that the same have been levied by a notice which shall be served upon the owner of the lot or parcel of land if he or she be a resident of the District of Columbia, and his or her residence be known. If the owner be a nonresident or his or her residence be unknown, the notice shall be served on his or her agent or tenant. The service of such notice, where the owner or his or her agent or tenant resides in the District of Columbia, shall be personal or by leaving the same with some person of suitable age, either a member of his family or in his employ, at the residence or place of business of such owner, agent, or tenant; and return of such service, stating the manner thereof, shall be made in writing under oath and filed in the office of the assessor of the District of Columbia. If there be no agent or tenant known to said assessor, and the owner or owners be not residents of the District of Columbia, or if the owner be a resident of the District of Columbia and can not be found therein, and no person of suitable age as aforesaid can be found at his or her residence or place of business, notice shall be given by advertisement once a week for three successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in said District, and in said publication of said notice each several piece of property shall be described in a separate paragraph, and the cost of such advertisement shall be added to the amount of said assessment and collected in the same manner that said assessment is collected. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 245, ch. 1417, § 3.)

§ 43-1513. Water main and service sewer assessments payable in three installments.

Assessments for water mains and service sewers shall be payable in three equal installments, the first of which shall be due and payable without interest within thirty days from date of service of notice or of the last publication of notice as the case may be, the second within one year, and the third within two years from the date of assessment, and interest at the rate of six per centum per annum shall be charged on all amounts which shall remain unpaid at the expiration of thirty days from the date of service of notice or last publication as the case may be; but the owner of the property assessed may, at his option, at any time after the levying of such assessment, pay the same in full: Provided, That if any installment of any assessment for water main or service sewer levied under the provisions of sections 43-1510 to 43-1517, inclusive, shall not be paid when due and payable the property against which said assessment was levied may be sold for said delinquent installment at the next ensuing annual tax sale in the same manner and under the same conditions as property sold for delinquent general taxes, if said installment shall not have been paid prior to said sale. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 245, ch. 1417, § 4.)

§ 43-1514. Assessment of property in county of Washington for water mains and service sewers.

Property in the county of Washington, not subdivided into blocks or lots, or both, shall not be assessed for water mains or service sewers until subdivided: Provided, That where houses are built on any unsubdivided land and connection is made with a water main or service sewer, assessment shall be made as herein provided for in the case of subdivided property by assessing a frontage of fifty feet on each side of said connection with a depth of one hundred feet, except that no double assessment shall be levied; said assessment to be levied within sixty days after said connection is made; and if such unsubdivided land is thereafter subdivided into blocks or lots, such lots shall be assessed as herein provided as to subdivided lands, but the fifty feet on each side of said connection, with a depth of one hundred feet, shall not be again assessed: Provided further, That assessments at the rate and in the manner herein provided for shall be levied against each lot or parcel of land abutting any water main or service sewer in all subdivisions of land, within sixty days after the recording of such subdivision in the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, except in cases where said lots or parcels of land have been previously assessed for the same main or service sewer. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 246, ch. 1417, § 5.)

§ 43-1515. Relevying assessments when assessments declared void.

The assessor of the District of Columbia is hereby authorized and directed in cases where water-main assessments, or assessments for service sewers, may be quashed, canceled, set aside, or declared void by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, or may otherwise be canceled or set aside, by reason of an imperfect or erroneous description of the lot or parcel of ground against which the same shall have been levied, by reason of such tax or assessment not having been authenticated by the proper officer or by reason of a defective return of service of notice, or for any technical reason other than the right of the authorities of the District of Columbia to levy assessment or lay the main or service sewer in respect of which assessment was levied, to relevy such assessment at the rate and in the manner provided for in sections 43-1510 to 43-1517, inclusive: Provided, That such reassessment shall be made within sixty days from date of such cancellation. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 246, ch. 1417, § 7; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

§ 43-1516. Disposal of funds received by collector of taxes.

All sums received by the collector of taxes under the provisions of sections 43-1510 to 43-1517, inclusive, on account of assessments levied for the construction of service sewers shall be credited to the appropriation under which the sewer was constructed for the fiscal year in which such sums shall be received. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 246, ch. 1417, § 8.)

§ 43-1517. Definition—Service sewer.

A service sewer within the meaning of the provisions of sections 43-1510 to 43-1517, inclusive, shall be a sewer with which connection may be directly made for the purpose of providing sewerage facilities to abutting property, and such sewers shall be so indicated on the records of the sewer division of the engineer department of the District of Columbia. (Apr. 22, 1904, 33 Stat. 246, ch. 1417, § 9.)

§ 43-1518. Refund of overpaid assessments.

In all cases where a water-main has heretofore been or may hereafter be laid in a public street or way, and in order to secure the laying of such main the cost or a part thereof has been paid to the District of Columbia prior to the laying of said main by any person or corporation, there shall be repaid from time to time to such person or corporation, out of the collections from the assessment for such main, all of the amounts so paid over and above the assessment chargeable against the land owned or controlled by said person or corporation. (June 2, 1900, 31 Stat. 252, ch. 612, § 2.)

§ 43-1519. Refund of water rents erroneously paid.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to cause all water rents erroneously paid after March 3, 1905, in the District of Columbia to be refunded in the manner prescribed by law for the refunding of erroneously paid taxes: Provided, That application for refund shall be made within two years after such erroneous payment. And after March 3, 1905, the said commissioners are authorized to cause to be refunded in the same manner and subject to the same limitations all money paid for water for any special purpose where the project is abandoned and the water not used, and for tapping water mains and for furnishing stop-cock where the service is not rendered and the material is not furnished; and all money refunded under this section shall be paid from and charged to the water fund. (Mar. 3, 1905, 33 Stat. 912, ch. 1406.)

Refund of taxes and assessments generally, see § 47-1016.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Liability of collector of taxes

Where record showed that protest made upon payment of water bill was handed to water registrar with request that he show protest to commissioners, and there was no showing that collector of taxes took any part in the controversy or committed any of the acts which compelled the payment or that he had any notice that bill was being paid under protest no personal liability rested on collector upon showing that the collection was erroneously made. Farrell v. Ward (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 46).

§ 43-1520. Water rents—Rates.

The following schedule of water rents in the District of Columbia shall be fixed by the commissioners of said District:

For the use of water for domestic purposes through unmetered services, $9.85 per annum for all tenements two stories high, or less, with a front width of sixteen feet, or less; for each additional front foot or fraction thereof greater than one-half, 62 cents; and for each additional story or part thereof, one-third of the charges as computed above. For business places that are not required to install meters under existing regulations, the rates in effect June 30, 1930, to be increased by 40 per centum per annum. For the use of water through metered services, a minimum charge of $8.75 per annum for seven thousand five hundred cubic feet of water, and 7 cents per one hundred cubic feet for water used in excess of that quantity. For water for building construction purposes when not supplied through a meter, 6 cents per one thousand brick and 3 cents per cubic yard of concrete, with a minimum charge of $1 for each separate building project. All water required for purposes which are not covered by the foregoing classifications shall be paid for at such rates as may be fixed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. (July 3, 1930, 46 Stat. 988, ch. 848.)

§ 43-1520a. Increase in water rents.

Water rents charged by the District of Columbia for water used in the District of Columbia on and after July 1, 1947, shall be increased 25 per centum over the rents now in effect. Whenever the application of this increase to an existing rate results in a rate with a fractional part of a cent, the rate shall be, if the fraction be one-half cent or more, the nearest higher amount not containing a fraction, and, if the fraction be less than one-half cent, the nearest lower amount not containing a fraction. In computing the rent for the consumption of water in excess of the minimum amount allowed by law for metered service, if the rent is charged for a period beginning prior to July 1, 1947, and ending thereafter, the rent for such excess consumption shall be prorated. (July 16, 1947, 61 Stat. 360, ch. 258, Art. V, § 1.)

§ 43-1520b. Additional charge on unpaid water bills.

CODIFICATION

§ 43-1520c. Commissioners to have authority to fix water rates.

The Commissioners are authorized, in their discretion, to fix from time to time, the rates charged by the District for water and water services furnished by the District water supply system. Such rates so fixed, whether involving one or more changes in rate, or one or more changes in the basic quantity of water to be supplied at a given rate, or the combined effect of both such changes, shall not, in any event, result in increasing by more than 33⅓ per centum the rates in effect on the day preceding the effective date of this section. In computing the charge for the consumption of water in excess of the minimum amount allowed for metered service, if such charge is for a period beginning prior to so fixing such rates and ending thereafter, the charge for such excess consumption shall be prorated on a monthly basis, in accordance with the rates prevailing in the respective periods. Nothing in this title shall be construed to modify the provisions of section 43-1530 relating to the delivery of water from the District water supply system to the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 101, ch. 218, title I, § 101.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Date of liability 1

Prior tenant 2
Purchaser 3
Scope of official duties 4

1. Date of liability

Where plaintiff was highest bidder at a foreclosure sale of realty under a deed of trust, plaintiff became owner as of date of sale and not as of date of delivery of deed for purposes of determining when plaintiff should give notice to Water Registrar of District of Columbia of purchase of such property. Urciolo v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 909).

2. Liability of prior tenant

A tenant, who became secondarily liable for water bill which accrued during prior tenancy by his failure to give written notice of acquiring control of premises within five days thereof as required by this section and order issued by Commissioners of District of Columbia, was entitled to pay accrued water rent without submitting to the cutting off of his water supply, and could look to prior tenant for indemnity regardless of prior tenant's lack of consent notwithstanding his protest. Simmons v. Quick (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 656).

Fact that a tenant, by failing to give written notice of acquiring control of premises within five days thereof as required by this section and order issued by Commissioners of District of Columbia, became secondarily liable for water bill which accrued during a prior tenancy, did not relieve prior tenant of his primary liability. Id.

A tenant who was seeking reimbursement for water bill which accrued during a prior tenancy stood in the shoes of a creditor and could not recover more than was actually due by prior tenant. Id.

A purchaser of property could not be compelled to pay for water used by former occupants of purchased property either by sections 1519 to 1522 of this title regulating water system or regulations issued by commissioners pursuant thereto. Farrell v. Ward (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 46).

3. Liability of purchaser

One purchasing property within District of Columbia without notifying Water Registrar may be compelled to pay full current water rates for property. Urciolo v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 909).

4. Scope of official duties

District of Columbia officials acted within their authority in refusing to turn water on for new principal tenant of premises where owners of premises had not, for many years, paid, or secured to be paid, water rents, and having voluntarily paid such arrearages in order to secure water supply, tenant could not recover from such officials the amount paid by him and damages claimed to have resulted from alleged conspiracy to illegally force him to pay such amount. Quick v. District of Columbia (1952, 90 A. 2d 235).

Commissioners and water registrar, in requiring purchaser of property to pay for water used by former occupants of purchased property, were acting within scope of their official duties, and even though they made a mistake in exercise of judgment or acted on erroneous construction of the law, they could not be held personally liable to purchaser. Farrell v. Ward (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 46).

5. Voluntary payment

A tenant who failed to give written notice of acquiring control of premises within five days thereof as required by this section and order issued by Commissioners of District of Columbia, and who was thereafter required to pay water bill which accrued during a prior tenancy upon municipal authorities' threatening suspension of water service, was not a mere "volunteer," so as to preclude recovery from prior tenant. Simmons v. Quick (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 656).

§ 43-1521a. Additional charge on unpaid water bills.

An additional charge of 10 per centum shall be added to any water charge remaining unpaid after the expiration of thirty days from the date of rendition of a bill for such charge. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 101, ch. 218, title I, § 102.)

§ 43-1521b. Discontinuance of water service for failure to pay water charges.

The Commissioners are authorized to provide for the collection of water charges, in advance or otherwise, from the owner or occupant of any building, establishment, or other place furnished water or water service by the District, and to shut off the water supply to any such building, establishment, or other place upon failure of the owner or occupant thereof to pay such water charges within thirty days from the date of rendition of the bill therefor. Such authority to shut off the water supply may be exercised by the Commissioners regardless of any change in ownership or occupancy of such building, establishment, or other place. When the water supply to any such building, establishment, or other place has been shut off for failure to pay such water charges, whether the water supply to such building, establishment, or other place was shut off before or after the enactment of this title, the Commissioners shall not again supply such building, establishment, or other place with water until all arrears of water charges, together with penalties and the costs actually incurred in shutting off and restoring the water supply, are paid. § 43-1521c. Lien for water charges.

The District shall have a continuing lien for water charges upon any land and the improvements thereon to which water or water service is or has been furnished. Such lien shall have priority over all other liens except liens for District taxes. If any water charges shall remain unpaid after the expiration of two years from the date of rendition of the bill for such charges, or two years from the effective date of this title, whichever is later, the property which has been furnished such water or water service may be sold for such unpaid water charges, together with penalties thereon and costs, at the next ensuing tax sale in the same manner and under the same conditions as property sold for delinquent general taxes, if such water charges, together with penalties thereon and costs, shall not have been paid in full prior to said sale. So much of the proceeds of said sale as represents said unpaid water charges shall be credited to the water fund of the District. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 102, ch. 218, title I, § 104.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Governmental function

Circumstance that District was not permitted by Code to make profit on water sold would not convert function of selling water into purely governmental one, such as providing police force for protection of all, and District of Columbia could be held liable for negligent operation of motor vehicle by employee of District government in connection with installation of water mains. Scull et al. v. District of Columbia et al. (1958, 250 F. 2d 767, 102 U. S. App. D. C. 104, certiorari denied 78 S. Ct. 703, 356 U. S. 920, 2 L. Ed. 2d 715).

The water tax authorized to be levied and collected by the provisions of this chapter shall constitute a fund to be used exclusively to defray the cost of distribution of the water, including all necessary fixtures and machines connected with such distribution. (R. S., D. C., § 203.)

§ 43-1524. Water rents from Washington Aqueduct to be applied to improvement of same.

All water rents derived from the Washington Aqueduct shall be applied to the improvement and repair of the same, and for no other purpose. (R. S., D. C., § 217.)

To aid in the erection, maintenance, and efficiency of fire-plugs, a special annual tax may be levied on all buildings in the City of Washington within five hundred feet of any main water-pipe, into which, or the premises connected therewith, the water has not been introduced, and the owners or occupants of which do not pay any annual water-rate in accordance with law. (R. S., D. C., § 205; June 17, 1890, 26 Stat. 159, ch. 428.)

§ 43-1526. Same—Rates.

Third. That payments for water so furnished shall be made through the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia at such times as the Commissioners of the District of Columbia may direct, said payments to be deposited in the Treasury of the United States as other water rents collected in the District of Columbia are deposited.

Fourth. That at no time shall the amount of water furnished the said Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission or its successor exceed the amount that can be spared without jeopardizing the interests of the United States or of the District of Columbia.

Fifth. That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall have at all times the right to investigate the distribution system in Maryland, and if, in their opinion, there is a wastage of water they shall have the right to curtail the supply to said sanitary district to the amount of such wastage. § 43-1604. Advances for sanitary sewage works—Reimbursement for amounts advanced.

§ 43-1605. Service charges for sanitary sewer service—Authority of Commissioners.

The Commissioners are authorized to establish charges for the provision of sanitary sewer service, such charges to be collected in the same manner and at the same time as water charges are collected, and to be paid into the D. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 106, ch. 218, title II, § 206.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 219 of act May 18, 1954, provided that: "The provisions of sections 206 to 211, inclusive, [this section, and §§ 43-1606 to 43-1610] of this title shall become effective on the first day of the third month following the enactment of this Act [May 18, 1954]."

§ 43-1606. Methods of determination of sanitary sewer service charges.

The sanitary sewer service charges established under the authority of this chapter shall be based on the water consumption of, and water service to, the properties served, and be determined by one of the following methods:

(a) Where water is supplied from the District water supply system at meter rates, the Commissioners shall establish the sanitary sewer service charge as a percentage of the water charge applicable in the District, but such percentage shall not exceed 60 per centum of the water charge.

(b) Where water is supplied from the District water supply system, which water is not measured by meter, but is supplied at special business and miscellaneous rates, the Commissioners shall establish the sanitary sewer service charge at a percentage of such special business and miscellaneous rates, but such percentage shall not exceed 60 per centum of such rates.

(c) For each property using water, all or part of which is from a source or sources other than the District water supply system, the Commissioners shall establish a sanitary sewer service charge separate from and in addition to any sanitary sewer service charge levied under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section. Such separate or additional sanitary sewer service charge shall be measured by the quantity of water from the source or sources other than the District water supply system discharged into the District sanitary sewer system from said property. The owner or occupant of each such property shall install and maintain, without cost to the District, a meter or meters to measure the quantity of water received from other than the water supply system of the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge based upon water received from other than the water supply system of the District shall be the same in amount as would be paid by the owner of a metered property receiving the same quantity of water from the water supply system of the District. No meter shall be installed or be used for such purpose without the approval of the Commissioners. In the event the owner or occupant of property fails or refuses to furnish and properly maintain such meter or meters as are prescribed herein in the manner required by the Commissioners, then the supply of water from the District water supply system to the property or premises may be suspended by the Commissioners and the said supply shall not be restored until the metering of such supplementary water source has been accomplished by the owner or occupant to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, and any costs devolving upon the District as a result of the suspension of service from the District water supply system shall be paid to the District prior to the restoration of water service from the District water supply system.

(d) Wherever a property upon which a sanitary sewer service charge is imposed uses water from the water supply system of the District for an industrial or commercial purpose in such manner that the water so used is not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, the quantity of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District may be excluded in determining the sanitary sewer service charge on such property, if such exclusion is previously requested in writing by the owner or occupant thereof. Upon such request, the quantity of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District shall be measured by a device or devices approved by the Commissioners, installed and maintained without cost to the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge to be imposed on such property shall be not more than 60 per centum of the water charge which would have been charged such property if the amount of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District had not been included in the amount of water used by such property: Provided, That all water from the water supply system of the District used by such property shall be paid for at established rates, whether or not such water is discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District. Where in the opinion of the Commissioners, it is not practicable to install a measuring device to determine continuously the quantity of water used for such industrial or commercial purposes and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, the Commissioners shall determine periodically, in such manner and by such methods as the Commissioners may prescribe, the quantity of water from the water supply system of the District discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge shall be based on such estimated quantity of water at the percentage authorized by this paragraph. Any dispute as to such estimated amount shall be decided by the Commissioners and such decision shall be final; and in the event the owner or occupant fails to furnish and maintain such measuring devices or to facilitate the periodic determinations by the Commissioners as prescribed herein, then the privilege of excluding some portion of the water used from the District water supply system from the charges for sanitary sewer service shall be forfeited and the charges for sanitary sewer service shall be based on the full amount of the water used from the District water supply system. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 106, ch. 218, title II, § 207.)

(a) The owner or occupant of each building, establishment, or other place in the District connected with any District sewer conducting sanitary sewage shall pay the sewer service charge authorized by this chapter.

(b) If the sanitary sewer service charge imposed by this chapter is based on a water charge any part of which is for a period beginning prior to the imposition of the sanitary sewer service charge and ending thereafter, the sanitary sewer service charge shall be prorated, on a monthly basis, on so much of such water charge as shall have accrued subsequent to August 1, 1954. The owner or occupant of the property upon which any such measuring device is installed shall be responsible for its maintenance and safekeeping, and all repairs thereto shall be made at the owner's cost, whether such repairs are made necessary by ordinary wear and tear or other causes. Bills for such repairs, if made by the District, shall be due and payable when rendered, and the Commissioners are authorized to provide for stopping the supply of water to any building or establishment upon the failure to pay such charge for meter repairs. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 107, ch. 218, title II, § 210.)

§ 43-1611. Sanitary sewer service charges for sewer services furnished for direct use by the Government of the United States.

(a) The sanitary sewer service charges prescribed herein shall be applicable to all sanitary sewer services furnished by the sanitary sewage works of the District through any connection thereto for direct use by the Government of the United States or any department, independent establishment, or agency thereof, and such charges shall be predicated on the value of water and water services received by such facilities of the Government of the United States or any department, independent establishment, or agency thereof from the District water supply system. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated (to be advanced on July 1 of each fiscal year beginning July 1, 1954) a sum corresponding to the said value of charges for sanitary sewer service furnished the United States. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 108, ch. 218, title II, § 212.)

§ 43-1612. Loans from the United States Treasury for the sanitary and combined sewer systems of the District.

The Commissioners are hereby authorized to accept loans for the District from the United States Treasury to finance the construction, expansion, relocation, replacement, or renovation of (1) the sanitary sewer system of the District or (2) the combined sewer system of the District; and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to advance such sums as may be appropriated for such purposes. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 108, ch. 218, title II, § 214; Sept. 6, 1960, 74 Stat. 811, Pub. L. 86-711, § 1.)

Nothing herein contained shall prohibit the use of funds deposited to the credit of the D. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund from being used for the construction, expansion, relocation, replacement, or renovation of any sewer in the combined sewer system of the District, but the Commissioners, prior to authorizing the use of moneys from such fund for such work, shall determine the percentage of the cost to be borne by the D. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund and the percentage to be borne by the General Fund. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 109, ch. 218, title II, § 215.)

§ 43-1615. Advancement and availability of funds from loans.

The loans authorized by this chapter shall be advanced to the Commissioners on their requisitions therefor, shall be available to the Commissioners for the construction, expansion, relocation, replacement, or renovation of all parts of the sanitary sewage works of the District, and shall be available until expended. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 109, ch. 218, title II, § 216.)

§ 43-1616. Repayment of loans.

(a) Any loan advanced under this chapter shall be repaid to the Secretary of the Treasury in substantially equal annual payments, including principal and interest, within a period of thirty years beginning on July 1 of the second fiscal year following the date on which each such advance is credited to the D. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund: Provided, That the Commissioners may, in their discretion, make repayments in larger amounts at any time during the life of any such loan. Interest on such loans shall begin to accrue as of the dates the respective advancements are credited to the D. C. Sanitary Sewage Works Fund.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding subsection, the interest and principal payments on not to exceed $10,000,000 of the loans authorized by section 43-1613 shall be deferred whenever the Secretary of the Treasury finds that the income received from charges for sewage service attributable to sewage flowing into the District of Columbia sanitary sewage works from the Potomac interceptor (authorized by sections 43-1620 to 43-1624) is inadequate to provide for the payment of such interest or principal, or both interest and principal, and such deferred interest and principal shall be added to the sums payable to the Secretary of the Treasury in later years. Loans advanced pursuant to this chapter during any six-month period (beginning with the six-month period ending December 31, 1954) shall be at a rate of interest determined by the Secretary of the Treasury as of the beginning of such period, which, in his judgment, would reflect the cost of money to the Treasury for borrowings at a maturity approximately equal to one-half of the period of time the loan is outstanding. (May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 109, ch. 218, title II, § 218.)

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia (or their designated agents), hereinafter called the Commissioners, are hereby authorized to develop a plan for a sanitary interceptor and trunk sewer line to extend from Dulles International Airport to the District of Columbia system, hereinafter called the Potomac interceptor, which shall be of sufficient capacity to provide service for such airport and for the expected community growth and development in the adjacent areas in the States of Maryland and Virginia. Such plan shall be developed in consultation with the National Capital Planning Commission and the National Capital Regional Planning Council. (June 12, 1960, 74 Stat. 210, Pub. L. 86-515, § 1.)

§ 43-1621. Potomac interceptor—Acquisition of rights-of-way—Plans and specifications—Operation and maintenance of regional sanitary sewer system—Charges for use of interceptor—Deposit of funds.

(a) Upon completion of the plan authorized by section 43-1620, the Commissioners are authorized to provide for acquisition of rights-of-way, development of the detailed plans and specifications, and construction of the Potomac interceptor. When such interceptor is completed, it shall be operated and maintained by the Commissioners as a part of a regional sanitary sewer system in co-operation with the proper authorities of the State and local jurisdictions concerned, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioners.

(b) The Commissioners are authorized to establish, by agreements with the appropriate agencies of the United States and with the proper authorities of the States and local jurisdictions concerned, charges for the use of the Potomac interceptor, which shall be based upon the costs of operation, maintenance, and amortization of the cost of all planning and construction (including acquisition of rights-of-way) of such interceptor, but which shall exclude such amount as may be appropriated pursuant to section 43-1622. The Commissioners shall credit all receipts from such charges for the use of the Potomac interceptor to a special fund which is hereby established and which shall be known as the Metropolitan Area Sanitary Sewage Works Fund of the District of Columbia. Such special fund shall be available in such amounts as may be appropriated from time to time for expenses necessary to plan, construct, maintain, and operate the Potomac interceptor.

(c) The Commissioners shall also charge all users of the Potomac interceptor, including any agency of the United States for carrying, treating, and disposing of sewage in the sewerage system of and within the District of Columbia consistently with the provisions of section 1-817c and section 1-817, and the receipts derived from said charges shall be deposited to the credit of the D.C. Any loan advanced under this section shall be credited to the Metropolitan Area Sanitary Sewage Works Fund, and shall be repaid to the Secretary of the Treasury, from the receipts credited to said fund, in substantially equal annual payments including principal and interest, within a period of forty years beginning on July 1 of the second fiscal year following the date on which each such advance is credited to this fund: Provided, That interest and principal payments shall be deferred whenever the Secretary of the Treasury finds that the income received from charges for sewage services is inadequate to cover these and other expenses properly chargeable to these receipts, and such deferred interest and principal shall be added to the sums payable to the Secretary of the Treasury in later years. The interest rates on such loans shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 43-1617. (June 12, 1960, 74 Stat. 211, Pub. L. 86-515, § 4.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Application 1
Findings 2
Injunction 3
Notice of hearing 4

1. Application

Provision of this section prohibiting establishment of bus line, competitive with named transit company, over a given route on a fixed schedule, unless Public Utilities Commission has issued certificate to competing carrier that its line is necessary for convenience of public, gives transit company a status which is legally protectible. Capital Transit Co. v. Safeway Trails, Inc. (1953, 201 F. 2d 708, 92 U. S. App. D. C. 20).

Provision that no competitive street railway or bus line for transportation of passengers of character which runs over a given route on a fixed schedule shall be established without prior issuance of certificate by Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia to effect that competitive line is necessary for convenience of public covers all kinds of operations of a competitive bus line, regardless of whether they are intrastate or interstate, and such provision is not limited to interstate operations. Oriole Motor Coach Co. v. Public Utilities Commission (1953, 111 F. Supp. 621).

2. Findings

There was no such absence of substantial evidence in support of Public Utilities Commission's finding that bus service extension was necessary for convenience of public as would overcome conclusiveness thereof. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

3. Injunction

The Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia is not entitled to an injunction restraining a utility from retiring bonds and from paying a proposed dividend, pending Commission's investigation of utility's financial structure, even if neither stockholders nor bondholders nor utility would be significantly injured by delay, unless there appears a legal basis for issuance of injunction. Public Utilities Commissioner of District of Columbia v. Capital Transit Co. et al. (1954, 214 F. 2d 242, 94 U. S. App. D. C. 140).

4. Notice of hearing

Where, on appeal from order extending bus lines, court found it reasonably possible that a competitor's interests might be adversely affected thereby, but, being unable to determine if such were the fact, remanded the case to the Commission with direction that competitor be accorded a fair hearing after due notice, any defect in original proceeding caused by lack of notice to competitor was corrected by remand and subsequent action of competitor in proceeding. Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia et al. (1953, 114 F. Supp. 321).

§ 44-202. Street railways to furnish sufficient cars—Power, equipment, appliances, and service—Rules and regulations—Penalties.

Every street railroad company or corporation owning, controlling, leasing or operating one or more street railroads within the District of Columbia shall on each and all of its railroads supply and operate a sufficient number of cars, clean, sanitary, in good repair, with proper and safe power, equipment, appliances and service, comfortable and convenient, and so operate the same as to give expeditious passage, not to exceed fifteen miles per hour within the city limits or twenty miles per hour in the suburbs, to all persons desirous of the use of the said cars, without crowding said cars. The Public Utilities Commission is hereby given power to require and compel obedience to all of the provisions of this section, and to make, alter, amend and enforce all needful rules and regulations to secure said obedience; and said commission is given power to make all such orders and regulations necessary to the exercise of the powers herein granted to it as may be reasonable and proper; and such railroad companies or corporations, their officers and employees, are hereby required to obey all the provisions of this section, and such regulations and orders as may be made by said commission. Any such company or corporation, or its officers or employees, violating any provision of this section, or any of the said orders or regulations made by said commission, or permitting such violation, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. And each day of failure or neglect on the part of such company or corporation, its officers or employees, to obey each and all of the provisions and requirements of this section, or the orders and regulations of the commission made thereunder, shall be regarded as a separate offense. (May 23, 1908, 35 Stat. 250, ch. 190, § 16.)

CODIFICATION

As originally enacted, the words "not to exceed fifteen miles per hour within the city limits or twenty miles per hour in the suburbs" after the words "expeditious passage" were included. These speed limits have been superseded by various traffic regulatory laws. See §§ 40-602 (j), 40-603, 40-605.

Where this section and first insurer's liability policy covering taxicab authorized cancellation only on filing of notice with public utility commission and insured, on obtaining new policy from second insurer, ceased paying premiums on first policy but first insurer had not, at time of taxicab accident, filed cancellation notice with commission, the first policy had not been canceled as against person injured in taxicab accident and the public. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Display of stickers

Provisions requiring taxicab insurance and the display of a sticker evidencing such insurance is for the protection of pedestrians and others traveling the streets as well as for passengers, and the requirement is not limited to the times when the vehicle is being used or offered for hire. Stewart v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 247).

Provision under this section requires taxicab to display current insurance sticker at all times, allegation in information charging failure to display sticker "while transacting business" may be treated as surplusage. Id.

§ 44-305. Alternate provisions for insurance coverage—Blanket policy for more than one vehicle—Sinking fund in lieu of insurance—Conditions for creation and maintenance of sinking fund—Proof of financial responsibility—Admission of liability by owner for tortious acts of drivers of vehicles—Sinking fund exempt from attachment or levy for other obligations of depositor.

(a) Any owner of a public vehicle required by this chapter to file a bond or policy of insurance may, in lieu thereof—

(1) file with the Commission a blanket bond or a blanket policy of liability insurance, in an amount to be approved by the Commission, but not to exceed $75,000, conditioned as required by this chapter, and covering all vehicles lawfully displaying the trade name or identifying design of any individual, association, company, or corporation; or

(2) create and maintain a sinking fund in such amount as the Commission may require, but not to exceed $75,000, and deposit the same, in trust, for the payment of any judgment recovered against such owner, as provided in this chapter, with such person, official, or corporation as the Commission shall designate. Such sinking fund shall not be created unless the Commission is satisfied that such owner is possessed and will continue to be possessed of financial ability to pay judgment obtained against such owner. If such a fund has been created, the Commission shall have authority to require whatever evidence of such owner's financial status may be necessary to satisfy the Commission that such owner is possessed and will continue to be possessed of financial ability to pay judgments obtained against such owner, and may at such time or times as, in its discretion, may be necessary, require such owner to submit in affidavit form detailed information from which such ability may be determined. When upon not less than five days' notice and a hearing pursuant to such notice (unless the right to such hearing is waived in writing by such owner) the Commission finds that any such owner having created and maintained a sinking fund is not possessed or probably will not continue to be possessed of financial ability to pay judgments obtained against such owner the Commission shall require that such owner file with the Commission a bond or policy of insurance as described in this chapter in lieu of such sinking fund and shall thereafter return to the owner the amount of such sinking fund when the Commission is satisfied that the maintenance thereof is not needed to assure the payment of any claim or judgment then outstanding against such owner. Failure to pay any judgment within thirty days after such judgment shall have become final shall constitute a reasonable ground for a finding by the Commission that the owner is not possessed of financial ability to pay judgments.

(b) If any owner elects to comply with paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a) of this section, he shall first file with the Commission an admission of liability, in conformity with the principle of respondeat superior, for the tortious acts of the driver or drivers of such vehicle or vehicles displaying the trade name or identifying design of the company or owner.

(c) Any cash or collateral deposit and/or any sinking fund provided for in this chapter shall be exempt from attachment or levy for any obligation or liability of the depositor except as provided in this chapter. (June 29, 1938, ch. 809, § 5, as added Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 953, Pub. L. 85-792, § 2.)

(June 29, 1938, ch. 809, § 6, as added Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 954, Pub. L. 85-792, § 2.)

1. In general

Act March 4, 1097, 34 Stat. 1415, ch. 2939, § 1, is materially different from Act June 11, 1906, 34 Stat. 232. Baltimore & O.R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Comm. (1911, 31 S. Ct. 621, 221, U.S. 612, 55 L. Ed. 878). See, also U.S. v. Chicago M. & P.S.R. Co. (1915, 218 F. 701).

This act relates solely to commerce. Southern R. Co. v. Taylor (1927, 16 F. 2d 517, 57 App. D. C. 21, certiorari denied 47 S. Ct. 571, 273 U.S. 767, 71 L. Ed. 882).

The intent of Congress in the enactment of this statute, was plainly to create liability on the part of the carriers to their employees and to curtail a part of the defenses which were before legal. Malloy v. Northern Pac. R. Co. (C. C. Wash. 1907, 151 F. 1019).

Act prospective in operation. Winfree v. Northern P. R. Co. (C. C. Wash. 1908, 164 F. 698, affirmed 173 F. 65, 97 C.C.A. 392, 44 L. R. A., N. S., 841, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 273, 227 U.S. 296, 57 L. Ed. 518).

This case distinguishes the extent of liability under this act and that of the act of 1908 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp., p. 1148). Taylor v. Southern R. Co. (C. C. Ga. 1910, 178 F. 380).

2. Application

Where appellant was injured while working in appellee's car barn, he could not recover under this section since § 36-501 has become the applicable workman's compensation act for the District and appellee was not a common carrier by railroad and is excepted from the operation of § 36-501. Keffer v. Capital Transit Co. (1950, 183 F. 2d 808, 87 U. S. App. D. C. 13).

3. Assumption of risk

This act so far as assumption of risk is concerned, as applied to the District of Columbia, is superseded by section 4 of the act of April 22, 1908. Washington Terminal Co. v. Sampson (1923, 289 F. 577, 53 App. D. C. 179).

Where plaintiff was injured while operating an unboxed saw in the car shops of defendant, an interstate railway company, by which he was employed, plaintiff did not assume the risk of voluntarily accepting employment in the shop, though the danger was obvious. Malloy v. Northern Pac. R. Co., (C.C. Wash. 1907, 151 F. 1019).

4. Constitutionality
